5 August 2014
FOIA reference: F0002002

Dear XXXX

I am writing in respect of your recent request of 14 July 2014, for the release of information held by the Civil Aviation Authority (CAA).

Your request:

“For each year (calendar or financial) since 2009 - how many dangerous goods accidents were reported to the CAA?

If the accident was reported on an aircraft, what was the airline and what was route was it flying/due to fly e.g Glasgow to Gatwick If it occurred at an airport, what was the airport?

Please provide any other information held on each reported accident

Likewise, how many dangerous goods incidents were reported to the CAA during this time?

If the incident occurred on an aircraft, what was the airline and the route it was flying/due to fly e.g Glasgow to Gatwick If it occurred at an airport, what was the airport? e.g Glasgow Please provide any other information held on each reported incident”.

Our response:

Having considered your request in line with the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA), we are pleased to be able to provide the information below.

The CAA collect reports involving Dangerous Goods under two separate schemes and therefore two different sets of data have been provided. Please note that there may be some reports which have been filed under both schemes.

Incident reports are provided to the CAA under the terms of the Mandatory Occurrence Reporting (MOR) scheme, as described under Article 226 of the Air Navigation Order (ANO) 2009. Each report made is reviewed and, where appropriate, further investigation carried out and action taken.

Separately, Regulation 19 of the Air Navigation (Dangerous Goods) Regulations 2002 requires any dangerous goods accident or incident or the finding of undeclared or misdeclared dangerous goods in cargo or passenger’s baggage to be reported to the CAA. The Regulation applies to both UK and non-UK aircraft operators; UK operators are required to report occurrences wherever they occur in the world, whilst non-UK operators are required to report incidents that occur in the UK. A dangerous goods occurrence may also meet the definition of a MOR, although the majority do not.

We have searched both the UK CAA MOR database and the Dangerous Goods database for any incident/accident involving dangerous goods and provided two summary reports from 1 Jan 2009 to all processed reports as at 17 July 2014. The CAA has no reports which were categorised as accidents. It should also be noted that the location of an event on attachment two indicates where the incident was discovered and not necessarily where the event initiated.

We have removed identifying information from these reports as this information is exempt from disclosure under Section 44 (1) (a) of the FOIA, which provides that information is exempt information if its disclosure is prohibited by, or under, any enactment. Under Section 23 of the Civil Aviation Act 1982, information which relates to a particular person (which includes a company or organisation) and has been supplied to the CAA pursuant to an ANO is prohibited from disclosure (a copy of this exemption can be found below).

MORs are supplied to the CAA pursuant to Article 226 of the ANO 2009. In the case of Dangerous Goods reports, the Air Navigation (Dangerous Goods) Regulations 2002 were made exercising the Secretary of State’s powers under Articles 60(1) and 129(5) of the ANO 2000, and as such reports submitted under Regulation 19 of these Regulations are also supplied to the CAA pursuant to an ANO for the purposes of Section 23 of the Civil Aviation Act.

In the case of reports submitted through the MOR scheme (attachment one) we are unable to provide details of the airline and the detailed route as this would identify an organisation. The dataset from Dangerous Goods (attachment two) has no route information available.

If you are not satisfied with how we have dealt with your request in the first instance you should approach the CAA in writing at:-

Information Rights and Enquiries Officer
CAA INTERNAL REVIEW & COMPLAINTS PROCEDURE

- The original case to which the appeal or complaint relates is identified and the case file is made available;
- The appeal or complaint is allocated to an Appeal Manager, the appeal is acknowledged and the details of the Appeal Manager are provided to the applicant;
- The Appeal Manager reviews the case to understand the nature of the appeal or complaint, reviews the actions and decisions taken in connection with the original case and takes account of any new information that may have been received. This will typically require contact with those persons involved in the original case and consultation with the CAA Legal Department;
- The Appeal Manager concludes the review and, after consultation with those involved with the case, and with the CAA Legal Department, agrees on the course of action to be taken;
- The Appeal Manager prepares the necessary response and collates any information to be provided to the applicant;
- The response and any necessary information is sent to the applicant, together with information about further rights of appeal to the Information Commissioners Office, including full contact details.
Freedom of Information Act: Section 44

(1) Information is exempt information if its disclosure (otherwise than under this Act) by the public authority holding it-

(a) is prohibited by or under any enactment,
(b) is incompatible with any Community obligation, or
(c) would constitute or be punishable as a contempt of court.

(2) The duty to confirm or deny does not arise if the confirmation or denial that would have to be given to comply with section 1(1)(a) would (apart from this Act) fall within any of paragraphs (a) to (c) of subsection (1).

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 18 x 150ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950 and 6 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to agent who responded advising that they had no knowledge of dangerous goods, neither had any of their staff received dangerous goods training. See also 2009-037 and 2009-348. Warning letter sent from Manager of the Dangerous Goods Office to the freight agent, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, four fibreboard boxes were found to contain 4 x 25L UN specification plastic drums of undeclared Resin solution, UN1866. The inner drums bore a Class 3 label. The outer boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and were not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Statement made to ARE 12/02/09. ARE investigation closed in April 2009 - Shipper cautioned. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival, a consignment containing drums of Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., UN2811 was found loose in the cargo hold. Loader responsible retrained. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain two inner fibreboard boxes containing 24 x 250ml of undeclared non-flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The inner boxes bore Class 2.2 labels and had 'Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950, Class 2.2 printed on them. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that they are aware of the regulations. However, the wrong product was transported by their warehouse department. They have now amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 525ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon loading, two wooden blocks fell out of the container, followed by some flammable liquid. The container was found to contain flammable liquid and a toxic substance. The container had not been closed properly and the dangerous goods were not secured. The container was offloaded. Additional training provided to those responsible for loading the container. Also, a CBT package was produced for all ULD build staff. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 200ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain undeclared Toluene, UN1294, undeclared Organic peroxide type D, liquid, UN3105 and undeclared Resin solution, UN1866. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2007-484 and 2008-030. Letter sent to shipper who responded advising that although there are procedures in place to stop dangerous goods from being transported by air, that due to staff changes and company restructuring staff had not received the relevant training. The company have now contracted out internal and external audits on Health and Safety and the control and use of chemicals, all their COSHH records have been updated and staff have completed inductions into the shipping of dangerous goods. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 7 x 250ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, two fibreboard boxes were found to contain 20 x 425ml of undeclared non-flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The boxes bore a printed UN1950 hazard diamond but was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Email sent to agent. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 4 x 75ml and 1 x 200ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950 and undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 450ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 450ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, two fibreboard boxes were found to contain 2 x 5L and 2 x 1L tins of undeclared Paint, UN1263. The tins bore a Class 3 label and were marked with Paint, UN1263. The outer boxes had Paint hand-written on them in black marker pen but they were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and were not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and agent. In response, the agent advised that a thorough review had been undertaken and procedures put in place to try to intercept packages that are show indications that they contain undeclared dangerous goods. The shipper advised that a junior member of staff who was not aware of the requirements had prepared the consignment and that the dangerous goods was not a product normally shipped by the company. As a result the member of staff received additional training. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain undeclared Toxic liquid, organic, n.o.s., UN2810. The consignment bore a Division 6.1 label and was marked with 'UN2180' but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper which responded to confirm that they have appropriate staff trained and that the package had been prepared according to the road transport requirements, but due to a problem with their courier company's x-ray equipment on the day concerned, all packages were forwarded for x-ray screening at the airport instead. Nevertheless, the shipper confirmed that further measures would be introduced to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 400ml of undeclared non-flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box bore a printed UN1950 hazard diamond but was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded advising that they had failed to establish procedures with their freight forwarder regarding the mode of transport for consignments. However procedures have now been established to ensure that all deliveries outside the UK mainland are handled by their export team, they are also arranging training on the transport of dangerous goods by air. Letter also sent to both courier companies. Responses received, the offending courier company advised that the problem arose because alternative procedures were used when one of the x-ray machines broke. One of their operatives incorrectly believed that because the freight was going to be x-rayed elsewhere there was no need for him to check the consignment. The staff are being given thorough training to highlight the seriousness of the situation. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard boxes was found to contain a 2.7L cylinder of undeclared Oxygen, compressed, UN1072. The cylinder bore a Class 2.2 hazard label with Class 5.1 subsidiary risk label. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. During freight checks, a consignment containing Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., UN2811 was found not noted on the NOTOC. The Captain was in possession of the cargo manifest and advance copy of NOTOC, therefore was aware of the dangerous goods. The aircraft was not returned to stand but a request was made for the handling agent to send a copy of the manual NOTOC. A faxed copy of the NOTOC arrived in the office. Appropriate remedial action taken by the operator, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 2kg of undeclared Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2007-484 and 2009-016. Letter sent to shipper who responded advising that although there are procedures in place to stop dangerous goods from being transported by air, that due to staff changes and company restructuring staff had not received the relevant training. The company have now contracted out internal and external audits on Health and Safety and the control and use of chemicals, all their COSHH records have been updated and staff have completed inductions into the shipping of dangerous goods. No further CAA action necessary.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of two boxes was found to contain 2 x 5L tins of undeclared Paint, UN1263. Upon closer inspection, the tins were found to be marked as 'Paint, UN1263' and bore a Class 3 flammable label. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 500ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The outer box was marked as 'UN1950, Aerosols' but had no other dangerous goods markings or labelling. No dangerous goods transport document accompanied the consignment. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Damage to dangerous goods. During freight checks, a consignment was found to contain Radioactive material, excepted package, limited quantity of material, UN2910. The consignment contained five pieces but three were found damaged. It is unknown how the damage occurred but the consignment appeared to have been opened by US Customs, which may have weakened the packaging, which may have caused the freight to split the boxes during transit. Notification sent to USA authorities (FAA), for information only. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 6 x 500ml of undeclared Alcohols, n.o.s., UN1987. The consignment was marked as 'UN1987' but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Appropriate action taken by freight forwarder, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 2 x 30ml, 1 x 50ml and 1 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2008-497, 2008-568, 2008-629 2009-077, 2009-144, 2009-278 and 2009-327. Letter sent to shipper who responded advising that they were not aware that dangerous goods were in the consignment. However they have now put steps into place to train staff and take responsibility, to require their customers to complete a declaration form and to track consignments for the relevant customer. Letter sent giving further information to shipper. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 4 x 75ml of undeclared Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain a 100ml undeclared flammable Aerosol, UN1950 and 3 x 50ml and 3 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to agent and response received. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a UN specification fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 630ml of undeclared Gas cartridges, UN2037 and 6 x 500ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The cartridges were marked with UN2037 and the aerosols were marked with UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that they informed their freight agent verbally not to transport the consignment by air. Therefore when using the freight agent again they will complete the documentation themselves to ensure the correct mode of transport. The also advised that they were unaware that there were similar regulations for transport by road and sea, therefore, they will study the information provided to them to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Following an exemption issued by the Civil Aviation Authority, the LBA, German authorities discovered that the dangerous goods transport document had been incorrectly completed. The consignment contained various Class 1 dangerous goods. Dangerous Goods Transport Document had been completed incorrectly and in error by the defence contractor. In response they advised that the supplier are also the agent of the shipper and have completed a revised Dangerous Goods Transport Document for this consignment. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 2 x 150ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950 and 4 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2009-008 and 2009-348. Letter sent to agent who responded advising that they had no knowledge of dangerous goods, neither had any of their staff received dangerous goods training. Warning letter sent from Manager of the Dangerous Goods Office to the freight agent, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 1L of undeclared Adhesives, UN1133. The tins were both marked with UN1133. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box containing four inner boxes was found to contain 2 x 22.1L and 2 x 13L of undeclared Helium, compressed, UN1046. The inner boxes bore Class 2.2 labels and the boxes and the cylinders were marked with the Proper Shipping Name and the UN number. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that they would ensure future consignments are correctly marked and labelled. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 3 x 500ml and 2 x 300ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further to an investigation by the Belgium authorities, the incident was referred to the public prosecutor. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box, found amongst a shrink wrapped pallet, was found to contain 6 x 300ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box bore a printed UN1950 in a black diamond but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Due to delay in reporting of incident no further CAA action possible.

Leakage from package. Following unloading, a fibreboard box found to contain a jerrican of Paint, UN1263 was stored on a rack in the dangerous goods bay. Subsequently it was noted that the package appeared damp and further investigation revealed a small leak in the seam of the jerrican. The cause of damage was unknown, therefore no further CAA action possible.

Mis-handled dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 18 x 400ml of flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was marked as ‘UN1950 Aerosols’, however this mark had been obscured by the lid of the box. A dangerous goods declaration for sea transport accompanied the consignment. See also 2005-052, 2008-258 and 2008-259. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 5 x 2L cylinders of undeclared compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2006-464. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that the incident occurred because of a despatch error and disciplinary action was taken. The shipper have also produced procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment consisting of a pallet shrink-wrapped in black plastic was found to contain several boxes containing a total of 72 x 400ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The inner boxes bore a printed UN1950 hazard diamond but were not labelled as required for air transport and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised the aerosols were added to the consignment at the last minute, therefore, the paperwork was not completed. The shipper have now amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 150ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The outer box was marked with consumer labels, which identified the consignment as Aerosols, UN1950. However, the box was not marked or labelled as required by the regulations and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGORs 2006-347, 2007-185, 2007-577 and 2008-373. Further to an investigation by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement department, the shipper was given a formal caution.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 10 x 200ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Mis-routed dangerous goods. Upon arrival at destination airport, a consignment of Radioactive material, Type A package, UN2915, was found to have been mis-routed. It was found that the airport code had been entered incorrectly on the manifest. Consignment returned to origin on the next available flight. Appropriate operation action. No further CAA action required.

Damaged outer packaging. During handling at the airport, one piece of a five piece consignment of Radioactive material, Type A package, UN2915 was found damaged. The damage appeared to look like a forklift truck had pierced the side. However, no forklift had been used by the handling agent concerned, therefore it was considered that the damage had probably been caused during handling by the shipper, who was informed of the incident. Readings taken indicated that the inner packaging was intact and so permission was given to load the consignment for further road transport. The vehicle used was monitored for contamination and none was found. The Environment Agency was informed of the incident. Appropriate action taken, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 400ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The aerosols were each marked with UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that they were unaware of the dangerous goods regulations. They have now discontinued sending any aerosols by air. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a UN specification fibreboard box was found to contain 6 x 750ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 26 x 60ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 876g tin of undeclared Toxic liquid, organic mixture, n.o.s., UN2810 and a 1.624Kg tin of undeclared Environmentally hazardous liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. The tin containing the toxic liquid bore a Class 6.1 label and was marked with the proper shipper and UN2810. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded saying that they were aware of the requirements but that an error resulted in the consignment not being declared. It was also advised that the company's DGSA would attend a training course on the transport of dangerous goods by air.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 15 volt undeclared Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded advising that they have now reviewed and revised their process for the identification of hazardous materials, they also appointed a specialist company to pack and forward hazardous materials on their behalf. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 5 x 400ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950 and 3 x 1L jerricans and 2 x 500ml jerricans of undeclared Paint, UN1263. The jerricans were marked with UN1263. The outer box had been placed in an courier bag and bore printed UN1950 and UN1263 hazard diamonds. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to courier company since the markings should have been identified before forwarding for transport by air. The company advised that their staff had received dangerous goods training to identify undeclared dangerous goods and the staff concerned would be provided with additional training. No further CAA action required.

Two pallets had been loaded onto the aircraft, and the deadload statement confirmed that these consignments were general freight. There were no visible markings or labels to indicate dangerous goods although one of the pallets was covered in clear plastic wrap. Upon arrival, it was discovered that dangerous goods were on the pallets. Operator carrying out investigation and will report further. Operator posted loadmaster to observe handling agent and have subsequently conducted a full audit to ensure their current procedures adhere to the dangerous goods regulations. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 50ml and 1 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain two shrink-wrapped trays of Aerosols, UN1950, one tray containing 12 x 200ml Aerosols and one containing 12 x 250ml Aerosols. Although the shrink-wrapped trays bore the applicable UN number in a diamond, the consignment was not marked or labelled as required and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 1 x 6.67kg undeclared Fire Extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 7 x 369ml and 6 x 340ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2006-003. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, five fibreboard boxes each containing four inner fibreboard boxes each containing 4 x 400ml and 1 x 150ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950 and a 500g undeclared Fire Extinguisher, UN1044. The boxes was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that the items were being returned to their supplier and since when they had been originally received from the supplier they were in boxes that did not bear any dangerous goods markings or labelling, they were unaware that the contents were classified as dangerous goods. The shipper also advised that they would take the matter up with their supplier. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a steel drum containing Flammable Liquid, n.o.s., (Pentamethylheptane), UN1993 was leaking. A large amount of residue was found on the package underneath. The consignment was marked and labelled and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to FAA for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, an inner fibreboard box containing 12 x 500ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The inner box bore a printed UN1950 hazard diamond but the outer box was not marked or labelled and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 6 x 450ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950 and 2 x 150g tubes of Toxic Liquid, organic, n.o.s., (contains Dichloromethane), UN2810. The box bore a hazard diamond but was partly covered and the consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods. No dangerous goods transport document accompanied the consignment. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Shortly after arrival, the flight crew noticed a strong pungent smell in the forward part of the main deck of the cargo aircraft. The fire service attended and a consignment was found to contain Corrosive solid, acidic, organic, n.o.s., UN3261. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to German, Belgium and Switzerland authorities for further investigation. Further to an investigation by the German authorities the agent and shipper both received warnings. No further CAA action required.

15/02/2009 France

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 24 x 75ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Passenger error. A passenger travelled with 7.5kg of ammunition, exceeding the permitted quantities. No further CAA action required.

17/02/2009 Orlando, USA

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a box was found to contain 6 x 150ml and 10 x 300ml of undeclared non-flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2007-567. Letter sent to shipper. In response the shipper stated that all aerosols have been removed from their supply chain and any similar products will be shipped by road. No further CAA action required.

2009-0068
17/02/2009 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain a 200ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950 and a total of 747ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to agent who responded explaining that they advise their customers about dangerous goods and require them to sign a booking form. However further information was sent to the agent giving examples of how their procedures could be improved. No further CAA action required.

18/02/2009 Manchester

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 18 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

2009-0075
18/02/2009 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 400ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.
Unsecured battery powered mobility aid. Upon arrival it was found that an electric wheelchair had not been correctly secured. Further to an investigation by the operator it was found that the wheelchair battery had been disconnected and placed in a separate bag. The wheelchair was positioned between bags to avoid excessive shifting during flight. Safety Alerts had already been posted but regardless the ramp attendants and customer service agents were mandated to read and sign the alerts again. To prevent further incidents, written instructions were sent to ramp staff specifying that electric wheelchairs must be stored in a container prior to loading on the aircraft and care must be taken to ensure that bags are stacked to avoid excessive movement in the container. The Ramp Manager would also be monitoring to ensure compliance. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly secured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment of dangerous goods (flammable gas) was found to have fallen out of a unit load device (ULD), the canvass door of which had also not been secured correctly. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods found in mail. During security screening, a consignment of mail was found to contain undeclared dangerous goods. Warning letter sent to shipper, no further CAA action required.

Leakage of dangerous goods. Upon arrival, during the break down of a cargo pallet, handling agent staff found two boxes of dangerous goods to be leaking. The freight was isolated and the emergency services were called, the consignments were repacked in salvage packaging to prevent further leakage. The rest of the pallet was not polluted as it was isolated by plastic sheeting. No injuries occurred. Further information requested from the operator advised that the consignment had been found to be leaking on arrival, the consignment was stored until it was able to be rebuilt in a unit load device before forwarding to its destination. Appropriate action taken by operator; however, the staff were reminded and re-trained on the leakage and build procedures and the need to consult with the DG coordinator. Referred to Israel authority. No further CAA action necessary.

Incorrect preparation of vehicle. During take off the alarm of a vehicle being carried as cargo was activated. The alarm was very loud and distracting which may have contributed to the crew erroneously retracting the flaps instead of the landing gear, although this was realised immediately and rectified. The alarm was silenced but reactivated, but was de-activated again for the rest of the flight. The vehicle had not been packed in accordance with Packing Instruction 900, which requires vehicles equipped with theft-protection devices, installed radio communications equipment or navigational system must have such devices, equipment or system disabled. Letter sent to shipper advising of the requirements. Letter also sent to freight forwarder who responded advising of the correct procedures to be followed regarding the carriage of vehicles. Additionally, instruction was given by the cargo agent to staff on the correct procedures for the preparation of vehicles. No further CAA action necessary.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 X 30 ml and 8 X 50 ml of Perfumery products; UN1266 and 7 small glass bottles of Flammable liquid, n.o.s. (nail varnish). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2008-497, 2008-568, 2008-629, 2009-033, 2009-144, 2009-278 and 2009-327. Letter sent to shipper regarding 2009-033 who responded advising that they were not aware that dangerous goods were in the consignment. However they have now put steps into place to train staff and take responsibility, to require their customers to complete a declaration form and to track consignments for the relevant customer. Letter sent giving further information to shipper. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a glass bottle marked as containing 0.33kg net of Triethylamine, UN1296. Although the bottle bore the UN number and proper shipping name, the outer packaging was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that when the consignment was prepared, the product was described on the delivery note as 'TEA Sample'. Subsequently, another staff member incorrectly interpreted the description as another of the company's products, Triethanolamine (not classified as dangerous goods for air transport), rather than Triethylamine and therefore the consignment was not marked, labelled or declared correctly. The shipper confirmed that they would take measures to prevent future similar incidents. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 53 x 105ml Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as dangerous goods for air transport, nor was it accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However the outer packaging of the consignment was marked with an ADR LQ label. Letter sent to courier company who responded advising that this incident was due to human error, however they have taken steps to ensure that the entire offshire night sortation crew were retrained. In addition from 6th April they do not intend to fly consignment to Ireland. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 2 x Aerosols, UN1950, 6 x bottles of Perfumery products, UN1266 and 6 x bottles of Flammable liquid n.o.s., UN1993 (scented burner oil). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2009-070, to which the agent responded. Further information sent to agent as a result of this incident. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 3 fibreboard boxes was found to contain 84 x 250ml Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who explained that a sub-contractor stores and ships their products on their behalf. On this occasion and contrary to written procedures, the sub-contractor’s staff had failed to identify that the products were aerosols and therefore, did not ensure that they were shipped accordingly. It was advised that action would be taken through the company’s quality system to address the errors and additional training would be provided to the staff concerned. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 250ml glass bottles of Paint related materials, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and appropriate response received. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment in transit was found to contain 4 x 300ml Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 200ml Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personnel effects was found to contain a disposable lighter, UN1057. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder. See also DGOR 2009-131 and 2009-135. Following a visit to the freight forwarder, they have introduced new procedures and appropriate staff have been booked to undertake dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of three boxes were found to contain a total of 10 x 5L steel jerricans of Resin solution, UN1866 and 10 x small plastic bottles containing Organic peroxide type D, liquid, UN3105. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2004-304. Further to an investigation by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement Department, the shipper accepted a formal caution.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival a consignment was found to contain 5 x flammable Aerosols, UN1950 and 4 x 50 mL flammable aftershaves, Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, no further CAA action necessary.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain three packs containing 36 x 400ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The packs were wrapped in cardboard and two bore ADR UN1950 diamonds. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening a consignment was found to contain a lithium battery, UN3481. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper no further CAA action necessary.

Foreign authority incident. During check-in a cabin crew member was stopped by security for having a gas lighter, (Lighters containing flammable gas), UN1057, in her hand baggage. The cabin crew member was told to put the light in their hold baggage as per the regulations of the country’s authority. Referred to Indian authorities for their action. No further Information received therefore no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and agent. Response from the agent advised that they warn their customers not to include dangerous goods in their consignments and had been unaware that the consignment in question contained dangerous goods. As a result of this incident and DGOR 2009-092, the agent arranged for one member of staff to attend a detailed dangerous goods course and amended their shipping advice form to include dangerous goods information. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain an undeclared flammable Aerosol, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and agent. Letter to shipper returned as ‘gone away’. Response from the agent advised that they warn their customers not to include dangerous goods in their consignments and had been unaware that the consignment in question contained dangerous goods. As a result of this incident and DGOR 2009-093, the agent arranged for one member of staff to attend a detailed dangerous goods course and amended their shipping advice form to include dangerous goods information. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 24 x 355ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box, which had been damaged during transit, was found to contain 12 x 750ml of undeclared flammable Aerosols, UN1950. The box bore a printed UN1950 hazard diamond but there were no other dangerous goods marking or labelling and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Irish authorities for further investigation. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 400mL flammable aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 150ml and 12 x 75ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response the shipper stated that the package had been picked up in error by the courier because a member of staff did not realise that it contained dangerous goods. Measures have been put in place to ensure that another such incident does not occur again. See also 2008-413 and 2008-444. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain various dangerous goods including matches, a lighter, perfumes and aerosols (lighter gas, lens cleaner, shaving foam, de-odorant and air-freshener). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Shipper. No further CAA action possible.

Excessive permitted dangerous goods in baggage - passenger found to have 300 deodorant aerosols in baggage. Aerosols removed and passenger allowed to travel. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 42 x 250 mL plastic bottles of perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. (See also 2008-543) Letter sent to shipper who apologised for the error, explaining that although measures had been implemented following the previous similar incident, due to the poor economic climate, pressures to meet daily shipping targets had probably contributed to the latest non-compliance. As a result, the shipper advised that they had made personnel and reporting changes to their processes. Further information sent to shipper suggesting they review their procedures to ensure compliance with all modes of transport. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 25L UN specification jerricans containing Ethyl lactate, UN1192. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However attached to the air waybill was an MSDS for the product giving the UN and Class number for road transport. Interim warning letter sent to shipper. Subject to ARE investigation. Statement to ARE 26/6/09. Investigation completed by ARE, no further action to be taken other than warning letter sent to shipper.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 24 x 750ml Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper, no further CAA action necessary.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 355ml Aerosols, non flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening of courier bags, a consignment was found to contain 3 x bags that contained 2 Lithium metal batteries, UN3090 in each bag. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further information requested from reporter. Shipper advised Operator that the consignment should have contained tools and not lithium batteries. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a suitcase was found to contain 1 x 5kg container of undeclared Resin solution, flammable, UN1866. The container was removed from the case, reclosed and sent on its way. The passenger was informed at the departure gate and the container held by the Operator. Further information requested from the operator. Warning letter sent to passenger, therefore, no further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During flight it was reported to the crew that a passenger had broken a glass mercury thermometer, spilling mercury on the seat. The passenger was re-located to a spare seat while the crew referred to the Emergency Response Guide to clear up and dispose of the spillage. No further CAA action required.

In flight

Incorrectly prepared ULD containing Dry Ice. During handling prior to loading, it was noticed that a ULD containing Dry ice, UN1845 was not correctly labelled to indicate that it contained dry ice. In addition, it appeared that some of the dry ice was leaking from the ULD and the pallet tag showed an incorrect destination. Suitable Operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment consisting of 4 boxes was found to contain a total of 3.375L of Corrosive liquid, n.o.s., UN1760 and 16.875L of what is assumed to be Resin solution, UN1866. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Interim warning letter sent to shipper. Subject to ARE investigation. Statement to ARE 26/6/09. Investigation completed by ARE, no further action to be taken other than warning letter sent to shipper.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a “flyer bag” was found to contain 1 x 5L jerrican marked as containing Corrosive liquid, toxic, n.o.s., UN2922. Neither the bag or jerrican were marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Interim warning letter sent to shipper. Following further investigation warning letter sent to shipper who advised that the supply of actual chemicals is only a small part of their business and they were unaware of the regulations relating to transportation. The company have now put a process in place to ensure that future consignment, however small, will receive the necessary attention. No further CAA action necessary.
Loading error. Upon arrival, a consignment of dangerous goods declared as Consumer commodity, ID8000 was found unsecured in hold 5. The operator advised that the loading supervisor had had difficulty obtaining the required ringbolts in order to tie down the dangerous goods separately and that since each box weighed approximately 25kg, the hold netting would be sufficient to prevent the dangerous goods from moving. He instructed the loading staff to ensure the netting was secured but remembered that a passenger’s buggy was subsequently also loaded in the hold and it was likely that in doing so, some of the netting was not re-secured. As a result of the incident, the operator forwarded an internal memorandum to all team leaders which they were required them to read and sign. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 500ml tin of Flammable liquid, n.o.s. (Naptha, Toluene), UN1993. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods, but inside the box was a transport document suitable for road transport. Warning letter sent to shipper. See also 2009-117. Full investigation carried out by the shipper and a detailed report with corrective action was produced. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain two inner boxes, each containing 12 x 400ml Aerosols, UN1950. Although the outer box was not marked or labelled as dangerous goods, both of the inner boxes bore markings suitable for road transport and inside the outer box was an ADR transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. See also 2009-118. Full investigation carried out by the shipper and a detailed report with corrective action was produced. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a crate was found to contain 6 x 500ml tins of undeclared Flammable liquid, corrosive (N-Butanol, Copolymer of Bisphenol A and Epichlorhydrin), UN2924. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The air waybill described the goods as 'valve parts'. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a life jacket containing 2 x inflation cylinders (Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival a fibreboard box was found to contain 3.5Kg of undeclared Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., UN2811. Upon inspection the box was found to be leaking powder. The UN number and proper shipping name were printed on the package but the box was not labelled as containing dangerous goods. No dangerous goods transport document accompanied the consignment. Further to an investigation by the Swedish authorities the shipper have now trained all their personnel who handle dangerous goods and they have also implemented a system for recurrent training programmes and new procedures. The agent have also trained their staff with focus on hidden dangerous goods. An inspection visit will be made to the shipper and agent to monitor their new routines. No further CAA action required.
Incorrect NOTOC. After loading the aircraft, the head loader reported to the turn-round manager that a ULD containing dangerous goods had been loaded onto the aircraft, but was not recorded on the loading instructions report form. As a result, the dangerous goods had not been included on the NOTOC. The aircraft was delayed from pushing back until the error could be corrected. Further details requested from operator who responded advising that following a shift change the flight management agent had failed to pick up that there was two shipments of dangerous goods for the flight. This would normally be picked up at the flight edit stage when the user checks what special shipments are listed. Flight management have now introduced a planners handover checklist to prevent future incidents. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly consigned dangerous goods. During Customs checks of a pallet upon arrival, it was noticed that a box of seafood was marked as containing Dry ice, (UN1845) and bore a Class 9 hazard label. The box was opened and although there was no longer any dry ice present, there were remnants of the packaging used to contain it within the outer packaging. Details of the dry ice had not been made known to the operator prior to departure and therefore, had not been included on a NOTOC. Details of incident passed to the Nicaraguan Authorities by the operator. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly documented dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment that was described on the accompanying paperwork as containing 'computer parts' was found to include a pack of 10 batteries. Safety Datasheets obtained indicated that the batteries were classified as Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800 but the shipper had not included any statement on the documentation to the effect that they complied with special provision A67 and were therefore 'not restricted'. Letter sent to shipper, no further CAA action required.

2009-0128 26/03/2009 Stansted

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 2 x 100ml and 2 x 75ml bottles of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further information requested from freight forwarder. See also 2009-132, 2008-634, 2008-597 and 2008-458. Response received from freight forwarder providing shippers details. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

2009-0116 26/03/2009 Manchester

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain several items including an inner fibreboard box containing 12 x 400ml Aerosols, UN1950. Although the inner box was marked as containing aerosols, the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. Appropriate response received. No further CAA action required.

2009-0120 26/03/2009 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an inner fibreboard box containing 12 x 400ml Aerosols, UN1950. Although the inner box was marked as containing aerosols, the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper has instructed the export department that all future packages must comply with the regulations to ensure that another such incident does not occur again. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 metal canisters of Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The Shipper contacted the CAA and advised that further to the occurrence they had researched the shipping requirements. As MSDS containing dangerous goods shipping information was supplied as an attachment to that message. No further CAA action necessary.

2009-0225  09/05/2009 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 113ml and 1 x 198ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator, no further CAA action possible. Also see DGR 2009-200, DGOR 2009-231, DGOR 2009-359 & DGOR 2009-399.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 7.3L of Aerosols, flammable; UN1950. An inner box of the consignment was marked ‘UN1950’ within a diamond but the outer packaging was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper - no further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods leading to spillage. Upon arrival, the loading crew found a consignment of dangerous goods unsecured with the orientation of packages changed. Some of the boxes were stuck together because of the spillage of dry ice. The operator investigated and found that the handling agent had no lashing available. All operator teams are now issued with lashing and floor rings. The handling agent received dangerous goods training and securing dangerous goods training. The read and sign for proper stowage and securing dangerous goods has been issued. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Whilst unloading the aircraft a black shrink-wrapped pallet was noticed to be loaded with a 20L jerrican of Gasoline, UN1203 and 8 x 600 mL Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The jerrican bore a Class 3 label and the box of aerosols was marked ‘UN1950’ within a black diamond. However, the shrink-wrapping of the consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further to an investigation by the Netherlands authorities it was found that the agent may have been aware that the consignment did contain dangerous goods but they still presented it for air transport. The VLM are currently refusing any shipments from the agent because of bad experiences. If any further irregularities are found they will be prosecuted. No further CAA action required.

Non occurrence. Operator reported that a cylinder of gas was carried undeclared from an offshore oil/gas installation to the mainland, however, it transpired that the goods were carried in full compliance with the ICAO Technical Instructions but had no dangerous goods transport document for onward carriage by road to the onward destination. Documentation related to the air shipment was verified. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 88L of Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. Letter sent to shipper - no further CAA action necessary.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 7 x 1L of Adhesives, UN1133 and 12 x 1L of Sodium hydroxide solution, UN1824. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and copied to Health and Safety Executive. In response the shipper stated that they will ensure that all future consignments are correctly marked and labelled and will undertake a training course for road transport.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 30ml tubes of Adhesive, UN1133. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 600ml, 3 x 500ml, and 3 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 1L bottles of Methanol, UN1230. Two inner boxes bore Class 3 labels but the overpack of the consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response the shipper stated that the member of staff that sent the consignment was a trainee and was not aware of the regulations. New procedures have been put into place to ensure that trainee staff will be supervised by a senior member of staff and that all staff are trained on the requirements to send dangerous goods by air. Appropriate action taken by shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1Kg of Aluminium powder, coated, UN1309. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However the air waybill raised by the freight forwarder mis-declared the consignment. See also 2006-277 and 2005-470. Letter sent to forwarder. Further to a visit to the forwarder to discuss the incident, measures have been implemented to prevent another incident. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, UN1950. Referred to the FAA for further assistance. The issue appears to have been resolved, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 13.4L cylinder of Helium, compressed, UN1046. Upon inspection the inner box was found to be marked with consumer labelling. The outer bag was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 2kg, 1 x 2kg, and 1 x 1kg Fire Extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 5L of Hydrocarbons, liquid, n.o.s., UN3295. The outer box was labelled as 'UN3265' in a black diamond for road transport but had no other dangerous goods marking or labelling. No dangerous goods transport document accompanied the consignment. Information letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival, a consignment containing 3 x 500ml of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s. (Mycoguard 500 S.C.), UN3082 was found to be loaded incorrectly. Further to an investigation by the operator the crew leader, who had received training, was interviewed and reminded that he had signed a legal document stating that he had loaded the consignment in a safe and secure manner. The crew leader confirmed that he understood and noted that he had failed to load and tie down the consignment correctly, a letter had been placed on his file and he will be monitored. If there is further recurrence involving him, disciplinary action will be taken. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival, a consignment of dangerous goods with orientation labels had not been restrained and were found lying on their side. During a ground operations audit by the operator prior to this incident, a finding was raised in regard to loading staff dangerous goods training. Operator addressed this issue with the handling agent to ensure that only loading staff who have received dangerous goods training handle their aircraft. The operator has also informed turnaround co-ordinators to ensure cargo boxes are secured and monitor this action closely on a daily basis. Appropriate action taken by the operator, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Prior to departure, a passenger was found to be carrying a package containing a bone in Dry ice, UN1845. It was established that box contained approximately 6Kgs of dry ice but the package was not correctly ventilated for carriage in the cabin. Appropriate action taken by operator, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 600ml of Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2008-366, 619, 622, 653, 654, 655, 667, and 668. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the freight agent responsible for the shippers orders, have stated that it is their policy not to transport dangerous goods by air. They have implemented further preventative measures to alleviate the problem of dangerous goods consignments being sent to an airport in error. The shipper has also previously advised that they would no longer be transporting aerosols by air, which they have also advised to their freight agent. They will now be transporting all their dangerous goods consignments by road and sea and will comply with the appropriate regulations. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Upon arrival passenger complained of damage to his barometer that had travelled in his luggage. The passenger had not declared that he had the barometer in his baggage. Referred to FAA for further investigation. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival, a consignment of dangerous goods was found to be loaded incorrectly. The consignment was found to contain 200ml of Corrosive liquid, UN1760. Further to an investigation by the operator the crew were interviewed and informed of the requirements to secure the freight in units. The crew have also been taken through the ULD build test training. Appropriate action taken by operator, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Whilst loading the aircraft smoke was seen coming from a bag. Was found to be Matches, safety, UN1944, burning. Passenger contact details not available as booking made via the internet by another passenger. Operator will make amendment to their pack safely cards. Dangerous Goods Office has also provided CAA Operations Manual specification to operator with information on passenger and crew provisions. No further action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3481. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder. In response the freight forwarder stated that the incident had occurred because the shipper was unaware of the change in rules for lithium batteries. It was confirmed that procedures were being put into place to ensure that all future consignments of lithium batteries would be correctly marked, labelled and documented. Appropriate response received, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Spanish authorities for investigation. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 4kg of Calcium hypochlorite, UN2880. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 4L of Environmentally hazardous liquid, UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 28 x 75ml, 4 x 50ml, and 22 x 175ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 4 x 10ml, 10 x 8ml, and 19 x 12ml of Paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 24 x 250ml of Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 100ml, 2 x 5ml, and 2 x 10ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGORs 2009-397, 392, 346, 298, 102, 081, 070. Letter sent to agent and response received providing a copy of the booking order form containing information about dangerous goods which had been signed by the shipper. Further advice sent to agent suggesting that the form include details about aerosols and perfumery products. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival goods were found to have shifted forward by approximately 1 metre. This resulted in contact with a protruding item, causing an indentation of some 10cm. No dangerous goods were involved in this incident. No further CAA action required.
Loading error. Upon arrival, a consignment of dangerous goods was found to be loaded incorrectly. The consignment was found to contain 490ml of Toxic liquid, corrosive, organic, UN2927, and 630ml of Flammable liquid, UN1993. Further to an investigation by the operator the Crew Leader involved was interviewed, who acknowledged that he had failed to check the items had been securely tied down. He has now been made fully aware of his responsibilities and his role. His file has been carded and he will be performance monitored. If he is involved in any further incident he will be referred for a disciplinary. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival, a consignment containing Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990 was found tilted and had become stuck on the inner wall of the forward hold. An engineer was called and checked that there was no damage to the aircraft hold. Further to an investigation by the operator the crew leader stated that to best of his knowledge all cargo pallets were loaded with no problems and without touching the ceiling wall or inner walls. The crew leader was reminded of his obligations to inform all staff to make visual checks around the aircraft pallets before loading them to ensure that they are built correctly prior to loading them on the aircraft. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. A fibreboard box containing Radioactive material, excepted package, UN2911 was accepted for transport, however, radioactive material can not be carried in accordance with the operator's procedures. Following an investigation by the operator the incident occurred because of a catalogue of errors. Failure to correctly update the EWS/SAP system; the agent didn't specify nature of the goods or question the missing dangerous goods certificate and warehouse staff didn't confirm/notify the office staff as to the status of the package. To prevent further incidents occurring Engineering are working with the agent to establish a more robust system. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During unloading an unmanifested consignment of 12kg of Oxygen, compressed, UN1072 was discovered. It transpired that ramp staff had missed the cargo when unloading at the previous station and so the cargo was carried unmanifested and without a NOTOC. The ramp staff concerned were re-trained in the off-load procedure and a 'read-and-sign' memo was issued for the attention of all ramp staff. Appropriate action taken by Operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment or personal effects was found to contain 1 x 200ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950, and 1 x 50ml Perfumery products, UN1266. Loading error leading to undeclared and unmanifested dangerous goods. Upon arrival, it was determined that a two piece consignment contained dangerous goods, 620ml of Printing ink, UN1210. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following an investigation by the operator they advised that they the consignment was originally accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document but the paperwork and freight became separated and the operator were unable to establish how the dangerous goods were not manifested during transit. However, all the flight planning staff have been briefed on the need to ensure that all air waybills have bookings to their final destination before preparing a final manifest. No further CAA action required.
2009-0304  09/06/2009  Ensco 102

Apparent absence of minimum qualified personnel for passenger handling and the loading and unloading of freight and baggage. Further to an investigation by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement department, the agent was sent a warning letter. Duty Holder subsequently visited by Dangerous Goods Inspector and ARE Investigator. Applicable dangerous goods training requirements were vigorously explained and accepted. Procedural issues were to have been addressed under the auspices of helicopter operator audit response. No further CAA action required.

2009-0266  10/06/2009  Heathrow

Loading error. During offload an electric wheelchair was found unsecured. The member of staff that reported the incident also queried why the battery had not been disconnected; this was not necessary as it would seem the batteries were non-spillable. Operator advised that unsecured loads were a disciplinary issue so the personnel concerned would have been removed from duty and interviewed. Load and Balance manual amended to reflect correct requirements for stowage of wheelchairs and protection from short-circuit. Appropriate action by operator. No further CAA action necessary.

