Dear XXXX

I am writing in respect of your recent application of 21 September 2010, for the release of information held by the Civil Aviation Authority (CAA).

Your request:

“Please supply details of how many pilot log books submitted to the CAA in support of licence applications/ licence amendment have been mislaid or lost by the CAA”.

Our response:

In assessing your request in line with the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act 2000, we are pleased to be able to provide the information below.

The CAA's licensing department have checked their records and can confirm that they have no record of the CAA losing any pilot log books. However, they have also confirmed that on occasions logbooks may have been lost by the postal service provider (i.e. Royal Mail, courier service etc). Whilst the CAA cannot take any responsibility for this type of eventuality, this risk has been minimised through the introduction of the use of a secure courier service to return logbooks to licence applicants.

If you are not satisfied with how we have dealt with your request in the first instance you should approach the CAA in writing at:-

CAA INTERNAL REVIEW & COMPLAINTS PROCEDURE

- The original case to which the appeal or complaint relates is identified and the case file is made available;
- The appeal or complaint is allocated to an Appeal Manager, the appeal is acknowledged and the details of the Appeal Manager are provided to the applicant;
- The Appeal Manager reviews the case to understand the nature of the appeal or complaint, reviews the actions and decisions taken in connection with the original case and takes account of any new information that may have been received. This will typically require contact with those persons involved in the original case and consultation with the CAA Legal Department;
- The Appeal Manager concludes the review and, after consultation with those involved with the case, and with the CAA Legal Department, agrees on the course of action to be taken;
- The Appeal Manager prepares the necessary response and collates any information to be provided to the applicant;
- The response and any necessary information is sent to the applicant, together with information about further rights of appeal to the Information Commissioners Office, including full contact details.