2009-0265  10/06/2009  East Midlands

Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Loading error. Upon arrival, a consignment, which was found to contain 2.8L of Paint, UN1263, had spilt its contents in the hold. The consignment had not been secured correctly, which caused it to move and rupture. Following an investigation by the operator it appears that no photos of the incident were available, also conflicting information relating to the incident had been received. As a number of communication had been issued to all Section Managers and Section Leaders relating to the securing of dangerous goods it was felt that without further evidence no further action was necessary. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 9L, 200 bar Oxygen, compressed, UN1072 cylinder. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded advising that a double check had been carried out on the cylinder prior to being dispatched and the cylinder was declared empty. The cylinder is to be tested by an independent company and report submitted to the CAA. Report received advising that the cylinder did in fact still contain air. Shipper advises that the staff involved will attend a disciplinary meeting and that further training on the emptying of cylinders will take place. In addition procedures will be tightened and all cylinders will be checked in triplicate prior to being sent out. No further CAA action necessary.

Mis-routed dangerous goods leading to NOTOC error. A consignment containing Radioactive material (Iodine-131) was mis-routed and therefore did not appear on the NOTOC. The ground handling agent reviewed its processes and they were found to be robust. The person that selected the incorrect consignment when building the pallet was identified from CCTV footage and was retrained in the process. No further CAA action necessary.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a smell was found coming from a consignment containing 5 x 50g of Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., (Diclofenic Acid), UN2811. The Fire Brigade investigated the consignment but found no spillage, however, the consignment had not been properly secured in the hold. The operator investigated and found that the crew involved had all received training but arrangements were made for them to receive immediate refresher training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3x 300g of Magnesium perchlorate, UN1475, and 5 x 100g of Corrosive solid, basic, inorganic, n.o.s., UN3262. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded advising that the incident was due to staff on leave and a failure to separate the dangerous goods from the main shipment. The company have arranged for the two new members of their staff to attend a dangerous goods by air course, in addition all staff have received a short internal training course to reaffirm their packing procedures and that all dangerous goods shipments must be reviewed and checked by senior personnel. No further CAA action necessary.

Loading error. During loading, an electric wheelchair was loaded onto an aircraft by the handling agent without the battery being disconnected or the terminals being insulated. At the request of the Captain, the wheelchair was then removed from the hold and the battery disconnected before re-loading. Operator has also confirmed with handling agent that procedures are in place for wheelchairs and battery powered mobility aids. Appropriate action taken by Operator therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. The Captain was presented with a document for carriage of an unloaded gun with a policeman passenger, a check of the passenger I.D confirmed that he was in fact an army Sergeant. The carriage of the gun was refused following consultation with ALO. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 26 x 330ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was labelled as 'Aerosols, UN1950' but had no other dangerous goods markings or labelling. No dangerous goods transport document accompanied the consignment. Investigation report requested from freight forwarder. In response, the freight forwarder advised the account manager and the customer have been informed of all possible 'art products' that may contain dangerous goods. The customer was reminded of the agents procedures. The agent involved was interviewed and reminded that, not all customers comply with the regulations, with regards to proper packaging and labelling of dangerous goods. The agent will receive DGA refresher training. Other operation processors have received a basic awareness briefing informing them that they should not only be aware of hazard diamonds, but also of any working on packaging. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 50ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950, and 1 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Greek Authorities. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a Chemical kit, UN3316, and an Oxidising solid, corrosive, n.o.s., UN3085. The consignment had been wrapped in black shrink wrap on a pallet, during the breaking down of the pallet it was noticed that the consignment contained 4 boxes each marked as containing 'Chemical kit, UN3316' and labelled with a Class 9 label and one box was found to contain 10 x 50g plastic bottles marked as 'AnalaR NORMAPUR', 'UN3085'. The pallet was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following an investigation by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement Department, the shipper received a formal caution.

Documentation error. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 suspected undeclared Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. A MSDS was obtained, which stated that the batteries were found to be not restricted in accordance with SP A67, however, the words 'not restricted, as per special provision A67' had not been included on the air waybill. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further investigation by the operator confirmed that the batteries met the Special Provision A67, therefore, not restricted for air transport. However, the words "Not Restricted" did not appear in the description of the substance on the air waybill as required by the regulations. No further CAA action required.
Loading error. Upon arrival a plastic drum containing Toxic solid, organic n.o.s., UN2811 was found to be unsecured and damaged within the hold. The drum bore 'this way up' labels but these had not been adhered to during loading. Further to an investigation by the operator the loading staff were interviewed and they confirmed that they are fully aware of the regulations but advised that the hold would have been volumetrically full, which would have restrained the barrel. However, it would appear that cargo that would have restrained the barrel had been removed. All loading staff have done a 'Read and Sign' informing them of the regulations regarding the restraint of dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods not included on the NOTOC. Upon arrival, a box was noticed to be marked as containing Liquefied gas n.o.s., UN3163 and labelled with a non-flammable, non-toxic gas hazard label. Upon opening the box, a cylinder was found, similarly marked and labelled, together with a road transport document. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document for air transport and details of the consignment were not included on the NOTOC for the flight. Incident referred to the Irish authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 800g of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The outer box bore 'Consumer Commodity ORM-D' markings, but was not otherwise correctly marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further information from the freight agent advised that the incident occurred because two consignments going to the same destination had been mixed up. The non dangerous consignment was mis-labelled and forwarded as the dangerous goods consignment, therefore, the dangerous goods consignment was forwarded without being labelled or declared. The agent have now amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment consisting of one outer box, containing five inner boxes, each containing 12 x 100ml Aerosols, UN1950. The outer box bore 'Consumer Commodity ORM-D' markings, but was not otherwise correctly marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 71ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950, and 1 x 100ml, 2 x 75ml, and 5 x 50ml of Perfumery products, UN1266 The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Passenger error. Prior to departure, a passenger was found to be carrying a Lighter, UN1057, in their hand luggage, item was recovered from passenger and was incorrectly loaded into hold. Further information from the operator advised that staff have been reminded of the regulations. No further CAA action possible.
Operator error. During helicopter refuelling, fuel vented from high level overflows contaminating baggage placed onto the helideck awaiting loading. The level of contamination may have constituted the baggage being classified as UN 3175 Solids containing flammable liquids. The baggage was placed into plastic bags (to prevent contaminating other baggage and cargo) and carried back to the heliport in the absence of identification, packing, marking, labelling and declaration in accordance with the ICAO Technical Instructions. Operator conducted an audit of the originating installation and verified that the loading personnel had current dangerous goods training. The crew acknowledged that correct procedures had not been followed and there was potential for an incident. Appropriate action by operator. No further CAA action necessary.

Loading error. Upon arrival a large box weighing 65g found to contain Dry ice, UN1845, had not been secured within the hold. Further to an investigation by the operator they were advised that the loading team believed the Dry ice would be secured by surrounding it with cargo, however, the volume of cargo was not enough to secure the item properly, the cargo shifted in flight and became wet. To prevent further incidents occurring all dangerous goods must be secured, tied down, when being loose loaded and the use of spreader boards must also be used. A check for leaks and damage must be completed prior to loading, and if found, reported immediately to the supervisor. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 200 cylinders of Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The consignment was also found to contain 3 air pistols. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Matter being investigated by Danish CAA. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 300 x Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper who responded that they contacted a training company and arranged for them to carry out a review of their internal procedures. During the review staff involved in transporting dangerous goods received training and received certification. They have now amended their procedures, were implemented immediately. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1L of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Italian Authorities. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. A review of eBay listings indicated that several quantities of Gallium, UN2803 had been sold and shipped to New Zealand and several other countries undeclared and by air mail. Following an investigation by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement Department, the shipper, a member of the public, received a formal caution.
Dangerous goods found in passenger baggage. Two passengers were intercepted in the Green Channel by Customs Officers and were both found to be carrying a total of two large tins and four plastic bottles of Oxidising solid, n.o.s. (platinum sponge), UN1479, packing group II. The passengers stated that they had carried out similar trips on two or three occasions in the previous two months. Both passengers were arrested on suspicion of tax evasion due to the very high value of the substance (around £1 Million). Case was investigated by HMRC and the two passengers pleaded guilty at Magistrates Court for Customs offences. They were sentenced, which was later commuted to forfeiture of the dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival at the aircraft the Captain was informed that a consignment was found to contain Toxic solid, corrosive, organic, n.o.s., UN2928, in a poor condition. The plastic barrels had collapsed, and the consignment was offloaded for further investigation. This incident is linked to DGOR 2009-321. Referred to the Indian authorities for further investigation. No further CAA action required.

Loading error leading to unmanifested dangerous goods. Upon arrival, it was discovered that one piece of a dangerous goods consignment had been incorrectly loaded (Articles, pressurized, pneumatic, UN3164). No paperwork accompanied the consignment. Further to an investigation by the operator it was found that another dangerous goods consignment was intended for loading and the incorrect package was selected because air waybill numbers were not checked. Staff involved have been interviewed and reminded that all air waybills must be checked prior to loading. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response the shipper stated that a full list of products which goods require specialist packaging had been issued to the despatch department to ensure that all dangerous goods are dealt with appropriately. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. A consignment containing Petroleum crude oil, UN1267, was loaded, but a NOTOC had not been provided, consignment was then off loaded. Due to 24 hour delay NOTOC was completed, and consignment was reloaded. Further to an investigation by the operator they have advised that the incident occurred because a staff member after referring to the load plan and the manifest did not notice the load included any special loads. The staff member involved has been advised to check both documents, to identify if there are any special loads for the flight. Also to prevent further incidents occurring staff have been advised to include special handling codes on the load plan, which is normally done but was missed for this flight. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium metal batteries, UN3090, and Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The CAA investigation established that the manufacturer’s guidance regarding shipping the batteries did not specify that the Lithium Battery Handling Label was required. Letter sent to manufacturer and appropriate response received. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 16 x cartridges containing Carbon dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to FAA for further investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Life-saving appliance, self-inflating, UN2990, and 1 x Signal, distress, UN0195. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR’s 2008-253 and 2001-064. Letter sent to shipper. Appropriate response received from shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 200ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, but was returned as not delivered. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 250ml and 1 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, and 7 x 15ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an item of marine emergency escape breathing apparatus containing a cylinder of compressed air (Air, compressed, UN1002). Shipper had hand written initials ‘D.G’ on the outer box, but otherwise the consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2006-286. The shipper explained that dangerous goods training had been given to their staff following the previous incident in 2006. As a result of the latest incident, further dangerous goods would be provided and software would be introduced to prevent the dispatch of dangerous goods that did not comply with the requirements. Letter sent to shipper to advise that recurrent dangerous goods training is required within 24 months of previous training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 150ml, 1 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, 2 x 10ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993, and 5 x 50ml, 3 x 40ml, 1 x 20ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium metal batteries packed with equipment, UN3091. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Manufacturer's MSDS was found to erroneously suggest that the batteries were not regulated for air transport. Letters sent to shipper and manufacturer. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 4.375L of Paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 150ml, 1 x 200ml, 1 x 250ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, and 1 x 50ml, 3 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGORs 2008-497, 2008-568, 2008-629, 2009-033, 2009-077, 2009-144, 2009-278 and 2009-401. Further to an investigation by Air Regulation & Enforcement, the freight forwarder was visited and given a warning letter. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 30ml Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. See also 2009-373. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading, 8 plastic drums containing Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., UN2811, were found loaded incorrectly and not secured within the hold. The consignment was checked that no spillage had occurred, no further action was required, therefore, the total consignment was delivered to the customs cargo hall. The operator investigated and the staff member had been interviewed regarding the building of the unit and he was advised the importance of safely securing all dangerous goods when building a unit. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 10L jerrican of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., (Naphtha (Petroleum) Hydrotreated Light, Methylal), UN1993. Upon further investigation, the inner box and jerrican were marked and labelled with the proper shipping name and bore a Class 3 flammable liquid label. The outer box contained bubble wrap to prevent the inner box from moving. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following an investigation by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement Department, the shipper received a Formal Caution.

Loading error. Upon arrival, it was discovered that a 20L plastic container of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993, had not been secured and the Captain was not notified of the dangerous goods via NOTOC. The NOTOC was found with the cargo in the hold. The loader’s dangerous goods qualification was verified to be current and was reminded of the need to secure consignments of dangerous goods and to provide the NOTOC to the Captain. The operator now requires additional documentation to be passed from the Cargo agent to the ramp agent at the station concerned with the aim of ensuring requirements are met and to provide an audit trail. Appropriate action by operator - no further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder, shipper and owner of goods. Response received from freight forwarder advised that their customers are required to sign a declaration, which includes questions relating to hazardous goods, in addition a member of staff has received recurrent dangerous goods training, copy of certificate provided. Response received from shipper advised that they have updated their advice to customers and staff. They have also arranged for their staff to complete dangerous goods training, copy of certificate provided. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Dangerous goods consignment containing Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956 had not been secured adequately in the forward hold. Further to an investigation by the operator the Team Leader was interviewed, and was surprised that the cargo had not been secured. The staff members were reminded of the regulations and retaining was scheduled. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. Consignment received containing Gas oil, UN1202, and Isopropanol, UN1219, without notification. The NOTOC showed no special loads. Further to an investigation by the operator they have advised that the incident occurred because a staff member after referring to the load plan and the manifest did not notice the load included any special loads. The staff member involved has been advised to check both documents, to identify if there are any special loads for the flight. Also to prevent further incidents occurring staff have been advised to include special handling codes on the load plan, which is normally done but was missed for this flight. No further CAA action required.

2009-0354  13/07/2009  Heathrow

Operator error. Passenger boarded aircraft with sleep apnoea machine, powered by a large wet-acid battery. The passenger had contacted the operator previously to gain advice as to whether the sleep apnoea machine could be carried and was advised that this was permitted for carriage. Further to an investigation by the operator the passengers booking made no reference to a sleep apnoea machine. The Captain was informed and further to his advice the battery was packed and carried in the hold as per requirements. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 17 x 360ml Gas cartridges, UN2037. 2009-0363  18/07/2009  Sao Paulo Guarulhos
Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, it was found that cargo containing Dry ice, UN1845, had not been securely fastened within the hold. The cargo was reloaded, ensuring that there had been no leakage. The operator investigated and found that the cargo had been built with the curtain intact and that it had been securely fastened prior to the transfer to the aircraft. Upon arrival, the unit was identified with the curtain missing and the contents in disarray with the dangerous goods not secured. Investigations at both stations failed to ascertain where the damage occurred. To prevent further incidents occurring loading staff were reminded to ensure all units are serviceable and dangerous goods consignments are securely fastened. Turn round managers were reminded to report all loading discrepancies. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 13 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, and 1 x 138.90ml Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. During overflight of UK airspace, the flight crew contacted Air Traffic requesting return to departure point. The crew had received notification that the correct procedure for the carriage of dangerous goods had not been followed. No further information could be obtained, therefore, no further CAA action possible.

2009-0360 20/07/2009  Heathrow
Loading error. Upon arrival it was found that 2 boxes of Dry Ice, UN1845, had not been securely fastened in the hold. Further to an investigation by the operator it was found that the consignment had arrived along with prioritised freight, late to the ramp site. Timescales were short to load the consignment, therefore, securing the consignment was not handed over to the ramp handling team to ensure that the freight was securely fastened in bulk. The staff involved have been briefed to ensure that in future, dangerous goods consignments are securely restrained in the bulk hold before closing holds. No further CAA action required.

2009-0362 20/07/2009  East Midlands
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Articles, pyrotechnics, UN0432. Although the consignment was marked and labelled correctly, it was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that a dangerous goods transport document had been signed and placed in a clear plastic wallet and affixed to the package. The document was requested several times but the document was not forwarded by the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x Lithium metal batteries, UN3090. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper stated that they had been requested by the manufacturer to return the defibrillator. Under the guidance of their freight forwarder they had removed the batteries from the defibrillator and were not aware that any remained within it. They confirmed that if any other dangerous goods need to be sent, they will comply with the Regulations. Appropriate response received from shipper and further information letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 336 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable UN1950. Upon inspection, the boxes were found to be marked as ‘UN1950’ in an ADR hazard diamond, however, the marking had been covered by cardboard banding. The boxes had no other dangerous goods markings or labelling and no dangerous goods transport document accompanied the consignment. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 11 x 100ml of Aerosols flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 8 x 100ml and 5 x 50ml of Perfumery products, UN1266, and 3 x 100ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Letter sent to freight forwarder who responded advising that their customer had been questioned and signed a declaration stating no dangerous goods were in the consignment. Freight forwarder supplied dangerous goods training certificate and also advised that they had also expanded their procedures to prevent further incidents. No further CAA action necessary.

Loading error. Upon arrival it was discovered that a consignment of Dry ice, UN1845, had not been secured correctly within the hold. Further to an investigation by the operator the entire handling agent team involved with this incident have been re-trained. The training was completed and all the staff received passing marks. A read and sign of this incident has also been issued for other crews. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 142ml and 3 x 163ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded by advising that although they had rigorous procedures for the shipping of dangerous goods, on this occasion, an urgent need for servicing meant that the procedures were circumvented. The shipper confirmed that their procedures had been amended to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Letter returned, addressee has gone away. Letter sent to Agent. In response the agent confirmed that they have procedures in place to highlight to customers that personal effects must not contain dangerous goods. The agent has also written to the shipper to ensure that they do not forward any dangerous goods in personal effects. Appropriate response received. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 5L jerricans of undeclared Acetone, UN1090 and 2 x 5L jerricans of undeclared Flammable liquid, UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further to an investigation by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement Department, the shipper received a Formal Caution.

Mis-labelled and undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium metal batteries, UN3090. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing Lithium metal batteries, UN309, however, the consignment did display a CAO label and a magnetized label but was found to be worn and slightly torn, therefore, it was assumed that it was an old label that had not been removed prior to shipment. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further to an investigation by the operator it was revealed that the shipper did not declare the consignment as dangerous goods. It was not until after the aircraft had departed that the dangerous goods were identified as being loaded, however it was too late to stop the consignment, but a message was sent to Heathrow to hold the consignment and prevent onward transportation. The shipper of the consignment have been advised that no consignments will be accepted from them until they submit an appropriate action plan to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon delivery, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 1Kg of undeclared Azodicarbonamide, UN3242, which is forbidden in air transport. The box bore the appropriate CHIP label, however, it was not marked or labelled as dangerous goods. No dangerous goods transport document accompanied the consignment. Referred to Korean authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Magnetized material, UN2807. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival, it was found that a consignment containing dangerous goods, Lighters, UN1057, had not been tied down and secured correctly. Further to an investigation by the operator the head loader was interviewed and he is now had a reminder course about handling and securing dangerous goods into the hold and unit loading devices. A memo has also been issued for all staff reminding them of the loading of dangerous goods procedures. An extract from the Corporate Dangerous Goods Manual has now been published and handled as a read and sign as general reminder to all staff. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared and leaking dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment was noticed to be leaking flammable liquid and found to contain undeclared Dangerous goods in machinery, UN3363. Passenger error. During checks carried out on hand baggage at boarding gate, pepper spray was removed from passengers luggage, and confiscated by police. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Cargo offloaded due to incorrect stowage of hazardous consignment. Further to an investigation by the operator the staff member involved was interviewed and he confirmed that he did build the consignment incorrectly to try and fit all the freight into the unit. The staff member has now been taken through the correct procedure to prevent further incidents occurring. All the training records were up to date. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Consignment fell due to being incorrectly secured. Consignment sent back for repacking, and to be correctly secured. Further to an investigation by the operator the staff involved have been interviewed and made aware of their responsibilities. Another failure to secure the consignment were the Velcro straps used to hold the curtains closed on the units, which can work loose due to wear and tear, which is hard to detect. The straps were also wet, which makes the fixing weaker. The straps are checked for wear and tear and if seen the unit would be offloaded. No further CAA action required.

Spillage of dangerous goods. During loading, a barrel containing 52L of Extracts, aromatic, flammable, UN1169, was dropped onto the loading conveyor causing the barrel to rupture. Approximately 25L of the contents spilt onto the apron, about 15 feet from the aircraft. Fire service attended to dilute and disperse the spillage. An investigation by the operator advised that it was a handling error by the loader, who, when unloading onto a belt loader, dropped one of the barrels onto the rear door of the truck, resulting in a puncture to the drum. The aircraft was not affected and the correct emergency response action was taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an Engine, internal combustion, flammable liquid powered, UN3166. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter to shipper (agent). Response received from shipper, copy of information displayed in warehouse, declaration signed by customers and staff dangerous goods training certificates. No further CAA action required. We have received notification of a further matter involving the shipper and a similar consignment.

Whilst aircraft was being offloaded it was discovered that two consignments which were classed as dangerous goods had not been offloaded offshore and had round-tripped back. The freight had been loaded into the tail cone at the crews request and was still there when the aircraft returned. In accordance with the operator's procedures, the crew were responsible for ensuring that manifested freight was delivered to the correct destination. Operator issued a Safety Alert to its crews reminding them of this an another to all ground crew unloading aircraft asking that they ensure they check all hold areas for any items of freight/baggage to be unloaded at that location. The operator indentified the personnel offshore that had unloaded the aircraft and verified that they had current dangerous goods training qualifications. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods found in mail. During security screening, a consignment of mail was found to contain undeclared dangerous goods. 36 x 500ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods for air transport but was labelled with an ADR Limited Quantity label. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Further information requested from agent advised that the incident occurred because the shipper is a direct injection into their domestic distribution centre, where their processes rely on the LQ labelling being visible. However the LQ label was on top of the consignment, rather than the side, which prevented interception of the consignment, which resulted the consignment travelling through their automated system causing the consignment for uplift where there was space on a domestic flight. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error and leakage of dangerous goods. During loading it was noticed that a strong smell of ammonia was coming from a passenger’s bag. The emergency services were called to attend and the bag was isolated. The passenger advised that he was a chemist and was taking the chemicals back for students at his university and that the substances were “not dangerous”. The contents of the bag were removed by the police and following testing, were confirmed to be Phosphorus oxychloride, UN1810 (forbidden as cargo) and Ethylamine, aqueous solution, UN2270. Following an investigation by Manchester police, assisted by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement, the passenger was found guilty of one offence of endangering the aircraft and two offences under the Air Navigation (Dangerous Goods) Regulations. The passenger was given a 26 week custodial sentence, suspended for 12 months and 200 hours of unpaid work for the community. No further CAA Action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 30 x canisters containing Carbon Dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2009-777. Letter sent to shipper. Response received from shipper, goods sent by staff member who was unaware of requirements, training procedures have been revised and amended to ensure no reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During loading checks, an overpack containing various dangerous goods was found to be on top of a box of general cargo and unsecured. Upon inspection the overpack was found to contain 250ml of Paint, UN1263; 946ml of Resin solution, UN1866; 5l of Alcohols, n.o.s., (Isopropanol mixture) UN1987; 500ml of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., (Calcium Dichromate), UN3082 and 200ml of Corrosive liquid, n.o.s., (Sodium dichromate), UN1760. The overpack was subsequently secured in accordance with the load and balance manual. Further to an investigation by the operator the staff member was interviewed. In a report he stated that the consignment was one small box, which was put on the strapped pallet and placed securely. The consignment was not restrained with rope or strap because it would have damaged the box. To prevent further incidents, if rope or strap cannot be used, then a form of packing must be used to bulk out the container to secure freight and alleviate any movement and pictures to be taken of the build as evidence. No further CAA action required.

Damaged packaging. During acceptance check the outer packaging was found to be damaged. An orientation label was found to be out of place, and appeared to be covering a hole, in addition the two orientation labels used were of different designs. The UN Specification marking on one side of the box had been over-written with black marker pen. Information relating to the incident sent to shipper. Interim warning sent to freight agent. Following investigation by the Air Regulation Enforcement Department it was concluded that there was insufficient evidence to continue legal proceedings, however letter sent from legal to freight agent. In response the freight agent advised that they were aware of the regulations but identified that they did not meet all the training requirements for their staff. They have now trained sufficient staff to meet the requirements and have made arrangements for the training and actions to be reviewed after a two year period. No further CAA action required.
Loading error. Upon arrival, a consignment containing Isocyanate solution, toxic, n.o.s., UN2206, had not been secured properly within the hold. Further to an investigation by the operator, the Crew Leader was interviewed but was unable to recall the flight. However, he assured that all flight he loads with dangerous goods are secured or tied down correctly. The Crew Leader also stated that he was fully aware of how high profile dangerous goods are at present and had read the latest message on the TV screens. There were no photographs available, therefore, it was not possible to establish the status of the load in the hold. The Crew Leader will be performance monitored. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Shipper has moved abroad. No further CAA action possible.
Mis-labelled dangerous goods. During security screening, two steel UN specification drums each containing 5L of Resin solution, UN1866 were found to have the UN specification markings hidden by a label. The drums were also found to have a security ring with UN markings on them but these were different to those embossed on the drums. Letter sent to shipper. In response they confirmed that an internal review had been carried out and new guidance had been issued to employees about correctly labelling packages and the format of the dangerous goods transport document. The shipper also confirmed that they had contacted supplier about the UN Markings, who stated that the only difference between the security ring and the UN marking was the year of manufacture which did not invalidate the UN approval. Appropriate action taken by shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Damage general. During acceptance checks, a consignment containing Dangerous goods in apparatus, UN3363 (92 faulty injectors) was found to be damaged. Upon closer inspection, the outer packaging was found to have a small hole and the plastic lining could be seen through it. It was also found that the consignment did not meet the requirements of Packing Instruction 916. The consignment was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further to an investigation by the Dutch Authorities, the shipper was sent a warning letter. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. A small box marked as containing dangerous goods was loose loaded in Compartment 5, together with two larger boxes containing dry ice. The hold was only around 10% full and none of the boxes were tied down as required. The signed NOTOC stated that the small box had been loaded into a container in the forward hold. Further information requested from operator advised that the build crew were interviewed but they couldn’t remember the consignment, however, the incident was noted on their performance cards. Further review advised that the Safety Management System manual will include the responsibilities and authorities of auditors conducting safety-related audit activity, which will enable any potential level 1 finding to be addressed before any further operation take place. It was reviewed whether loose-loading all dangerous goods should be tied down, irrespective of whether the hold is volumetrically full or not. However, the team felt that this would not be the right time to introduce this but are looking forward to when zonal comes out when they believe it could be achievable with fewer crews to manage and more flexibility for the team managers to ensure all dangerous goods are tied down whether the hold is volumetrically full or not without increasing volume. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 3.5L of undeclared Paint, UN1263. The box was marked with an ADR UN1263 label but no other dangerous goods markings or labelling were on the box and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2007-197 and 2003-001. Letter sent to shipper. Requested further information from freight agent. In response, the shipper advised that the incident occurred because of human error, but that they believed the consignment did not contain any dangerous goods. Letter sent to shipper advising that the consignment did contain dangerous goods, and requested they investigate further. In response, they advised that they were unaware that the consignment contained dangerous goods, when originally responding, however, the incident still occurred because of human error. The shipper have procedures to use an external shipping company to pack and dispatch dangerous goods. To prevent further incidents occurring they have arranged with their DGSA advisor to independently audit their processes to determine and correct any weaknesses they have. Further to an investigation by the agent they advised that the consignment should have been detected, Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 600ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950 and 2 x 200ml of Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. After passengers had disembarked aircraft an aircraft cleaner found a bag under the seats which contained 2 x P229 Sig Sauer SLP magazines fully loaded (containing 24 x rounds .357cal ammunition). Following enquiries carried out by Customs it was discovered that the bag had been left on the aircraft by a Flight Air Marshall who had disembarked in Detroit. Matter referred to FAA.

Loading error. On reviewing NOTOC it was discovered that there was a potential incompatibility on a consignment of Class 8 and Class 4.3 had not been loaded with the required distance being maintained between other cargo. Loading crew were advised by the Captain to reposition items on the pallet. Appropriate action taken by the Operator, therefore no further CAA action necessary.

Un/Mis-Labelled/Marked and undeclared dangerous goods. During acceptance checks, a consignment was found to contain Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. Upon inspection, the package was found to be marked with a lithium battery handling, although there was no confirmation as to whether the batteries were lithium ion or lithium metal. The consignment was snagged and the forwarder was advised and a revised lithium ion battery handling label was supplied. Further to an investigation by the handling agent, the lithium battery was found to be classed as dangerous goods and in response the forwarder removed lithium ion battery handling label and replaced it with a Class 9 label, UN Number and proper shipping name. Further to a visit by the CAA, a letter was sent to the shipper. In response, the shipper confirmed that they had re-tested the batteries and that they were classed as dangerous goods. Appropriate procedures have been put in to place to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a Fire extinguisher, UN1044 and 16 x 350ml of Ethanol Solution, UN1170. The outer packaging was marked with an ADR LQ label which had been scribbled out, and was written over with UN1170. Two inner boxes found inside the outer box were marked with ADR UN1170 labels, one of which bore a LQ label. There were no other dangerous goods marking or labelling and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2004-115 and 1997-016. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised the incident occurred because a junior staff member failed to recognise procedures required for dangerous goods consignments. To prevent further incidents occurring the shipper has amended their procedures to implement the following, formal process for handling consignments, awareness training to be given to post room staff, consignments not to be sealed prior to post room staff confirming contents, awareness briefing for people wishing to ship consignments. No further CAA action required.

2009-0979 22/10/2009 Charles De Gaulle, France
Undeclared dangerous goods leading to leakage. Upon arrival, a consignment was found to contain approximately 37L of undeclared Corrosive liquid, flammable, n.o.s., (Ethyl 2-bromopropanolate) which was leaking. Several litres of the liquid had been lost, causing a highly irritating odour and 27 staff received eye examinations. Upon investigation it was found that the leak had been from the body of the jerrican rather than the cap. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper requesting further information. See also DGOR 2009-1030. The shipper responded and advised that they had imported the product from an overseas supplier on the basis of a material safety data sheet which stated the product as non-hazardous, and forwarded the consignment to their customer. They also advised that the drum was not damaged when it left then shipper. A review was made of their shipping procedures and it was established that their staff had received dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

The outer packaging has a Class 3 hazard label, UN102A, proper shipping name and UN markings. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See DGOR 1999-151. Further information from the agent advised that the consignment was not identified when a large volume from their regular pick up was collected and was placed in error on the process belt amongst other consignments. They could not identify how it was not noticed at process and have assumed that the dangerous goods label was facing away from the processor. As they were unable to identify the staff involved, all the service centre evening staff will be retrained and all staff have been re-iterated the importance of identifying and holding dangerous goods consignments. During cruise six passengers fainted over a period of 45 minutes. All air synoptic readings and a cabin air temperature reading were normal. A consignment containing 250kg of Dry Ice, UN1845, was considered as a potential cause but subsequently dismissed. Emergency services and medical authorities met aircraft on arrival. During unloading a loader also complained of similar symptoms. Following interview it was established that he had been in close proximity to the ULD containing the dry ice as it had got stuck and needed physical handling to remove it from the aircraft. Loader reminded to bear hazard of CO2 in mind when in the proximity of dry ice.

Mis-labelled and marked dangerous goods. Upon arrival it was discovered that a consignment found to contain Dry ice, UN1845 was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods. Further information from the operator advised that the boxes were not marked or labelled, therefore, the consignment was not marked and labelled accordingly. A dry ice checklist was included because one had not been included with the documentation, which indicated that the consignment had not been properly checked on acceptance. The outstation barcode and air waybill printing system was unserviceable and the station had to work to a manual process. The handling agent wrote the wrong information on the air waybill and subsequently the wrong information input resulted in the dry ice being shipped without the correct documentation and labelling. The handling agent have been reminded on the need to ensure the correct details are submitted on the air waybill. No further CAA action required.

Damaged dangerous goods. An alkaline battery was reported to be smoking on the inbound baggage belt, fire crew attended and removed the battery, from filming apparatus, (Battery, wet, filled with alkali, UN2795). The battery was then confiscated and properly disposed of by the airport authorities. After investigation no spillage was found. Further to an investigation by the operator it appeared that a battery used for camera equipment had been damaged previously and then taped together. The battery overheated and caused it to smoke while on the arrivals carousel. There was no evidence that the battery had leaked. The baggage hold was inspected but there was no evidence of a spillage/leakage in the cargo hold. The operator delayed reporting the incident because they were unaware of the regulations. The operator has now highlighted to all concerned that all dangerous goods incidents are required to be reported to the national authority of the country in which the incident occurred. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. Dangerous goods arrived at an offshore oil installation and were unloaded as the aircraft was undertaking inter-field shuttle flights. The dangerous goods were then loaded onto an aircraft bound for the mainland, however, they had been intended for carriage on another later flight. As a result two packages containing dangerous goods, namely, Flammable solid, inorganic, n.o.s. (Methane), UN3178, and Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993 were carried unmanifested and without the crew being notified via the issue of a NOTOC. Appropriate action taken by operator, no further CAA action necessary.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 500ml and 1 x 450ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 2 x small tins of Paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Response received from shipper advising that an inexperienced person had sent the consignment via airmail not realising that the goods were classed as dangerous. The company will ensure that this does not happen again. No further CAA action necessary.

Documentation error. Consignment containing a Biological substance, category B, UN3373, was received without a copy of the air waybill or a dangerous goods checklist. The consignment was rechecked for compliance and a checklist was attached to a copy of the air waybill. Further to an investigation by the operator it would appear that the air waybill became detached in transit. Staff have been asked to make sure that all documentation attached to consignment be rechecked at ramp and should be securely attached. No further CAA action required.

Shipper error leading to leakage and damage. Upon arrival, one consignment was found to be wet. Upon further investigation it was discovered that the carton contained Class 9 dangerous goods in the form of Consumer commodity, ID8000. The consignment had been loaded with orientation labels facing up but on further investigation it was discovered that the bottles had been loaded upside down within the container. It was believed that the spray pumps that had been packed alongside the bottles had punctured three of the twelve bottles during transit. The spilled liquid had been absorbed by the outer fibreboard packaging. Referred to the USA authorities (FAA) for investigation. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 45ml, 1 x 75ml and 1 x 125ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. Platform advised that a shipment of Radioactive material, Type A package, special form, UN3332 was being shipped inbound from an offshore Normally Unmanned Installation (NUI). Operations staff requested all paperwork relevant to the shipment in accordance with the Operator's existing procedures. The platform advised that they did not have anyone qualified to complete an acceptance checklist for the goods. The CAA authorised one-off carriage of the item from the NUI to the mainland, but it transpired that the operator only carried the shipment once a qualified person was flown out to complete an acceptance check. The Operator's existing procedures prevented deviation from regulatory requirements - no further CAA action necessary.

Dangerous goods of O2 bottles were received at Newcastle incorrectly packed and documented. Goods arrived at Heathrow by air in a compliant state and then broken down and forwarded by road to Newcastle. No further CAA action necessary.

Upon arrival the agent advised that an electric wheelchair had been loaded within the hold but had not been secured in any way, and had been left switched on throughout the flight. Following investigation by the operator it was advised that the Team leader had been advised verbally by the passenger that the scooter had been de-activated. The scooter was then loaded in the hold and along with nets, surrounded by bags to ensure minimal movement. The team leader has been investigated and the report passed to the Ramp Manager for disciplinary action. In addition a memorandum has been issued to all ramp/dispatch staff to raise awareness on the disconnection/disabling of electric wheelchairs/mobility aids. Appropriate action taken by operator, no further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 5 x 50mls and 500 x 2mls of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letters sent to shipper and agent. In response, the agent advised that the consignment was sent by the shipper, who assembles and sends goods on behalf of their clients. The air waybill and supporting documentation from the shipper were provided. Further letter sent to agent requesting details of their dangerous goods training programme. In response, the agent advised that they did not train their staff because they did not supply any advice to their customers. However, they confirmed they would be making arrangements for staff to obtain dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

Operator's procedural error with documentation. Upon arrival of a consignment containing Dry ice, UN1845, the operator noted that a copy of the dangerous goods acceptance checklist was not attached to the air waybill. Although this is not legally required, it is the operator's procedure for the checklist to be attached to the air waybill. The staff concerned at the originating station were reminded of the company's policy. Appropriate operator action taken, therefore no further CAA action required.

Leakage. During unloading, steel drums containing Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., (Bisphenol A-Epichlorhydrin), UN3082, were found to be leaking. Further to an investigation by the operator, a dangerous goods check was carried out at location, which indicated that the drums were identified with the UN specification markings - each drum held 20L. They were discovered to be leaking during the breaking of the unit upon arrival at location. A report was made out and actions were taken by the Dangerous Goods Coordinators. The report did not indicate why the drums were leaking and how they had been stacked in the unit and no photographs were taken. A report was not raised at origin, therefore, no investigation was taken by the compliance team. The Dangerous Goods Coordinators were reminded that a report must be completed in future. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival, it was discovered that two boxes containing Biological substance, Category B, UN3373, had not been secured correctly in the hold. Further to an investigation by the operator, the crew leader was interviewed and shown the photographs. The crew leader recalled the incident as he had to return to get the required rope and links to tie down the boxes, which he was adamant he did. The Line Manager advised that the crew leader has an impeccable record and that his work is normally of the highest order. The crew leader is fully aware of his responsibilities and the requirement of dangerous goods. All the staff have signed the 'read and sign' regarding dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Suspected undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain suspected undeclared dangerous goods. The consignment was not marked or labelled as dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The Transport section of the MSDS did not clearly indicate whether the substance was dangerous goods. German manufacturer asked to review their MSDS in order to clearly indicate whether or not the substance is dangerous goods. No further CAA action necessary.

Damaged drum, deliberately hidden. Consignment originally refused for air transport, due to a dent in the drum. Consignment re-presented for transport, during freight checks it was found that a Cargo Aircraft Only label had been placed over the damage to cover car body filler which had been used to fill the dent. Further to an investigation by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement department, the shipper received a formal caution. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. In transit, two fibreboard boxes each containing Class 8 and Class 9 dangerous goods were found unsecured and laying on their sides. Each box of the consignment contained 3.9L of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082 and 3.9L of Amines, liquid, corrosive, n.o.s., UN2735. The initial report claimed the dangerous goods were not recorded on a NOTOC, however, one was subsequently received for the flight concerned. The loaders of the ULD were interviewed and reminded of the need to secure dangerous goods. Appropriate action taken. No further CAA action necessary.

Loading error. On reviewing the NOTOC it was established that the total weight of Dry ice loaded was 451Kg, when the maximum allowed on ATP is given as 300Kg. One bin removed, which contained the majority of the Dry ice. Information requested from Operator regarding action taken relating to the cargo handling agent. Response received advising that the handling agent has acknowledge the error was theirs and to resolve the problem staff have been reminded of the amounts allowed. In addition high quantities of dry ice are now being shipped via East Midlands on larger a/c and only residual loads which will not exceed the maximum weight will be carried on the ATP. The handling agent has notified all their dangerous goods agents of this incident. The operator will monitor the situation. No further CAA action necessary.

Mis-packed dangerous goods. A consignment of 48 x steel cylinders containing Nitrogen, compressed, UN1066, was stopped in transit (outside the UK) due to being in breach of Packing Instruction 200. The cylinders each had individual valves that were closed and were connected by a manifold with a single outlet valve. The foreign inspectorate considered the cylinders to be manifold in contravention Packing Instruction 200, however, it was the position of the UK CAA that the manifold was not of concern providing each cylinder valve was closed and the manifold was under pressure. Further inspection found the manifold to be under pressure indicating that the manifold was not de-pressurised after closing the individual cylinder valves, or that one or more valves was leaking. Foreign inspectorate indicated their intent to sanction the UK-based shipper directly, therefore, no further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4L of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. Upon inspection, a MSDS was found with the consignment confirming the goods to be UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that the product had been recently re-classified as UN3082 and old packaging had been used to send the consignment. To prevent further incidents occurring they would check all samples in stock to ensure transport labels reflect the current transport classification and update their procedures to reflect checks required for dangerous goods and implement an independent double check for dangerous goods products to ensure they comply with the regulations. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment that was described on the air waybill as ‘car auto parts’ was found to contain 4 x 2.5L of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s. (Bisphenol-A Epichlorhydrine resin), UN3082 and 4 x 25L of a Flammable liquid, corrosive, n.o.s (Methyl methacrylate, methylacrylic acid), UN2924. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The incident was referred to the CAA’s Air Regulation Enforcement Department and during the investigation, the shipper explained that it was rare for them to ship any of their products by air and that they did not have any staff who had received dangerous goods training. They also advised that as a consequence of the incident, they would employ an external agent to inspect and quality check their documents and cargo labelling and that in the long term, would consider providing dangerous goods training to their staff in order to be able to keep matters in-house. The shipper was given a Formal Caution for three breaches of the Air Navigation (Dangerous Goods) Regulations.

Non-occurrence. Freight loaded, manifested as Box C/W Door Release Magnet. There was no indication that the magnetic field strength had been measured or that it had been assessed as suitable to ship as freight, without being classed as dangerous goods. Item was offloaded. Further information requested from the operator advised that the magnet was an electromagnetic magnet, therefore, no magnetism. The shipper has been advised that they should be more specific in the description of any such freight in the future. No further CAA action required.

<td>Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Nitrogen compressed, UN1066. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2006-436. Further to an investigation by the Irish authorities the shipper and agent were sent a warning letter. In response, the shipper advised that the incident occurred because of human and procedural error. They have advised their staff that any consignments other than paperwork should be routed via their shipping channel. They have also developed specific procedures to address the shipment of dangerous goods which include specific roles and responsibilities for personnel. No further CAA action required.</td>

Un/mis-labelled/marked dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 7 x 1Kg of Alkaloids, solids, n.o.s. (colchicine), UN1544. The consignment had originated from the UK, and was offered for air transport by a Dutch shipper, however upon inspection it was discovered that UN Specification packaging had not been used and the UN number and Proper Shipping Name were not visible on the packagings. In addition the dangerous goods transport document had not been completed correctly. The Dutch shipper had only changed the shipper and consignee details and issued a new dangerous goods transport document, therefore it appeared that the original shipper had not prepared the consignment in full compliance of the Regulations. Further to an investigation by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement department, the shipper received a Formal Caution.

Undeclared dangerous goods found in mail. During security screening, a flyer pouch was found to contain 5 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 2 x 15ml of undeclared Paint related material, UN1263. The pouch contained one inner box, which was marked with UN1950 in an ADR diamond. The outer pouch was marked with UN1950 and UN1263 in an ADR diamond but the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Advised by shipper that this was again an error on the part of the courier company, as the consignment was marked and labelled for road/sea transport, in addition the shipper had provided the courier company with a dangerous goods transport document for sea transport. Letter sent to courier company. In response, the courier company advised that they have contacted the General Manager responsible for the company involved to ensure a further incident does not occur and that all depot staff are fully briefed on the incident. The courier company have also advised that they only allow four of their customers the ability to send consignments by air and that this does not include this particular shipper. All staff have been fully briefed on this issue and are aware that disciplinary action will be taken if the instructions are not Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a large quantity of smoke detectors which should have been classified as Radioactive material, excepted package - articles, UN2911. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. An investigation carried out by Hong Kong authorities found that although the shipper had received a license to ship the smoke detectors, they were unaware that there were additional dangerous goods requirements that needed to be met. The Hong Kong authorities reminded the shipper of the requirement to declare dangerous goods appropriately.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 8g of Environmentally hazardous substance, solid, n.o.s. (Zinc sulphate 7-hydrate) and 1 x 7.5g of Environmentally hazardous substance, solid, n.o.s. (Copper (II) sulphate 5-hydrate), UN3077. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder. In response, the company provided evidence that their customer had signed a statement that the consignment did not contain dangerous goods. The company also provided an information sheet concerning dangerous goods that they said is provided to their customers. In addition, the freight forwarder advised that they would be providing dangerous goods training to their staff. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain a 150ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Letter sent to agent. In response, the agent advised that they are aware of the regulations and advise their clients on their website about dangerous goods. They also advised that they send their consignment as unknown, so they would be x-rayed by the operator. Further information sent to agent. No further CAA action required.

Shipment declared as 'vacutainer - not restricted' remained uncollected by consignee, upon closer inspection of the document attached to the air waybill it was suspected that the consignment contained Biological substance, Category B, UN3373. Referred to Lithuania Authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Non-dangerous goods incorrectly labelled. Upon unloading of the helicopter, a UN specification drum was noticed to be marked and labelled as containing flammable liquid and also bore a Cargo Aircraft Only handling label. However, no NOTOC had been raised for the flight and dangerous goods was not indicated on the manifest. Further investigation found that the drum only contained mud samples and did not contain dangerous goods, but that the inappropriate dangerous goods markings and labelling had not been removed. Furthermore, those handling the drum prior to flight and loading the helicopter failed to notice the markings and labelling in order to prevent it from being loaded. It was confirmed that those involved had received dangerous goods training prior to the incident. As a result of the incident, the applicable personnel were briefed on the incident and the need to remove inappropriate labelling. A formal 'Memo' was also issued to staff advising the importance of the correct manifesting and labelling of aircraft freight. All staff have had to sign that they have read and understood the contents of the memo. No further CAA action required.
Documentation error. During freight checks, it was found that one piece of cargo (8L of Paint related material, UN1263,) that was documented to be flown on passenger aircraft, was cargo aircraft only. The air waybill did not state cargo aircraft only in the specified field. The freight had previously travelled via road and freighter. Further information requested from the operator advised that staff had been interviewed and reminded of the seriousness of handling all dangerous goods especially cargo aircraft only to ensure that they are not flown on passenger aircraft. The incident was not reported to the FAA as the error was in the booking and not in the shipment. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2009-0840. Letter sent to shipper. In response the shipper confirmed that it was the same employee who had been involved in both incidents. As a solution, the employee has been advised to source products in Ireland for future consignments. The shipper has circulated information on sending goods by air to all relevant staff. Staff have been informed that future occurrence will result in disciplinary action. A subsequent letter confirmed that no goods would be forwarded for air transport. No further CAA action required.

Additional Note:

Leakage of dangerous goods from incorrectly packed consignment. During flight build on a transiting flight a leakage was discovered emanating from fibreboard boxes declared as containing Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., (Agathosma betulina), UN3082. Further inspection found that each box contained a 10L aluminium inner packaging, but since they were too tall for the outer packaging, they had been laid down inside the boxes to fit and therefore were not in accordance with the orientation markings. A leakage had occurred from the caps of several containers and had soaked through the outer packaging. Loading error. Upon arrival it was discovered that a consignment containing Dry ice, UN1845, had not been secured correctly within the hold. Further to an investigation by the operator the staff responsible for the incident were interviewed and reminded that Safety and Security of the aircraft should not be compromised. The staff were reissued the 'Read and Sign' for loaders and the incident has been noted on their personal files. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During unloading, a consignment containing Dry ice, UN1845 was found unsecured in the hold. Further to an investigation by the operator the staff were interviewed and reminded that Safety and Security of their aircraft should not be compromised. The were asked to generate 'read and sign' for loaders and qualified team. The incident has been put on the staffs local files. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During unloading it was discovered that an electric wheelchair was switched on. The LED type display that indicates how much power is remaining in the battery was illuminated, on pushing the lever forward the wheelchair began moving. Following an investigation by the Operator, the Service Delivery Manager in Orlando has spoken to both the loading supervisor and ramp manager and have been reminded that staff accepting electric wheelchairs must confirm with the passenger that they are switched off and protected from inadvertent operation. Gate staff have been briefed. Operator has been sent FODCOM 45/2008 to highlight this further to the Service Delivery Manager. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 2 x 500ml of undeclared Alcoholic beverages, UN3065 and a bottle of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Leakage of dangerous goods from incorrectly packed consignment. During flight build on a transiting flight, a leakage was discovered emanating from fibreboard boxes declared as containing Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., (Agathosma betulina), UN3082. Further inspection found that each box contained a 10L aluminium inner packaging, but since they were too tall for the outer packaging, they had been laid down inside the boxes in order to fit. There was inadequate absorbent material used and therefore the aluminium inners were not in accordance with the orientation markings. A leakage had occurred from the caps of several containers and had soaked through the outer packaging. Further to an investigation by the South African authorities for a similar incident - 2010-0011 - they advised that they had received details of corrective measures from the agent concerned to ensure that further incidents of this nature would not occur again. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x lighter, UN1057, 2 x canisters of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993, 1 x Aerosol, flammable, UN1950, 2 x 100ml and 2 x unknown size of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder. In response, the company provided evidence that their customer had signed a statement that the consignment did not contain dangerous goods. The company also provided an information sheet concerning dangerous goods that they said is provided to their customers. In addition, the freight forwarder advised that they would be providing dangerous goods training to their staff. No further CAA action necessary.

NOTOC error. During pre-departure cargo check a package labelled as containing Lithium ion batteries was discovered. On checking the NOTOC there was no reference to this consignment. The pallet was offloaded and a new load sheet was prepared. Following an investigation by the Operator, it was confirmed that the consignment met Section II requirements of packing instruction 965 and was declared on the Air waybill. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Upon arrival it was discovered that a fluid, identified as Corrosive liquid, toxic, n.o.s., UN2922, had leaked within a passenger's luggage and into the aircraft hold. On inspection 6 x 1L bottles were recovered along with cables, tools and a power supply. The Fire Service attended, and the crew were evacuated from the aircraft. The passenger was contacted, and confirmation of the contents of the bottles was obtained from his company. The goods were requested to be detained but were disposed by the local authorities. The passenger details have not been established as the flight booking was made through the internet by a third party, therefore no further CAA action possible.

2010-0143 22/01/2010 Tenerife, Canary Islands

Loading error leading to spillage. During unloading, a consignment was found leaking what appeared to be oil and had leaked over several items of passenger luggage and on the hold floor. The oil was believed to be gear box oil. The operator contacted the shipper for further information who advised that the crate had contained car parts, including a gear box that contained non dangerous transmission oil. They also stated that the contents would only had leaked from the consignment if the crate had been turned upside down, it was noted that the crate did not bear any orientation labels. Further investigation by the operator indicated that upon loading and tying down of the consignment there was no visual sign of any damage or leakage from the consignment. It would appeared that the consignment had been turned upside down, causing it to leak during transit, it was also possible that the filler cap had not been secured inside the package. The shipper was contacted to ensure that orientation labels were placed on future consignments to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 cylinder of Compressed gas, oxidising, n.o.s., UN3156. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2010-0032 22/01/2010 Birmingham

Dangerous goods leakage. When handling a consignment of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s. (xanthogen polysulphide), UN3082, it was discovered that a plastic drum was leaking from the base. Approximately 300ml had leaked onto the surrounding floor and shrink wrap. The material safety data sheets were referred to and the drum was isolated from further handling, and the leaked liquid was soaked up with absorbent material. It was suspected that the damage was caused by a nail protruding through the pallet. The shipper made arrangements for a replacement, and removed the damaged drum. Appropriate action by shipper and handling agent - no further CAA action necessary.

Shipper error. Upon receipt part of a large consignment was found damaged, on checking the balance it was discovered that there was no absorbent material within the packaging. Shipper was contacted who advised that the absorbent material was not required, and forwarded the VCA certificate. Further advice was sought from the VCA who confirmed that the approval for this packaging is in suspension, and has not been authorised for production since 2007, and that the goods were mis-packed. Interim warning letter sent to shipper. Further to an investigation by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement Department, the shipper was sent a warning letter. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error leading to operator error. During check-in, a passenger queried whether they were permitted to carry disposable Lighters, UN1057, in hold luggage - the check-in agent advised that this was acceptable. However, the passenger was still unsure and checked with cabin crew, who after referring, the issue to the Captain, was advised of the correct procedure. The aircraft was unloaded and the passenger's bag located, so that the lighter could be removed. The check-in agent was interviewed by a team manager and the supervisor on shift and they ensured the agent fully understood the error. The incident has been logged onto the check-in agents personal file for future reference. Appropriate action taken by operator, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival there was evidence of fuel leaking from generators (Dangerous goods in machinery, UN3363), following further inspection it was noted that there were batteries attached. Some fuel remained within the generators and the ignition keys were still in place. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The operator and handling agent are carrying out internal investigations. Results of their investigation received. Freight forwarder visited. Letter sent to freight forwarders and shipper requesting information. Response received from one freight forwarder advising that they will now be training their staff and that their customers are required to sign a declaration stating that the consignment does not contain dangerous goods. Response received from additional freight forwarder advising that they will be training their staff and are putting a process in place to ensure recurrent training. Warning letter sent from Manager of the Dangerous Goods Office to the shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.
Suspected undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x 25ml of undeclared Corrosive liquid, acidic, inorganic, n.o.s., (potassium dichromate perchloric acid), UN3264. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Investigation by the Netherlands authorities advised that they visited the shipper and found that the fluid involved contained only 1% of the potassium dichromate (Corrosive liquid, acidic, inorganic, n.o.s.) with 99% water. Because the shipper was unsure how to classify the product, the shipper marked the product as “potassium dichromate”. The shipper was seeking advice from a laboratory regarding the proper classification of the substance, albeit unlikely to be classified as dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. A consignment delivered to the consignee for servicing and recalibration was found to contain undeclared Radioactive material, Type A package, special form, UN3332. The consignment had not been marked or labelled and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The consignment was found that it had been incorrectly declared when the copy import documents from the importer were requested. The consignment was transported back to its origin but complied with the dangerous goods requirements. Referred to the Nigerian authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Dangerous goods leakage. Upon arrival, a consignment of 25L of Paint, UN1263, was found leaking. The consignment was marked and labelled as dangerous goods and accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. An audit conducted of the shipper established the goods were dispatched in the same condition as received, i.e. they had not filled and closed the drum. It transpired that the shipper’s supplier had damaged a drum of paint and sought a replacement empty drum from the paint manufacturer. Once received they decanted the contents of the damaged drum into the new drum which was sent by road to the shipper. The test certificate for the UN Specification drum shipped stipulated the use of specific closures tightened to a specific torque measurement. It is understood that the shipper’s supplier did not hold the package test certificate at the time of closing the new drum. It is probable, therefore, that the leak that occurred in-flight was caused by over or under tightening of the closure resulting in the paint venting from the drum due to the pressure differential during flight. Letter sent to the shipper’s supplier informing them of their responsibilities under the ICAO Technical Instructions, ADR and IMDG Code. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box containing 2 inner boxes was found to contain 2 x 500ml and 1 x 1000ml bottles of undeclared Printing ink, UN1210 and 2 x 500ml bottles of undeclared Flammable liquid, UN1993. The inner boxes were marked with UN1210 and flammable label and the 1000ml bottle was marked with UN1210 but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who confirmed that prior to the incident, their employees had not been provided with any dangerous goods training, but that this would be provided shortly. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box containing 2 petrol powered lawnmowers (Engines, internal combustion) UN3166 and the other 2 boxes contained 2 battery powered lawn-mowers one of which was classified as Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment (UN3481). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further to an investigation by the Hong Kong authorities they advised that the handling agent and security staff required further dangerous goods training. The shipper was referred to another organisation in Hong Kong for possible further investigation. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During freight checks, a consignment of Dry ice, UN1845 was found unsecured in the hold. Further information requested from operator advised that a general reminder to all staff has been issued. The head loader on the flight must receive a brief before continuing with his role. No further CAA action required.

Loading error leading to NOTOC error. During freight checks, 2 pallets of dangerous goods were loaded, which were not included on the NOTOC. Another NOTOC was issued. Further information from the operator advised that the normal process wasn’t followed, which resulted in the NOTOC not being emailed to the location. Upon arrival of the flight the error was noticed and the discrepancy between the two NOTOCs were noticed and new NOTOC was immediately prepared. The operator understand that the process partly failed but because they have a catch-net in place the error was rectified. The procedures have been reviewed and additional safeguards have been put into place. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 2Kg Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. During freight checks, a consignment was found to contain Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., UN2811. The consignment had been loaded onto the aircraft, however no dangerous goods paperwork accompanied the consignment, in addition they were not shown on the NOTOC. Further information from the operator advised that the incident appeared to be an error on part of the flight planning staff. The report states that dangerous goods (toxic) and AVI (an animal) were due to be loaded in the same hold. The load control agent identified this and took the dangerous goods off the flight and therefore were not shown on the NOTOC. The cargo agent was unaware of this and sent the dangerous goods to the aircraft for loading, this meant that due to the lack of a NOTOC the dangerous goods were off loaded. This incident occurred due to flight planners failure to identify that this particular items of dangerous goods could not be loaded with an AVI. Flight planning staff should have been aware of this; they have been reminded in future to check the cargo consignment compatibility prior to closing the flight. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods leading to Cargo Aircraft Only dangerous goods being carried on a passenger aircraft. During flight build, a large steel drum was found to have borne a 'Cargo Aircraft Only' label and a faded 'Dangerous when wet' hazard label. The drum was also labelled to contain 0.009 Kg of UN1407; Caesium. It transpired that the substance was contained within apparatus, however, as Division 4.3 Packing Group I is not permitted by Packing Instruction 916 the item could not be classified as dangerous goods in apparatus UN3363. Caesium is forbidden for carriage on passenger aircraft. Incident referred to Norwegian authorities for further investigation. Norwegian authorities advised that they would take appropriate action. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods found in mail. During security screening, 6 crates were each found to contain a Battery, wet, filled with acid, UN2974, a Fire extinguisher, UN1044 and a tank, which was believed to contain petrol, UN1203. The crates were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letters sent to shipper and freight agent. In response, the shipper advised that they would normally send the consignment by sea. However, because of urgency the consignment was sent by air but the packing specification for sea freight was used and certain internal procedures were not followed. To prevent further incidents occurring the shipper have arranged for their staff to be trained. They have also reviewed their agents to ensure that they are competent. Further information from the agent advised that because of the size of the consignment they arranged a sub-contractor to collect the consignment. Letter sent to the sub-contracted agent who responded advising that their driver, who holds full ADR training, was assured that the tanks did not contain any fuel and had been flushed. The driver did not notice the batteries or extinguishers. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly offloaded dangerous goods from aircraft. During freight checks, it was believed that several gross errors in quantities of dangerous goods were loaded on an aircraft. A scruffily written NOTOC revealed several dangerous goods loaded onto an aircraft which were believed to be over the quantity allowed. All NOTOC items were removed at the Captains instruction. Further information from the operator advised that the consignment had been packed in compliance with the regulations and that the Captain had incorrectly offloaded the dangerous goods because he misunderstood the regulations. Information has been provided to their Safety team to correct the Captains understanding and Crew Notice has been sent out. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3480. The consignment was correctly marked in accordance with the correct packing instruction but it had been placed in an unmarked courier bag, the courier tag also contained no information. The consignment was not declared on the invoice and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The operator does not carry any dangerous goods in courier consignments and the courier was reminded of this. The operator has investigated and staff have been made aware of their error in accepting this consignment. They have been re-trained to prevent this from happening again. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During freight checks, dangerous goods were found unsecured in a container. Upon closer inspection it was found that the loose items bore orientation labels. The container wasn't full, therefore, it is believed that the items would have moved during flight. Further information from the operator advised that it was not possible to trace the exact member of staff involved in this incident, therefore, the staff have all been advised that dangerous goods must be secured in the units regardless of the volume of freight loaded into the unit. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain an inner box containing 12 x 450ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The inner box was marked with an ADR diamond with UN1950 printed inside and each aerosol was marked with Si/1950 but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that they were unaware that the consignment would travel by air. They were unaware of the regulations, however, further information was given to them from their agent and their staff have now received the training required in the identification of correct packaging and labelling of dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening of a consolidation of several pieces, a corrosive hazard warning label was noticed through some shrink-wrapping. Further inspection found that one of the consignments consisted of 4 x plastic jerricans of Corrosive liquid n.o.s., UN1760, but they were not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The consignment was returned to the courier company that delivered it to the airport, but the same jerricans were re-presented the following day, still undeclared and shrink-wrapped. Reports also suggested that the hazard labels had been turned inwards so that they were not immediately visible, but this was not confirmed. An investigation by the courier company concerned found that when the consignment had been returned to them the first time, it had not been quarantined and the company’s computerised freight booking system had not been updated to explain why the consignment had been rejected by the handling agent. As a consequence, the consignment was re-assigned to another master air waybill and re-delivered for carriage by air. It was verified that the staff concerned had all received dangerous goods training within the previous 24 months as required. As a result of the incident, the courier company amended its Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 3 x 1L glass bottles of Petroleum distillates, n.o.s., UN1268. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The bottles were marked with UN3295, flammable, irritant and danger to the environment labels. The Italian authorities performed an inspection of the agents facility and found no major findings. The agents procedures for the management of dangerous goods were found to be in compliance. However, the agent are reviewing their procedures for the acceptance of dangerous goods to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain dangerous goods, these are either to be classified as Ethanol solution UN1170 or ID8000 Consumer commodity. The reporter has not opened the consignment. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Incident has been reported to the French Authorities for further investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 400ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The outer box was marked with a UN1950 ADR label and was also marked as 'by road'. The box bore no other dangerous goods markings or labelling and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to agent. In response, the agent advised that the staff member identified as incorrectly sending the dangerous goods, had been in employment with the agent for number of years, but had recently transferred from the night shift to the day shift. They confirmed that all of their staff members receive dangerous goods training, however, the night shift have little involvement in the processing of dangerous goods. A new process has been put into place to ensure that any staff member transferring from night to day shifts would receive refresher dangerous goods training. In addition, an external course has also been booked for all senior members of staff to attend. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival, fibreboard boxes containing 1L of Paint, UN1263, 1L of Toluene, UN1294, 1L of Xlenes, UN1307 and 1L of Ethyl methyl ketone, UN1193 were found unsecured in the hold. The consignment was intact and there was no sign of spillage. Further to an investigation by the operator, the staff member involved was interviewed. It was found that the member of staff had received dangerous goods training but not for tying and lashing. The appropriate training to handle dangerous goods must be received by the staff member and his performance monitored for three months. No further CAA action required. DUPLICATE OF 2010-0482.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 250ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The aerosols were shrinked wrapped and bore a printed ADR black and white diamond, with UN1950. An invoice was attached to the consignment which declared the consignment as non hazardous. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to warehousing company requesting explanation of their involvement who responded and advised that the incident occurred because of an administration error. The company are aware of the regulations and receive regular training courses every two years from an approved training company. The department involved in the error have been advised of the incident and reminded of the importance on ensuring documentation is correct.

No further CAA action required.
Loading error. During unloading, a consignment containing Biological substance, category B; UN3373 packed with Dry ice; UN1845 was found unsecured in the bulk hold. The cargo was safely removed. The operator has investigated the incident and concluded the local overseas ground handling staff were not following its instructions, they were also not aware of reporting the incident to the local authorities, this has since been done. All ground personnel have now been made aware of the correct processes and the operator is looking into providing cameras to document such incidents. It was also discovered that a pallet had been incorrectly located in position 31. The pallet had been built in such a way that it had been bent to lock and took five cargo staff to safely remove it from the hold. No further CAA action required.

Dangerous goods leakage. During flight, when a passenger was receiving medical attention in the forward galley, it was noticed that their cigarette lighter started to leak, with associated odour. The cabin crew followed dangerous goods incident procedures to ensure no spillage and secured the lighter. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During unloading a consignment of 0.63L of flammable liquid, n.o.s. (Glycerin, solution) was found unsecured in the bulk hold. Operator confirmed the currency of dangerous goods training for the personnel concerned and had them read and sign information regarding the securing of dangerous goods. No further CAA action necessary.

Loading error. Prior to loading, loading staff noticed that a consignment of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993 was unsecured within a Unit Load Device so the ULD was returned to the cargo facility. Personnel that built the container were interviewed and claimed the dangerous goods were secured. Cargo build personnel were briefed on build quality and securing dangerous goods in particular. Dangerous goods build errors continue to be highlighted within weekly communications. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a generator, which had leaked an unknown fluid. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further investigation from the reporter advised that a battery was found loose inside the box. Referred to the Algerian authorities for investigation. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon landing, a passenger advised that they had loaded a 3.9Kg gas cylinder containing Propane, UN1978 into the aircraft hold. The NOTOC, which had been completed, was handed to the pilot after the flight. There had been no communication from the passengers and it was not noted on the worksheet plan that dangerous goods would be carried. The crewman, who assisted the loading of the hold advised that he only saw unmarked bags, nothing with dangerous goods markings. Following further investigation it was found that although the carriage of Propane, UN1978 is forbidden on passenger flights, this flight was not a passenger flight. The shipper has been visited and the company are amending their procedures they have also issued a safety notice to remind personnel of their responsibilities. No further CAA necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 4 x 75ml and 1 x 150ml Perfumery products, UN1266 and 1 x 70ml, 1 x 60ml, 1 x 50ml and 1 x 100ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder who responded saying they have revised their paperwork and now hand search personal effects, removing any dangerous goods, before forwarding them for transport. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error leading to undeclared dangerous goods. During unloading of passenger baggage, the ground handling staff observed white paint on some of the luggage and also on the cargo bay floor. The local fire service and the operators engineer attended. The bag from which the paint had emanated from was identified and placed in a plastic container. There was no damage to the aircraft and after cleaning, the aircraft was released to service. Letter sent to passenger. No further CAA action required.

Loading error leading to suspected non-compliance error. During freight checks, the NOTOC showed dangerous classes 3 and 5.1 had been loaded in the same unit loading device compartment. The operators loading manual states that these classes should not be stowed adjacent to each other. The items were removed from the aircraft prior to departure. Further information from the operator advised that the classes had been loaded into the same unit but not adjacent to each, which comply with the regulations. The information has been relayed to the loading teams but further clarification is to be advised. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. Prior to loading a pallet was noticed to bear a dangerous goods identification tag whereas the loading instructions did not indicate that dangerous goods were to be loaded. Upon investigation it was established that the pallet bearing the motorbikes had travelled inbound together with a pallet of garments. The General Sales Agent at the station of origin had mixed up the pallet identification codes assigned to these two consignments leading to the motorbikes being delivered to the outbound flight rather than terminating as intended. The NOTOC for the inbound flight was checked and the loading position of the motorbikes was correctly recorded. No further CAA action necessary.

NOTOC and manifest error. Upon arrival, three pieces of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993 arrived, which were not listed on the NOTOC or cargo manifest. Further investigation by the handling agent advised that the items had been loaded in error. The items had been previously snagged but they had not been labelled as STOP, which is required by the procedures. The staff also did not inform the warehouse that the two booked shipments were snagged when the load sheets were returned they were not checked. The staff members involved have received disciplinary proceedings for their errors. The operator have also investigated and found that their staff also require further training. No further CAA action required.

2010-0517 09/04/2010 Amsterdam

Loading error. On arrival in Manchester it was discovered that five dry cell battery powered wheelchairs were found to have been loaded in Lourdes with their power supplies still on. Advised by the operator that the keys were still in the wheelchairs and that they were not protected from inadvertent activation. The operator immediately informed the ground handling company. A debriefing by the operators ground operations manager will be held and a complete audit/observation on the handling agent will take place with retraining if necessary. No further CAA action required.

Further information sent to agent. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During an unannounced audit by a foreign authority in Leipzig a unit load device (ULD) carrying Radioactive Material, Type A package, UN2915 was inspected. The ULD was not volumetrically full and the dangerous goods were not secured using ropes or lashing. As a result of the occurrence, all personnel involved with the loading of dangerous goods at the station of origin attended a Dangerous Goods Lashing refresher course. A Newsletter was also sent throughout the operator's network advising of the incident and reminding all staff of the requirement to secure shipments during loading. Appropriate action by agent, therefore, no further CAA action necessary.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box with inner boxes was found to contain 12 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. One of the inner boxes was marked with an ADR diamond, displaying UN1950 but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a Compressed gas, n.o.s., (Argon , Carbon Dioxide 2.2) UN1956 cylinder. The cylinder bore a non-flammable gas label and was marked with the proper shipping name and UN1956, but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods. No dangerous goods transport document accompanied the consignment. Letter sent to shipper. Warning letter sent from Manager of the Dangerous Goods Office to the shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard containing inner boxes was found to contain 48 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The inner boxes were marked with an ADR UN1950 but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised the consignment was meant to travel by sea, however, the marked inner boxes were incorrectly placed into the outer box. The shipper are retraining their staff involved in the despatch process in the current regulations regarding the transportation of dangerous goods. They have amended their procedures for all consignments being sent offshore, which will updated in their quality manual. No further CAA action required.

Non occurrence, undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 20 x 50ml Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded explaining it was an error on their part, procedures have been reviewed to ensure specialist couriers are used for any future shipments. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, part of a consignment was found to contain 50 metal cylinders of Carbon dioxide, UN1013. The consignment as a whole did have declared dangerous goods but this part of the consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the French authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 150ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The outer fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as dangerous goods but 2 of the inner boxes were each marked with an ADR UN1950 hazard diamond. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2010-0521. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During freight checks, a consignment containing Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082 was found unsecured in a container. The loading team were advised to offload the container and return to cargo for checking and correct packing. Following an investigation by the Operator, it appears that the unit was built in Manchester and trucked to Heathrow. Relevant staff at Manchester have been spoken to and a sign off memo has been issued to all warehouse staff informing them of the need to restrain DGs and the potential consequences if this isn’t done. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a wooden box was found to contain 3 metal cylinders of Flammable solid, organic, n.o.s. (contains Iron Oxide and Aluminium) UN1325. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Angolian authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Loading error and NOTOC error. During freight checks, dangerous goods were found unsecured in the bulk hold. The dangerous goods were offloaded. The load team were spoken to and reminded to secure the load correctly. Whilst the aircraft was pushing back the head loader advised that he had loaded some Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The Lithium ion batteries were noted on the original NOTOC but did not show on the revised NOTOC. The aircraft was called back and the Lithium ion batteries which were fully marked and labeled were off loaded. The batteries were checked by the dangerous goods co-ordinator and found to be in order although the air waybill was not correctly annotated. The shipper and member of staff dealing with this booking has been spoken to with regards to correctly completing the air waybill. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a blow-torch with a gas cylinder (Butane, UN2037). The canister bore a flammable consumer marking however the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box containing an inner box was found to contain 12 x 140g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The inner box was marked with UN1950 and the flammable label was displayed on the aerosols but the outer fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. <td>Mis-loaded dangerous goods leading to unmanifested dangerous goods. During freight checks, a pallet was discovered to be weighing a different amount to the published figure. The unit was called down and found to contain an unmanifested dangerous goods consignment, Consumer commodity ID 8000. The consignment was destined to travel to a different location to that of the load device so not only would it not arrive at the correct location it would also have traveled as unmanifested. The loading staff went via the manifest and not by the loading tag so the consignment traveled to the incorrect location and had to be trucked on. The operator has investigated and concluded that the issue occurred when the consignment was loaded during transit to its final location onto a pallet and the pallet numbers were crossed, the original air waybill manifested in error onto a different pallet. This has been addressed with the handling agent, who in turn have communicated it to their staff. No further CAA action required.</td>

Loading error. During offload in Dusseldorf, a dangerous goods consignment of 20 plastic drums containing UN1263/UN3077/UN3288 was found to be inadequately secured. The agent’s investigation established that the load was secured but the ropes used had slipped from the load during transport. When the cargo was presented it was not accompanied by a fork lift that was required to load it as a palletised load into the doorway of the hold. In eagerness to get the job done the staff broke to load down. Moving forward, procedures have been established that heavy loads must be presented on a pallet and a forklift must be made available. Failure will result in non shipment. Load securing forms part of the agent’s “narrow body” and “wide body” loading modules and dispatch training modules. The supervisory grades on the ramp and in dispatch are undergoing a bespoke supervisory module that will reinforce the need to ensure that safe standards are met and define their responsibilities for the roles they hold. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 100ml Perfumery Products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During freight checks, a fibreboard box with inner boxes was found to contain undeclared Potassium nitrate, UN1486. The inner boxes clearly displayed a white diamond with UN1486. The outer box has a label stating Potassium Nitrate. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Ghana authorities for investigation. Response from Ghana advising that they have advised persons involved that they must receive dangerous goods training. Investigation also undertaken by operator who advise that the Potassium Nitrate was bought off the self and used as a preservative for the non hazardous items. Operators agent was not aware that potassium nitrate was dangerous goods. The agent has been warned verbally and in writing that future shipments must be declared and packed correctly. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 41 Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.
Baggage process error leading to loading error. Upon arrival, a passenger's mobility appliance was unloaded from the hold, damaged. The mobility aid, which contained high capacity batteries, was severely damaged by the baggage process, it had fallen out of a transportation vehicle whilst in transit to the aircraft which left exposed wiring. The batteries had been disconnected prior to travel and the damage was reported to the team ramp manager, however, the decision was taken to load the item in a baggage container. The captain was not informed. Operator has investigated the situation and interviewed the team ramp manager. The team ramp manager is being monitored. A process is being written to address the transportation of such mobility aids. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and Consumer commodity ID800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Photos are of a very poor quality, therefore not provided. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box within a larger palletised consignment was found to contain 5 x 1L steel tins of Paint, UN1263. The outer box was marked with a white diamond and the UN number and it also had a MSDS attached but the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document for air transport. Investigation by the shipper's DGSA found that the consignment had been properly prepared and documented for road and sea transport, but whilst being processed by the freight forwarder, the transport document was separated from the consignment, and the handlers who built the pallet failed to notice that the box was marked as dangerous goods, resulting in it being offered for air transport. Letter sent to freight forwarder. Letter received from Administrators - freight forwarder has gone into administration. No further CAA action required.

Shipper error leading to undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a Life-saving appliance, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further to an investigation by the shipper, it was confirmed that the carbon dioxide canister should have been removed from the life-jacket prior to sending and was left in the life jacket by accident. Appropriate action taken, therefore no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a large fibreboard box was found to contain two inner fibreboard boxes, one contained non dangerous goods, the other contained 12 Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The inner box containing the aerosols was marked with a diamond and UN1950 as well as consumer labels but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment as a whole was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following an investigation by CAA Air Regulation Enforcement Department, the Dangerous Goods Office sent a letter to the shipper. The shipper responded and advised that they have amended their procedures and retrained their staff. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a cylinder of Carbon Dioxide, UN1013. The invoice accompanying the consignment stated that the cylinder was empty but upon inspection it was found that it still contained gas. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Response from shipper confirmed that the cylinder had been accidentally left in the consignment as a new member of staff had not followed the appropriate procedures. The shipper has put extra safeguards in place to ensure that another such incident does not occur again. No further CAA action required.

2010-0569 19/05/2010 Heathrow

Loading Error. During unloading cargo, dry ice was found unsecured in hold 5. The operator has investigated and reported that the ramp supervisor did not fully carry out his duties and was not suitably supervised. The loaders were also not supplied with ropes/spreaders in order to tie the cargo down. Corrective action has taken place to ensure the procedures are correctly followed and the staff are supervised and provided with the equipment needed in advance of the flight landing. Paperwork must be correctly annotated to show dangerous goods need to be tied down and loading staff are to look out for this in the future with the ramp supervisor signing the NOTOC to ensure the items have been correctly restrained in hold 5. No further CAA action required.

2010-0558 19/05/2010 Birmingham

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading two containers were found to contain unsecured dangerous goods. Both containers were subsequently offloaded and returned to cargo. The NOTOC was manually changed. The operator interviewed the build team and shift leader, they did not recall building the units in an unsafe manor. They were shown photos of the unsecured goods and a report has been placed on their files. They have been advised that if they are involved in any further incidents disciplinary action will be taken. All staff are experienced in the task they were carrying out and all their training is up to date. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During loading, ramp staff were alerted to the smell of petrol coming from passengers baggage. Security staff were called and a passenger’s bag was found to contain a petrol powered chainsaw. The passengers baggage was in transit and evidence was found that some petrol had leaked within the suitcase. The baggage was offloaded and seized, whilst the passenger continued on his journey but he was later arrested. Further to an investigation by the Dangerous Goods Office the chainsaw tank was found to contain petrol, despite claims that it was empty. The operator investigated further and the agents who worked the flight were retrained and observed by supervisors for one week, a memo has also been sent to security and a read and sign put into place. Following an investigation by the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement Department, the passenger, after initially pleading not-guilty, pleaded guilty at Court to a breach of the Air Navigation (Dangerous Goods) Regulations. The passenger was given a conditional discharge and ordered to pay £1,000 prosecution costs.

Loading Error. During freight checks, two dangerous goods consignments, one containing Paint, UN1263 and the other Organic peroxide, UN3105 were found to be loose within a bin. They were only secured from the top, not the sides ,so were able to move and possibly disorientate. The two pieces were removed and tied down in hold five. The bin was built by a night crew but they do not recall the build. They have been reminded to load and restrain dangerous goods correctly a poster campaign is being devised to remind staff about the correct dangerous goods loading techniques. Ramp staff upon discovering any such consignments will also try and take photographs in order to assist in future training. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 2 wooden boxes was found to contain 58 Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Turkish authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 23 x 240ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 400ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 5 x 200ml, a 250ml and a 500ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, 3 bottles of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993 and a box of Matches, safety, UN1944. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Shipper moved away, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During customs hall screening, a flask within a bag was found to contain Kerosene, UN1223. The passenger apologised for transporting dangerous goods and said he was unaware it was in his baggage. Referred to FAA for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 300ml Aerosol, flammable-UN1950 and 1 x 50ml and 6 x 5ml Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 3 x 300ml and 3 x 250ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 1 x 50ml Perfumery product UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 250ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 20 x 50ml Flammable liquid, toxic, UN1992. The aerosols were found inside an inner box, which was marked with an ADR UN1950 hazard diamond. Also contained in the outer box were bottles, which were marked with toxic and flammable consumer labels and UN1992. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that they had removed all dangerous goods items for sale, until staff had undergone the appropriate training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box containing inner boxes was found to contain 29 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The inner boxes were marked with ADR UN1950. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Handling error. When moving a consignment to screening, a forklift truck blade pierced one of two drums containing Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. The contents of the drum spilled onto the warehouse floor. The drum was laid on its side to stop the spillage and the hole was plugged. Airport authorities and emergency services were called but as the spillage was contained they were satisfied that no further action was required by them. Appropriate action taken by the handling agent therefore no further CAA action required.

Loading Error. During loading, the load team leader spotted a dangerous goods sticker on a pallet. The dangerous goods consignment had not been documented on the NOTOC or LIRF. The cargo rep confirmed the consignment consisted of an Engine, internal combustion, UN3166. The system was updated and a revised NOTOC was issued. The pallet was loaded without delaying the flight. After investigation it was discovered that the engine was part of a consignment that was split, the first part traveled on the 4th June. During the split the dangerous goods element of the paperwork was missed out in error. The agent who split the booking was not trained in split dangerous goods booking procedures and as a preventative method all such agents have now been trained in the correct booking of dangerous goods consignments to prevent future re-occurrence. Furthermore customer service staff have been advised to check all parts of the bookings as part of the dangerous goods acceptance processes to ensure the correct marks and details have been included in each part of the record. No further CAA action required.

Loading Error. During loading, a unit was removed as it contained unchecked dangerous goods. The consignment was returned to cargo and checked by the dangerous goods co-ordinator. After investigation the operator reported that the dangerous goods had been missed due to human error, as it fell out of the unit and was replaced after the check was carried out. The staff member responsible has undergone dangerous goods training and been made aware of the potential consequences of his actions. The error was discovered when staff were checking the flight documentation. No further CAA action required.
Loading Error, during a CAA inspection a dangerous goods inspector noticed a significantly dented metal drum containing dangerous goods within the warehouse. After investigation it was found that the drum had been carried insecurely, unmanifested and without being recorded on a NOTOC. There are two consignments one with Lithium Metal Batteries UN3091 and the other with Lithium Batteries packed with equipment UN3090, both display Cargo Aircraft Only labels. Operator has spoken to the carrier who has investigated and discovered the packing company used the wrong labels, they have made efforts to prevent re-occurrence. The freight forwarders did not check incoming dangerous goods consignments but have now implemented a process for future consignments. The operator was unable to discover why the items were not flagged up upon arrival with them. The load builders are all dangerous goods trained and have been interviewed but they are unable to find out why the labels were not noticed. They have all been reminded of the importance to check packages for dangerous goods labels and the potential consequences of the failure to carry out this task. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 3 fibreboard boxes containing inner boxes were found to contain 66 x 750ml of undeclared Aerosols, UN1950. The inner boxes were marked with an ADR UN1950 label and the aerosols bore a flammable and irritant consumer label but the outer boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded identifying two root causes. This has resulted in staff retraining in dangerous goods and a restriction on the IT system to ensure the order cannot be processed incorrectly. Also management will check the consignments more frequently to prevent errors. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 1 litre Paint UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible due to a delay in reporting the incident.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During unloading, a consignment of dangerous goods was found loose within a loading unit. A UN specification fibreboard box had a slight indentation on a corner but the contents were not leaking. Following investigation by the operator it was advised that the staff member who loaded the item has had the consequences of a poor build quality and failure to secure dangerous goods explained to him and the incident recorded on his file. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 300ml undeclared Aerosol, flammable, UN1950 and a 5ml undeclared Organic peroxide type E, solid, UN3108. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a 4 fibreboard boxes containing inner boxes were found to contain 216 x 175ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The inner boxes were marked with an ADR UN1950 label but the outer boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper for 2010-0565, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 6 x 1L bottles of Ethanol (Klercide 70/30 Sterile Pharma) UN1170. The fibreboard box was marked with a UN1170 ADR LQ label and the bottles were marked with consumer labels. However, the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to agent who has responded and advised that the consignment was presented to them as non hazardous, an error made by their customer. Letter sent to shipper who responded advising that as their internal paperwork stated goods as non-hazardous and the package was sealed when submitted to logistics for shipment, the logistics staff took the information on face value. The shipper have a policy that 'Chemicals donot fly'. Their internal procedures have been amended and all consignments will be presented to logistics open, or logistics will open them before dispatch to check the nature of the consignments. No further CAA action required.

Loading Error. Upon arrival at Blackpool it was discovered that 6 unmanifested lifejackets (Life Saving Appliances, not self-inflating, UN3072) had been carried without complying with the Operator’s Approval and Exemption. The lifejackets had been stowed loose within the cabin of the helicopter (whereas they should have been been placed within a heavy-duty rubberised bag). The additional lifejackets should not have been loaded into the cabin as it was occupied by passengers. In response the Operator undertook to issue to its customers, a procedure for the carriage of additional lifejackets and rebreathers that complied with the conditions of the Approval and Exemption. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 9 fibreboard boxes were found to contain 108 x 240mls of undeclared Aerosols, flammable. UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Letter sent to agent who responded advising that they have spoken to their principals’ distribution company regarding the incident and have put further checks in place to ensure that all cargo is now checked on receipt. Further letter sent requesting info on training as this had not been provided as requested. Information now received. No further CAA action required.
Incorrect labelling of dangerous goods. Whilst loading a consignment of Lithium metal batteries, UN3091 the consignment was rejected as it carried “cargo aircraft only” labels and was marked as UN3090. Following investigation by the operator it was advised that the shipper’s packing company had incorrectly placed the “cargo aircraft only - CAO” labels and UN3090 on the outer box and that the shipper had not re-check the consignment on arrival from the packing company. In addition the operators staff assembling the consignment for flight did not notice the CAO labels. The shipper has advised that all consignment being returned from their packers will be checked. The operator’s staff who assembled the cargo for flight have been interviewed and reminded of the importance of the need to check packaged for DG labels. A safety briefing has also been displayed in the area where flights are assembled. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, a wooden box containing Kerosene, UN1223, was found unsecured within the hold. The rope used to tie down the box had become loose, which enabled the box to move and the lid to open. An additional two boxes had also been tied down with the same rope. There was no damage to the consignment. Both the operator and agent have investigated and interviewed both the ramp supervisor and staff member involved. It has been determined that the lashing was not tight enough. It was advised that although the loading supervisors all attend a four day course, including the tying down of dangerous goods, the loaders do not, and in view of this incident all loaders will attend a lashing course, this includes the loader from this incident. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 2 fibreboard boxes were found to contain 6 x 500ml, 6 x 400ml and 4 x 750ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The outer boxes were marked with ADR UN1950 LQ but the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During loading, a unit load device was found to contain undisclosed dangerous goods, Consumer commodity, ID8000. The dangerous goods were not documented on the air waybill, checksheet or NOTOC. The consignment had been manifested as general cargo. The documentation was not corrected before the shipment was carried. Further to an investigation, the operator and agent advised that checks had been put into place upon acceptance to prevent further incidents occurring. Disciplinary measures were taken with both staff members involved. The supervisor on duty will now be responsible for the signing of the flight check sheet in cases where the agent accepts and manifests the shipment. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival at Heathrow, goods described as a consolidation were discovered to include a gas cylinder, life rafts and flares. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Forwarded to the Australian authorities for further investigation. No further CAA action required.
Loading Error, Upon arrival a consignment of dangerous goods was found loose in compartment 2. The consignment, Diethylene Triamine, UN2079, was mixed with other cargo and not secured in place. The team leader was interviewed to ascertain his reason for not securing the dangerous goods, he stated the compartment was volumetrically full and that the goods were loaded in such a way as to prevent movement during flight. As this practice in now out of date he has been informed of the latest requirements and the need to tie down dangerous goods. The team leader and his team will be attending the latest version of dangerous goods training shortly. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Upon arrival, a passengers mobility scooter was found stowed in the cabin. The turnaround co-ordinator at the location had spoken to the flight service manager onboard the aircraft, who had been asked by ground staff whether the scooter could go in the cabin. The flight service manager had agreed but was unaware that a dry cell battery was attached. The cabin crew also didn’t notice that the scooter contained the battery. The handling agent at the departure airport have been contacted by the operator to provide them with a full report. The operator has also issued a crew notice to their cabin staff to highlight the issue of mobility aids and remind them of passenger and crew provisions. Referred to FAA for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 24 x 200ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. Each aerosol had a flammable and danger to the environment consumer label. The fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading error, whilst unloading it was discovered that an electric buggy, reported to have been securely tied down in the forward hold, was found unsecured in the rear hold. A battery was also found loose amongst other hold baggage without being properly protected or secured. Operator has investigated and action has been taken against the staff member responsible. It appears the Load Instruction Report was amended in different hand-writing and the loadsheet didn't specify that there was an electric wheelchair onboard. A Station Standing Instruction has been issued to address this incident. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading 4 boxes of Dry Ice, UN1845, were discovered unsecured in hold 5. The packages were not damaged. Both the primary and secondary crew leaders were interviewed and both thought the other was checking the hold but neither did. Both crew leaders understand the importance of securing dangerous goods and the dangers no securing the consignment might have caused, the hold 5 loaders were also spoken to and re-trained. No further CAA Action required.

During acceptance a consignment of undeclared mobile phones, Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3841 was turned away by the operator. The consignment consisted of 12 pieces weighing 1,760Kg and did not display Lithium battery labels or any details on the air waybill. The operator was expecting the consignment to be redelivered at a later date and would report on its status accordingly. Despite frequent correspondence with the agent the phones have not materialized. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a brown envelope was found to contain 2 x 100ml and a 50ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The envelope was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 4 inner boxes containing 49 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and an inner box split down further with 4 smaller inner boxes containing 24 x 50ml Adhesives, UN1133. The inner boxes containing the aerosols, were each marked with an ADR LQ UN1950 label but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Italian authorities, who have advised that following their investigation the incident is closed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 3 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a jiffy bag was found to contain 1 x 250ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured electric wheelchair. During unloading an electric wheelchair was found loose within the hold, it had not been secured or restrained. Operator interviewed the load crew and they explained the wheelchair had arrived late. They had moved some bags out of the hold in order to fit the wheelchair in and refitted the cargo net, they were satisfied that the hold was then volumetrically full. Upon arrival the crew dispute that the hold was full, but without photographic evidence there is no proof. Operator is reviewing dangerous goods training, tying and lashing policies to ensure that dangerous goods are always effectively secured and protected from damage. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, a consignment of Dry ice, UN1845, was found unsecured in the bulk hold. Although the package was not tied down, other parcels had been packed around it to prevent movement. The Loading Supervisor inspected the box and there was no evidence of spillage. Offloading commenced after the inspection. An operator investigated and found that the load team were in a rush to complete loading for an on-time departure and had incorrectly understood there was no dangerous goods in the bulk hold. The crew leader also believed that the hold was 3/4 full. The crew leader had undergone CBT training and would be more vigilant on future loads. The load team are fully aware of the operator’s policy to secure dangerous goods through tying/lashing rather than through compartments being volumetrically full. No further CAA action required.
Damaged dangerous goods. During loading, a box containing toxic substances was offloaded as it was dented and the loader was unsure of the condition of the contents. The build crew who built the unit stated that they had carefully inspected the drum for damage, prior to loading, they did notice a slight dent in the drum but confirmed there was no leakage and the seals of the drum were intact. The crew concluded that as the drum was made of pliable plastic the dent would not compromise the safety of the contents. The crew were informed that they need to report such damage as they need experience to determine any damage to such items. A brief was issued informing staff that any damaged freight needs to be reported to the relevant persons when discovered. No further CAA action required.

Undocumented dangerous goods. During loading a consignment did not match to the manifest and documents which showed it as dangerous goods. After investigation it was discovered that the consignment was not undeclared, unfortunately the pallet tag had fallen off during transportation between the cargo shed and the aircraft. The consignment was returned to cargo where a new tag was issued. The consignment was able to be loaded and travelled as planned. No further CAA action required.

Offloaded damaged dangerous goods. A plastic drum containing Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s; UN2811 was offloaded from an aircraft, as the drum was dented and the loader was unsure about the condition of the contents. The build crew were interviewed and were aware of the dent to the drum. They had felt that due to the soft plastic construction of the drum, it's integrity would not have been compromised. The build crew have been told that they must report any future incidences to management as they do not have the expertise to gauge whether the drum is compromised or not. A brief has been issued to all staff reminding them to report damaged items. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain two tins one of Adhesive, containing flammable liquids, UN1133 and one containing Toluene, UN1294. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded by saying they were inexperienced in sending dangerous goods outside the UK. They did document the consignment as dangerous goods but they did not realise the consignment would be sent by air. They have implemented a new procedure where items being sent outside the UK will be dispatched directly from the manufacturer who has the appropriate training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared shipment of a Lithium metal battery; UN3090, from China, via Hong Kong to the UK. The respective Chinese and Hong Kong authorities have been contacted, both have investigated this incident and have contacted the companies involved. No further CAA action is required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 400ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 50ml Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Dangerous Goods spillage. During unloading a plastic drum containing Toxic solid organic n.o.s., UN2811 was found to be damaged. The bottom rim of the drum had been ripped off releasing the inner solid. The warehouse was evacuated as the fire service dealt with the spillage. An investigation by the operator advised it was probable that a forklift caused a small hole in the drum. The unit load device and aircraft suffered no damage. The crew that built the unit were interviewed but the team leader did not recall seeing any damage to the drum when it was loaded. A visual inspection carried out prior to loading found that the outside of the unit load device was not damaged or leaking. Monitoring the station staff involved would be implemented to prevent further incidents occurring. Referred to the German authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods, during loading a container was found to contain unsecured Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. Whilst the consignment had been restrained, the straps had loosened and the consignment was able to move, one box was upside down. The container was off loaded and returned to cargo for re-packing. The staff member responsible for this container was interviewed 10 days after the incident occurred, he did not recall the build. The staff member was reminded of the importance of securing loads and details of the incident have been included in a database which tracks performance issues so if any re-occurrences occur this incident can also be taken into consideration. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading the bulk-hold the crew leader discovered that one netted section had a single item of unsecured dangerous goods within it whilst the adjacent netted areas was nearly full of general cargo. After investigation the operator reported that the loading team claimed to be working to ‘volumetrically full’ rules but had failed to take into account the lack of other cargo in the specific netted area allocated to the dangerous goods on the loading instruction. The operator does not allow dangerous goods to be secured by the compartment being volumetrically full. All ramp supervisors have undergone further dangerous goods training. A Read and Sign was issued to all loading crews. From now on when any dangerous goods are present they are to be secured by the ramp supervisor who will annotate the Loading Instruction. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box containing 4 inner boxes was found to contain 48 x 250ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The inner boxes were marked with an ADR UN1950 LQ but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Passenger Error. After boarding the aircraft a passenger realized he had a can of lighter fluid with him. He handed the fluid to the crew who passed it to ground staff in a bag. The customers details were not taken by the cabin crew as the captain said he would complete the report. The passenger was in a rush to board and had forgotten to remove these items, he had spoken to ground staff but they also had not taken his details. Operator referred the incident to the Serbian authorities and reported that their ground staff had been re-briefed about the dangerous goods regulations. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading a unit load device was offloaded as the dangerous goods within it consigned within a fibreboard box were not restrained in the correct manor. The operator has investigated and found that the loader was not able to recall this particular build. The loader was trained in dangerous goods and has been reminded of the importance to secure general and dangerous goods separately. The operator is creating a cargo restraint course and a poster campaign to remind staff how to secure dangerous goods consignments. Photos are now being taken of unit load devices containing dangerous goods builds to audit restraining techniques. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Whilst checking departure cargo, a unit load device was found to contain an unsecured box containing Paint, UN1263. The unit load device was offloaded from the flight and returned to cargo for repacking. The unit load device was built on site and the operator interviewed the build team, who believed that the consignment would be secured enough to travel. It was demonstrated that the position of the goods would probably have prevented movement laterally but if the flight encountered turbulence the consignment would have unrestricted vertical movement. Whilst the build team were fully trained and aware of the restraint requirements they have undergone a practical demonstration in the correct way to restrain freight to assist them with future builds. No further CAA action required.

2010-0632 01/07/2010 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 16 x 227g Gas cartridges, UN2037. The cartridges were each marked with a class 2.1 hazard diamond and UN2037. The fibreboard box was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but the consignment was wrapped in black shrink wrap. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2010-0634. Letter sent to shipper who apologised for the error and will not transport such items in the future. No further CAA action required.

2010-0634 01/07/2010 East Midlands
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 8 x 227g Gas cartridges, UN2037 and a portable gas stove. The cartridges were each marked with a class 2.1 hazard diamond and UN2037. The fibreboard box was wrapped in black shrink wrap. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2010-0633. Letter sent to shipper who apologised for the error and will not transport such items in the future. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain two boxes of Petroleum distillates UN1268 and Coating Solution UN1139. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. FAA to investigate. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. When the loader opened the door to hold 5 he found a dangerous goods consignment, Flammable liquid, sample, UN1993, was not tied down and other loose cargo had been placed on top of it. The operator has investigated and due to a recent, similar incident from this station an embargo has been placed on the acceptance of any dangerous goods items until a review of all the station procedures and dangerous goods training has taken place. All supervisors have undergone dangerous goods refresher training and all station staff will attend a ramp safety awareness course. The performance of the station will also be monitored after the embargo has been lifted. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured Dangerous Goods. During loading a unit load device was removed from the aircraft as a consignment of Lithium batteries contained in equipment, UN3091, was not secured correctly. Operator has investigated and found that two pieces of cargo were secured with only one strap. The staff member who built the ULD has been interviewed and could not remember this particular build, he has successfully completed DG and ULD training and has been reminded that dangerous goods need to be secured individually. Build teams have been spoken to and a poster campaign is being developed. Future builds will be photographed as a means of cargo staff recording the status of finalised builds. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 8 x 227g, 1 x 200ml, 1 x 150ml, 1 x 50ml, 1 x 100ml, 1 x 50ml, 1 x 40ml and 1 x 100ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 3 lithium batteries contained in equipment, UN3091. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Belgium authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Loading Error. During loading, a pallet containing dangerous goods with a different number to that which was to fly was incorrectly loaded onto the aircraft. The aircraft flew with the incorrect pallet on board but the captain was notified of the dangerous goods contained on it during flight. The operator investigated and interviewed the warehouse team who thought the tag was a misprint, as it was only one digit different from the pallet that should have been sent, they did ask the office staff who agreed and attempted to change the manifest, which had been closed. If the system was still open it would have shown the correct pallet existed elsewhere. Both the team leader and driver have been disciplined and undergone further training as they did not check the pallet numbers against the manifest at the time of loading and missed the dangerous goods tag. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A dangerous goods consignment was not tied down within an AKU unit. The Operator interviewed the team who built this unit, they said they had secured the consignment using a rope and two ringbolts, the build was witnessed by other build crew staff and they confirm the consignment was restrained. It would seem that the consignment was restrained prior to departure, however it is possible the restraining rope was not secure and slipped off during transit. There were no details or photographs from the receiving station so a full conclusion can not be reached. All the build team are fully trained but they have been reminded of the importance of correctly restraining dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading a fibreboard box containing dangerous goods was found to be on its side within a unit load device (ULD). The operator has investigated and CCTV footage matches the build teams response to the incident. There is evidence that the consignment was tied down but it is hard to tell if the ropes were sufficient and secure enough to hold it in place. The build team had successfully received dangerous goods and ULD build training, but have been reminded of the importance to secure dangerous goods correctly. Without pictures of the ULD during unloading the operator is unable to investigate further. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error, during security checks two camping gas containers were found in a passengers hold luggage and confiscated. Passenger disputed this as he had read the terms and conditions on the website and had also gained authorization from customer services that the consignment would be okay, however he was not advised by customer services that the containers would need to be empty. The operators say their website clearly states that camping stoves and fuel containers need to be empty. Letter sent to passenger. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During loading a consignment of Adhesives, UN1133, was discovered incorrectly documented and had no restricted labelling attached to it. Also the annotation of the loading device was also incorrectly written. The Manager offloaded the consignment as they were not satisfied with the documentation, the required paperwork was duly updated to reflect this decision. The Operator has investigated, the loading device number was incorrectly taken down either as the empty unit arrived or at the build station. The system automatically produces a label that relates to the goods so this should have been attached to the unit load device. The build crew have been interviewed and do not recall this build, they stated they would not allow a unit to leave without its respective label attached. As the operator was not able to ascertain where the error occurred the crew members who are all experienced and DG trained have been reminded of the importance of entering the correct information and to ensure all the labels are correctly attached. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard was found to contain 6 x 1L Paint, UN1263. The tins were marked with UN1263 but the fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded advising that they had tightened their procedures to ensure all paint shipments are fully marked and that they now use a new courier company and items are sent by land on a 2 day service to prevent repeat occurrences. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Following receipt of a consignment, the consignee realised that it contained dangerous goods that had not been packed, marked, labelled or declared as containing dangerous goods. The contents included Hydrochloric acid UN1789, Sodium hydroxide solution UN1824 and Cyanide solution n.o.s. UN1935. Subject to investigation by ARE.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Paint related material, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. French authorities are investigating therefore no further CAA action is required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 8 x 200ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised that they were unaware of the regulations. However, they do require that their customers sign a declaration confirming that there are no dangerous goods within their consignment. Further information given to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, two consignments each found to contain Dry ice, UN1845, were found on their sides in compartment 5. An investigation by the operator advised that procedures were not followed through by the loading supervisor and the loader and failed to secure the dangerous goods in the hold of the aircraft. An immediate embargo was been placed on the station, the consignment originated from, which not be lifted until the station has completed a review of processes and procedures for handling dangerous goods. All turnaround co-ordinators and loading supervisors have taken a dangerous goods awareness training. All the station staff, the consignment originated from, will attend a Ramp Safety Awareness session. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 2 x 1kg Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded by explaining they did not realise that Fire extinguishers were classified as dangerous goods. As they are now aware they will ensure any future shipments are sent in accordance with the regulations. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading the bulk hold 4 pieces of unmanifested dangerous goods freight was discovered loose loaded and not restrained. The documents were received for the shipment three days after the flight had landed. The operator has investigated and found that the cargo had been delivered to the wrong handlers, the consignment was loaded by the other handler as loose cargo and the loader would only be required to check the packages for damage. The freight recovery plan was by-passed and this lead to this incident, staff have been reminded that this process must be adhered to and will be monitored for future compliance. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain Helium compressed, UN1046 gas cylinders. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Unable to contact Shipper. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a personal effects consignment was found to contain 2 x 150ml Aerosols, UN1950 and 3 x 100ml, 1 x 50ml and 1 x 25ml Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 40ml Perfumery products, UN1266 and 2 x 250ml Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
2010-0668 14/07/2010 Manchester

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, a unit load device (ULD) containing dangerous goods was opened to check on the condition of the goods. One of the containers had rope around the lower part of it and all of the containers had rope through their handles, however, the rope was loose and the containers were able to move without much effort. ULD was unloaded and sent back to the cargo shed for repacking. Operator has investigated and concluded the consignment was offloaded due to insufficient tie down equipment. A meeting has been held with the Warehouse operation and a procedure has now been implemented to ensure all dangerous goods consignments will be properly secured and photographic evidence will be taken at the time of the build. No further CAA action required.

2010-0651 14/07/2010 Heathrow

2010-0646 15/07/2010 Manchester

Loading Error. During loading the crew leader discovered that a consignment of Dry Ice, UN1845, was on a pallet but not documented on the accompanying paperwork. This item had been correctly documented and had travelled correctly from its origin. The pallet was returned to cargo and the correct paperwork was generated to allow it to travel as previously scheduled. From investigation by the operator it was advised that the cause of the incident was human error. The planner omitted to enter the information. The planner has been interviewed and a report raised relating to the incident which will be placed on his file and further disciplinary action will take place if there is a similar occurrence. No further CAA action required.

2010-0650 17/07/2010 Heathrow

Passenger Error. During security checks on boarding a crew member discovered a disposable lighter in the hat rack, the pilot was informed and a member of security removed the item. A verbal warning was given to passenger information. No further CAA action required.

2010-0649 20/07/2010 Phoenix, USA

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment consisting of two fibreboard boxes each containing 12 x 600ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The Aerosols displayed consumer labels and the outer boxes bore ADR UN1263 markings but, the goods were not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2010-0652 20/07/2010 East Midlands

Passenger Error, during baggage screening BBQ style lighters containing flammable gas, UN1057, were discovered. The items were removed from the baggage and the passenger was advised. The items were held and the passenger details were supplied to the FAA. No further CAA action required.

Passenger Error. During security checks on boarding a crew member discovered a disposable lighter in the hat rack, the pilot was informed and a member of security removed the item. A verbal warning was given to passenger information. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During freight checks, a pallet was found to contain 2 x 4ft canisters of undeclared Helium, compressed, UN1046. The canisters were each marked with a Class 2.2 label but they had been covered with clear shrink wrap. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the French authorities for investigation who advised that they had sent a warning letter to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment concealed in a pallet of shrink wrapped freight was found to contain two fibreboard boxes containing 30 and 50 Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The batteries were each individually enclosed inside a plastic pouch. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded that they were unaware of the regulations. They also advised that they would normally not ship consignments by air. They have amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Leakage of dangerous goods from passenger baggage. After check-in and during handling, a liquid was found to be leaking from a passenger’s baggage. Further investigation found the leakage to be from a 5L container of what was suspected to be Hydrochloric acid, UN1789. The bag was also found to contain other unidentified liquids. Several bags bound for another flight were contaminated by the leakage, resulting in several hours delay. The passenger was charged by the police with recklessly endangering an aircraft. The goods were seized by CAA on behalf of Police but were released for analysis. Further to the Police investigation the passenger received a suspended sentence after pleading guilty to recklessly/negligently endangering an aircraft. The belongings were released by the police. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 5 x 100ml, 2 x 75ml and 4 x 50ml of undeclared Perfumery products UN1266 and 5 x 150ml, a 200ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and agent. A response received from one of the agents advising that the shipper made an error by switching the luggage which he meant to ship with the luggage he meant to take with him to the airport. Email received from other agent advising that they have made a concerted effort to inform their customers about dangerous goods by visiting them with posters and supplying a letter advising what can and can not be placed in consignments. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 100ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Incorrect NOTOC. The load sheet was not presented to the crew before departure and the flight was delayed on the runway as staff tried to ascertain if the dangerous goods consignments on board were loaded in the right location. The crew were informed fifteen minutes into the flight that there was no problem with the location of the dangerous goods. The operator concluded that there was an error in communication, although the position of the dangerous goods had been changed but not updated on the NOTOC, the consignment was still within the same compartment. A procedure has been implemented for the turnaround coordinators to check the dangerous goods have been loaded into the correct position and that the paperwork reflects this. Any changes to the paperwork or loading of dangerous goods needs to be authorised by the load controllers correctly annotated on the paperwork and cross verified by the turnaround coordinators. No further CAA action is required.

2010-0663 25/07/2010 Bangalore, India

Damaged Dangerous goods, during loading staff smelt gas in the hold. Passengers disembarked and the fire service attended. Fire service entered the hold with gas detector equipment but a build up of gas was not detected. The hold was unloaded and found to be free of any smell. A loose aerosol of furniture polish was found and as the bags were being re-loaded the loaders found a bag which smelt of gas and contained five large gas cigarette lighters and one large petrol lighter. One of the gas cigarette lighters was found to be ruptured. The passenger and his companion were removed from the flight along with their luggage. Unable to obtain passenger details, so no further CAA action possible.

2010-0686 27/07/2010 Heathrow

2010-0666 30/07/2010 Manchester

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 cylinders, of Oxygen, compressed, UN1072. The consignment was marked as personal effects and the outer box had no markings. The inner boxes were marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods but the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following visit to shipper, letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. Freight forwarder has introduced further preventative measures and information to their customers and will train all applicable staff. No further CAA action required.

2010-0671 30/07/2010 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading steel drums containing dangerous goods were found loose behind the hold curtain, as the curtain was removed the drums inside fell out on to the floor. The freight had not been secured with enough lashing/straps and there was heavy freight located on top of the drums. The operator has investigated and reported that the person who built up the container had made an error, his training was current and he has had a clean employment record for 20 years, he will attend the latest training course. The incident has been included in the cargo handlers training course and an additional leaflet will be sent to remind staff of the risks of defective stowage. No further CAA action required.

2010-0667 30/07/2010 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a parcel which has been through postal systems in several countries, was found to contain an Aerosol, UN1950. The incident was forwarded to the Australian Authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, a consignment of contain Dry Ice UN1845 was found unsecured in a compartment which was only partly full. The operator interviewed the team leader who said he would be more vigilant in the future, he knows the procedure and does not require further training, his performance will be monitored and any future incidents will result in disciplinary action. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, an electric wheelchair was found unsecured in the wrong hold. Damage caused to the hold was investigated by an engineering team who then took the hold out of service for the next flight as the holds fire integrity had been compromised. The operator has investigated and concluded that the incident was caused by lack of communication. The loader did not appreciate the mobility aid was dangerous goods and the supervisor did not spot the item or incorrect positioning of the securing net. A memo has been issued and a read and sign was sent out along with new documentation aimed at preventing a re-occurrence. Station performance will be monitored. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger was found with undeclared fireworks and bangers in his pocket (Fireworks, UN0337). The passenger had placed the fireworks and bangers in his pocket, unaware that they were prohibited. The passenger had travelled from one US state to another and back again. The fireworks and bangers were only noticed when the passenger was questioned by customs after he had stopped to put the fireworks, bangers and his tobacco in his suitcase as they considered he was acting suspiciously. Requested further information from Customs who advised that they had no record of the incident. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival, a battery powered mobility scooter was found to have it's battery fully connected and switched on. The underside of the mobility scooter was emitting heat. The operator have investigated further and were advised their handling agent had not identified that the scooter had a battery. It was also established that the passenger had checked in online, therefore, the operator had not been notified that they would be carrying a mobility device until they arrived at the boarding gate. The operator have contacted their handling agent and a memo stating the importance of the carriage of mobility scooters has been issued which must be read and signed by all staff. A new procedure has also been put into place, which requires the loaders to confirm with the dispatcher if a wheelchair is battery operated or manual. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, 23 fibreboard boxes of Flammable liquid, UN1993 were found loose in hold 5. None of the fibreboard boxes had been tied down. Following an investigation by the operator it was advised that the ramp supervisor wrongly assumed that it was not necessary to tie down the fibreboard boxes because they were covering the full horizontal capacity of the hold. The operator has issued a memo to clarify information on securing dangerous goods, which stated that dangerous goods must loaded and secured in such a manner that prevents any movements during the flight. This should be achieved by ensuring the compartment or unit loading device is volumetrically full, or by means of individual restraint by use of straps. The memo also stated that dangerous goods must be protected from damage by other freight or baggage. If dangerous goods are unable to be secured, the turnaround coordinator must be advised and the cargo offloaded. It was also decided that when carrying dangerous goods consignments, a briefing must be conducted between the flight dispatcher and the ramp supervisor in order to put in place correct procedures and to avoid any misunderstanding or inadequate practices. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard was found to contain 24 x 300ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The box contained 2 inner boxes and each contained 12 aerosols. The inner boxes were marked with UN1950 ADR LQ label. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper forwarded a copy of the material safety data sheet. Further to an investigation by the Dutch authorities it was found that the shipper were unaware that aerosols were to be considered as dangerous goods. The shipper have now removed aerosols from the assortment of their company. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of wooden crate was found to contain 12 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded by explaining the aerosols had been added to the consignment in error. In future all consignments will be checked and signed off by one adequately trained individual. No further CAA Action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 40ml and 3 x 100ml Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment consisting of two fibreboard boxes was found to contain 9 x 400ml, 3 x 200ml and 6 x 50ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. One of the boxes was marked with an ADR diamond and UN1950 but the other box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Occurrence forwarded to the Swiss authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Loading error and load planning error. After the aircraft pushed-back, it was realised that the quantity of Dry ice, UN1845, loaded on the aircraft exceeded the quantity that the operator permitted for the type of aircraft. The aircraft returned to stand so that the ULD containing the dry ice could be off-loaded, at which point it was also noticed that the ULD did not display a dangerous goods pallet tag. Further investigation into the root cause of both errors to be undertaken by operator. Operator reports that the error occurred in the build area but was also not spotted by cargo load control. This amount of Dry ice is permitted on the A320/211 and the loader admits they referred to this instead of the actual aircraft type, which was a A320/232. All dangerous goods restrictions for the aircraft types are available on the hand held devices, a brief has been produced reminding staff to refer to these files for the respective restrictions. All relevant areas have received this brief. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 500ml, 6 x 400ml and 6 x 260ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 900ml cylinder of Nitrogen compressed, UN1066. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Letter sent to freight forwarder who responded advising that they were not informed the consignment was dangerous goods and did not see a manifest. Staff involved have been reprimanded and instructed that in future that must receive a copy of the manifest confirming the contents of any package before they arrange any handling/transport. As the vessel concerned is Norwegian, the Norwegian Authorities have been notified but no response received. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 11 x 150ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and a 25ml bottle of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper covering 2010-0656 and 2010-0666 as well. Email received from alleged shipper who is a Freight Forwarder advising that they have made a concerted effort to inform their customers about Dangerous Goods by visiting them with posters and supplying a letter advising what can and can not be placed in consignments. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain audio speakers, (Magnetized material, UN2807). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that they were unaware of the regulations. To prevent further incidents occurring the shipper has requested that Material Safety Data Sheets or documentation advising whether future consignments are dangerous goods. The shipper was contacted and advised further about dangerous goods training. They are now researching more into dangerous goods training before sending any further consignments. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During freight checks, an electric wheelchair (Battery powered equipment, UN3171) was found unsecured in hold 5. The wheelchair was not tied down or on spreaders. As the wheelchair was incorrectly loaded the loading team were forced to man handle it down the baggage conveyer, putting themselves at risk of injury. The incident was reported to the Zambian authorities. The operator has interviewed the loaders who had secured the wheelchair with nets and filled the remaining space with courier bags to prevent movement, they felt under pressure to load the aircraft on time. The loaders have been told to follow the correct loading procedures at all times. Performances will be monitored and cameras will be provided to staff. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 0.34L Aerosols flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. During freight checks, a consignment of Dry ice, UN1845 was found unsecured in hold 5. The operator has investigated and found that although the load supervisor was aware of the dangerous goods consignment they did not inform their load team or verify with the team that the dangerous goods consignment had been secured. None of the staff had worked over eight hours so fatigue was not a factor. All staff were up to date with their training and the load supervisor has re sat his training and received disciplinary action. The operator will continue to monitor the situation in an effort to avoid similar circumstances arising in the future.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of two polystyrene boxes was found to contain Dry ice, UN1845. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods. Operator spoke to shipper and the consignment was re-packed and forwarded on with the correct paperwork. Operator has also spoken to cargo agent as this consignment should have been identified as containing dangerous goods and rejected. Cargo handling staff have been counselled to ensure they are aware of their responsibilities in identified undeclared dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, a consignment of Dry Ice, UN1845 was found unsecured in a unit load device, the consignment was offloaded. An investigation by the operator advised, the team who built the unit requested information on the building of Dry ice consignments. Communications were put out reminding staff to check handed over flights especially during mealbreak periods, when mis-understandings can occur. A new tying and lashing course and a new poster awareness campaign was launched detailing the importance of securing dangerous goods freight. The issue is covered at the daily shift meetings. No further CAA action required.

Dangerous goods removed from passenger bag. Several items were removed from a customers baggage during passenger screening, swimming pool products, shocking agents, chlorine, snake repellent and 5lbs of water treatment granules. FAA have been informed and are investigating. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a Battery, wet, filled with acid, UN2794. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error leading to undeclared dangerous goods. During the flight a passenger voluntarily handed over several prohibited items to the cabin crew, including a can of pepper spray, parts of a knife and a suspicious looking sealed container. The items were placed in a biohazard bag and the flight was met by police on arrival. Passenger was escorted from the flight but not arrested; he is currently in a mental institute. The Czech authoritise were informed by operator. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 fibreboard box with 1 x 100g Aerosol flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment consisting of a fibreboard box was found to contain 6 x 400ml, 3 x 200ml and 6 x 50ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. One of the boxes was marked with an ADR diamond and UN1950 but the other box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Occurrence forwarded to the Swiss authorities for investigation. (see 2010-0682) No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment consisting of 3 fibreboard boxes was found to contain smoke canisters/grenades and pressure bottles. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Interim warning letter sent to shipper. See also 2010-0695. Following an investigation by the CAA Aviation Regulation Enforcement Department, the shipper were offered a Simple Caution for the offences.
Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods leading to a NOTOC error. A consignment containing Amines, solid, corrosive, n.o.s., UN3259, was incorrectly loaded onto the wrong operators aircraft, and therefore, not noted on the NOTOC or manifest. A consignment of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082, should have been loaded onto the aircraft, but was left in the warehouse. The error was noticed when the consignment was delivered to the consignee. The operator has investigated, the root cause is noted as human error. The warehouse agent saw that his build plan needed four pieces of dangerous goods and in haste removed the wrong consignment from a pallet destined for Beruit. The Freight Agent has made several improvements to prevent re-occurrence, dangerous goods will now be segregated by carrier as well as class and each operator has been given an individual coloured label to assist the warehouse staff. The build sheet also no requires two signatures upon completion. The individual concerned has been reminded of the consequences of not following procedures and the station will be monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During freight checks, it was found that 2 cans containing dangerous goods had been left on the flight deck for transport to engineers for AOG repairs. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator investigating. The consignment had been placed on the flight deck in error, due to time constraints and stores personnel not following procedures. All stores staff are undergoing dangerous goods training and a procedure between Maintrol engineering and Flight Operations for the movement of AOG spares has been devised. Appropriate action undertaken by the operator therefore, no further CAA action required.

Loading error leading to dangerous goods leakage. During off loading, flight ramp staff reported a smell coming out of the unit load devices. Upon opening the unit load device, it was found that one of the jerricans, containing Extracts flavouring liquid, UN1197, had leaked and a pallet had collapsed. The leaking jerricans were removed from the unit load device and placed in a safe environment. The other items on the pallet were stripped, cleaned and re-palletised. The two pieces that had leaked were placed in a salvage drum. The correct regulated packaging had been used but due to bad loading, not correctly shrink wrapped and no use of spreaders, the pallet collapsed, which caused the leakage. Referred to the Irish authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consolidated consignment of personal effects was found to contain an Aerosol, flammable, UN1950, a box of matches, UN1944 and several batteries which have been described under special provision A123 but do not meet the provision. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Email sent to freight forwarder who responded that warehouse staff are to receive training and other preventative measures will be put in place to prevent recurrence.
Dangerous goods loading error. During loading a Battery powered vehicle, UN3171, was accepted as, the passenger of the wheelchair was asked if it contained either a wet or dry cell battery and didn't advise either way. Booking information suggested it was a dry cell battery. When the wheelchair arrived at the aircraft the loaders looked to clarify the type of battery but were unable to see any marks indicating which battery was contained in it. Therefore the wheelchair was loaded. The operator is looking to obtain information that gives clear guidance to all ramp/dispatch staff on the differences between wet and dry cell batteries. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a box was found to contain a 100ml and a 250ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent for 2010-0701, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Unmanifested dangerous goods. During unloading unmanifested dangerous goods were discovered. 6 pieces at 160 kilos were all booked to a final destination via a transfer airport. 4 pieces made it to the transfer airport but the remaining 2 ended up unmanifested elsewhere. The flight forecast did not show the consignment so the planner would not have been aware that it was on the flight. Operator has investigated but due to their system not being able to go far enough back in their historical records they are unable to conclude how the parcels go split up. To prevent further re-occurrence any unit pulled forward will be double-checked and communications between departments will be held. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 340g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable and 12 x 355ml of undeclared Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The outer box contained two inner boxes, one box was marked with an ADR UN1950 diamond and the other box was marked with an ADR UN1993 diamond. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Also see DGOR 2009-0238. Letter sent to shipper who responded explaining they were implementing changes to their IT system to prevent dangerous goods from being incorrectly sent by air, until this is complete all air transport has been stopped. The dispatcher has also been re-trained in UN number requisition and dangerous goods markings. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During security screening, a jiffy bag containing Radioactive material, excepted package, limited quantity of material, UN2910 was found to be open upon arrival. The excepted package label was not the size specified by the IATA requirements and the bag had only been held closed with staples. The package was safely removed with no risk to staff or passengers. Operator investigated and established that the sender was at fault. As the inner packages had not been damaged, the consignment was re-packaged and forwarded to the consignee. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. A petrol generator was found inside a passengers luggage. The spark plug was still connected to the equipment and petrol had leaked out into the passengers luggage. Operator has conducted their investigation, check in agents were interviewed and the airport x-ray systems were questioned, the operator has concluded that everything was completed correctly. Referred to Swiss Authorities for investigation. No further CAA Action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 10 x 150ml, 11 x 45ml and 2 x 75ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 4L tins Paint, UN1263. The consignment was in a fibreboard box marked as UN3082 but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Irish authorities have investigated. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 48 x 300ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The box contained a fibreboard box marked as ADR UN1950 and inside this box were 4 inner boxes also marked as ADR UN1950. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2010-0630. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that the incident occurred because of human error. They have now amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. They have also advised their agent that all future consignments should be sent by sea. Further information sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain up to 300 Dry cell batteries, that were not packed in compliance with special provision A123. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Forwarded details to the Belgium Authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Unmanifested dangerous goods. During unloading, a dangerous goods consignment containing Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 was found, not mentioned on the manifest, the paperwork on the consignment noted the destination to be Bombay. A second dangerous goods consignment containing Ethyl alcohol, UN1170 was also found not mentioned on the manifest, the paperwork on the consignment noted the destination was Bermuda. The operator reported that this was a handling error, where the consignments had been added to the cage by mistake and that the individuals responsible have been spoken to, a brief has been sent out to remind staff to count the consignments accurately to prevent re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Loading Error. A consignment was loaded and flew on an aircraft before it was checked by the dangerous goods coordinator. There was a breakdown in communications from the person who accepted the documents and freight, through the cargo picker and load device builder, who printed off a tag showing dangerous goods, it was also missed when the flight was manifested. Whilst certain parties noticed the dangerous goods consignment they did not ensure that it was investigated before it left their areas. The operator has investigated, staff have been interviewed and been made aware of their errors and the correct processes / procedures to follow. No further CAA action required.
Passenger error. During flight, a passenger's disposable lighters (Lighters, UN1057) were found to have leaked in their bag. To prevent the gas of the lighters being released into the cabin the crew confiscated and placed them in a fire bag. Upon arrival the lighters were handed over to ground staff. Passenger contact details not available, therefore, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 7 x 30ml, 2 x 50ml, 1 x 75ml Perfumery products, UN1266. Also included were 1 x 100ml and 1 x 30ml bottles skin toner but these were confirmed as not hazardous by the Reporter. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Agent. Following a visit to the agent, it was confirmed that they have in place procedures to alert their customers of items of dangerous goods not permitted in their consignments. Further discussions were held and additional recommendations made. (see also DGOR2010-0782). No further CAA action required.

Unmanifested Dangerous Goods leading to loading error. During loading an overweight consignment of 4 units containing Dry ice, UN1845, was discovered, the consignment weighed too much for the type of aircraft it was being loaded onto. The agent had also missed 2 other Dry ice units. The Operator has investigated and found a break in communications between the Operations manager and the person responsible for completing the manifest. The agent had ignored the weight of the unit as it was from an inbound flight. In order to prevent re-occurrence staff have been briefed and that all staff completing manifests must double check all weights that are given by the warehouse staff. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x fibreboard box containing 3 x 400ml loose Aerosols flammable and an inner fibreboard box containing 6 x 400ml, 3 x 200ml, 4 x 50ml Aerosols flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Occurrence forwarded to the Swiss Authorities for investigation. (See 2010-0682 and 2010-692). No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 150ml and 4 x 250ml Aerosols flammable, UN1950 and 1 x 50ml and 1 x 30ml Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950 and 1 x 250ml Paint Related Material (thinner), UN1263 and 2 Tins Epoxy-Mastic. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who replied explaining their error by ticking the next day box for travel to Ireland. They advised that they had spoken to their couriers and are now aware which destinations their consignments are likely to fly to. As a result, they would mark all future consignments containing dangerous goods with the Limited Quantity marking and with the words “not by air”. The documents would state "by road". A copy of the CAA letter would also be held on file for training purposes. No further CAA action required.

Non-acceptable UN Specification packaging. Following arrival at handling agent it was discovered that the UN specification mark on the 1H2 plastic drum was out of its life cycle. The shipper was contacted and it appears that the shipper does not pack the dangerous goods but purchased them complete. Upon further investigation and a visit to the company who sold the goods to the shipper, it appears there are several more 1H2 drums in their warehouse that have lids which are now out of the life cycle. Company have been notified that this must be rectified and processes must be put into place to ensure that this issue does not re-occur. In addition the UN specification drums in question that are currently held in their warehouse must not be sent for transport by air. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods leading to leakage. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a petrol powered jetwash, (Engines, internal combustion, UN3166). The consignment was found leaking and a small amount of fuel was found in the fuel tank. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and agent. Both shipper and agent replied and the consignment was released. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 9 x 100mls, 2 x 75mls and 2 x 50mls Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 3 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required. Additional information has been sent to assist them. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain small Gas cartridges (non-flammable) without a release device, non-refillable, UN2037. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper advising them of the need to refer to Special Provision A98 on the Shippers Declaration. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During cleaning a live shotgun round was found in a seatback pocket, the turn around and security managers were informed. The passengers seated in the vicinity were apprehended before boarding their connecting flight and were subject to a full bag and body search but nothing was found. The operator concludes it is probable the item was discarded by an exiting passenger, but there is no way of proving this. No further CAA action required.

2010-0736 13/09/2010 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a fibreboard box containing 2 x 200L cylinders Compressed Gas n.o.s., UN1956. The consignment was not entered on the NOTOC and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Incident passed to the Irish Authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

2010-0733 14/09/2010 Manchester

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2010-0740 14/09/2010 Boston, USA

Passenger Error. During loading security discovered a can of Paint, UN1263 within a passengers bag. The can was removed and the FAA have been informed. Passenger is not a UK national therefore no further CAA action is required.

2010-0738 15/09/2010 Stansted

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x fibreboard box containing 6 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Shipper. No further CAA action required.

2010-0739 16/09/2010 Stansted

Unsecured Dangerous Goods. Whilst in the cargo area, a consignment of Toxic Solid, Organic n.o.s., (Thiocolchicoside) UN2811, tipped over as it had not been correctly secured. Operator has investigated and interviewed the agent responsible for building this job who insists the freight was correctly restrained. In the past photos have been taken of each build, which helped eliminate such issues, this has not happened recently. A performance manager is starting who will enforce the photo taking to prevent these types of actions re-occurring. No further CAA action required.

2010-0749 16/09/2010 Heathrow

Passenger Error. During security screening, prior to departure a passenger, was found with items of suspected dangerous goods, the items were removed from the passengers baggage. FAA were informed at the time of the incident. The operator has investigated and found that there are adequate signs during passenger check in and can only put the error with the passenger. Letter sent to passenger. No further CAA action required.

Passenger Error. During security screening, prior to departure a passenger, was found with items of suspected dangerous goods, the items were removed from the passengers baggage. FAA were informed at the time of the incident. The operator has investigated and found that there are adequate signs during passenger check in and can only put the error with the passenger. Letter sent to passenger. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading it was discovered that baggage and a consignment of dangerous goods bearing orientation arrows had not been correctly secured. The baggage and the dangerous goods had moved in flight several times to the extent that it made opening the hold door on arrival difficult. Operator conducted a site visit and identified that there had been other occasions when dangerous goods had been incorrectly loaded. The reasons were unclear as there were no time pressures as the flight was non-stop and it was the first flight of the shift so no fatigue issues were present. Whilst the items of dangerous goods had been included on the NOTOC other paperwork had been incorrectly completed. The load team were used to busier flights and had seemed confused between surrounding a piece to prevent movement and securing it down, also there was a problem securing the nets. A memo was issued on dangerous goods loading and net securing as well as one requesting the paperwork was compliant with operator standards. No further CAA action required.

2010-0742 17/09/2010 Glasgow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment personal effects was found to contain a 125ml of undeclared Aerosol, flammable. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, a unit load device was found to have unsecured dangerous goods within it and as such it was offloaded from the aircraft and returned to the cargo shed. Operator has investigated and interviewed the staff member who built the unit. The staff member stated that the unit was "fit to fly" when it left the cargo area. Therefore it is concluded that the load became loose between the two locations. To prevent re-occurrence the operator is providing a new tying and lashing course which covers the restraining of dangerous goods. A poster awareness campaign has also be launched and the subject will be covered in daily team briefings. No further CAA action required.

2010-0746 20/09/2010 Birmingham

Undeclared dangerous goods. Prior to departure a passenger informed flight crew that he had four cigarette lighters in the shape of replica guns. The lighters were removed from his luggage and disposed of before departure. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 fibreboard boxes. The first box contained 4 inner fibreboard boxes - each inner box was labelled UN1950, each containing 12 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The second box contained 4 inner fibreboard boxes - each inner box was labelled UN1950, one containing 12 x 245g, and other 12 x 150ml Aerosols flammable, UN1950. The outer boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following a visit to shipper, they will hold a meeting with the intermediaries they use to advise that consignments are not to travel by air. In addition, preventative measures have been put in place to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 fibreboard boxes. The first box contained 4 inner fibreboard boxes - each inner box was labelled UN1950, each containing 12 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The second box contained 4 inner fibreboard boxes - each inner box was labelled UN1950, one containing 12 x 245g, and other 12 x 150ml Aerosols flammable, UN1950. The outer boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following a visit to shipper, they will hold a meeting with the intermediaries they use to advise that consignments are not to travel by air. In addition, preventative measures have been put in place to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box 5 x 1L metal tins Paint related material, UN1263. The fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods, but the metal tins contained within the fibreboard box was labelled and marked UN1263. The consignment and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box containing 4 inner boxes was found. 2 of the inner boxes each contained 4 x 250ml metal cans and the other 2 inner boxes each contained 1 x 1000ml metal can, all the metal cans contained Flammable liquid, UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded saying the root cause had been identified as new products which were not flagged up on their IT system, this has now been rectified. Packing staff will attend further training and now understand the issues of next day travel to Ireland and a 3rd party freight forwarder will continue to look after all dangerous goods shipments. No further CAA action is required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 1 x 450ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA Action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 fibreboard boxes, each fibreboard box containing 3 x 15ml Perfumery Products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading Error. During unloading, an electric wheelchair, Battery powered vehicle, UN3171 was found to be turned on with the battery still connected. The operator has investigated and implemented new procedures to ensure electric wheelchairs are correctly immobilized. Along with the guidance documentation they have released to their ground agents, further documentation will be released to advise all staff involved with the handling of electric wheelchairs of the correct methods to ensure compliance with the regulations. The handling of electric wheelchairs will continue to be monitored. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain a 1.3L bottle of Greasestrip and a 500ml tin containing Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The passengers baggage was hand searched during transfer from Helicopter to Aeroplane for his onward transit to Aberdeen. A letter sent to both the operator and passenger. Operator has asked its clients to circulate a safety briefing to all offshore locations. Passenger has since left the company, no further CAA action is required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personnel effects was found to contain a total of 605ml of undeclared Perfumery products, flammable, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.
Passenger / Loading Error. Whilst boarding it was noticed that a passenger’s carer had a very heavy hold bag. This was investigated and found to contain a frame enclosing a wheelchair battery. The passenger explained she had been told by ground staff that she could do this. The battery was removed from the cabin and re-attached to the wheelchair in the hold. The operator has spoken with customer services and reminded them that the only certain types of lithium batteries allowed in passenger carry-on baggage. Ramp staff and cabin crew were also unaware that an electric wheelchair was traveling and that the battery had been removed by the carer. Procedural error has caused this problem and several bulletins have been posted to remind staff of the correct procedures. A task group has been set up to look at the end-to-end processing of carrying electric mobility aids this will be incorporated in new dangerous goods training which is to be rolled out in January. No further CAA action required.

2010-0763 28/09/2010 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. During pre-loading checks a dangerous goods consignment was found not to be securely loaded which had caused some of the boxes to have been crushed. The consignment consisted of 3 Overpacks of Consumer commodity ID8000. The operator has investigated and re-packed the damaged items for flight with the CAA’s permission. The operator concluded that the consignment had not been properly secured, the loader responsible has undergone refresher training in standard operating procedures and the cargo agent has also conducted retraining with the members of staff involved. No further CAA action is required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During passenger embarkation two passengers tried to board with (C.5) chlorobenzylidenemalononitrile Gas. As they had not been given prior permission to carry the gas on their person, and they were unable to leave the gas behind, the operator off-loaded both passengers. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, an electric wheelchair, Battery - powered vehicle, UN3171, was found secured and isolated with it’s key removed, however the battery terminals were unprotected, exposed and vulnerable. The operator has investigated and established the battery did not need to be disconnected as the wheelchair had a key. The staff involved have been questioned and retrained, details of how to correctly stow wheelchairs will be discussed in daily ramp briefings. A guidance document has also been issued to assist loaders. No further CAA action required.

2010-0766 29/09/2010 Manchester

Consignment found during transit to have exceeded maximum permitted quantity on a passenger aircraft. Following investigation by the operator it was advised that this consignment flew into Heathrow from Bangalore and then flew on to Luton where the errors were discovered. These error would not have been discovered at Heathrow as the originating station was responsible for conducting the dangerous goods consignment. The staff member responsible has been taken out of all DG checks and will undergo a revalidation of DG course. All DG qualified staff have been briefed to be more alert whilst doing DG checks. No further CAA action required.

2010-0765 03/10/2010 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During unloading, a consignment consisting of three fibreboard boxes each containing Dry Ice, UN1845 was found to be unsecured and unlashed. The operator has investigated and interviewed the loader who confirmed that he lashed the box down, this can not be substantiated as the controller has since left the operators employment. All staff involved with this consignment have re-sat a dangerous goods course. Station performance will continue to be monitored. No further CAA action is required.

2010-0774 03/10/2010 Bombay, India

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, a consignment consisting of three fibreboard boxes each containing Dry Ice, UN1845 was found to be unsecured and unlashed. The operator has investigated and interviewed the loader who confirmed that he lashed the box down, this can not be substantiated as the controller has since left the operators employment. All staff involved with this consignment have re-sat a dangerous goods course. Station performance will continue to be monitored. No further CAA action is required.
Passenger error. Upon departure, the flight deck were advised that passengers had informed cabin crew that they had packed Lighters, UN1057 in their checked baggage. The aircraft was subsequently delayed whilst the baggage was found and numerous lighters were removed in the presence of the passengers involved. The passengers informed crew that at no time during check in were they asked if they had any prohibited items but they were advised that the information was on their tickets. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 fibreboard box containing 12 Aerosols flammable, UN1950. The outer box of the consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods but the Aerosols were shrink-wrapped and labelled with a UN1950 Label. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unmanifested dangerous goods. During unloading an extra piece of cargo was discovered which had not been documented on the NOTOC. The operator investigated and discovered the extra cargo, a consignment of 16 life saving rafts, Life-saving appliance, self inflating, UN2990 contained within 1 fibreboard box were checked and approved for flight and had travelled the previous day, fully complaint with the regulations. It seems that upon its arrival it had been taken in error and added to this consignment. As such this consignment had continued its journey, unmanifested. Cargo management have investigated and disciplined the staff concerned and reminded them to follow the correct procedures of ensuring the cargo loaded is checked for the correct AWB number. No further CAA action required.

Misdeclared dangerous goods. During unloading for onward transit, the consignment was flagged up for incorrect markings and uncorresponding paperwork. Operator is investigating. Staff member responsible has been suspended, pending disciplinary action. Additional DG awareness training has been given and procedures put in place to ensure that paperwork has the correct routing on it. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x portable battery powered equipment, UN3171. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. As there have been previous incidents the cargo agent was visited. During the agent, it was confirmed that they have procedures in place to alert their customers of items of dangerous goods not permitted in their consignments. Further discussions were held and additional recommendations made. No further CAA action required. See also 2010-0719 2010-0657, 2009-807/397/392/346/298/240/102/81/70.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a fibreboard box containing 32 Life Jackets, UN2990 and 32 Gas Cartridges, UN2037. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded explaining that an error in delivery address had caused the consignment to be sent via air in order to meet a time constraint. The consignment could fall under SP but if so still did not comply with ADR road regulations. The shipper will liaise with the courier to ensure procedures are put into place to prevent future occurrence. Further advise given to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 72 x bottles Perfumery Products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unnotified dangerous goods. During loading two items of dangerous goods both Miscellaneous were presented without the correct notification. One was a racing car, which was correctly labelled but had an overhang and did not fit the aircraft, the second was a large piece with an electrical label. Staff were concerned as this consignment there may have been a conflict with an animal being carried in that hold. Following investigation by the operator it appears that the original consignment for the car was to be replaced with spares so the paperwork was amended. When the shipment was being built, the air waybill for the spares was used for the car but the dangerous goods were not re-entered in the booking and therefore not entered on the NOTOC. This omission was not picked up until the car was due to be loaded onto the aircraft. The car was then offloaded as there was to much of an overhang. It was subsequently confirmed that this was a paperwork error and the car was then sent on the next flight. The second shipment for was offloaded as no dangerous goods could be found on the paperwork. The handling agents have been spoken to and reminded that they are to check each air waybill vigorously to prevent further incidents. No further CAA action required.

Leaking dangerous goods. During unloading, a fibreboard box was found to contain 3 glass bottles of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1648. The consignment had leaked and due to no absorbent material being present the leak had been absorbed by the outer fibreboard box. Insufficient information received. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During the CAA annual audit a pallet containing dangerous goods was inspected during unloading. The consignments located on the top of the pallet had been slightly displaced during the flight and seemed to be damaged. The operator has investigated and concluded that the dangerous goods items had not been effected, however the straps across the load were not correctly placed to best secure it. Staff have been briefed using the photographic evidence and a read and sign has been issued. Upon arrival at the aircraft drivers are now required to check and secure any loose straps or netting. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During a CAA annual audit a wheelchair was seen, correctly stowed and electrically disconnected but without the battery terminals being adequately protected against short circuit. The operator is investigating. Additional training has been provided and a DG Bulletin (DG20) will be issued to ensure this does not re-occur. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 2 x 150ml and 1 x 250ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 4 x 30ml, 2 x 75ml and 1 x 200ml Perfumery products UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Freight Forwarder. See also 2005-334 (letter sent to Freight Forwarder), 2007-082, 2007-353, 2007-392, 2008-226 (letter sent and reply received), 2009-018, 2009-0279 (letter sent). No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening a consignment was found to contain 1 fibreboard box containing 2 inner boxes, each with a pre-printed UN1950 label on. Each inner box contains 12 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 2 bottles of Oven Cleaner were found; these are Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator advises that the items were removed from the passenger’s luggage and the incident reported to FAA. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Aerosols flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Shipper replied explaining that they would no longer send any items, including dangerous goods to Ireland. All of their products will be sent purely by road to prevent any further occurrences. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 bottles of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and agent. Agent has replied with preventative material he intends to show future prospective customer. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 roll thick insulation material containing 2 x 500ml tins Compressed gas, flammable, n.o.s., UN1954. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passengers bag was found to contain an Aerosol, flammable UN1950. The aerosol, containing WD40 was removed from the passengers bag. The incident has been reported to the FAA. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, customs detained a consignment which contained two chemicals, after gaining an MSDS only one of the chemicals was found to be dangerous goods, Sodium Fluorosilicate, UN2674. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Forwarded incident to authorities in China for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, a load unit was snagged at the side of the aircraft by the turn around manager because a package found to contain dangerous goods was seen not to be secured and the orientation lables were upside down. Following investigation by the Operator, it was found that the aircraft load had been certified as Fit to Fly when leaving cargo, but when the load had reached the aircraft, the strap had come undone. A Dangerous Goods Safety Notice had been issued. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. After the aircraft pushed back and was heading to the runway it came to the reporters attention that an electric wheelchair battery had not been tied down and the battery contacts were not protected from potential short circuit. The aircraft was called back to the gate and the battery was removed from the top of the chair and secured correctly. Following an investigation by the Operator it was found that the ground handlers had informed the co-ordinator a problem existed with the wheelchair but this had been over ridden; the duty manager then called the aircraft back to stand. All members of the team have been spoken to and a read and sign has been issued, future loading of electric wheelchairs will be monitored to ensure compliance. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 250ml, 4 x 109ml and 3 x 300ml, Aerosols UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Response received confirming corrective actions and preventative measures implemented. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During a SAFA Ramp Check, undeclared dangerous goods were presented at the aircraft side for carriage as COMAT. The goods comprised an engine fire bottle (Fire Extinguishers, UN1044) plus two additional uninstalled Cartridges, power device (UN0232). The consignment was mispacked, mis-marked and mis-labelled. No acceptance check had been performed and no NOTOC had been raised. The operator’s investigation established that fire bottles were routinely carried within the aircraft flyaway kit. Having been advised that spare aircraft components that are classified as dangerous goods may not be carried in this manner, the operator revised its procedures to ensure that serviceable components and those removed from aircraft are consigned as dangerous goods in full compliance with the ICAO Technical Instructions, using separate forwarders. Evidence was viewed of these procedures and of dangerous goods training provided to flight and engineering personnel. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a can of WD40 was found in a passengers luggage, Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The aerosol was removed from the luggage and FAA were informed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects were found to contain 1 x 200g Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, 1 x 10ml and 1 x 40ml Flammable liquid, UN1993, 1 x Lighter, UN1057 and 1 x Lithium ion battery UN3480. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. Following a visit to freight forwarder, they have implemented additional preventative measures and provide dangerous goods information to their customers. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. A consignment of 2 pallets containing Lithium Batteries, UN3481 was discovered with no tag card for ID and no instructions for what it was carrying. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Forwarded incident to authorities Canadian for investigation. The operator is also investigating. Following a visit to the consignment, it could not be confirmed if Section II requirements of the applicable Packing Instruction had been met. Subsequent to our visit, the operator has received letter confirmation from the shipper that the consignment meets Section II requirements of the packing instruction and therefore a dangerous goods transport document is not required. Contacted Canadian authority to advise of information and they have confirmed consignment to be released. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During transit, a double-stacked load of dangerous goods (one pallet of dangerous goods loaded on top of another) was found to have shifted in transit due to poor restraint of the upper pallet. The individual responsible for the build has been retrained and pictures of the collapsed pallets have been forwarded to the warehouse where the pallets were built for training purposes. No further CAA action required.

2011-0050 20/10/2010 Sydney, Australia

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, a unit load device containing a cylinder of Oxygen, UN1072, was found to be unsecured. Photos were taken pre and post flight. Operator has investigated and believes the consignment was fit to fly but it is possible that the cylinder slipped during flight which would account for its position when the aircraft was unloaded. All builds are being photographed as evidence in such cases as this one, and all staff involved with building cargo have undertaken a lashings course. No further CAA action required.

2010-0844 20/10/2010 Istanbul, Turkey

Passenger error. During baggage checks, an oversized lighter (Lighters, UN1057) was found in a passengers hand baggage, the passenger then admitted that they had placed another lighter in their checked baggage. A PA was made to the passengers prior to push back and cabin crew were notified by other passengers that they had lighters within their hold baggage. Appropriate action was undertaken by the operator whom offloaded the baggage and removed the lighters. No further CAA action required.

2010-0944 21/10/2010 Turkey

Passenger Error. During security screening, a hold baggage was found to contain Polyester resin kit, UN3269. The passenger denied knowledge of the container. At no point was a Dangerous Goods declaration made, nor any documentation submitted. The oil platform operator was unaware of the shipment. The oil platform operator has investigated and concluded the incident to have been attributed to petty theft. The passenger concerned has been interviewed and as a consequence of this incident he will not be returning to the platform. The operator has revised their procedures and implemented new standards to help prevent re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

2010-0808 21/10/2010 Scatsta

Misloaded dangerous goods. Following departure, it was discovered that a consignment of toxic solid and a consignment of fish had been loaded within the same hold (toxics and foodstuffs are incompatible). The initial load plan had the cargoes in separate holds Initial investigation showed that the paperwork had been raised to ensure they were loaded separately but after departure it was discovered they had been loaded together. Upon noticing this error, staff at destination airport were advised of the potentially contaminated goods and the good must be destroyed. This request was ignored and the fish were delivered to several restaurants, they had to be retrieved and destroyed the following day. No further CAA action possible.

2010-0812 21/10/2010 Heathrow
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x 20L canisters of Compressed gas, flammable, UN1954. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods but the canisters displayed the Flammable diamond, the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded stating that the consignment was sent by air in error. They have reviewed their consignment dispatch process and included further shipping and training processes to ensure consignments are not sent by air. They have made a decision to no longer send this product and have instructed their supplier to send direct to their customers. No further CAA action required.

2010-0809 21/10/2010 East Midlands

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading an electric scooter was found unsecured within a Unit Load Device (ULD) The operator has spoken to the team leader who had tried to ensure the ULD was volumetrically full by topping up the container with other baggage. The team leader and manager have in turn spoken to the training department and clarified the situation, should this situation arise again he will ensure that the scooter is lashed down or that the container is volumetrically full. The team leader is fully aware of his responsibilities and these requirements will also form part of the new dangerous goods training course planned for release in 2011. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. After landing the captain was invited to inspect the rear cargo hold. Upon inspection it was noted that only two harnesses were attached and that cargo had fallen on a consignment labelled as corrosive. A NOTOC in relation to the dangerous goods had not been presented to the captain so the flight crew were unaware the flight had been carrying dangerous goods. The operator is investigating. Report from operator confirmed that the Cargo handler did not provide a NOTOC and the IMP codes RCM and RMD on the manifest were not recognised, but the baggage and cargo were loaded correctly. Internal action taken with regard to NOTOC procedures and highlighting remarks on Cargo manifest report. Training records obtained from the operator confirmed that Team Leaders were up to date on Cat 8 training and received Cat 10 training following the incident. No further CAA action required.

2010-0942 22/10/2010 Guernsey

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival it was noticed that the dangerous goods contained inside an AKE had not been sufficiently secured. Following an investigation by the Operator it appears that contrary to the views of the agent concerned, the agent had been advised that the build did not meet the Operator's requirements. The agent has been instructed to ensure that their staff re-do the ULD build CBT, this will be overseen by the Operator's staff, the agent's staff that fail the re-training will be replaced. No further CAA action necessary.

2010-0857 25/10/2010 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x metal cans of Zinc chloride solution, UN1840. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. (See also DGOR 2007-409) Letter also sent to freight forwarder who responded advising that it was the first time that their customers has shipped this particular product and they were unaware of the regulations. This has now been correct and the shipper is aware of the Regulations. No further CAA action required.

2010-0780 26/10/2010 Manchester
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. Operator advises that the items were removed from the passenger’s luggage and the incident reported to the FAA. No further CAA action required.

Incompatible dangerous goods. A unit load device (ULD) delivered to Heathrow from a regional cargo office was found to contain incompatible dangerous goods. In addition the cargo within the ULD was also not correctly secured. The operator has investigated and found a non conformity in one of the cargo agents. The member of staff concerned was up to date with his training but has been removed from the build program until he undertakes further training in dangerous goods recognition and awareness. Until further notice each dangerous goods build is now to be signed off by a warehouse manager or duty manager to prevent re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 fibreboard box containing 2L Paint related material, UN1263. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. On speaking to the shipper, it appears that the dangerous goods paperwork for this consignment was given over to another air waybill which didn’t contain dangerous goods. The shipper is conducting an investigation on how this occurred. Shipper has concluded investigation and has confirmed new procedures are in place to prevent re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box containing four inner boxes each found to contain 15 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, UN1950. The outer box was marked with LQ markings and the four inner boxes were also each marked with LQ markings. The individual aerosols were each marked with consumer labels. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that they only have a domestic account with their freight agent and that all their parcels are shipped within the UK by road. They do not export and do not fly any consignments. They contacted their agent, who were unable to advise them why their consignment had incorrectly been offered for air transport. It would appear that the error occurred within their agents system. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The aerosols each had displayed a flammable consumer label and the 4 inner boxes were marked with a LQ Diamond and UN1950, however the 2 outer boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded by explaining the consignment had been sent by 24 hour delivery in error and this had resulted in it being offered for air transportation. The shipper has liaised with the freight forwarder and notified all its warehouse, dispatch and sales staff that under no circumstances must any aerosols be sent on a 24 hour delivery service. No further CAA action required.

Damaged dangerous goods. During unloading 5 plastic drums were reported to have been received in a crushed condition. The drums contained 10Kg of Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., UN2811. The operator investigated and interviewed the team leader responsible for the build of the consignment, he recalled the team moving the drums around to increase the security of the load and at that point there was no damage to the drums, photographs taken at the time support this view. It appeared that the drums were originally loaded and secured correctly and there was no evidence of mishandling. It was possible that the drums distorted during flight due to low temperature but as the drums were not retained this could not be confirmed. There were no apparent signs of leakage of the actual product from the drums which all carried appropriate UN specification marks. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading a unit load device (ULD) was refused as the dangerous goods consignment (Dry Ice, UN1845) within in was not strapped down. Operator has investigated and found that the pallet within the ULD was only half loaded and therefore in danger of toppling over. The staff member responsible for the build has been interviewed and they stated that they had tried to secure the dangerous goods with the other freight in the unit, this was not successful. The staff member has been informed of the requirement to secure all dangerous goods individually with straps/flashings. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a courier bag containing 1 fibreboard box containing 4 x 300ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 2 x 300ml foam cleanser and 2 x 250ml atomiser. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper re: previous incident, shipper will be responding to both incidents. (See also DGOR 2010-0793). Shipper replied explaining that they would no longer send any items, including dangerous goods to Ireland. All of their products will be sent purely by road to prevent any further occurrences. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A unit load device (ULD) was found to contain unsecured dangerous goods, and the skid within the ULD had tipped on its side. Operator investigated and found that the build team had broken down an inbound consignment and then forwarded the new unit by road to the departure airport. The team leader was interviewed and it was found that the consignment was not secured for its journey via road. To prevent future re-occurrence the team leader has been briefed in the correct procedure and a note has been placed on their file. Station performance will be monitored. No further CAA action required.
Passenger error. During security screening, a hold bag was found to contain 2 x 100ml tubes of Araldite, and 2 x 200ml tubes of Araldite 2015 - both Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s, UN3082. The offshore operator was unaware of the consignment and no paperwork accompanied it. The operator has retained the items and the offshore installation has implemented the following actions to prevent re-occurrence. Personnel will be spoken to when they arrive on site, they will be questioned about carriage of dangerous goods before they board the helicopters and posters will be displayed around the platforms reminding them of the regulations. Letter sent to passenger. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, an electric wheelchair, Battery - powered vehicle, UN3171, was found secured and isolated with it’s key removed. The battery had been removed for transit however the terminals had been left unprotected, exposed and vulnerable. The operator has investigated and in response to incident has produced guidance material to be used by the agent at the departure airport, to regularly brief their staff, in order to ensure their continued understanding of how to correctly load electric wheelchairs. A requirement has also been put into place for the coordinator to physically check that electric wheelchairs have been loaded in compliance with the regulations. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x 100ml, 2 x 75 ml and 4 x 30 ml Perfumery Products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading items of dangerous goods were found loose in a unit load device (ULD). Following an investigation by the operator is was advised that some cargo had fallen off of the container and the dangerous goods had been found to be unsecured. It is believed that although the dangerous goods had been strapped down the dangerous goods had not been shrink-wraped prior to being strapped down as per the operator’s procedures. Had these been followed then the dangerous goods would not have moved. In addition the ULD was not fully loaded or volumetrically full. The staff involved have gone through the ULD presentation again to re-enforce the teams preparation of ULD’s. The units are always checked and signed fit to fly and although the check sheet had been ticked to state that procedures had been followed and all was ok, this was the case with this consignment. Station performance will be monitored. No further CAA action is required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 black shrink wrapped box containing Lithium Batteries, UN3091. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following investigation by the shipper is was advised that these batteries concered are not regulated for air transport; staff placed a Class 9 label on the consignment by mistake. IATA guidance on litium batteries sent to shipper. No further CAA action required. Undeclared dangerous goods. During passenger security screening, a can of starch was removed from a passengers luggage. Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. Following an investigation by the Operator it was found that the passenger was a US national, the FAA have been informed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During passenger security screening, a can of cooking spray was removed from a passenger's luggage, Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The FAA were informed. No further CAA action required.

2010-0867  01/11/2010 Orlando, USA

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading an electric scooter (wheelchair) was found insecurely stored within the unit load device (ULD). The electric wheelchair was tightly packed amongst passenger baggage. No notification was found on the paperwork. Operator has investigated and interviewed staff members responsible for the build, they have been reminded of the importance to ensure the correct build is used and that the details on the card are completed correctly to prevent future occurrences. All staff were dangerous goods trained, this incident has been put down to human error. No further CAA action required.

2010-0817  01/11/2010 Manchester

2010-0874  02/11/2010 New York JFK, USA

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening by US Customs and Border Protection, a consignment was found to contain 4 packages of dangerous goods, the unit was not labelled or tagged and the identification tag was not marked with the primary hazard. Operator has investigated and interviewed staff members responsible for the build, they have been reminded of the importance to ensure the correct build card is used and that the details on the card are completed correctly to prevent future occurrences. All staff were dangerous goods trained, this incident has been put down to human error. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading a Unit Load Device was rejected as an item containing dangerous goods was not secure within it. Also there was no paperwork to accompany this item. Operator has investigated and concluded that although there are processes in place to monitor unsecured dangerous goods including photographic evidence of the build, on this occasion the photographs were not accessible. In addition it appears that the flight planner had entered incorrect information into the system which over-rode the existing information relating to the dangerous goods. To prevent further occurrences the planner has been spoken to and a letter placed on their personal file. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival it was discovered that a consignment containing Dry Ice had not been sufficiently secured and had moved during transport. Following an investigation by the Operator it appears that there is confusion as to how the consignment was loaded as the NOTOC was not signed by crew leader as required, but signed by the Turnaround Manager (TRM). The signing of the NOTOC the crew leaders were not required to check the loading. All staff have been interviewed and a notice has been sent out to TRMs and ramp staff reminding of the NOTOC and DG signage procedures and that they must follow standard operating procedures. No further CAA action necessary.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading a Unit Load Device was rejected as an item containing dangerous goods was not secure within it. Also there was no paperwork to accompany this item. Operator has investigated and concluded that although there are processes in place to monitor unsecured dangerous goods including photographic evidence of the build, on this occasion the photographs were not accessible. In addition it appears that the flight planner had entered incorrect information into the system which over-rode the existing information relating to the dangerous goods. To prevent further occurrences the planner has been spoken to and a letter placed on their personal file. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Air Pressure CO2 Injection Pistol, and 5 CO2 Capsules. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The FAA have been informed and have released the consignment. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 3 pieces within a consignment of 13 were found to contain 24 Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Shipper has responded and taken on the advice we have given with regards to providing a dangerous goods declaration and pictorial information. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x Aerosols flammable, UN1950. Whilst the individual Aerosols displayed consumer hazard markings and the inner box was printed with a UN1950 diamond, the outer fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded by explaining that usually their cargo destined for Eire has “for road only” labels but in this case the label must have been omitted. They have reviewed their internal procedures to ensure this will not happen again. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 5L tins of undeclared Adhesive, UN1133. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that they were unaware of the regulations. They have now amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Breach of Operator Variation. During the building of a Unit Load Device the handling agent noticed a consignment of Radioactive material, excepted package in breach of the applicable Operator Variation. The operator's investigation established the receiving agent had misinterpreted the Operator Variation. The staff responsible for accepting dangerous goods were to receive a briefing stating that no radioactive material of any kind may be accepted on the operator's flights. No further CAA action necessary.

Passenger Error. During check-in a couple were told they could not carry their camping stove, they ignored this request and boarded with the item. The camping stove was removed by ground staff from the cabin and the captain was informed. The passengers argued that the fuel had been washed out, but the stove still smelt of fuel. FAA were informed. No further CAA action required.
Passenger error. During security screening, whilst boarding, passenger's luggage was found to contain 21 bottles Perfumery products, UN1266. The items were removed and the FAA was informed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 11 boxes each containing 12 Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, 19 packs of 6 Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, 15 x Perfumery products, UN1266 and 21 x Aerosols flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following a visit to the freight forwarder additional dangerous goods information will be provided to customers and preventative measures will be implemented. Letter sent to shipper and agent. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x metal case containing 2 x 500ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 19 Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading Error. A consignment marked as Cargo Aircraft Only (CAO) was booked for onward travel on a passenger aircraft. Operator has investigated and discovered a number of errors: the shipper did not disclose at the time of booking their consignment was CAO, but the paperwork supplied at the origin showed CAO. The ground staff at the origin wrongly mistook the code for truck transportation between Stansted and Heathrow to mean the connecting flight would be freight. In order to prevent re-occurrence the shipper must ensure they disclose all CAO consignments at the time of booking. All dangerous goods staff have seen a read and sign that confirms bookings for all CAO consignments will need to be verified before acceptance of cargo. No further CAA action is required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, a unit load device was found to contain a box of unsecured dangerous goods within it. Operator has investigated and produced photographs of the consignment before and after flight, as it was correctly secured before flight they are unsure of how it became loose. Operator has completed a reconstruction exercise and concluded the reason the consignment came loose may have been due to slight movement of the pallet on which it was placed possibly causing the straps to become loose. Further securing measures have been put into place to address this and other securing issues that have been identified. No further CAA action is required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 20 large confetti cannons. The supplier has confirmed that each cannon contains a compressed gas canister. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Dangerous goods information was sent to the supplier who responded by adding preventative methods to their website. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger's bag was found to contain an undeclared Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The item was removed from the bag and the FAA were informed. Passenger is not a UK national so no further CAA action is required.

2010-0850 10/11/2010 Philadelphia, USA
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger's luggage was found to contain 2 x 539g Aerosols, flammable, corrosive UN1950 (commercial use oven cleaner) and one bottle of Corrosive liquid, basic, inorganic, n.o.s, UN3266 (toilet cleaner). These items were removed from the luggage and security personnel were informed. Passenger address unknown, therefore, no further CAA possible.

2010-0853 10/11/2010 Manchester

2010-0851 10/11/2010 Jersey
Undocumented dangerous goods. During unloading the captain noticed a dangerous goods tag attached to a Unit Load Device (ULD). The NOTOC had not documented any dangerous goods consignments. The ULD was unloaded in the shed and a package was found with a dry ice dangerous goods label on it. The handling agent is confident they have systems in place to prevent re-occurrence and all staff working on behalf of this operator have received a briefing, this area will be monitored by members of the dangerous goods team. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a pallet of 4 boxes was found to contain 14 x 300ml, 6 x 250ml and 8 x 250ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and acceptable response received. No further CAA action required.

2010-0853 12/11/2010 Heathrow
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a fibreboard box containing 12 x 750ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Belgian Authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

2010-0860 12/11/2010 East Midlands
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment consisting of 1 outer fibreboard box containing 2 inner fibreboard boxes each containing 12 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950 was found. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods, but 2 inner boxes were UN specification and were marked with UN1950 black diamonds. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Shipper. Shipper has replied explaining they are arranging for their stores personnel to receive suitable DG training. No further CAA action required.

2010-0862 12/11/2010 East Midlands
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 2 fibreboard boxes were found to contain 3 x 5L of undeclared Adhesives, UN1133. The fibreboard boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2004-298. Interim warning letter sent to shipper.

Undetermined. During loading, a unit load device containing dangerous goods was found to be giving off a strong noxious smell, and the load appeared to be unsecured. The fire brigade and personnel of the freight shed attended. The unit loading device was escorted back to the cargo shed by an airfield operations vehicle and a fire engine. The unit load device was opened within the freight shed. All the boxes within it were dry and free from damage, although there was a slight odour remaining. Photographic evidence showed that the consignment was properly secured when the unit loading device was built, however, when it returned to the shed the strap was removed but it was undetermined why it had been removed. The unit loading device was rebuilt and travelled on a later flight. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 72 x 75ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2008-250 and 2008-192. Interim warning letter sent to shipper.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passengers baggage was found to contain a can of “Perfect Dust” Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The item was removed from the luggage and the FAA were informed of the incident. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x Fire Extinguishers, UN1044. The Fire Extinguishers were marked with consumer hazard labels and two were within a fibreboard box also clearly marked with a compressed gas 2.2 diamond markings. The outer metal box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a bag was found to contain an Aerosol, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Freight Forwarder as they were unable to provide contact details for the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passengers luggage was found to contain Motorcycle struts and shocks. These items were removed from the passengers luggage. FAA have been informed. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 5 x 300ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading two electric wheelchairs were found secured in the hold. When the load team tried to move one of the electric wheelchairs they noticed that a green light was on, on touching the wheelchair control the wheelchair moved with some speed. The wheelchair’s dry cell battery had not been isolated to prevent inadvertent operation. Operator has investigated and found that the loading staff were fully aware of their responsibilities to secure wheelchairs and isolate their power supplies. The dangerous goods manual has since been updated to clarify the procedures needed to be taken to ensure the wheelchairs are completely isolated of power. A read and sign has been issued to all ramp staff and the operator will continue to monitor the stations performance.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 24 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The individual aerosols had consumer labels as did the two inner boxes, which had UN1950 diamond markings but the outer fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who has responded explaining the fault was with the type of courier service they had been using, they have amended their procedures so any dangerous goods will be sent by a courier who allows road/sea options during booking, they will not send any hazardous goods overseas until they can guarantee their safe delivery in accordance with the safely regulations. Two members of staff has undergone dangerous goods training commensurate with their responsibilities. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. After unloading, an item of mail was suspected to contain Fireworks, UN0336. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods but was identified by sniffer dogs. Subsequent hand search found 36 bars of black power placed within a child’s toy car. The consignment was carried on two sectors prior to discovery. Operator has investigated and concluded that the consignment was not identified during screening due to staff error. Team meetings have been arranged to rebrief the screeners. Incident referred to the Austrian authorities. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading a unit load device was discovered with an unsecured load. Operator has investigated and found that the load builder is qualified to load dangerous goods shipments and is aware of the lashing requirements, he has also completed handling training. After loading this unit the builder signed the acceptance sheet and asked the loaders to lash the unit, which they did not do. The operator concludes that the freight slipped due to lack of lashings. The ground handler has briefed the staff concerned and loading teams to ensure such safety lapses are not repeated and will circulate the findings of this non-conformance to all the teams to spread awareness. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 8 x fibreboard boxes were found to contain a total of 96 x 500ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The boxes were each marked with ADR Ltd and UN1950 printed inside a black diamond. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, new letter sent to freight forwarder who was acting as the shipper. Freight forwarder has replied and sighted human error of the oversight, they have under taken a further training program and instigated further checks on consignments to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During loading a pallet was presented which contained dangerous goods that were not showing on the paperwork. Reporter phoned cargo to confirm the load and the paperwork was updated. If head loader had not been vigilant pallet would have flown unmanifested. Operator has interviewed planner who rectified the error on the day of the incident, and advised them to be more vigilant when checking the manifest and booked list especially on co-loaded units. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods found in mail. During security screening, a consignment of mail was found to contain undeclared dangerous goods. Warning letter sent to shipper, no further CAA action required.

Misdeclared dangerous goods. During loading a consignment labeled as Lithium Batteries was also labeled as unsuitable to travel on a passenger aircraft. Load control were contacted and they established that the cargo was safe for loading and transportation on a passenger aircraft. Operator investigated and found that the consignment had been trucked in and the Cargo Aircraft Only labels had been removed and re-applied at the aircraft side. Loading were informed of the need to contact the dangerous goods coordinator in future situations to prevent such errors. Staff were retrained and the call centre was reminded to check dangerous goods when they are being checked in. No further CAA action is required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During mail security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator removed parcel from air freight and forwarded it by boat. Unable to contact shipper therefore no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 3 shrink wrapped packages of 18 x 200ml, Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The shrink wrapping was printed with UN1950 in a black diamond but the outer fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who replied with actions to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The material safety data sheet which refers to the product was also found in the box and showed the consignment to be UN1950. The individual aerosols had consumer labels but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Shipper has responded explaining they will ensure all packaging is marked and labeled for road transportation and that accompanying paperwork is marked road only. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During passenger baggage security screening, a BIC multi-purpose Lighter, UN1057 and bottle of “lime away” Corrosive liquid, Acidic, Inorganic, N.O.S, UN3264 were found. The items were removed from the passengers luggage. FAA have been informed.

Operator has investigated and as the passenger is not a UK national no further CAA action is required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950, and 4 x 20G bottles of Ethyl Cyanoacetate, UN2666. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Seller and Shipper. Seller has replied saying they will make the purchasers fully aware of any dangerous goods within “ex - works” purchases. The purchaser has been made aware that in such situations they are responsible for the proper transportation of any items of dangerous goods. No further CAA action required. See 2010-0879

Unsecured Dangerous Goods. Upon arrival, dangerous goods within a Unit Load Device (ULD) were found to have worked loose from securing straps. The operator has investigated and interviewed the build team leader who was adamant that the strapping was more than sufficient to restrain the load, and extra strapping was used to secure the barrels that were located in the wing following the team leaders inspection. The operator's investigation concluded from photographs that fibreboard boxes of Class 9 dangerous goods at the bottom of the unit had collapsed during the flight and this would have lead to the straps becoming loose. As the freight was not held it was not possible to assess whether the packagings met the General Packing Requirements of the ICAO Technical Instructions. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 1 x 400ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Shipper (see also DGOR 2010-0876). Letter sent to Seller and Shipper. Seller has replied saying they will make the purchasers fully aware of any dangerous goods within “ex - works” purchases. The purchaser has been made aware that in such situations they are responsible for the proper transportation of any items of dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain cylinders of Compressed gas UN1954 within the airmail. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to FAA for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During documents check a shipment was noted as Elevated temperature liquid, UN3257. Such items are forbidden for travel on passenger aircraft but it had been accepted by the ground handling staff. Operator and ground handler have investigated and found that the acceptance staff were negligent, the member of staff responsible for this has been removed from post and disciplinary action has been taken, he is also due to retake his dangerous goods training. The ground handlers will now ensure there are three fully trained acceptance staff at all times and all dangerous goods consignments will be counter checked by a senior staff member to prevent re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 loose carrier bags holding 4 x 250ml and 25 x 150ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded saying the parcel had been taken in good faith from a member of staff and the aerosols had not been disclosed at the time. To prevent recurrence a document will now be signed declaring the contents of the consignments and any sealed items will be scanned. The dangerous goods link has also been sent to the postroom staff so they are aware. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 6 x 50ml Perfumery Products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, 5 boxes of Dry ice, UN1845 we found unsecured in the bulk hold. The hold was not volumetrically full. There was no evidence of damage to the boxes. The operator investigated and interviewed the team leader who struggled to recall loading the cargo. The operator's ground handling agent issued a briefing to remind staff that animals and dangerous goods must be tied down properly and the cargo warehouse are responsible for supplying the tie down equipment needed to properly secure such items. Station performance will continue to be monitored. No further CAA action is required.

Improperly documented lithium batteries. During loading a consignment was rejected as it bore a Lithium Battery handling label but the NOTOC did not show any dangerous goods. The operator investigated and verified that the consignment was of lithium ion batteries meeting the requirements of ICAO Technical Instructions PI 966 Section II. However, the exporter had not provided documentation as required by the packing instruction. The operator asked its overseas GHA to remind cargo acceptance staff of the documentation requirements and intended to issue a briefing to all loading staff regarding the lithium battery handling label and to include this in ground staff training.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an Aerosol, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
2010-0902 06/12/2010 Stansted

2010-0896 08/12/2010 Stanwell, Middlesex

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box of personal effects was found to contain 208 bottles, totalling 19.8L of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letters sent to the individual shipper and two freight forwarders involved. The freight forwarder that dealt with the individual shipping the personal effects was then visited by a Dangerous Goods Inspector and a letter was sent to them explaining the legal training requirements. No further CAA action necessary.

2010-0911 08/12/2010 Philadelphia, USA

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passengers checked baggage was found to contain Fireworks, UN0337. These items were removed and the FAA were informed. The passenger is a US Citizen so no further CAA action is required.

2010-0931 08/12/2010 Beirut

Undeclared dangerous goods. During a crew sweep a 200ml can of adhesive spray, Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993 was discovered. The can was marked with flammable and harmful markings and was found within a seat pocket. The operator has investigated and found that the adhesive spray belonged to a contractor who had been maintaining the aircraft. The contractors toolbox inventory form has since been re-designed to include consumables and will now ensure no items can be left on the plane after any work has been carried out. No further CAA action required.

2010-0900 09/12/2010 Birmingham

Undeclared dangerous goods. Whilst unloading a consignment of undeclared dangerous goods was discovered. The freight forwarder has contacted us to explain that they were responsible for collecting the consignment, usually they check the consignments for dangerous goods and if they are present these items are sent by road. Their process was not followed on this occasion and as such the member of staff responsible has been spoken to to prevent a future occurrence. No further CAA action required.

2010-0921 09/12/2010 Aberdeen

Unsecured dangerous goods. During preflight checks a consignment of Ethanol UN1170 was discovered on its side under passengers baggage. The crew requested that the consignment was taken off for inspection and whilst questioning the loading crew were told they had not completed dangerous goods training. The consignment was only externally checked and loaded onto the next flight - however the crew were still not satisfied as to the loading teams ability to handle dangerous goods. Insufficient information received. No further CAA action possible.

2010-0906 11/12/2010 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, a consignment of Aerosols, flammable UN1950 was found unsecured within a unit load device (ULD). The ULD was offloaded and was returned to cargo for re-building. Build teams have been reminded of their responsibilities in an attempt to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

2010-0905 12/12/2010 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, 3 boxes of Dry Ice, UN1845 were noticed to have been loaded without being secured to prevent movement. The operator's procedures required all dangerous goods to be physically secured with straps. The boxes were loose but were not seen to be damaged. Operator has investigated and the staff member involved was confirmed to have undergone dangerous goods handling training. Staff have been reminded of the need to properly secure any dangerous goods be it either in a unit load device or hold. Staff performance will be monitored. No further CAA required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Dangerous goods loaded on a pallet were found inadequately secured. The Pallet had originated overseas but had some of he cargo removed at a transit airport. The transit airport failed to properly secure the dangerous goods after removing cargo. The staff responsible for the re-build have been made aware of their error and have undergone further dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Turkish authorities have been informed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to be Sodium Flusilcato, UN2674. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. 2010-0924 17/12/2010 Birmingham

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 cylinders of non flammable gas, UN1956. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letters sent to both courier and shipper. The courier company have expressed that they understood that the gas cylinders were empty but have since discovered this is not the case. They have an office in London which deals with all dangerous goods consignments but as a preventative measure they are looking to provide full dangerous goods training to all their staff in Manchester in early 2011. The shipper has also replied explaining they are aware of the dangerous goods requirements, they admit their emails were misleading and have changed their paperwork to clearly show when cylinders are full or empty. No further CAA action required.

2010-0933 28/12/2010 Prague

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading it was noticed that there was unsecured consignment containing Lithium ion Batteries contained in equipment, UN3481, within the bulk hold. Operator has investigated and interviewed the crewleader who had signed the paperwork relating to this consignment, he was unaware of the dangerous goods and apologised for his oversight, he was reminded of the consequences of his action and the implications involved and was instructed to be more vigilant in the future. No further CAA action necessary.

2010-0932 29/12/2010 Heathrow

Leaking dangerous goods. A member of staff was called to observe the re-packing of a consignment of dangerous goods which was thought to be damaged. Although the outer box showed no signs of damage there was staining to the bottom area. When the box was opened the glass bottle was broken and its contents were sitting in a plastic bag which surrounded it. The package has since been moved for disposal. Norwegian authorities have been contacted. Operator has investigated and believes the leak was first noticed on the 26th Dec but it is not possible to determine when and where the damage and subsequent leak took place. No further CAA action required.

No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. Prior to departure in transit, the turnaround manager advised that Air bag inflators, UN3268 had been discovered in the hold and that they had not been noted on the NOTOC. He consulted CLC who advised they should be onboard but that they should have been annotated at the origin. As it had been incorrectly missed they were unable to add it at this stage. The Captain consulted the emergency response guide, for the details of the item and handling instructions, but deemed it safe to carry the item and that the dangerous goods posed no risk to the safety of the aircraft or passengers. Following an investigation by the operator it has been found that the error occurred due to the original flight planner failing to include the dangerous goods on the information provided to Load Control. The operator proposed to discuss this administrative error with the staff member concerned. The Captain acknowledged that in the circumstances he should have sought a manual NOTOC from the transit airport ground handler. No further CAA action required.

2010-0946 31/12/2010 Abu Dhabi

No further CAA action necessary.
2011-0001 02/01/2011 Tenerife, Canary Islands

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading a wheelchair - Battery powered, UN3171 was found fully powered up with no actions taken to protect the battery terminals. The operator’s investigation established that they had provided the passenger with written instructions for preparing the wheelchair for carriage but these had not been complied with. They contacted the passenger after the incident to remind them that they must make arrangements to make the wheelchair safe for transport. The operator’s handling agent had not checked the wheelchair had been deactivated so alerted all staff to the incident and re-briefed the individual involved. No further CAA action required.

Spilt dangerous goods. At departure aerodrome the refuel valves had been worked on and there had been a fuel spillage. It is believed, blankets were used to clean up the fuel spill and were then placed in the hold. After arriving at destination loaders reported feeling dizzy and confirmed a strong smell of fuel from coming from the bulk cargo, investigation found a number of blankets soaked in fuel in the bulk cargo. The operator's detailed investigation concluded that the engineer/mechanic had no cleaning material available at the time to clean the refuel valve. Dirty aircraft blankets that were on the ramp awaiting to be loaded in compartment 5 were used, and not disposed of after use, by the Mechanic. There was no communication between the engineering team and loading team regarding the blankets that were contaminated. Due to the fuel leakage, there was a fuel odour in the area and the loader did not detect the fuel smell was from the blankets. The engineer did not follow the fuel spillage SOP's. Operator's closure actions included ensuring the availability of cleaning material to the engineering team on station; the provision of refresher dangerous goods and fuel spills training for the mechanic and loaders and cleaners to be briefed on the incident. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, two fibreboard boxes were found with a total of 384 x 75ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 contained in 8 inner boxes. The inner boxes were marked with LQ diamonds UN1950 but the outer boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Shipper apologised and explained that due to a warehouse error, the consignment went by courier instead of by sea via palletization. Shipper has been audited and approved by a DGSA. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 15L steel drum, Environmentally Hazardous Substance, liquid UN3082 and articles in Excepted Quantities. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Shipper admitted MSDS and contents of the drum were classified incorrectly. Freight Forwarder apologised for omitting 'Excepted Quantities' on MAWB. Correct MSDS, amended MAWB and amended Shipper’s Declaration submitted. Email to Shipping Clerk. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. During freight checks, a consignment found to contain Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993 was incorrectly documented on the dangerous goods transport document (shipper’s declaration) and last year’s regulations was used. The consignor was contacted and advised of the incident. The consignor admitted to the error and confirmed that he was using last year’s regulations. The consignor has made arrangements to receive the new regulations. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods, although the boxes have UN specification markings and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. DGOR submitted 10 days after incident. Reason for delay being that reporter was waiting for reply from shipper with regard to falsely declared ‘Not Restricted’ items. Shipper’s Declaration and MSDS received. Warning Letter sent to shipper who had replied with a copy of a dangerous goods training certificate, more staff will be attending courses in March. The shipper has implemented new procedures via their computer software in order to prevent re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 12 inner boxes inside one fibreboard box was found to contain 24 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable. The inner boxes were marked with an ADR UN1950 LQ labels, but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0036, 2010-0630 and 2010-0718. A Dangerous Goods Inspector visited the shipper and they were made aware of the penalties of future incidents. The shipper advised they do not want to send consignments containing dangerous goods by air and they have informed their chosen freight forwarder on several occasions. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that they have held several meetings with both their warehouse staff, re-iterating the correct procedure, and their freight agent to ensure that both understood that they do not wish to have consignments sent by air transport. As a result a further label has been introduced, which highlights, that the consignment is not eligible for air transport. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x Batteries, wet, filled with acid, electric storage, UN2794. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that they were unaware of that the batteries were classed as dangerous goods. As a result of the incident the relevant departments of the shipper have been made aware of the oversight. They have reviewed their procedures to mitigate any further non compliance. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, a consignment containing Flammable liquid, n.o.s., (Ethyl methacrylate) UN1993, was found unsecured within a unit load device (ULD). Investigation completed. The dangerous goods had only been strapped in one direction, which was not in compliance to the operators standards. The handling agent has briefed all assigned staff to the operators standards (read and sign document also completed), to prevent a similar event occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared and leakage of dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 5L drum of undeclared Hexaldehyde, UN1207, which had leaked. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Upon further investigation, it was confirmed that the consignment travelled by truck and not by air transport. Letter sent to shipper. Warning letter sent from Head, DGO to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During a medical diversion from the scheduled route, ground crew inspected the hold and found that a battery powered vehicle UN3171 (mobility aid) had not been secured and that its two batteries, which had been removed were loose on the cargo hold floor. The ground crew secured all the items before departure to destination. Operator has investigated and interviewed the member of staff who secured the wheelchair, he believed the chair to be properly secured and has completed further training. A memo has been pinned to all notice boards to act as focus points to the team mangers. No further CAA action required.

2011-0060 11/02/2011 Southampton

Undeclared dangerous goods. Prior to loading the lead hand and his operative noticed a passengers bag had opened and inside the bag there were two canisters. The canisters were marked and labelled as Compressed gas, N.O.S., Carbon Monoxide gas, UN1956. The operator has investigated, unfortunately in the supervisors absence the Compressed gas was given back to the passenger on his return. Letter sent to passengers business address. In response, the passengers employer has replied explaining all staff are trained in the correct transportation of carbon monoxide gas and they apologise for the oversight. All staff have been contacted to inform them of the dangers of not declaring the gas before they travel and they confirm that they will not be carrying gas canisters when they fly. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain undeclared Flammable liquids, UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the FAA for investigation. No further CAA action required.

2011-0068 13/02/2011 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 24 x 450ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The consignment had flown into the UK during transit to its destination - requested operator looked into how the cargo was allowed to fly. Operator in Lagos has investigated and sent a warning letter to cargo agent and a letter to Nigerian CAA advising of the incident. Operator has asked customers to bring extra seals so that Security can carry out physical examinations of courier bags at the airport in addition to x-ray screening. No further CAA action required.

Damaged dangerous goods. During unloading a unit load device was found to contain a damaged drum of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., (epoxide derivative) UN3082. The drum was carried on its own within a ULD but had been inadequately secured and was dented. Investigations established that the relevant staff considered it necessary to load the barrel onto a wooden pallet (to prevent metal on metal contact within the ULD). A second wooden pallet was placed on top of the drum and was lashed to the ULD. During transportation, the bottom wooden pallet collapsed resulting in the lashes giving way making the consignment insecure. The relevant procedure has been amended to prevent recurrence of events of this nature. Loading staff have been reminded of the requirements for handling dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods leading to spillage. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain undeclared Fuel, aviation, turbine engine, UN1863. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to FAA. Further to investigation by the FAA they advised that an employee had tried to rush the drying process and clearly misjudged the dryness and packed and dispatched the used filter element. The shipper has tightened their used element return procedures to require confirmation from two levels of supervisor and management, that the element is indeed completely dry and not hazardous. They now have procedures in place to aid in prevention of recurrence of this type of violation. The shipper pleaded guilty to breaches of Title 49, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 171.22 (a)-Authorisation & Conditions for the use of International Standards & Regulations and ICAO Technical Instructions 1:1.2. and was fined a total of $20,000. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a Life saving appliance, self-inflating, UN2990 and a Carbon dioxide gas cartridge UN2037. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Labels on the inner bag confirm that the consignment had previously been rejected for travel via the Royal Mail. Letter sent to shipper who replied explaining the air option had been ticked in error on the courier form. They have notified all their staff that these goods must not be sent by road/air or sea unless the relevant regulatory conditions are followed and the correct paperwork/labelling/packaging is used. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an undeclared Engine internal combustion, UN3166. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper was contacted and advised that he had purchased the item brand new and the company who supplied the item also confirmed that it had not been used. However, the handling agent confirmed that there was a strong smell of petrol emanating from the tank. The shipper was subsequently advised that the engine would need to be shipped as dangerous goods (as Special Provision A70) had not been met. No further CAA action required.
Leaking dangerous goods. After unloading and upon arrival at the cargo warehouse, it was noticed that a fibreboard box containing Environmentally Hazardous Substance, liquid, UN3082 was leaking. The box was placed in a safe area which was cordoned off and the aircraft in which it had arrived was checked; a small dry white stain was found on the hold floor. It was not determined when the leaked occurred because no wet areas were found and CCTV footage didn’t indicate that the package was incorrectly handled during the offloading of the aircraft. The aircraft concerned was cleared to depart. Referred to the Austrian authorities for investigation who advice that no cause for the leakage could be found. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, a unit load device was found to contain unsecured dangerous goods, Toxic solid, organic, UN2811. It was noticed through the plastic side that the barrels contained inside had become free from their strapping’s and one was on its side. There was no damage or leakage. The operator investigated and found the incident was caused by staff error, the staff concerned were spoken to and re-trained in the correct lashing of such consignments. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, no further CAA action required.

Suspected undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a piece of a consignment was found with a Miscellaneous class 9 label on it. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The operator has contacted the shipper and confirmed that the label was from a previous shipment and that the contents of the consignment were not dangerous goods. Label was removed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 100ml Corrosive liquid n.o.s (Phosphoric acid) UN1760. The consignment was marked incorrectly with PSN Phosphoric acid, solution but had Class 8 Hazard label. MSDS confirms consignment as UN1760. No other dangerous goods labels attached and consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 43 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. LQ UN1950 labels were printed on the two inner boxes and were labelled with ‘Danger to the Environment’, flammable and irritant consumer symbols. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. Shipper apologised. Has recently began exporting and admitted is not fully aware of the regulations. Believed courier driver should have checked consignment and supplier should have informed shipper of regulations. Shipper will in future prepare the documentation. Email to courier company. All consignments are hand searched or sent for x-ray as unknown cargo. Courier driver did not search the parcels and when asked on collection if consignment was flammable, shipper said no. Courier driver has been booked to attend DG refresher training. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x Perfumery products UN1266, 7 x Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods other than orientation and LQ UN1266 markings and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following a visit to the agent, it was confirmed that they provide information to their customers alerting them not to place items of dangerous goods in consignments of personal effects. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, a pallet within a container was found to contain dangerous goods which were not secured. A strap was found in the container but was loose. The unit was unloaded and returned to cargo for inspection. Further to an investigation by the operator it was identified that the strap was in place restraining the freight. The team leader responsible for the build has been interviewed and advised that the unit was not volumetrically full, therefore, the freight should have been restrained in both directions. The error will not be repeated again. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 3kg Seat belt pretensioners, UN3268. The consignment had a UN Specification marking and with 'Seat belt pretensioners' and had a Class 9 Miscellaneous label attached, but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Incident report forwarded to Belgian authorities and cargo agent. No response received from Belgian authorities or from cargo agent. No further CAA action possible.

On arrival at destination, a consignment of aircraft parts Oxygen, compressed UN1072 was not declared on the manifest. The operator's investigation concluded that the shipment was booked incorrectly, the documents were processed incorrectly and it was loaded incorrectly. The relevant staff members were identified and interviewed for not checking the relevant documents. The operator has sent out an instruction that all dangerous goods must be labelled as 'OK to Ship' and all relevant individuals have retaken dangerous goods awareness training. No further action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During unloading, a consignment was found to have slipped during transit. The operator investigated and in response the handling agent responsible for the build has been taken off the build function until such time as further classroom training has been undertaken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of two boxes was found to contain 44 x 150ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. Response received. Shipper has carried out an investigation into incident. Error occurred due to miscommunication with courier and has asked courier for guidance and advice. Shipper has issued warehouse staff with appropriate guidelines as per the regulations. Courier has supplied shipper with stickers to correctly classify and identify goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a nearly empty canister of gas. The consignment was released before further details could be established. No further CAA action can be taken.
Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading an electric wheelchair, Battery powered vehicle, UN3171 was discovered unsecured with the power light in the on position. The operator is investigating. In response, the operator has again alerted their handling agents to the requirements for the correct preparation and loading requirements of mobility aids, through daily briefings, email guidance and advising them of FODCOM 45/2008. In addition, the service delivery department will endeavour to have the PRM at the boarding gate one hour before departure to alleviate any time constraint issues that have previously been encountered. The Safety and Security Department have reiterated the importance on safety and will continue to monitor this station to ensure procedures are followed. No further CAA action required.

Incompatible dangerous goods. During loading the team leader noticed that the LIRF was showing a unit load device containing a cocktail of various incompatible restricted items. They questioned the ULD and was told the items were compatible but the load team disagreed and off loaded the ULD and returned it to the warehouse. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain two tins of undeclared Tetraethyl Silicate, UN1292. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The consignment was delivered as known cargo by a driver with no ID, therefore, the consignment was made unknown. The reporter is investigating why the consignment was accepted. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that the incident occurred because their system had not identified the product as dangerous goods. The shipper has now amended their procedures, updated their system and addressed further training required. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a small quantity of Mercury, UN2809 within a plastic bag wrapped in a piece of material. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The incident has been forwarded to the FAA for investigation. Due to lack of information FAA could not complete their investigation. No further CAA possible.

NOTOC error. During loading, items declared, marked and labelled as dangerous goods were spotted. There was no mention of them on the NOTOC for the outbound flight so the consignment was off-loaded. The dangerous goods details had not been entered correctly into the freight-booking system leading to the information not being transferred to the NOTOC system. Freight not identified as dangerous goods on system initially. When checking in for flight, booking agent attempted to make changes, however, was unable to update system correctly. Agent has been made aware of shortfall in training and will refer future occurrences to qualified staff.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During loading, a consignment was found with a dangerous goods tag attached to it, the consignment was off loaded from the aircraft as it did not appear on the NOTOC. The operator’s investigation revealed that the shipper did not declare the dangerous goods on arrival and once the consignment of UN8000 was identified, sufficient information was not captured on the NOTOC. Once the correct information was put on the NOTOC, the consignment flew on the next available service. Station manager at origin has been made aware of the errors and dangerous goods will only be accepted when trained staff are on duty to check for discrepancies and that the correct information has been entered on the operator’s system.

Incident closed by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment covered in black shrink wrap was opened and found to contain 26 x 25L plastic drums of Corrosive Liquid, N.O.S., UN1760. The overpack was not marked or labelled correctly or accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. An MSDS obtained by the operator which identified the product as not regulated. Following an investigation between the CAA and the Dutch Authority, it was established that the consignment had been sent direct from the manufacturer to the shipper in the UK by sea/truck. A meeting was held with the UK shipper and identified that the product was previously not regulated, but had recently been reclassified as dangerous goods by the manufacturer. Letter sent to shipper requesting corrective and preventative measures to prevent recurrence. In response they have introduced more robust measures to ensure that manufacturers alert them to any new MSDS that are issued to ensure that transport information is up to date. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard was found to contain 12 x 100ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The aerosols are marked with consumer hazard labels but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During unloading one of the courier bags was leaking paint, UN1263. Operator has investigated and informed the US Postal Inspection Service who have interviewed the shipper and conducted an investigation into the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Two unarmed Protection Officers arrived at London City with their weapons in locked boxes. The NOTOC was incorrect three times and did not state that there were MOW in the hold. The officers brought the weapons to the aircraft for storage in the flight deck. There were two padlocked boxes, one containing the pistols and the other with ammunition. Incident report received. Operator established the causes of the incident were that check-in did not ensure the Police Officers surrendered their weapons and that an incorrect NOTOC was issued to the Captain. The check-in agent and the turnaround co-ordinator will re-sit DG training. The operator has amended its Local Procedures Manual and will monitor the frequency of similar incidents. Copy of the LPM procedure provided to the CAA. No further CAA action required.
Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. During unloading, a consignment containing Biological substance B, UN3373 was found underneath 238KG of luggage and 138kg of mail, the consignment had orientation labels but was still loaded upside down. The operator’s investigation concluded that the dangerous goods were unrestrained and not noted on their system as a ‘Special Load’. The consignment remained intact. The loader was interviewed and was instructed to load dangerous goods in accordance with training, which included observation of orientation labels. The ground handling manager issued a read and sign memo to all the relevant staff about the correct orientation of packagings, which must be loaded in the hold in the upright position to ensure the package does not leak. All staff were required to sign the memo. The operator’s report recommended that the station’s performance should be monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During loading, a consignment was found to contain Dry Ice, UN1845. The consignment was not listed on the paperwork so the turnaround manager liaised with cargo and requested new paperwork was raised. The turnaround manager reprinted the NOTOC and informed the captain. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 212g Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a pressurised cylinder containing Carbon dioxide, UN1013. The cylinder was marked with a 2.2 hazard diamond but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, two fibreboard boxes were each found to contain an undeclared gas cylinder. The boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Consignment was released, however unable to ascertain the contents or the quantity from the operator despite sending two emails. No further CAA action to be taken.

Undeclared dangerous goods. After a flight a passenger requested that a box be left at the airport to be collected by a third party. Later that day a phone call was taken by one of the baggage handlers/firemen who recognised the name of the product as being dangerous goods. The baggage handler/fireman opened the box to find 3 tins, one containing Paint, UN1263. The tin containing paint had consumer labels and the UN number was visible, all the tins were rusty and one was leaking. The passenger carried the box as a favour, but did not disclose this during check-in. The operator is investigating. Passenger told check-in baggage contained ‘tools’. Letter sent to shipper, who apologised for error and admitted was naïve to accept package without knowing the contents. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an Engine, internal combustion, UN3166. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Belgium and the South African authorities for investigation. Belgium authorities investigated and it was established that the consignment didn’t originate from South Africa. The shipper advised that they were aware of their mistake and stated that would comply with the regulations for future consignments. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box within a consignment was found to contain a 5L drum of Amines, liquid, corrosive, n.o.s., UN2735. The fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that they were unaware of the regulations and they do not normally transport dangerous goods by air. They advised that the error will not happen again. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During passenger security screening, luggage was found to contain a bathroom cleaner, Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The aerosol was removed from the luggage, as the passenger is not a UK national, no further CAA action is required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During a routine search of passengers, staff discovered 2 x 450ml Aerosols, UN1950 containing WD40. At no point was a dangerous goods declaration made or any dangerous goods documentation provided. As a result of investigation, it was established that the passenger who was a subcontractor removed the goods from the offshore stores without permission and for his own personal use and was subsequently dismissed. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, a consignment of Dry ice was found not tied down. Further to an investigation by the operator. Final loading checks before closing the door were not performed. Ground Handling Agent had been instructed to carry out practical refresher training for the turn around co-ordinator under supervisory control for the next 15 turnarounds. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During passenger security screening, passenger’s baggage was found to contain an Aerosol, UN1950. The aerosol was removed from the baggage. Appropriate Operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Details sent to Ministry of Defence. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During passenger security screening, passenger baggage was found to contain a can of polish and a spray can, Aerosols, flammable, UN 1950. The items were removed from the luggage and returned to relatives. The FAA have been informed as the passenger is not a UK National no further CAA action is required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During passenger security screening, a passenger’s luggage was found to contain an Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The aerosol was removed from the luggage, as the passenger is not a UK National, no further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 20 Lighters, UN1057. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 50ml glass bottle of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 400ml Aerosol, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, an inner box inside an outer fibreboard box was found to contain 6 x 500ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The inner box was marked with UN1950 but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further to the Singapore Authorities investigation it was determined that the cause of the occurrence was due to lack of dangerous goods knowledge. For future consignments, the agent will continue opening and inspecting every consignment until the shippers’ staff have completed all the relevant dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, small engine/auto parts and fluids found in passenger’s bag and removed at origin. Operator faxed paperwork to FAA. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x Aerosols, flammable UN1950 and 2 x Adhesives, containing flammable liquid UN1133. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival, an electric wheelchair (dry cell) was not secured in the hold and the batteries were not secured in the chair. Whilst offloading the chair, the chair fell off the belt onto the ground and one of the batteries became detached. Closure report concluded that the incident occurred as a result of incorrect procedures and that dry cell batteries should have been removed and secured due to the weight. The loading agent did not follow the guidance in the Ground Handling Manual. The manual has been amended with specific guidance on loading electric wheelchairs. Operator intends to install lashing points on the aircraft to provide more securing options for the loaders. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of four suitcases was found to contain 15 items of Aerosols, flammable UN1950, Perfumery Products, UN1266 and Consumer Commodity, UN8000. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter to freight forwarder agent reminding him of the necessary preventative measures to be implemented following visit (see 2011-0074) and to send copies of signed declarations. Warning letter to shipper who is currently abroad but has a UK address. Copy of a booking order form with pictorial examples of the nine classes of dangerous goods received. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment covered in black shrink wrap was found to contain 10 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During the build of freight, it was noticed that a fibreboard box displayed a Class 2.2 label and was marked with UN3164, which was found to contain Articles, pressurized, hydraulic, UN3164. Upon further investigation another unmarked and labelled fibreboard box was found to contain Articles, pressurized, hydraulic, UN3164. The whole consignment consisted of six fibreboard boxes banded and covered by heat shrink plastic on a small wooden pallet. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and freight agent. In response, the shipper advised that they carried out an internal investigation and it was determined that purchasing specification details must clearly state the pre-charge status of the accumulators, preferably requesting that the accumulators are supplied with no pre-charge. The mode of transport to end destination must be established by the job manager and the appropriate documentation provided. All accumulators to be checked by a member of stores personnel/QC to ensure there is no pre-charge unless stated on the manifest and items are accompanied by the appropriate documentation. General dangerous goods awareness training to be provided to all stores personnel and component sales

Unsecured dangerous goods. Incorrectly built ULD found on stand containing 1 x drum Ketones, liquid n.o.s (3,4 Hexanedione) UN1224. The consignment was labelled as containing dangerous goods and was accompanied by a dangerous goods document, but was not loaded correctly. Container deemed unfit to fly and was offloaded. Operator's investigation established that the consignment arrived from Israel without incident, but the rebuild going to New York was deemed inadequate. A drum containing flammable liquid was secured with a strap and upright on top of boxes, but became loose in the ULD after leaving the workstation and the operator was unable to explain how. Operator has instructions in place stating that team leaders have to inspect a dangerous goods build. After further investigation, the only possible causes to the drum becoming loose are it fell on its way to the aircraft or it was dropped at the aircraft side. The operator will monitor the reporting of similar occurrences. No further CAA action required.

Mislabelled dangerous goods. During loading, a container was found containing dangerous goods labelled for a different flight. The consignment was not recorded as dangerous goods on the NOTOC and was offloaded. Operator is investigating. Closure report from operator stated that an old ULD tag was left on the unit built in Amsterdam. Loading team were not sure which flight the unit was meant for. Once unit was returned to cargo shed and checked, the old tag was removed and the unit flew the next day. Operator has highlighted the importance of removing labels to handling agent. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 500ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, a 946ml tin of undeclared Paint, UN1263 and 6 x 133.6ml of undeclared Consumer commodity, ID8000. The aerosols were each marked with UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During freight checks, a consignment was found to contain 3 boxes of Receptacles, small, containing gas, UN2037. The consignment was sent as limited quantity and did not state what type of UN2037 was contained within each box and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further information from the operator advised that the consignment was not booked as dangerous goods as the shippers agent did not declare it at the time of booking. The agent realised their error and tried to stop the consignment but they were to late as the flight had departed. A shipper’s declaration was raised and forwarded to enable the consignment to No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 48 x 35ml of undeclared Aerosols, non-flammable. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment of dangerous goods was found unsecured in a container. All the dangerous goods freight was not secured and had shifted during transit. A strap was in the unit but was not used. As a result of the operator’s investigation, the staff member involved with the build was counselled on the correct build of dangerous goods. A new process was implemented whereby staff members will be retrained following their first build failure, counselled after a second incident and removed from handling for the operator on the third occasion. This aim of this measure was to address the problem before a third incident occurred. It was also raised that this incident was not reported under the MOR scheme within the required time. This was investigated and the cause was because when the incident was raised as an MOR to the relevant manager, he was on rest days. This was addressed by ensuring incidents classed as MORs are entered on the relevant operator’s database. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 13 packages of various quantities of Paint, (including paint, lacquer, enamel, stain, shellac, varnish) UN1263. Some bottles were packed in clear plastic bags or wrapped in bubble wrap. A small number of bottles were either loose or secured to the inner boxes by an elastic band. A broken bottle of varnish had leaked onto the inner carton and other broken bottles were wrapped and had hardened in bubble wrap. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The consignment was declared as non-hazardous on air waybill. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consolidated consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 2L Acetone, UN1090, 2 x 473ml and 7 x 113ml Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993, 10 x 2kg and 1 x 250g Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, 4 x 1.5ml Paint, UN1263, 8 x 3g Aviation regulated liquid, n.o.s., UN3334, total of 1125ml Perfumery products, UN1266, Lithium ion batteries, UN3480 and Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following a visit to the freight forwarder, they have agreed to implement additional preventative measures to prevent recurrence including further dangerous goods information to their customers. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival and during transit a consignment of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3028 was found unsecured in a unit loading device. No further CAA action possible.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Visited Freight Forwarder to discuss incidents. See also 2011-0157 and 2011-0158. Satisfied Freight Forwarder will take preventative action. Warning letters sent to the two shippers associated with the three incidents. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment in a fibreboard box was found to contain 1 x 50ml Perfumery Products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required. See also DGOR 2011-0171.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, a consignment found to contain Non-flammable, non-toxic gas, was reported pushing against a container door bowing it outwards. The container door was opened and the consignment was found to have moved under its restraining strap. The container was returned to the cargo building. An investigation by the operator advised that the team leader responsible for the build has been interviewed. They have been made aware of their error of not restraining freight in both directions and have been advised to ensure that no further incidents occur. A safety notice covering the issue has been raised. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of ‘spare parts for air conditioner’ was found to contain UN3296, Heptafluoropropane. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Copy of incident report forwarded to Swiss authorities for investigation, who advised that the shipper would be inspected. No further CAA action required.
Documentation error. During loading, a consignment was found to contain 1,1,1,2-Tetrafluoroethane, UN3159. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However, the consignment had not been declared on the air waybill. The handling agent also did not notice the dangerous goods markings upon acceptance. Requested further information from the operator and the freight agent. Response from the agent advised that the incident occurred because the consignment had not been noted as dangerous goods on the paperwork issued from the implant site but because the consignment was correctly marked and labelled as dangerous goods, the warehouse staff assumed that the process along with any checks had already been completed. To prevent further incidents occurring the agent have amended their procedures to make initial checks at the implant site and for checks to be made by the warehouse staff during the unloading of vehicles. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During a check by Customs staff, one fibreboard box within the consignment sent by a University was found to contain several small bottles bearing consumer warning labels indicating that they contained toxic substances. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper (a University) requesting an explanation and details of corrective actions taken. In response, the shipper advised that the incident occurred because a student had sent the dangerous goods without knowledge of the dangerous goods regulations. The shipper have now amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment in a cardboard box was found to contain 18 x 500ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. Each aerosol was marked with a consumer label and with a UN1950 classification. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. Shipper called to explain that consignment was meant for sea and road transport. Freight forwarder, however, confirmed that the shipper asked for the consignment to go 'overnight' to the consignee in Italy, therefore by air. Further letter to shipper to point out that the packaging for this consignment did not meet maritime regulations either. Contact details for MCA supplied to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 250ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, a consignment found to contain Biological substance, UN3373 and Dry ice, UN1845 was found unsecured in a ULD - the ULD was offloaded and the turnaround manager was notified. An investigation by the operator advised the freight had been secured during the build process, 5 straps were used. It is believed that the consignment came free from the straps during the journey from the cargo building because of the different sizes of the freight and abnormalities in the roads between the building and the aircraft. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. A can of ‘Raid’ flying insect spray, Aerosols, flammable UN1950 was found in a passenger’s baggage and removed. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. One bottle of nail polish remover was removed from a passenger’s baggage. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading of the aircraft, consignments of lithium batteries were found unsecured and upside down with arrows pointing in the wrong direction. The air waybill was correct as per the Packing Instruction 956, however, further to an investigation by the operator, it was discovered that the staff at the station of origin misunderstood the Packing Instruction regarding the handling requirements for Section II Lithium Batteries. According to the operator, as the flight was an arrival, neither a copy of the NOTOC or the loading report was available. The operator was unable to ascertain which member of staff was responsible for loading the batteries and no one would admit to having any knowledge of the incident. All staff were made aware of the loading requirements as per the Orientation Label and that lithium batteries must be handled safely and correctly secured. The operator also recommended that the station’s performance was monitored. The operator did not take any photos at the location. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 192ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 oil lanterns. Upon further inspection, both lanterns appeared to contain a residue of fuel. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Telephone discussion held with shipper who was unaware that any requirements applied. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During freight checks, a consignment of Biological substance, UN3373 with Dry ice, UN1845 was found unsecured. When the consignment was found the orientation labels displayed on the outer packaging were found upside down. Investigation completed. It would appear that the consignment moved in transit due to turbulence. It was recommended that the agent ensure that staff take more time and care when loading/building any units to ensure that it has been correctly strapped and loaded. Operator has informed the South African Authorities of this incident. No further CAA action required.
Passenger error. Upon arrival passenger found that a high intensity diving lamp had switched on during flight and burned through the bag in which it was contained. Passenger, who self reported to CAA, advised of his responsibilities regarding dangerous goods in baggage, particularly "heat producing articles". Suggested to manufacturer that warnings in operating manual were slightly ambiguous. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x undeclared compressed gas (Hydrogen, cyanide, nitrogen), Non flammable Gas, UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the French authorities. No further CAA action required.

Dangerous goods carried without documentation and suspected to have been unmanifested and without being included on the NOTOC. Upon arrival, it was found that a consignment of 36 x 10kg fibreboard boxes of Environmentally hazardous substance, solid, UN3077 had been carried without any dangerous goods documentation. It appeared that although the consignment had apparently been correctly marked, labelled and declared as dangerous goods, prior to flight the shipper had requested that the consignment be held, but it was subsequently loaded on the aircraft in error. Details of incident sent to the US Authorities for further investigation, no further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Unit Load Device (ULD) was offloaded because the dangerous goods inside the unit were unsecured. Operator’s investigation concluded that some freight was removed from the ULD before departure, after the unit had been signed off as fit to travel by the team leader and confirmed that the dangerous goods had been securely wedged into the wing. Once some of the freight had been removed, the dangerous goods were no longer secured and wedged into the wing. Photographic evidence revealed that the dangerous goods became unsecured. The operator’s investigation report concluded that this incident was a result of human error and the staff member was made aware of the error. According to the operator, there has been extensive training on the securing of freight, with emphasis on dangerous goods consignments to prevent further re-occurrence. No further CAA action possible.

Loading error. During freight checks, it was found that dangerous goods had been off loaded because they required checking. An investigation by the Operator concluded that the freight had been subjected to the appropriate dangerous goods acceptance check and had been off loaded in error. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 bottle of perfume (Perfumery products, UN1266). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 0.25L metal can of Hydrocarbons, liquid, n.o.s., UN3295. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a can of spray dust remover was removed from the passenger's baggage. Incident was reported to the local FAA field office. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, hazardous materials were found in three out of six passenger suitcases of 2 x bottles of 91% Isopropyl Alcohol, UN1219, 4 x cans of fabric cleaner and 2 cans x hair clipper blade cleaner. The goods were removed from the passenger's baggage. Operator asked that the incident was reported to the local FAA field office. Satisfied the operator has taken appropriate action. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment in a fibreboard box was found to contain 4 x 250ml and 2 x 50ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During a check of the flight documents in preparation for completion of the NOTOC, it was noticed that the commodity on one Air Waybill was described as an Internal Combustion Engine. The consignment was removed from the ULD in which it had been loaded and inspected further. Upon opening the outer box, it was found that it contained a further box that was marked and labelled as containing Engine, internal combustion (flammable liquid powered), UN3166 and bore a different Air Waybill number. It became clear that the consignment had previously been rejected by the same handling agent because the box had been damaged and there had been signs that fuel had spilled from the contents. The outer box did not display any dangerous goods marking or labelling and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Engine confirmed from Freight Forwarder never contained fuel as per Special Provision A70. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 200L tank of Hydrocarbons, liquid, n.o.s., UN3295. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 200L tank of Hydrocarbons, liquid, n.o.s., UN3295. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 300ml Aerosol, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 300ml Aerosol, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 Helium, compressed gas canister UN1046. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, however, the inner packaging was marked as UN1046, Helium Compressed and with a Gas non-flammable symbol. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x steel cylinders, each bearing a division 2.2 hazard label. One of the cylinders was marked as containing UN3159 (1,1,1,2 Tetrafluoroethane). The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that the cylinders sent, were clean and empty, but the dangerous goods labels had not been removed. The shipper have now instructed their staff to send the empty, clean cylinders without labelling. They have arranged a meeting with their agent to review the incident. They have also arranged for dangerous goods awareness training for their Laboratory staff and refresher training has been arranged for their existing IATA trained staff. They have also amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 1 x 200ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper; no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 200ml undeclared Aerosol, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further information requested from agent. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 50ml, a 100ml and a 30ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2007-327. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised, that the Team Leader responsible for shipping the consignment read on the agents website the countries which accept dangerous goods and proceeded to package and label the consignment Perfumes and advised the same of the agents packing list and believed that the consignment conformed. The shipper have staff trained to complete dangerous goods notes but they were not consulted on this occasion. They have now changed their internal controls to prevent further consignments being sent without the trained administrators signing it off and approval from one of the warehouse management. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain several bottles of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 100ml undeclared Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 113g of undeclared Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment was found to consist of 40 x 200L of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. The operator carried out an investigation and found that the consignment had been correctly declared but their internal system had not been updated correctly. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 25ml undeclared Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0274 and 2011-0276. Referred to the Italian authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 100ml, 30ml and 2 x 50ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 200ml Flammable liquid n.o.s., UN1993 (body spray) and 4 x 150ml Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised the consignment contained personal items belonging to an employee who worked for the company who was relocating. The employee was unaware of the dangerous goods requirements and has been advised and will now receive training. They also confirmed that all their employees responsible for shipping dangerous goods are fully trained and are aware of the requirements. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of a vinyl bag was found to contain 2 x 350ml Aerosols, non flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Damaged and incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment of Environmentally hazardous substance, solid, n.o.s, UN3077, was found with punctures and tears on the outer packaging. The supporting photographs showed the consignment consisted of two pallets, which had been loaded on top of each other and during the flight, the top layer shifted. A further consignment on the same flight was carried unmanifested. Since this consignment was destined for a different airport, it would appear the consignment was loaded on the wrong aircraft. This consignment was also so tightly strapped down, the plastic drum which contained flammable liquid was damaged. An investigation by the operator advised the air waybill for the unmanifested consignment was booked in the correct way with the correct destinations showing, but the unit was booked as a transfer unit. To prevent further incidents occurring all the relevant staff received additional training. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment consisting of a plastic bag with a fibreboard box containing a gas container was found to contain 13.7L of undeclared Helium, compressed, UN1046. The fibreboard box bore a Class 2.2 label and was marked with UN1046 but the plastic bag was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent for DGOR 2011-0205. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a flyer pouch was found to contain 1L of undeclared Adhesives, UN1133. The pouch was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised they had amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment in a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 100ml Flammable liquid, UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. A ULD was offloaded due to the dangerous goods inside the unit were not secured. Operator’s investigation report revealed that although the crew responsible for the build were interviewed following the incident, they were unable to recall that particular unit. The operator produced two internal Safety Notices; one about restraining dangerous goods in at least two directions if the unit was not volumetrically full and other freight was not preventing any movement and the advising that team leaders must sign off a build as fit to fly and to also take, download and retain photographs for a minimum of 14 days. The staff in question were aware of the notices and stated that they would have carried out the build correctly. The operator was unable to investigate this incident further due to a lack of information. There were no photos available because they were deleted. The issues regarding the incident were subject to ongoing monitoring by the operator at location. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, within a consignment of 21 boxes, 13 of which were found to contain 10 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The inner packages bore markings applicable to transport by road, however the shrink-wrap overpack bore no such markings and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document (for air transport). Further investigation established that the goods were consigned from a supplier to a freight forwarder who in turn acted as the shipper for onwards air carriage to Nigeria. The supplier did not provide sufficient information to the shipper with regards to markings and instructions. Shipper will put measures in place so all in-house cargo is x-rayed prior to delivery to the operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 100 boxes each containing 50 wipes and 24 boxes each containing 50 swabs (Solids containing flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN3175) and 10 boxes each containing 12 x 28ml sprays (Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further investigation found that the consignment was believed to be covered by Special Provision A46. Referred to the German authorities. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. During freight checks, a consignment containing Biological substance, UN3373 was loaded onto the aircraft but had not been recorded on the NOTOC and was subsequently offloaded. Investigating identified that there was conflict of information between the load & balance manuals and the IATA dangerous goods regulations manual. The load & balance manuals have now been updated. No further CAA action required.

Dangerous goods leakage. During boarding, a bag was found to be leaking a liquid substance with a very strong sulphur smell. The Fire Services attended and ordered the disembarkation of all passengers. The sulphur smell was present in the middle and rear of the cabin. The high level chemical incident procedure was activated. Referred to the Irish authorities for investigation. The operator investigated and advised that the cause was undetermined. It was suggested that stink bombs caused the smell or stagnant de-icing fluid, emanating from the drains. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 43g Aerosols, flammable UN1950 and 2 x 177ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. During freight checks, a consignment containing dangerous goods was loaded onto an aircraft without initially being recorded on the NOTOC. Further to correspondence from the turnaround co-ordinator a NOTOC was raised. Upon arrival, it was found that the NOTOC was still recorded incorrectly. Investigation completed. It was identified that the correct information was forwarded to the central load controller team, but when printing off the original NOTAC, a section of the document was not printed, resulting in the subsequent errors. The central load controller team have been made aware of their error to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 8 x 38g of undeclared Gas cartridges, UN2037. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further information advised to shipper by telephone. Received further information from shipper, which advised that the consignment may comply with Special Provision A98. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain an undeclared Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, 2 drums of toxic dangerous goods were found inside a ULD unrestrained. An investigation by the operator advised that the original build card for the unit have gone missing from the flight file so it was not possible to identify who built the load. No further action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 150ml undeclared Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 72 x 75g of undeclared Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0275. Referred to the French authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Cargo aircraft only Lithium batteries carried on a passenger aircraft. Upon arrival, a mail parcel was noticed to be marked as 'Contain lithium battery inside - forbidden for transport aboard passage aircraft, cargo aircraft or ground vehicle only' but the consignment was carried on a passenger aircraft. An investigation by the operator advised the battery was identified as a Lithium polymer type (UN3480), with a voltage of 11.1 volts and a current rating of 2200 mAH, which gave a watt hour rating of 24.42. The photographs supplied, confirmed the fibreboard box was not labelled correctly and did not conform with the dangerous goods regulations. Referred to the FAA authorities for investigation. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 350ml undeclared Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 7 x 150ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a plastic container was found to contain an undeclared Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.
Passenger error. During security screening, a passengers bag was found to contain a candy thermometer and an alcohol gauge - the items were removed. Appropriate operator action, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 6 x 100ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 311g and 2 x 425g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 3 x 360 g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passengers baggage was found to contain 3 cans of cooking spray - the items were removed. Appropriate action, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 30ml undeclared Perfumery, product, UN1266 and 3 x 311g of Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly prepared lithium batteries. During processing by the handling agent, it was noticed that 14 pallets bore lithium battery handling labels, but the accompanying air waybill stated "This shipment contains no batteries". Further inspection found that the consignment consisted of mobile phones, each containing a lithium ion battery. The mobile phones were placed in compartments within each outer box, but were not secured to prevent movement as required by the packing instruction. Additionally, the lithium battery handling labels incorrectly described the batteries as lithium metal batteries. A Dangerous Goods Inspector visited the shipper to discuss the consignment and review the company's procedures. It transpired that the company refurbishes/repairs mobile phones. For the consignment in question, it had packed them in fibreboard boxes, but had no input into the actual shipping of them; the mobile phones had been auctioned off by another company and the purchaser of the lot had arranged for the boxes to collected and shipped. Therefore, the 'shipper' actually had no knowledge of the destination of the consignment, nor the mode of transport. The company was advised of the requirements and encouraged to ensure that any future consignment complied with the applicable packing instructions.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain Airbag modules, UN3268. The box was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0443. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised all dangerous goods consignments by air would temporarily be prohibited until staff had attended an IATA Dangerous Goods training course and the company's procedures were updated. When the actions were fully implemented and audited, the company would again send dangerous goods consignments by air. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 200ml undeclared Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent for 2011-0201. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, an electric wheelchair was found loaded into hold 5 and tied to the safety nets with string and not tied correctly in the hold with rope or loaded into a container. The wheelchair should have been loaded into a container in the hold but removing the wheelchair took time on a minimum turnaround and it was decided this was not the safest or easiest option. An investigation by the operator advised there was a shortage of containers and the wheelchair passenger arrived late at the gate. The wheelchair should have been loaded in the container but the containers were full, therefore, the wheelchair was secured in hold 5. A reminder was given to the ground handling agent on loading and securing wheelchairs in the hold to comply with the operators procedures regardless of operational pressures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 100ml undeclared Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 100ml undeclared Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 100ml undeclared Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, dangerous goods were discovered only secured by one rope. An investigation by the operator advised that the loading crew responsible for the build have been interviewed, and have been made aware of the inadequacy of the securing method used, and will be monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 16 lifejackets (Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990). The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 5 x 200ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.
Suspected undeclared dangerous goods. During loading, the turnaround manager confirmed with the head loader all the cargo was present. The loader advised a small box had been delivered as well, but the turnaround manager assumed that this was part of the AOG noted on the NOTOC. As the aircraft was waiting to pushback the turnaround manager was presented with documents related to the air waybill which clearly stated Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The aircraft pushback was halted and load control was called, who advised that they had no knowledge of the shipment and the item was offloaded. It was established that engineering had delivered the box to the aircraft side without advising load control or the handling agent. The operator’s investigation concluded that there was a communication breakdown because Engineering did not inform the loading team and will be addressed locally. No further CAA action possible.

Passenger error. During transfer security screening, a passenger was found to have live ammunition in his carry on baggage and was also found to have 2 petrol powered generators in his checked baggage. The petrol powered generators were confiscated at origin but the ammunition was not found and confiscated until transit. The passenger was questioned and he advised that the carry on bag he was using was also his weekend hunting bag and that the ammunition had been left in the bottom/material creases. The passenger was allowed to continue to his journey. The operator have notified the FAA. No further CAA action necessary.

Mis-documented dangerous goods. During freight checks, a consignment found to be labelled with a Class 8 corrosive label but documented as dangerous goods in excepted quantities on the air waybill. Operator requested further information from shipper whom admitted this was a dangerous goods consignment, and revised dangerous goods transport documentation was raised. Appropriate action taken by Operator therefore no further CAA action required.

Undeclared and mis-packed dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment that was described on the air waybill as consisting of 'electronic equipment' was found to contain a large number of mobile phones, some without batteries, but many containing Lithium ion batteries, and as such should have been declared as "Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment", UN3481. Many of the mobile phones were damaged, some with their lithium batteries crushed and deformed. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing lithium batteries, or described as such on the air waybill. The consignment was in fact two separate consignments that were consolidated under one air waybill number. Letter sent to both shippers requiring response. Satisfactory response received from one shipper, who undertook to take responsibility for both consignments. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 200ml and a 350ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 7m bottles of nail polish (Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993). The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. One package of inbound consignment marked and labelled as containing Air bag modules, UN3268. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. FAA have completed their investigation and have contacted the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment containing 24 pieces of Class 9 and 3 pieces of Class 3 were found not properly secured onto a pallet. An investigation by the operator advised that the Operations Manager checked the quality of the build and noticed that the pallet did not have any straps holding the dangerous goods so 4 straps were placed on the unit to secure the pieces. At that this point it was also noticed that the unit was overweight, so the loader was sent to the ramp to remove 3 boxes and it is believed, that it was at this point that the dangerous goods were not secured properly. The loader was given a write up for his poor building and work quality, but after the disciplinary hearing, the loader turned in his notice and did not return to work. All Duty Managers of the Handling Agent involved have been advised and are now taking extra care to check and double check the build quality of all dangerous goods units. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods leading to a spillage. During handling in the warehouse, one of two 25L fibreboard drums was found to be leaking. The packages were described as containing 'distilled water' but after 7 staff noticed, that when in contact with the liquid, they felt a burning sensation, the shipper was called, who confirmed that the contents were in fact Hydrogen peroxide, aqueous solution, UN2014. The spill was contained using absorbent material and the leaking consignment was put into a large bag and then placed into a steel drum. The quantity per drum and per inner container (each drum contained a 25L plastic jerrican), exceeded the permitted quantity for carriage by cargo aircraft. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to CAA Air Regulation Enforcement for formal investigation. As a result of their investigation, the shipper pleaded guilty to the charges and on 12 June 2012 was fined £5,000. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During x-ray screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 200ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 1 x 200ml of undeclared Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0140 and 2009-0769. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they stopped the sale of the product and marked the inventory as unsellable. All products supplied by the vendor were checked and dangerous goods products identified on the database. The vendor was notified by the shipper of the breach in contract and informed that additional violations would result in the termination of the contract. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During unloading, 5L of undeclared Paint, UN1263 was found split. The spillage had caused contamination to various items of mail and had formed a large puddle under the mail, which had leaked through the board onto the aircraft floor. The offending item was isolated and identified as wood preserver. The consignment was not packaged correctly, marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a suitcase was found to contain 59 various bottles (totalling 887ml) of undeclared Perfumery products, flammable, UN1266, 13 (totalling 163ml and 165g), Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 24 various bottles (totalling 96ml) Flammable liquid n.o.s., UN1993 (nail polish). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by the operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 150ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 1 x 500ml of undeclared Environmentally hazardous substance liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain package of capsules, Zinc Dust, UN1436. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper advised that they were returning a consignment to a customer but because they were unaware of the regulations a dangerous goods transport document was not completed. They now have a policy in place that all future consignments will not be returned and that they will be disposed of by a certified carrier in line with their Quality Management System. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During x-ray screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 10 x 100ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0089 and 2011-0300. Warning letter sent to shipper covering both occurrences. Warning letter sent from Head, DGO to shipper, therefore, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a UN specification fibreboard box was found to contain a 2Kg undeclared Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The box was marked and labelled but not dangerous goods document accompanied the consignment. Letter sent to shipper and agent. The agent held a meeting with the shipper and mitigating processes have been implemented to prevent a reoccurrence. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, an electric wheelchair was found unsecured within a unit load device. An investigation by the operator advised the incident occurred because there was a lack of communication and human error. To prevent further incidents occurring staff received clear instructions on the process of accepting wheelchairs and mobility aids for flight. To ensure full understanding and increased awareness, the issue was also raised as part of the shift briefings. A presentation on the loading and securing of mobility aids was also given to the handling agent to present to their staff, who were then required to sign and confirm their understanding. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a UN specification fibreboard box was found to contain a 2Kg undeclared Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The box was marked and labelled but not dangerous goods document accompanied the consignment. Letter sent to shipper and agent. The agent held a meeting with the shipper and mitigating processes have been implemented to prevent a reoccurrence. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 1.89L of undeclared Petroleum distillates, n.o.s., UN1268. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. In response, the shipper advised that the consignment should have travelled by road but during the despatch process the consignment was incorrectly labelled to be sent by air. The have reviewed their processes of despatch and implemented new procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 100ml of undeclared, Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate Operator action taken. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a total 75ml of undeclared, Perfumery products, UN1266 and (1 x 104g) Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate Operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 15 drums containing 2-Thienylacetyl Chloride were shipped from China to the UK, overpacked onto 4 wooden skids but declared as Non hazardous for transport. In transit it was noticed that part of the consignment was labelled as corrosive so the status of these two skids were challenged, with the remainder possibly arriving in the UK. The shipper reiterated the goods were non hazardous and a copy of an MSDS and Competent Authority approval certificate were produced to prove this. A subsequent investigation into the name of the substance using the Internet found that it was variously described as Class 8, Packing Group II or III. The recipient was also able to provide a more complete MSDS that confirmed the Class 8, Packing Group II status. A further investigation into the Competent authority approval certificate suggested that it was not genuine and had been tampered with to imply the goods could be shipped as non dangerous goods. The dangerous goods were contained in 220L 6HA1 drums, each containing around 200L, in excess of the ICAO packing instruction maximum limit for air transport. Incident reported to Authority at station of transit. Referred to China Authorities for investigation who confirmed that the shipper had been punished according to Chinese law. No

Undeclared dangerous goods. During break down of the unit, the night crew found a fibreboard box showing signs of ice build up on the corners, Dry ice, UN1845. The fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator's investigation concluded that the incident was the result of an error by the handling agent. The consignment was booked as General Cargo, but was then packed with Dry Ice material. The master air waybill did not include details of the dry ice. The relevant staff were interviewed. The performance of the agent in question has been monitored with regards to booking perishable consignments and was made aware of the correct procedures. Operator at origin satisfied that this was an isolated incident. The Italian authorities notified the shipper about the incident. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate Operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain undeclared 7 Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 2 Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate Operator action taken. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 2 fibreboard boxes were found to contain 2 x 2g of undeclared Lithium metal batteries contained in equipment, UN3091. The air waybill stated that the consignment was not restricted due to PI 970. The fibreboard box was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further information from the reporter advised that the consignment had been forwarded to the consignee, upon receipt of new documents - air waybill and dangerous good transport document. The dangerous goods markings and labels had been noticed by warehouse staff but the staff member assumed them to be the Lithium Battery labels and did not physically check them. The staff member has been advised that when the goods acceptance note is passed back from the warehouse, marked as having dangerous goods labels and the air waybill states non dangerous goods he must do a visual check to determine the reason for the dangerous goods labels. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 1L of undeclared Paint, UN1263. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2006-091, 2006-095 and 2006-379. Letter sent to shipper and agent. In response, the agent advised that the incident occurred because of human error. The staff member was made aware of the error and has received further training. The DGSA of the shipper advised that the forwarder were advised the consignment should travel by road and not air. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger's baggage was found to contain 2 undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN 1950. These items were removed. Incident was reported to the FAA. Appropriate action taken by operation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 1.89L of undeclared Petroleum distillates, n.o.s., UN1268. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0312. Letter sent to the shipper. In response, the shipper advised that the consignment should have travelled by road but during the despatch process the consignment was incorrectly labelled to be sent by air. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 500ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 2Kg of undeclared Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During freight checks it was found that dangerous goods had not been secured correctly in the unit load container. The crew leader informed the turn around manager and cargo manager. The unit load container was removed from this flight and sent back to cargo. Investigation completed. Identified that the unit was built to the correct standards. Training records were found to be valid and up to date. Due to camera failure no photographs were taken. Operator not able to investigate further. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment identified as a model aircraft was found to contain an undeclared Lithium ion battery, UN3481. The operating instructions stated that the model might be fitted with batteries with a rating of either 3600mA or 2500mA, however, the installed battery was not marked with its rating. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the FAA as the Shipper was based in the USA. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 205mls of undeclared Perfumery products, UN 1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening of courier bags, 2 boxes were found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Contacted the operator to ascertain the shipper's details. The shipper was from Belgium. Forwarded all the paperwork to the Belgian authorities twice for investigation, but did not receive a response. No further CAA possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During transit from cargo shed to stand, the securing straps appeared to have worked loose. The container was offloaded and returned to cargo. Operator currently investigating. The investigation concluded that the person responsible for the original container build was then tasked with the re-build upon return to cargo. The re-build was carried out correctly and it was confirmed that they had received relevant ULD build training. More vigilance will be taken in the future. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 200mls of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Spanish Authorities. No further CAA action taken.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain undeclared Radioactive material, excepted package - instruments; UN2911. The consignment bore a radioactive material ‘excepted package’ label, but information had not been added to air waybill as required. The operator carried out an investigation and both the shipper and the freight forwarder amended their booking procedures and introduced additional dangerous goods training for their staff. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a shipment comprising of 22 pieces in total was stopped due to a strong smell of nail varnish. On opening the various consignments, it revealed that there were approximately 100+ x 15ml of Adhesives, UN1133, 100+ x 75ml Acetones, UN1090 and 7000+ x 15ml of Paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referral email sent to Hong Kong authorities who held meetings with the Shipper and the Freight Forwarder. Both parties have amended their procedures and introduced additional dangerous goods training to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

No further CAA action required.

Undocumented dangerous goods. During transit whilst being loaded onto the aircraft it was found that a consignment contained dangerous goods (flammable gas). An instruction report form showed the correct pallet numbers and weights, which were also shown on the labels of the pallets, but the labels also showed that they were dangerous goods. Further information from a cargo representative in airport control advised that the pallets were expected, but had no record that they were dangerous goods. As the pallets contents could not be confirmed it was decided to offload them. After the flight had departed it was found that the error originated at origin as the correct dangerous goods information was not entered onto the system. Therefore upon arrival at location the consignment was not recognised as containing dangerous goods, although the NOTOC was completed correctly at origin. It was found that the consignments contained a total of 7000Kg of dangerous goods. Operator’s investigation concluded that the incident was due to an error made by a new member of staff and his 'lack of knowledge'. The corrective action taken was to make the staff member aware of the error and the preventative action was to ensure bookings were double checked before a flight was finalised. No further CAA action.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, Dry ice, UN1845 was found unsecured and the nets were not closed to keep it from sliding. The loading staff member was made aware that all dangerous goods must secured with nets closed. The loading staff member's performance will be monitored. No further CAA action required.

2011-0371 27/05/2011 East Midlands
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 625g of undeclared Amines, liquid, corrosive, UN2735. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. On receipt of MSDS and during discussion with the shipper it was identified that miscommunication between courier and the shipper had occurred. The shipper is now fully aware of their responsibilities and will in future utilise the services of a professional packer when sending their products via air transportation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1Kg Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. 2011-0397 30/05/2011 Heathrow
NOTOC error. During freight checks a unit load device was found to contain dangerous goods, which had been incorrectly documented on the NOTOC (gross weight was stated as 4kgs instead of 0.5L). Investigation completed. The error was made by a new member of staff who had just joined the team and will be shown how to capture dangerous goods information correctly and special loads will be monitored until the staff member is familiar with the system to prevent re-occurrence. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger's jacket was found to contain 5 loose undeclared bullets. The ammunition was removed and the Airport Police collected the items. Appropriate action by operator - no further CAA action necessary.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 200ml undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Three previous occurrences 2011-0178, 2011-0201 and 2011-0252. Warning letter sent to freight forwarder and responded with a request for a meeting with DGO. Meeting held on 11/7/2011 with company chairman and the sales and finance directors. Company was keen to prevent further incidents, but was concerned about preventing dangerous goods consignments being shipped through remote pick-ups direct from the shipper. Company was going to provide more pictorial information on its website and will use everyday items as examples. Provided the company with the list of CAA approved training organisations and information on hidden dangerous goods. Satisfied the company will put more robust preventative measures in place. Company will be monitored for further incidents. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 29ml of undeclared Perfumery, products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 9 x 50ml of undeclared Perfumery, products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 gas filled shock absorbers, Articles, pressurized, pneumatic, UN3164. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper has updated their system to ensure that this product will not be shipped by air transportation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an Engine, internal combustion, UN3166, with a strong petrol smell emanating from it. On opening the fuel tank it was found empty however there was a residue of fuel in the fuel lines. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 100g of undeclared Environmentally hazardous substances, UN3077. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Damage to dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment of Class 3 dangerous goods was found to be crushed within the unit load device. Upon checking the consignment there was no sign of leakage and or visible damage to the inside content. An investigation by the operator advised that the team leader concerned was taken through this report and discussed the method of restraint used. The resultant consequences of their actions advised that the correct restraining measures had not been used. Monitoring of loading staff was given as a preventative measure. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared and mispacked dangerous goods. Following a major service on an aircraft, one fibreboard box was booked back into stores, which was found to contain various aircraft parts including 4 undeclared unserviceable Cartridges, power device, UN0276. The fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The items did not appear to have been packed in accordance with any classification documents, thus they are effectively unclassified explosives. Further to the Malta authorities investigation, it was established that the shipper acted on their own under the law of the State. The shipper carried out their investigation and identified that the shipping clerk was fully trained and received their training in October 2010. The responsible shipping clerk was immediately informed and de-briefed of their wrong practice. The shipping clerk was found to have a full understanding of the dangerous goods procedure for explosive materials and can only put this error down to human error. As a preventative measure, all shipping clerks have been made to walked through the internal process and they have all read and signed a document to this effect. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x 400g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The incident was reported to the Hong Kong Authorities who advised that the shipper was actually a freight forwarder. Their operation in Hong Kong was warehousing, providing temporary storage for courier packages originating in Mainland China. Once the packages arrived at the Hong Kong warehouse, the shipper arranged the delivery to the aircraft operators. There was no cargo acceptance conducted by the freight forwarder in Hong Kong and all the cargo documentation was prepared by the shipper. The Hong Kong warehouse personnel were properly trained as per the ICAO requirements. It was established that the freight forwarder in Hong Kong, would be permanently closed down at the end of July 2011 for commercial reasons. In the interim the freight forwarder agreed to strengthen their cargo acceptance and inspection for hidden dangerous goods prevention. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During pre-flight routine freight checks, the hazardous contents of a unit load device were deemed as unsecured and the unit load device was offloaded before the flight departed. Operator investigated. From the photographs of the built unit it was evident that the unit was not built to the correct standard. The unit was not volumetrically full and the freight was not restrained in both directions as per the operator’s safety notice. To prevent re-occurrence, the team leader was sent a copy of the operator’s safety notice to ensure compliance. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Following offloading from a truck prior to carriage by air, a fluid was found to be leaking from a consignment. After contacting the agent/shipper it was established that the shipment contained Aerosols, flammable UN1950 and Petroleum distillates, n.o.s., UN1268. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper, who responded by stating that it had been agreed between the shipper and the supplier that the supplier would be responsible for all the transport requirements. The supplier failed to provide either the material safety data sheet or the dangerous goods documentation to the freight forwarders/sub-contractors. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading it was found that dangerous goods were loaded incorrectly into the unit load device and was offloaded. An investigation revealed the unit load device was transported by air and road prior to the flight. On inspecting the unit load device, the right amount of straps were used at the correct location over the freight. The top boxes were shrink-wrapped; therefore it was concluded that the aircraft must have experienced extreme turbulence for the cargo to shift during the flight or road transportation. As a control measure, the station performance will be monitored. No further CAA action required.

2011-0413 03/06/2011 Heathrow

Non occurrence. Excepted quantities of dangerous goods were not specifically identified on loading documentation in accordance with the operator's procedures. No further CAA action required.

2011-0377 03/06/2011 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 9 x 500g of undeclared Environmentally hazardous substances, UN3077. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper, who advised that this consignment should have been sent through their air freight forwarder but had been mistakenly sent to a different freight forwarder which was an oversight of one of their employees, who has now been briefed. The procedures have been updated to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

2011-0381 03/06/2011 East Midlands

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading staff found three boxes which contained Dry ice, UN1845 that had not been secured and one box was upside down, despite markings. Operator's investigation at origin concluded that because photos were not taken, the incident could not be investigated further. However, the team leader responsible confirmed that the unit had been built to the correct standards. The supervisor signed the NOTOC despite not having seen any dangerous goods labels on the consignment. The supervisor has undergone refresher dangerous goods and loading courses as well as performance counselling to ensure focus is retained on core responsibilities and appropriate checks in accordance with processes. A safety brief was issued to all appropriate staff for awareness. The supervisor's performance has been monitored. No further CAA action taken.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During freight checks dangerous goods contained in a unit load device were found to be unsecured. The unit load device was removed and returned to the freight shed. See also occurrence number 2011-0388. Unfortunately, photographs were not taken of the unit load device. Operator's safety notices were released to loading staff that were designed to prevent re-occurrence. No further CAA action possible.
Unsecure dangerous goods. During routine pre-flight checks on the freight, a consignment containing dangerous goods was found to be unsecured in the unit load device. The unit load device was offloaded and returned to the freight shed. Investigating completed. Build crews now countersign cards to double-check units are fit to fly when a full dangerous goods build is completed. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. During freight checks a unit load device was found to contain dangerous goods, which were not entered onto the NOTOC. The unit load device was offloaded and returned to the freight shed. See occurrence number 2011-0396. Investigation revealed that human error was the cause of the incident. The individual concerned was interviewed and admitted to the error.

2011-0388 05/06/2011 Heathrow

2011-0390 05/06/2011 Chicago, USA

Undeclared dangerous goods. During transit freight checks a unit load device was found to contain dangerous goods, which had not been entered onto the NOTOC. This consignment had arrived from USA as a transit unit. Investigation identified that the consignment was in two parts with only one part containing dangerous goods. The one part containing dangerous goods missed the transit flight and due to human error, the wrong dangerous goods entry was used. All parties were made aware of their error and of the action they should have taken. Staff performance will also be monitored. No further CAA action required.

2011-0389 06/06/2011 Heathrow

2011-0391 06/06/2011 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x Lighters, UN1057, described on the accompanying documentation as 'empty', although all three were capable of being lit. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by the Operator. No further CAA action required.

2011-0410 07/06/2011 Newark, USA

Undeclared dangerous goods. Two consignments arrived at the manufacturers for repairs and on opening the first consignment it was found to contain one undeclared cylinder of Oxygen, Compressed, UN1072. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods. The second consignment was marked and labelled, but the labels had been covered by reinforced tape. Neither of the consignments were accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The authority of the State of Origin conducted an investigation and established that the incident occurred because the aircraft component had not been identified as dangerous goods on the stores inventory system. No further CAA action possible.

2011-0399 07/06/2011 Madrid, Spain
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an undeclared Battery, wet, filled with acid, UN2794. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that they had been given the wrong advice by their agent and had therefore, requested an explanation. The shipper advised that they had subsequently arranged for two of their staff to receive dangerous goods training to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain one litre of undeclared Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 unmarked bottles of undeclared Perfumery, products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The incident was reported to the French Authorities. See also previous occurrences 2011-0271 and 2011-0275. The French Authorities confirmed that the shipper had implemented corrective actions in their dangerous goods shipping process. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared, unsecured and damaged dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment was found to contain 9 pieces of Dangerous goods in apparatus, UN3363 and Liquefied gas, flammable, n.o.s., UN3161. The consignment was found unsecured in the unit load device. Further checks found a jerrican marked up as UN3161, Liquefied gas, n.o.s., (water based mud sample), with a torn ‘Cargo Aircraft Only’ label, but no hazard class label. Another jerrican, which was deformed due the contents causing a high pressure, was found with just a torn ‘Cargo Aircraft Only’ label. Both the jerricans were un-airworthy. The 9 pieces of Dangerous goods in apparatus, UN3363 were marked and labelled and were accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document but the Liquefied gas, n.o.s., UN3161 was not declared and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document and are forbidden to fly on a passenger aircraft. Referred to the Ugandan and United Arab Emirates authorities for investigation. No further CAA action possible.

Misdeclared/Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 500g of undeclared Potassium perchlorate, UN1489. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper was unaware of specific requirements for air transport as consignments are usually sent via road/sea transport, and will no longer send any consignments by air.

Notoc Error. Following an aircraft battery change, the replaced unserviceable battery remained onboard the aircraft inside a large secure sealed casing for the outbound flight. The manual loadsheet was produced, but the battery was not declared on the NOTOC. Investigation resulted in a new procedure being introduced for “New Material Workplace Procedure” and the existing “Line Engineering Procedure” was also updated to ensure “whenever any spares are to be shipped between line stations or returning to the United Kingdom, the shipment must be co-ordinated by the appropriate operator’s staff to ensure that all shipping documentation and processes are in order”. No further CAA action required.

Un/Mis-labelled/Marked. During loading two consignments containing undeclared Magnetic material, UN2807 were found not to have the correct identification tag attached to the ULDs. Operator is investigating. The investigation revealed that identification tags had been attached to each ULD in the warehouse and that the manifest and NOTOC had been noted correctly. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During loading, a consignment was found to contain Dry ice, UN1845. The consignment was not listed on the paperwork and was offloaded. An investigation was completed. The computer system had been updated but did not include a prompt for the 9 fields for the Dry Ice entry, which caused the incident. Staff were reminded to check the accuracy of the fields when entering information for Dry Ice. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Prior to departure there was a smell of gas in the rear hold. The fire service was called and the passengers and crew were disembarked. The fire service removed all bags and found a portable butane gas stove with a cylinder attached that was leaking, along with 3 spare butane cylinders. The passengers were off-loaded and the Police dealt with them accordingly. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, passenger baggage was found to contain an undeclared camping stove and cylinders, Propane, UN1978. The operator took the appropriate action and removed the items prior to the flight. The operator spoke with the passenger and advised them of the consequences of dangerous goods. Warning letter sent to passenger. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consolidated consignment containing personnel effects was found to contain 16 bottles of Perfumery products, UN1266, 12 Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 2 bottles of nail varnish, Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Refer to previous occurrences for the freight forwarder 2009-408, 2009-0361, 2011-0074 and 2011-0115. Forwarder has implemented further preventative measures in addition to dangerous goods information they already provide to their customers. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, a unit load device was found to contain dangerous goods which were not tied down correctly. The Turnaround Manager was contacted and the unit load device was offloaded. A photograph was taken of the build before it left the warehouse and it appeared to demonstrate that the cargo was adequately secured within the unit load device. It was not possible to determine why the cargo was found unsecured prior to loading. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Prior to loading, a pallet loaded with a consignment of Corrosive solid, acidic, inorganic, n.o.s. (Stannous chloride anhydrous), UN3260 was found inadequately secured with a net so the pallet was returned for rebuild. An investigation revealed that there was a net on the unit load device, but the net was broken and required replacement. The cargo staff were reminded to check that the nets were serviceable before use. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A 100kg wheelchair was found to be incorrectly secured. The wheelchair was found tied to a curtain, which could have ripped and not stored in a bin. The wheelchair was only secured through the wheels to prevent it moving from side to side, but nothing was tied over the top of it, no spreaders were used and the wheelchair brakes were not left on. An investigation by the operator concluded the wheelchair was not restrained to the curtain/net but individually restrained and stowed upright using extra rings and rope. The investigation recommended more awareness on the exact requirements to load battery operated wheelchairs, to eliminate the ambiguities like the use of spreaders and loading only in unit load devices. The turn around co-ordinators and ramp staff completed a 'read and sign' document on the importance of compliance and for turn around co-ordinators to oversee the restraint of wheelchairs once they were loaded. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 1Kg of undeclared Paraformaldehyde, UN2213, 100g of Environmentally hazardous substances, solid, n.o.s., UN3077 and 250g of Corrosive solid, acidic, organic, n.o.s., UN3261. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who in response advised that they were unaware of the regulations. To prevent further incidents occurring the shipper notified their staff accordingly and confirmed that all future consignments would be sent by a specialist agent. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an electric golf caddy with a lithium battery (Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3481). The outer box bore a Class 9 hazard label with the proper shipping name and UN number, but the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded that the agent was responsible for incorrectly shipping the consignment. The agent was contacted and advised that the staff member responsible for shipping the consignment didn’t recall seeing the Class 9 label and after visually checking the contents, a battery was not seen. The shipper subsequently issued dangerous goods awareness training and response posters. They also put in place a policy that all inbound freight for the shipper concerned would be thoroughly hand searched prior to acceptance. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain one undeclared 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 2ml, 2 x 50ml, 1 x 100ml, 1 x 240ml of undeclared Perfumery, products, UN1266 and 4 x 12ml Paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required. See also occurrence number 2011-0476.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 12 boxes was found to contain 72 undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. (6 aerosols to each box). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Refer to occurrence 2008-542. Warning letter sent to the shipper, who has now amended their procedures to prevent a re-occurrence. Supporting documentation received confirming staff members are booked to attend dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

Radioactive material carried against company policy. A consignment of Radioactive material, excepted package - instruments; UN2911 was accepted and carried by the operator despite having a policy of not carrying radioactive material. The consignment had been entered into the company’s cargo booking system as radioactive material, but with an incorrect UN number, although this had no bearing on the carriage of the consignment. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 312g and 1 x 227g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required. (Incident also reported by Federal Express)
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain approximately 6 drums of undeclared Paint, UN1273 (gross weight 68kg), overpacked and secured to a pallet. Although the consignment was not marked as required, the drums and the overpack all displayed flammable liquid hazard labels and the overpack bore orientation handling labels. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised that their staff had received dangerous training by air. However, the incident occurred because an incorrect reference number had been entered into their shipping system, which matched another consignment that did not contain dangerous goods. To prevent further incidents occurring the shipper confirmed that their employees in the packing department had been fully briefed about the incident. No further CAA action required.

2011-0441 17/06/2011 Heathrow
Unsecured dangerous goods. Two unit load devices were found to contain dangerous goods which were not tied down correctly. The operator investigated. From the photograph taken of the build before it left the warehouse, it appeared that the cargo was adequately secured in both directions within the ULD. It was not possible to determine why the cargo was found unsecured prior to loading. No further CAA action possible.

2011-0492 18/06/2011 Covington, USA
Undeclared dangerous goods. During hand security checks, a consignment was found to contain an undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, one Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481, 6 x Lithium ion batteries, UN3480 and one Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Switzerland authorities for investigation. Following further enquiries it was established that the FAA conducted their investigation and have now closed their file. No further CAA action required.

Leaked dangerous goods. During unloading, a consignment containing non-infectious human cord blood for transplant tipped over but was picked up immediately. It was noticed some liquid seeped out the top of the container, fizzed up then evaporated. The consignee was notified and they advised the unit contained liquid nitrogen. The consignee was notified and they advised shipments were always tested to check they were safe for export. The cargo agent carried out an internal investigation but could not determine a reason for the leak. To prevent a reoccurrence, the ground handling agent double checked the freight preparation, freight acceptance and build up of shipments to ensure compliance with Special Provision A152. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, various consignments were found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and Compressed, gas, non-flammable, UN1956. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Refer to occurrence 2011-0244. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised all dangerous goods consignments by air would temporarily be prohibited until staff had attended an IATA Dangerous Goods training course and the company’s procedures were updated. When the actions were fully implemented and audited, the company would again send dangerous goods consignments by air. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. During off-loading, a Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171 was found to be switched on and loaded incorrectly. Investigation was completed by the operator. The loader appeared to have followed the correct procedures for the safe transportation of this mobility device and was witnessed by the PRM provider. Statements were obtained from both the loader and the PRM provider. The chair was loaded on it’s back as this was the only way to allow it to fit into the hold. Unfortunately the findings are inconclusive, but all ramp staff were re-issued with briefing notes to explain the correct process for battery powered mobility devices. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. A consignment had split open whilst being loaded into the container that was being loaded for the flight. On investigation, the consignment was found to contain undeclared beauty products consisting of 12 Aerosols, non flammable, UN1950 and 12 Alcohols, n.o.s., UN1987 (pump spray). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Refer to 2011-0448 (two identical shipments but two different consignee addresses). Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During loading, a consignment was found to contain Dry ice, UN1845, which was not captured on the NOTOC. This omission was rectified before loading and an updated NOTOC was re-issued. An investigation identified that the air waybill was originally booked to travel by truck, therefore the ‘special handling’ entry was not entered on the system and was not highlighted on receipt of documentation. A new NOTOC was issued and signed by the Captain. The staff member who missed the ‘special handling’ entry was interviewed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x 75ml Perfumery, products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Refer to previous incidents 2011-0271, 2011-0275 and 2011-407. Referred to the French authorities, who met with the shipper. The shipper will implement corrections to their shipping processes accordance with the dangerous goods regulations. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 113g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2008-0553. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that the incident occurred because of human error. The shipper have changed their operating policy so that all outbound packages are x-rayed, irrespective of destination and staff members have been retrained. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly secured dangerous goods. A consignment of dangerous goods contained in a Unit Load Device (ULD) were found unsecured. Photographs were taken of the build before the consignment left the warehouse and this appeared to demonstrate that the cargo was built to standard within the ULD. It was not possible to determine the reason why the cargo was found unsecured prior to loading. No further CAA action possible.

No further CAA action required

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 100ml, 2 x 30ml, 4 x 15ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 5L of Paint, UN1263 and 1 x 5L of Paint related materials, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Adhesives, flammable, UN1133. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. In response the shipper said they had since been in contact with their agent for the appropriate guidance and advice. The shipper also arranged to attend a dangerous goods course. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 400ml and 3 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Previous incident 2005-0249. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action possible

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 311g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x lithium battery powered golf trolleys, UN3481. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The same consignment had twice been rejected by the operator, having been declared as containing dangerous goods, since it was the operator’s policy to not carry dangerous goods to Australia. Warning letter sent to the shipper who responded and advised that the incident occurred because the shipper was unaware of the regulations. They also stated that they were unaware that when the consignment was offered for transport for the third time that it still contained the lithium batteries. The shipper confirmed that the person responsible for the consignment was no longer employed by the company and since they did not have anyone trained to ship dangerous goods by air, they would not be sending any dangerous goods by air in future. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly loaded unit. A unit was offloaded because seven fibreboard boxes containing dangerous goods were found bearing orientation labels with the arrows facing the wrong way up and the dangerous goods were not tied down appropriately. The unit was delivered intact to the dispatch unit. The relevant staff were made aware of the incident. No further CAA action possible.

NOTOC error. Whilst checking the paperwork in Heathrow, it was noted that 5L x Paint related materials, UN1263 and 18L x Paint, UN1263 were entered onto the NOTOC as a combined amount of 23L against UN1263. The operator carried out an investigation and the load controller had combined the two consignments in one container on the same air waybill. He was told that each item required a separate entry on the NOTOC, as per the operator’s manual. The controller’s performance was monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 1.89L of undeclared Paint related material, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper and to the freight forwarders. In response the shipper stated that two members of staff were sick and a temporary person was filling in. This person was not aware of the regulations. New procedures have been put into place to ensure that temporary/trainee staff will be supervised by a senior member of staff to prevent re-occurrence. Freight forwarder informed shipper of severity, and consequences if this should happen again, and has made enquiries to have all his staff retrained on Dangerous Goods. Courier has not responded in regards to further information to exonerate them from other incidents. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2x400ml of undeclared Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Refer to occurrence number 2011-0438. Warning letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised that their staff have received dangerous training by air. However, the incident occurred because an inexperienced staff member processed the delivery of the consignment. To prevent further incidents occurring they have now fully briefed all employees in the packing department and amended their procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 320g and a 180g of Environmentally hazardous substances, UN3077. The items were removed from the passenger. Appropriate operator action taken. Letter sent to passenger. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a 1 x Lighter, containing flammable gas, UN1057 was found in a cabin crew’s hand baggage. The crew member was informed that the item must be carried on their person. The crew member told Security that they had carried the lighter in their cabin baggage before and had not been stopped before. The crew member also stated that they were not told that the lighter must be on their person. A Crew Notice was sent to all crew members. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a box containing bio hazardous material was found unsecured. The operator investigated further. When interviewed the handling agents and ramp staff confirmed that to the best of their knowledge they secured the dangerous goods correctly. The staff were re-briefed on handling dangerous goods and on the quality control of a build. The handling agent’s training records and flight files were in order. All parties were requested to remain vigilant. As there were no photographs available, no further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain undeclared White phosphorus, UN1381. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. During an investigation by the Canadian Authority, the passenger advised that they had previously travelled from India to the UK, then onto Canada in June 2011 and their baggage had become lost in transit in the UK. This consignment had been sent as a replacement for the items within the lost baggage, which was subsequently found (see DGOR 2011-0669). The Canadian Authority issued a safety alert to operators advising them of a trend in passengers concealing phosphorus within their baggage and cargo. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A dangerous goods consignment was found unsecured before take off. The load was removed, re-built and shipped on a later flight. The operator’s investigation concluded that the loading staff member did not restrain the freight in the correct way. The loading staff member was taken through the report and the method of restraint used was discussed, as well as the consequences of not restraining hazardous material properly and how to prevent a re-occurrence. The loading staff member’s performance was monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, non-flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The inner boxes however, had the UN1950 number clearly printed. Warning letter sent requesting response due to items being labelled on inner boxes. Photos sent with letter. In response the shipper stated that they were unaware that the consignment was dangerous goods as they received the original consignment in fibreboard boxes, which had no dangerous goods marking on the outside. These same fibreboard boxes were then forwarded by the shipper in the same condition. Future dangerous goods consignments will be arranged through a professional approved packaging company. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x 5L Paint related material, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. This consignment was arranged by the consignee (“ex-works”), who agreed to take full responsibility for the collection and shipping of the consignment. In light of this occurrence, the shipper has changed their procedures and will now take full responsibility for all despatches to both UK and foreign designations, to prevent a re-occurrence. Staff have been scheduled to attend dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, various fibreboard boxes were found to contain Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN 3481 and Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3481. The fibreboard boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document (see also 2011-0512, 0513, 0514 and 0515). Deferred to the Chinese and Hong Kong authorities. Due to a lack of response from the Chinese Authority, no further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Container found with unsecured dangerous goods, Environmentally hazardous substance, UN3077 travelling to Israel via Heathrow. Origin of goods was Bangalore. Operator's investigation revealed the drums were not adequately restrained. A refresher training course was undertaken by team and a staff member will face disciplinary action. Supervisors or duty manager to check build of all dangerous goods prior to shipment. Performance of station to be monitored as second incident of this type within two months. Due to the operator not informing the CAA in timely manner, no further action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. When the aircraft came on stand, the crew leader opened the hold and found a consignment of dangerous goods were upside down and were not secured correctly. The operator ascertained that the cargo was lashed down with two straps and four loops within the compartment, but the barrel was either not properly secured with the straps or insufficient strapping was used. The operator recommended that dangerous goods shipments should always be secured regardless of how full the compartment or container was. The supervisor would double check and confirm the dangerous goods were properly lashed down and unable to move in flight. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. A flight incurred a delay because Flammable liquids were not properly secured. Further to the operator's investigation, the dangerous goods were held in place by the net on the pallet, but a strap was not used as it would not have been as sufficient as the net and probably would have crushed the freight. As no photographs were taken, it was not possible to verify the build. The shipping agent demonstrated a correct understanding of the restraining requirements during the investigation, and as a result, no preventative actions were suggested. However, the agent showed the correct processes when deciding to add extra restraints or not. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 250ml, undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by Operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, various fibreboard boxes were found to contain undeclared receptacles with a total volume of 1.84L of Battery fluid acid, UN2796. The fibreboard boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 33 x 430ml, Aerosols, flammable UN1950 in a passenger's baggage. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The aerosols were removed and the operator informed the FAA. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, various fibreboard boxes were found to contain Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481 and Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3481. The fibreboard boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Please refer to DGOR 2011-0501, 0512 and 0514. Deferred to the Chinese and Hong Kong authorities. Due to lack of response from the Chinese Authority, no further CAA action possible.

The fibreboard boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Please refer to DGOR 2011-0501, 0512 and 0513. Deferred to the Chinese and Hong Kong authorities. Due to lack of response from the Chinese Authority, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, various fibreboard boxes were found to contain Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN 3481 and Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3481. The fibreboard boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Refer to DGORs 2011-0501, 2011-513 and 2011-514. Deferred to the Chinese and Hong Kong authorities. Due to lack of response from the Chinese Authority, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 75ml, undeclared Perfumery products, flammable, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by Operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain undeclared Radioactive material, excepted package, UN2911. The consignment bore an excepted package label, but the accompanying air waybill did not contain the required information about the consignment. The freight forwarder investigated and advised that the shipper had not notified them that the consignment contained radioactive material, hence it was not included on the air waybill when the freight forwarder raised it and the label was not noticed when it was being handled. The freight forwarder advised it would provide further training to its warehouse and office staff. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 9x5L Flammable liquid, UN1993. The consignment was incorrectly marked or labelled, and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Consignment had MSDS attached, stating UN1993, however UN1268 was marked on the boxes. Letters to shipper and freight forwarder. MSDS was incorrect. Product is UN1268. The freight forwarder investigated and found that the customer supplied the incorrect information. As a result of the incident, the freight forwarder’s procedures were amended. All staff involved in dangerous goods received the required training. The freight forwarder scheduled a site visit to the shipper to discuss this incident and to put further measures in place to prevent a re-occurrence. The shipper enrolled in a training programme and the company procedures were amended. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 200ml, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Spanish authorities for investigation. No further CAA action.

Unsecured dangerous goods. One unit load device found to contain dangerous goods which had not been tied down correctly. Operator investigated further as to the reason the consignment was unsecured. Load was returned to warehouse for securing before transporting on to destination. Company has issued safety notices concerning dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x boxes Firelighters, Solid, UN2623. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Saudi Arabian authorities. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 2 fibreboard boxes were found to contain undeclared receptacles with a total volume of 1.2L of Battery fluid acid, UN2796. The fibreboard boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper under occurrence 2011-0516. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, passenger’s baggage was found to contain 4 x Articles, Pressurised, Pneumatic, containing non flammable gas, UN3164. The articles were removed and collected by a member of the passenger’s family. The operator informed the FAA of the occurrence. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. The operator investigated as the weight was recorded incorrectly as 0.0069kg instead of 0.00069kg on the NOTOC. An investigation highlighted a problem with operator’s computer systems. The entry errors were acknowledged by the staff responsible and an audit was undertaken of the planner’s flight files. The process of manifesting valuable freight was reviewed and it more communication between the different systems was reinforced. No further CAA action required.
Loading error. A consignment of 40 metal drums of Environmentally hazardous substances, UN3077 was found to be of a poor build quality and was placed directly onto the unit causing metal to metal contact. The shipper at the station of origin was contacted and requested to investigate the incident. The error was caused by an oversight during the build process. The staff involved were all dangerous goods trained and aware of the requirements. To prevent a reoccurrence, the dangerous goods responsible person advised all staff that dangerous good must be loaded on spreaders before strapping them down in units. The station’s performance was monitored. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival at Heathrow unsecured dangerous goods found in unit, 3 x wood and fibreboard boxes, Articles, pressurized, hydraulic, UN3164. Investigation revealed that unit was built off site by a ground handling service and shrink wrapped in black polythene. To prevent reoccurrence the outstation have reported the failure to the agent but without pictures it is hard to understand how the unit was inappropriately built. The persons responsible for ULD builds have agreed to give more attention to the build. Operator also requested agent to refresh all staff on build specification. No further operator action possible. No further CAA action required.

Mishandled dangerous goods. A unit load device arrived for onward transportation, but it had the incorrect destination on the hazardous cargo tag. The unit load device contained 1 x 1kg Batteries, wet, non-spillage, UN2800 and the shipper’s documentation was correct. The operator investigated and advised that the correct tag was printed and in place when the unit load device left the cargo area. No other information available, therefore, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box inside a courier bag was found to contain 100ml of Ethanol Solution, UN1170. The box was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and a shippers declaration was attached to the outside of the box but the courier bag bore no dangerous goods labels or markings. Letter sent to agent who responded and advised that the incident occurred because the consignment had not been pre-booked as a dangerous goods consignment. The agent also had a temporary member of staff working who was unaware of the dangerous goods requirements. They also advised that they have sent a memo to all their customers advising them that they do not accept dangerous goods consignments but are prepared to handle the consignments via a sub contracted freight agent but the consignments must be pre-booked and would only be accepted between normal working day hours. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 1L of Paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival, a unit load device containing a consignment of Environmental hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082, was found to be inadequately restrained. An investigation was completed. The agent at the station of origin was identified and a poor performance report was raised and his performance was monitored. The duty managers briefed all staff on all shifts on the need for taking care when building all freight. No further CAA action required.
Damaged dangerous goods. On arrival at the destination airport, drums containing dangerous goods were discovered as out of shape. Operator investigated further. The DGO sought information from a packaging consultant about the dents in the drums, which was passed to the operator. The staff involved believed that because the drums also contained a plastic bag, there was no need to re-pack them as they had never come across a leak from this type of container in this condition. Daily shift briefings included dangerous goods requirements, restraint, package damage checks etc and posters were also displayed in the area to raise dangerous goods awareness and the potential consequences of shipping damaged dangerous goods. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain two undeclared Signals, smoke, UN0507. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. Following a visit to freight agent, further warning letter sent requesting preventative measures to be put in place to prevent recurrence. (See DGOR2011-0578). In response, agent has undertaken an internal review of shipping procedures and programmed additional staff throughout the company to undertake dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A fibreboard box containing dangerous goods, 1 x 500ml Xylenes, UN1307 was found to be unsecure and leaking on arrival at Heathrow. Further to operator’s investigation it was confirmed that there were no loading issues and it is thought that the consignment slipped during the flight. Only one strap was placed on the dangerous goods in this unit load device, as the loading staff believed that the freight underneath was ‘weak’. No mandatory secondary safety check was undertaken and the build card was not counter signed. The loading staff member’s performance will be monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 1Kg Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent. No further CAA action required.

Loading and documentation error. Prior to departure, a consignment of 124 x wooden boxes of UN 0180 had been loaded onto the aircraft. The Captain requested a signed NOTOC from the handling agent but they were unable to present one to him. In addition, the dangerous goods transport document showed the consignment consisting of 104 wooden boxes. The consignment was offloaded and returned to a warehouse and the flight was postponed to the following day once correct documentation had been presented. Appropriate action taken by operator. Referred to Romanian Authority for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 1 fibreboard box was found to contain undeclared receptacles with a total volume of 0.4L of Battery fluid acid, UN2796. The fibreboard box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper under occurrence 2011-0516 and second occurrence 2011-0527. Letter received and signed for on 15/07/2011. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During offloading, it was found that a consignment of dangerous goods was found without documentation. The unit should have been broken down at the airport of origin, but the break down of the unit load device did not take place. The operator investigated and the incident was a result of a data entry by a staff member. The staff member failed to notice that the four dangerous goods consignments were not removed from the shipment. To prevent a reoccurrence, the staff member was interviewed and they were managed under an internal process as this was the planner’s first incident of this nature. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x cylinder of Refrigerant gas R 407C, UN3340. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Consignment was handled by two freight forwarding companies, who have been informed of the cargo contents. Letter sent to shipper. As a result of this incident a meeting took place between the shipper and the freight forwarder, resulting in the shipper’s procedures to be amended to prevent a similar re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 10ml Paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Please note previous occurrences from shipper are: 2011-0516, 2011-0527, 2011-0543. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 50 x 10ml paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. During a transit check, a Unit Load Device was offloaded because of missing dangerous goods checklist for the air waybill. The station of origin did not forward it and it was not noted on the system. An investigation revealed that the probable cause was that the paperwork was attached to other documentation that was received at the time of departure. It was believed that the missing paperwork was removed or separated from the rest of the documentation. The station of origin's corrective action was to secure documentation in a different order to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Consignment shipped as mail and was found to contain Lithium ion batteries, UN3481. The contents are marked on the box. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Requested further information from operator. US Postal Service confirmed acceptance personnel are trained in recognition of hazardous materials markings and labels, asking key questions to customers to determine if package contains dangerous goods. Awareness training to all ground handling agents with a read and sign course. Instructed to ensure all sides of carton are examined, additional information posters erected on the x-ray machines. Management teams reminding staff to stay alert. No further CAA action required.

Mishandled dangerous goods. A consignment of Radioactive material, Excepted package - Instruments, UN2911, was carried despite the operator’s policy of not carrying radioactive material. The ground handling agent was unaware of the operator’s policy. Written instructions were subsequently given to the ground handling agent and all staff were made aware of the operator’s procedures and received additional dangerous goods training highlighting the operator’s policies and procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During loading a unit load device was offloaded due to a missing dangerous goods check list. The operator investigated further, but the operator was unable to determine how the dangerous goods paperwork became detached from the rest of the paperwork for the shipment the between the station of origin and destination. It was recommended that the documentation should be secured in a different order, thereby eliminating the need to search through all the paperwork and avoid a similar reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. MSDS requested by freight forwarder, which clearly stated UN1950. Referred to Italian authorities. Goods released as advised by Italian authorities. No further CAA action required.

2011-0555 25/07/2011 Memphis, USA

During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Corrosive liquid, UN3267. The consignment was accompanied by the correct paperwork, however, the external packaging was damaged and covered up with packing tape. The damaged area was covered with an air waybill label. Contacted freight forwarder, who apologised for the incident. The damage occurred during unloading from the road vehicle and the member of night staff believed it was acceptable to use reinforced tape to cover up the damage. The freight forwarder issued an instruction to staff about reporting damaged packagings to the warehouse manager. Refresher training was arranged for warehouse staff and a three day course for the warehouse manager. Satisfied that the company took the matter seriously and wanted to prevent a further occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Excess Baggage. During security screening, a consignment of 11 suitcases/holdalls described as personal effects were found to contain approximately 20 x 250ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The shipper was contacted and the aerosols were removed so that the remainder of the shipment could be exported. The shipment was not marked with the words "excess baggage consigned as cargo". Letter sent to the excess baggage agency. They advised that they updated their website to include more prominent information with pictorial examples about dangerous goods in baggage. Customers confirmed they had not packed dangerous goods by completing a confirmation and the relevant staff were retrained to instruct customers and to inspect baggage before leaving the premises. No further CAA action required.

2011-0566 25/07/2011 Heathrow
Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival, a consignment of dangerous goods were found with the orientation arrows facing the wrong way. An investigation uncovered that although belts were used to restrain the items, additional spreaders on the top of the second layer of drums should have been used to ensure the freight did not slip from its original position. All ground handling agents were given refresher training and a request was made that all dangerous goods freight builds were checked by a supervisor/duty manager before the flight. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloaded a unit load device had shifted during flight. The unit load device had been built to a poor standard and the freight was incorrectly restrained. Freight builder insisting load was secured before leaving warehouse, but there was no photographic evidence available to verify this. Outstation was unable to ascertain how the consignment became unsecured. In order to avoid a re-occurrence, the outstation has agreed that the Duty manager should check the load build before being transported to the aircraft. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 2 x 30ml and 1 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Un-manifested dangerous goods. On arrival at Heathrow un-manifested dangerous goods were found for the flight, Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s. UN2811. The shipper had completed the correct paperwork, however, it was not manifested. The shipment was not considered as undeclared because the NOTOC indicated that there were dangerous goods. The station of origin failed to update the correct dangerous goods fields on the system, which did not indicate that a checklist was held on file. A 'read and sign action was put in place notifying all staff on the correct procedures when entering dangerous goods information onto the system and staff were trained on system inputs and the station's performance was monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 petrol engine driven hydraulic pumps, (Engines, internal combustion, UN3166). Further checks found the fuel tanks of the machines still contained a considerable amount of fuel. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Italian authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC Error. The dangerous goods on an inbound flight were not recorded correctly on the NOTOC and the air waybill numbers were also entered incorrectly. The operator informed the Dubai authorities, who investigated further. They reported that the member of staff responsible for the error was new to the post and was unaware that dangerous goods had to be entered on the system as per package weight and not as the total shipment weight. Furthermore, the NOTOC format used in Dubai only entered the last four digits of the air waybill number. The member of staff was informed of the correct procedures for dangerous goods and also of the need to complete the whole air way bill number. No further CAA action required.

2011-0572 26/07/2011 Edinburgh

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 400ml Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 392ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2009-0188. Warning letter sent to shipper who advised that all staff were made aware of the limitations in supplying and shipping this product. The database was updated with a note stating that this item must not be transported by air and the website clearly advised customers that this product could not be supplied outside the UK. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 119 x 35ml of Perfumery products, UN1266 and 2 x 100ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. A signed declaration form signed by the shipper advising the consignment did not contain dangerous goods was forwarded by the freight agent. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised they were unaware perfume was classed as dangerous goods because they were allowed to carry it as a passenger. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Gas cartridge, UN2037. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Requested further information from operator due to release valve, toxicity, warning labels. Shipper confirmed contents less than 50ml. Letter sent confirming Special Provision A98 still needs to be marked and labelled on consignment. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. When the crew contacted the handling agent they were informed that Flammable liquids were being loaded onto the flight and that the NOTOC would be dispatched shortly. On receipt of the NOTOC, there was only one copy available for the Captain to sign, with only one Class 3 item on the form stating "adhesives". On opening the sealed cargo documents envelope, three dangerous goods Shippers' Declarations were found. One was UN1133 in a fibreboard box 60 litres, as per the NOTOC, but there were two others with UN3166 in wooden boxes, both 50Kgs, which did not appear on the NOTOC. It was later confirmed that there were only two items; 1 x UN1133 and 1 x UN3166 and the dangerous goods were offloaded. The operator's investigation report identified that the root cause was that the relevant paperwork was not processed and produced correctly, which subsequently led to inaccurate information about the dangerous goods consignments being presented to the Captain. Other mitigating factors were that the dispatcher arrived late to the aircraft side had not dealt with a flight carrying dangerous goods since being trained in February 2011 and was unsure about how to interpret the NOTOC and did not know she had to inform the Captain of dangerous goods on board. The dispatcher Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloaded dangerous goods freight contained within a ULD had not been restrained adequately. Freight contained 1 x 1Kg Environmentally hazardous substances solid UN3077, 1 x 1Kg and 1 x 6Kg Environmentally Hazardous substances liquid UN3082 and 1 x 1.9L Extracts, aromatic, liquid UN1169. Freight was labelled with orientation marks, although all the paperwork appeared to be in order, but the freight was not secured. Investigation revealed that the freight was secured before departure, however, it must have worked loose during flight. The out-station build team have been advised to ensure all future freight is palletised and strapped, as this will reduce movement during flight and help maintain build integrity. Staff member responsible for flight was re-validated on a ULD Best Practice course. Pictures will be obtained of future builds. No further CAA action required.

Mishandled dangerous goods. After opening the hold, the crew leader found an electric wheelchair which was loaded into the container not in accordance with the operator’s standard operating procedures. There was no advice or record of this item on the compartment manifest, which only showed that 17Kgs baggage was loaded in the hold and a NOTOC was not presented to the Captain, but was verbally informed about the wheelchair. The operator investigated further and local staff were reminded of the importance of following full company operating procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products 9 x 100 ml, 5 x 50ml, 2 x 90ml, UN1266 and 1 x 200ml Aerosol, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to Freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. When unit was opened, Dangerous goods freight found to be unsecured. Operator investigated further. Meeting held with cargo operatives in Zurich. Operatives stated that because the container was over 75% full the dangerous goods did not need to be restrained as long as it was felt they would not move. Operatives were informed that all dangerous goods have to be strapped or restrained regardless of the volumetric fullness of the container and the working instructions were updated to reflect this. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival at Heathrow, a unit was opened to find that the freight inside was unsecured. The freight included dangerous goods, Flammable liquid, but restraints were not used. Further information requested from the operator. As the container was more than 75% volumetric full, the ground handling agent believed that it did not require restraining. To prevent reoccurrence, the operator’s procedures on the restraint of dangerous goods were sent to outstations and systems were updated to show that all dangerous goods must be restrained. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain Dangerous goods in machinery, UN3363. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods. A shipper's declaration for dangerous goods was attached to the fibreboard box declaring the shipment as Dangerous goods in machinery, UN3363. On the airway bill it was stated the nature and quantity of goods as aircraft parts - unknown cargo. Following a visit to freight agent, it was advised that the consignment was delivered direct to the airport handling agent. Further warning letter sent requesting preventative measures to be put in place to prevent recurrence. (See DGOR2011-0534). In response, agent has undertaken an internal review of shipping procedures and programmed additional staff throughout the company to undertake dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A consignment of one fibreboard box containing 1 x 4Kg Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 was received unsecured without straps, ropes or spreaders. The operator investigated further. The staff member responsible for the load was interviewed, who stated that he was aware that dangerous goods shipments must be restrained on a wooden skid within a unit load device, he was unable to carry that out and due to the lack of space, he was instructed that the consignment had to be co-loaded with the pallet box shipment. The staff member was reminded that loading restrictions for dangerous goods over-ride any commercial instructions regarding co-loading. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Batteries, wet, non-spillable, electric storage, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document in accordance with Special Provision A67. The incident was referred to the Australian authorities. No further CAA action required.

2011-0586 31/07/2011 Heathrow

Personal Effects. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 200 ml Aerosol, UN1950, 1 x 60ml Flammable liquid, UN1993, 1 x 50ml Perfumery products UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and Freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

2011-0584 01/08/2011 Manchester

Personal effects. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 75ml of undeclared Aerosol, flammable, UN1950, 7 x 7.5ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993 and 2 x 75ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. 2011-0601 04/08/2011 Penzance
Undeclared, leaking dangerous goods in the post. During unloading, a consignment being carried as post was found to be leaking. The consignment contained Fuel injectors, Dangerous goods in machinery, UN3363. The consignment had been leaking when it was handed over at the post office and placed in a plastic bag by the sorting office due to the base of the fibreboard box having fallen out. The leak was contained within the plastic bag, and no other parcels, luggage or the hold of the aircraft were affected. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The machinery contained diesel fuel and appeared to have had an air lock during draining, hence the amount of fuel still inside the machinery. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Unmanifested dangerous goods. Freight arrived from Stansted, Compressed gas n.o.s. 1 x 0.5Kg UN1956, with no Dangerous checklist. Airway bill does not carry a message in the handling information and the shippers declaration was not completed. Operator investigating further. Inspector contacting operator regarding further information. No further CAA action possible.
Unmanifested dangerous goods. Package of Dangerous goods class 9 without paperwork returned to JFK. Shipment originally sent on AWB 125-68559245 on BA182 10/07/2011 - consignment originally stopped at Heathrow onwards to South Africa. Operator investigated further. To prevent reoccurrence of errors involving manifests, the following generic brief has gone out to all staff who manifest mainline freight: ‘There has been an increase lately in the amount of manifest errors and CK errors being highlighted through E-Basis. The source of these is often through the loading teams in the terminals and whilst they are resolved before the a/c can depart, it can result in delays, offloads and potential fines at destination. Where information allows, these incidents will be taken up with the planners involved, as this occasionally cannot be found, this reminder serves to let everyone know the importance of correct manifesting and CK entries both to a/c safety and the correct uplift of cargo. To prevent reoccurrence of the freight being placed in the wrong cage and marked as lost the operational staff are trained to check all AWBs when they arrive in to be processed.’ Situation to be monitored by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Batteries, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Other occurrences involving Shipper were 2011-0569 & 2011-0602. Letter sent to shipper under 2011-0569. Response received from freight forwarder. The consignment was presented for carriage by another courier company on behalf of its customer and the contents of ‘security equipment’ was not queried as this type of battery was unusual. The freight forwarder contacted the other courier company and the shipper regarding this incident and was awaiting response. As an interim measure the freight forwarder has embargoed consignments from the shipper. Warning letter also sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Just as the crew were securing the aircraft for departure, the dispatcher informed the crew that security had accidently released a baggage which had been held, subject to the x-ray machine identifying that a gas canister was contained therein. From the security records, the passenger was identified. All the baggage was offloaded so the passenger could identify their baggage and the gas canister was removed. The passenger was reprimanded and advised of the potential implications of their actions. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required. This incident was previously recorded under 2011-0956.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 20L of undeclared Flammable liquid, UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Two letters were sent to the shipper. After no response from the shipper, a DGI spoke to the Managing Director, who agreed to investigate the incidents and all of the paperwork was emailed to him. The Managing Director did not investigate the incidents and was consistently unavailable when the DGI tried to call his office and did not call the DGO back. Final warning letter from Head DGO sent to the Managing Director. See also 2012-0382. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 10ml Paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Please note previous incidents 2011-0516, 2011-0527 and 2011-0543. Following a visit to the shipper it was advised that there are only two products sent for air transport under the Excepted Quantity provisions. Two staff members will undertake dangerous goods training and become a focal point for such consignments, and warehouse staff have been issued with a read and sign workplace instruction on the correct procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 75 ml Perfumery Products, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 0.9L Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who confirmed that they will now be transporting all their dangerous goods consignments by road and sea only and will comply with the appropriate regulations. Staff have been debriefed and additional training provided for the relevant staff. The freight forwarder has been informed that no packages from the shipper must be transported by air. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 200ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950 and a 50ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. Two pieces of dangerous goods on AWB 125-95610023 were over-declared. Should have stated 0.04L not 0.4L. Operator investigated further, which revealed that this was a data entry error by a staff member. The staff member will be interviewed on return to work after compassionate leave, and the incident has been documented on their personnel file. No further CAA action required. See 2011-626 was an identical incident, but the staff members was different.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 255 x cartridges, Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Special Provision A98 applied to this consignment as they were inhalers. Telephone call to freight forwarder and advised them that the words 'Not Restricted' and Special Provision A98 should have been included on the air waybill and that a safety data sheet was found in relation to the consignment which referred to the provision. The freight forwarder staff had been dangerous goods trained but were not aware of this provision. Letter to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 8 x 250ml Aerosols, flammable and 3 x 200ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 10 ml paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Please note previous incidents concerning this shipper are 2011-0594, 2011-0546 regarding paint and 2011-0543, 2011-0527 UN1263 and 2011-0516 battery fluid UN2796. Although small quantities, paint is not being reported on the airway bill as excepted quantities thereby being stopped during security screening. Following a visit to the shipper it was advised that there are only two products sent for air transport under the Excepted Quantity provisions. Two staff members will undertake dangerous goods training and become a focal point for such consignments, and warehouse staff have been issued with a read and sign workplace instruction on the correct procedures. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. NOTOC for dangerous goods stated quantity as 5L instead of 0.5L as per the shipper's declaration. Operator investigated and appeared to be a data entry error. A note was made of the incident to discuss with staff member on their return to work, following compassionate leave. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. The gross weight of a consignment on AWB 125/66608905 was entered at 8.8Kg. The dangerous goods certificate stated a net quantity of gas as 0.001kg. The gross weight was entered and not the weight of the hazardous material as stated in IATA. Operator investigated further, which revealed a data entry error by a staff member. Staff member was interviewed and a note was placed on their file. As this was the first incident involving the staff member, there is no trend emerging. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During flight a passenger was discovered to have a personal oxygen cylinder, 120ml. Although permitted by the passenger provisions, the passenger had not sought the approval of the operator before carrying the cylinder. Appropriate action taken by operator, no further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. A consignment of passenger baggage had travelled from India to the UK, and became lost on arrival. The passenger travelled onto Canada. As a result of the lost baggage, the passenger had arranged for replacement items to be sent and upon arrival, the consignment was found to contain Phosphorous, UN1381 (see 2011-0500). The lost baggage was subsequently found and at the request of the Canadian Authority, a hand search was conducted. The preliminary hand search found no obvious signs of containing phosphorous, and the consignment was released and travelled to Canada. After the release, the Canadian Authority advised that several other consignments had previously been found to contain phosphorous wrapped inside balls of twine. Upon arrival, this consignment was intercepted and searched by Transport Canada as it had been noted they contained balls of twine. The twine was found to contain phosphorous. Both the Canadian Authority and the operator issued safety alerts advising of a trend in passengers concealing phosphorus within their baggage and cargo, and the passenger has been banned from travelling with the operator. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Unit offloaded at aircraft side due to unsecured dangerous goods, 5 x 25Kg, Toxic solid, UN2811 and 4 x 20mg Corrosive solid UN3261. Dangerous goods paperwork appears to be in order. Operator investigated further. Third strap holding freight become loose from leaving the cargo shed to being loaded on aircraft. Operator has procedure in place for photographs to be taken off all dangerous goods shipments, and it shows third strap. Build team leader states that he was unable to move the cargo with his own body weight when he inspected shipment prior to leaving warehouse. Unable to ascertain how strapping became loose, as airside driver states he did not drop or tamper with the consignment. No further action can be taken as all protocols and procedures followed and unable to determine why strap become loose. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 100ml Perfumery products, UN1266, found in personal effects shipment. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-604, 2011-595 and 2011-584. In a response to a letter that was written for the previous incidents, the shipper advised that their customers are advised about dangerous goods in a questionnaire and that their customers are then required to sign a declaration, stating their consignment doesn’t contain any dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Unsecured dangerous goods were found in a unit on arrival at Heathrow. The operator at the outstation investigated further. Although an effort was made to secure the dangerous goods, it seemed that the pieces were small and could not be secured to the floor and the strapping restraint was inadequate to prevent movement during flight. To prevent a reoccurrence, the outstation instructed the teams in the warehouse and in Planning to ensure smaller items of dangerous goods were restrained with netting to prevent movement during transit from the cargo shed to the aircraft stands. No further CAA action required.
2011-0634 12/08/2011 Reykjavik, Iceland

Dangerous goods leakage. Upon arrival, an offload agent noticed a bottle had leaked in the hold. The bottle was thought to have originated in a passenger's luggage. The emergency services were called and they entered the aircraft with full breathing apparatus. The emergency services concluded that it was home made alcohol. Referred to the French authorities. No further CAA action possible.

2011-0631 12/08/2011 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods found in mail. As mail was being delivered from the aircraft to the warehouse, it was identified that the mail included radioactive material. Further investigation found a package within the mail that contained radioactive material, excepted package, limited quantity of material; UN2910, which may or may not have been acceptable in the mail. Nevertheless, the operator's policy was to not carry radioactive material. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

2011-0639 13/08/2011 Heathrow

NOTOC error. Incorrect values were entered on the NOTOC. The operator investigated further. The error was as a result of a staff member entering the incorrect information; Environmentally hazardous substance, solid in millilitres instead of milligrams. The staff member was interviewed and it was documented on his personnel file. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to South African authority. Due to lack of response from South African authority no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain automotive shock absorbers, UN3164. The consignment was removed from the passenger and held in the Manager’s office. Reported to the FAA. Operator investigated further and appropriate action was taken. Unable to determine size of shock absorber. No further CAA action possible.

Damaged box containing dangerous goods. Upon collection by the consignee, a fibreboard box which contained dangerous goods was found damaged but there was no evidence of leakage. When the freight was offered to the customer, it was noticed that the tape underneath came away from the box. It was believed that the tape on the bottom of the box had stuck to the bottom of the cage and came away when the box was lifted. The operator investigated further and an inspection of all units was carried out to ensure pieces were restrained and cargo duty officers checked for signs of leakage or damage. To prevent a re-occurrence, counter checks would be carried out before the units were towed to the aircraft side for loading. The load supervisor would check that all dangerous goods in unit load devices were correctly loaded and restrained to protect from damage and to prevent damage or spillage. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured wheelchair. No net was raised between the compartments and the electric wheelchair was not restrained. Operator investigated further. The loading staff confirmed they did not secure the wheelchair. Corrective actions were identified and were introduced with immediate effect. The Load manual was amended to reflect this to avoid a similar incident and was distributed to the relevant staff.
NOTOC error. AWB 125-63546685 consisted of 10 items, which were loaded and manifested for service. On the NOTOC only 9 items were recorded at a weight of 50kg per item. The 10th item weighing 35Kgs was missing. Further more an item (12) on the NOTOC should have been for AWB 125-87761575 but was keyed in as 125-087761579 (the last digit being incorrect). Further to investigation, it was identified that the freight had been called forward at the last minute, near the end of a shift and staff were rushed as the new shift staff were coming on duty. To prevent re-occurrence, flight file audits are now in place and communications have been sent out to Flight Management reinforcing the need to focus on tasks in hand at unsettled times such as shift change over. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 133g, Aerosol, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by Operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 100ml, Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by Operator. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Unsecured freight was found on arrival. The operator investigated further. The ground handling agent confirmed that dangerous goods were not restrained. The management addressed this with the staff member who built the unit and would implement a further ‘fit to fly’ check on all unit load devices containing dangerous goods. The incident was reported to the Swedish authorities. The station’s performance was monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 5l Paint related materials, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 1L Paint UN1263 and 1 x 5L Xylenes UN1307. The consignment was labelled will UN1263, but not other labels or markings were showing that the consignment was containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Freight Forward confirmed Shippers name and gave their reference number for consignment as 15084. Further information requested from operator. Letter sent to shipper. Shipper reply received. Shipper stated they were unaware of the difference between marine and air freight. However, they have now made note of all UN numbers for products stocked and informed staff of the need for extra vigilance when send air freight. No further CAA action required.

Undetermined. During unloading a mail parcel carried from Germany was found to be borne a label reading 'Primary Lithium Batteries - Forbidden for Transport Aboard Passenger Aircraft'. The mail was consigned to the UK following misrouting by surface transport to Germany. The subsequent investigation indicated that the item was a laptop computer, therefore, unlikely to include a primary lithium battery. It is probable, however, that the lithium battery handling label and associated documentation was required (but was not present). The goods were released to the consignee so it was not possible for the operator to verify the nature of the goods. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 8 x 20ml bottles of undeclared Perfumery, products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The incident was reported to the French Authorities. See also previous occurrences 2011-0271, 2011-0275 and 2011-0407. E-mail received by French authorities stating corrective action (internal memo, staff awareness, audit of making consignments, checking of DG training up to date). French authorities consider the occurrences to be closed, therefore no further CAA action possible.
Mis-handled dangerous goods caused a leakage. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Batteries, wet filled with acid, UN2794. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, however it appeared that the inner packaging of the consignment had not been secured or cushioned to prevent damage. The operator reported the incident to the German LBA. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that its carrier partner (the operator) had mishandled the package. The operator was contacted, who confirmed that the consignment had been mishandled by them. The root causes were that one of the boxes fell from a mixed warehouse pallet whilst being loaded onto a truck. It was reported the consignment was clean at the time of loading onto the aircraft, but was reported damaged / leaking on arrival. The operator had a meeting with the shipper to discuss the incident. The operator acknowledged the error and identified that they could reduce manually handling packages by placing them directly onto a skid and use a dedicated shrink wrapped process. They would also employ a second person to ensure the process was properly managed. The operator also confirmed that the undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Adhesives 5L, UN1133. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The incident was referred to the Polish authorities. They were unable to investigate further, therefore no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 undeclared Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. As a result of further investigation, Special Condition A67 applies. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Refer to previous incidents 2010-0446 and 2010-0443. Warning letter sent to shipper who confirmed that they had a system in place that only allowed customers to have dangerous goods delivered within the UK by marking the product as 'UK delivery only'. It appeared that a small number of products had not had this restriction applied to them. The shipper undertook an immediate review and updated the product restriction and / or removed the product from sale. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 undeclared gas cylinders, consisting of 1 x Refrigerant gas, n.o.s UN1078, Refrigerant gas R404A, UN3337 and Refrigerant Gas R407C, UN3340. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Visited the shipper, who was apologetic about the incident and admitted it was their mistake, which was due to ignorance. The shipper has never previously transported dangerous goods. They shipped this consignment as a favour to a known customer. In future, the shipper would utilise their technical staff in Aberdeen who have dangerous goods knowledge if they deal with 'ex works' consignments. The Operations Manager agreed that some staff in the Manchester branch could undertake dangerous goods awareness training and was advised about the DGO’s list of approved training organisations on the Internet. He was also advised that he could contact the DGO if there were any queries about consignments. Was satisfied that the shipper had learnt from the incident. No further CAA action required.

2011-0659 19/08/2011 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. Unsecured freight was found on arrival. The operator investigated further. The cargo operative was under the impression that the dangerous goods would be held in place by other freight in the container. Photographs were shown to the staff member involved and the importance that all dangerous goods shipments must be restrained and secured was explained. The staff member’s performance was put under direct supervision by a team leader for four weeks and then was re-evaluated. No further CAA action required.

2011-0651 19/08/2011 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. Unsecured freight was found on arrival, containing 2 x 1L, Adhesives, UN1133. The operator investigated further and it was discovered that restraints were used, but the dangerous goods were not contained within the straps, which was due to a poor build quality. The staff member responsible was briefed regarding his poor performance and underwent revalidation training. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 10ml Extracts, aromatic, liquid, UN1169. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, however a copy of the MSDS was inside the package. Consignment should have been declared as excepted quantities. Letter sent to shipper. Shippers response states review of site and risk assessments currently in place to ensure samples classified as dangerous are not carried via air transport. Consult to evaluate if air transport will be required in further and if so have staff trained appropriately. If air transport is used in future all staff to be given dangerous goods awareness training, and appropriate freight forwarder found to ensure no future occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger's suitcase was found to contain 1 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The aerosol was removed from the suitcase and the operator informed the FAA. Warning letter sent to the passenger. No further CAA action required.

2011-0655 20/08/2011 Baltimore, USA

Unsecured dangerous goods. Unsecured freight was found on arrival. The ground handling agent at the station of origin investigated further and the cargo controller responsible for building and loading the consignment received a warning and was assigned to specific flight files. Measures were put in place whereby the Operations Supervisor signed off a unit load device sheet and checked all dangerous goods consignments prior to loading to ensure procedures were met to prevent a reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 141ml undeclared Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by Operator. No further CAA action required.

2011-0657 22/08/2011 Heathrow

2011-0653 22/08/2011 East Midlands

Documentation error. A consignment was found to contain Lithium metal batteries, UN3090. The operator's variation stated that UN3090 were prohibited for carriage on a passenger aircraft. Further information was requested from the operator. The ground handling agent at the station of origin was unaware of the operator's specific restrictions. This was addressed by the management and all staff at the outstation were reminded of the importance of checking dangerous goods and the operator's special restrictions. No further CAA action required.

2011-0666 23/08/2011 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 91 x 150ml, 42 x 175ml and 2 x 75ml Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper who confirmed that the consignment was intended for road and sea transportation only. The courier company took an independent decision to air freight the consignment. Discussions have taken place with the courier and written confirmation has been received that this will not be repeated under any circumstances. No further CAA action required.

Mis-packed dangerous goods. During freight checks, three packages were found to contain Oxygen generators, chemical, UN3356. The consignment was offered for transport by a specialist packing company, but suspicion was raised about the UN Specification marking on the boxes. The reporter contacted a specialist packaging agent, who confirmed the specification markings on the boxes had lapsed since 2001 and were designed and tested to contain individually wrapped cigarette lighters. The supporting documentation and polystyrene chips were also found inside the boxes, which got inside the boxes containing the generators. The incident was referred to the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement for investigation. As a result of their investigation, the shipper pleaded guilty to the charges and on 17 August 2012, the shipper was fined £25,000 and ordered to pay costs of £6,630. No further CAA action required.

Misdeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Oxygen generator, chemical, UN3356. The boxes appeared to be second hand. DGO visited shipper on 22 September 2011 and met with the Operations Director, the Quality Director and two members of staff who worked in the warehouse. The member of staff responsible for packing the generators admitted using second hand boxes for this consignment and apologised for the error and the problems of using recycled boxes was explained. The shipper apologised for the error. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a canister of 1,1 Difluoroethane, UN1030 was found in a passenger’s baggage. The item was removed by security and the passenger proceeded to the flight. The passenger was confirmed as a Canadian national. The operator reported the incident to the FAA. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosol, flammable UN1950 and Flammable liquid n.o.s. UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to courier, who confirmed that all handling staff received dangerous goods awareness courses and there are several members of staff who are fully qualified in the handling and shipping of dangerous goods. The courier company policy is very clear to all their clients that they do not accept such items as aerosols or any liquids - whether classed as dangerous goods or not for shipment via courier by air. A letter including a pictorial examples have been forwarded to all the courier’s clients to remind them of the restriction on moving dangerous goods by air. No further CAA action required.

Mispacked dangerous goods leading to damage. During loading, an aluminium box containing Lithium ion batteries, UN3481 was found to be very hot. Further investigation found that a torch packed inside the box had become very hot and had melted. The operator refused onward carriage of the item. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods because it was not restricted as per Packing Instruction 967. Further to enquires made by the Hong Kong authorities with the freight forwarder, it was established that the shipper was located in mainland China. Despite several attempts to contact the shipper no response has been received. Hong Kong authorities have referred the incident to mainland China. Further information requested from the agent advised that the batteries had not been properly secured against short circuits. They also advised that they believe that the problem is not sufficiently explained by the regulations and that manufacturers state that the equipment itself guaranties sufficient protection against short circuits. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was consisting of personal effects, was found to contain Fireworks. The fireworks were in consumer packaging and did not have any standard markings. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Due to insufficient information regarding fireworks, they cannot be air freighted. Unable to determine UN number. Letter sent to freight forwarder requesting original shippers name and address. Requested further information from reporter regarding packaging to help determine firework classification. Not much information available due to packaging not being available. Letter sent to shipper informing disposal of fireworks. Request sent to reporter stating disposal required. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082, Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950, Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment and packed in equipment. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. An investigation by the Dutch authorities advised they had sent the shipper an official warning. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. The Load Team Leader offloaded a consignment of dangerous goods because they were unsecured. The consignment of Flammable Liquid bore directional arrows on it and the Toxic Substance was beside it and could have been thrown about during the flight. The Captain advised that there could have been turbulence. The items were removed and returned to the cargo shed. The operator conducted an investigation, but could not identify how and when the straps were dislodged. From the photograph taken after the build prior to the unit load device being transported to the aircraft side, the dangerous goods were adequately secured. As the operator could not fully establish how the incident occurred, no further CAA action was possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. The Load Team Leader noticed hazardous materials due to be loaded not showing on the NOTOC. Loader contacted cargo, loading of aircraft stopped whilst checks made. NOTOC amended. Operators investigation revealed that although bin had been marked with a dangerous goods tag, shipment had not been registered on the system. Once told of the un-notified dangerous goods details are entered into the system and an amended NOTOC raised. If ever there is any doubt as to the quantity and nature of the dangerous goods the unit is offloaded. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. It was noticed that the front of the unit load device was split and the dangerous goods were unrestrained. They were off loaded from the flight and the operator investigated further. The build Team Leader stated that the cargo was secured in both directions and the unit was undamaged when the build was completed. The Team Leader had photos showing the build prior to leaving the warehouse. The Investigating manager was certain that the strapping would not have loosened during normal transit, however, it was proven in previous occurrences that strapping and restraints could loosen during normal transit. All staff were reminded to ensure that strapping was fully secured before freight was removed from the cargo shed. There were occasions when the locking mechanism on the strapping was faulty. All staff were reminded to check the security of the strapping. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading three battery powered wheelchairs were found unsecured. Further information was requested from the operator. Upon interviewing the crew, it became apparent that there were 7 manual wheelchairs and one further electric wheelchair in the unit. Additional items were stacked around the wheelchairs to prevent movement during flight. All the wheelchairs had hand brakes deployed and the electric wheelchairs had batteries disconnected. The container was considered to be volumetrically full and secured by the ramp management at time of departure. No photographic evidence was available of the completed build prior to departure or before the start of unloading on arrival. Therefore, it was not possible to determine the integrity of the build quality. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Nitrogen, compressed UN1066. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipment originated in Denmark and arrived at Gatwick by road. Referred to the Danish authorities. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. The unit was rejected at the aircraft side because the load was not restrained fully. On further inspection it was found that the load was badly strapped. No conclusive explanation was identified as to the cause of the incident, as the investigation was not concluded within the operator’s timescales, which resulted in supporting photographs being destroyed. As a preventative measure, all staff that were responsible for building units received safety notices, which detailed the requirement for ensuring that all dangerous goods freight was secured in the units and that photographs must be taken to prevent this type of incident. The operator was reminded to complete their investigations within its timescales. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 500ml Phosphoric acid, UN1805 and 1 x 500ml Potassium hydroxide, UN1813. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A consignment of 23 dangerous goods items within a unit load device was rejected at the aircraft side because the load slipped through the net. On further inspection it was found that the load was badly strapped. The operator investigated further, which revealed that the consignment was not sufficiently restrained. The ramp staff who built the unit were interviewed and were warned about the potential risks of not building units correctly. To prevent a re-occurrence, all dangerous goods shipments were loaded in the presence of qualified staff, were lashed down in the unit after loading and supporting planks or wooden pallets were used if the load was double stacked. Also, the dangerous goods qualified staff noted the details of the shipment on the loading sheet and the co-ordinator or supervisor signed off a ‘fit to fly’ sheet. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 300ml and a 150g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the South African authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain petrol generators, 4 x engine internal combustion flammable, UN166. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Approximately 500ml of fuel in each tank. Warning letter sent to shipper. Shipper confirmed items sent to them in error and they were returning to origin, unaware that they contained fuel. Incident has been recorded with shippers Health & Safety management system as a near miss, involving a full investigation into this issue. Staff are fully aware of dangerous and hazardous transportation, audit and review of current procedures underway. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Carbon Dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. The shipper investigated and discovered that the incident was due to human error. A reminder was sent to all employees that carbonators should not be transported by air. To avoid a recurrence, all overseas dispatches were checked by two staff members to ensure gas cylinders were not included. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 200ml, 1 x 100ml, 1 x 50ml, 2 x 30ml and 18 x 1.5ml of Perfumery products, UN1266 and 1 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible due to a delay in reporting the incident.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival at the aircraft side, it was noted that a consignment of Dry ice, UN1845, was unsecured in the unit load device. The unit was returned to the cargo shed. After investigation it was established that the unit was volumetrically full and movement of the freight was not possible. The only way the contents could have slipped would have been if the unit was dropped. It was not possible to trace the cargo driver as the ALERTS system only holds the data for three days, but there were no reported dropped units on the airside logistics log. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x 400g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 75ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator taken appropriate action. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator taken appropriate action. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 113g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 100ml, 1 x 50ml and 1 x 200ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to freight forwarder and shipper. No further action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening of four pallets, each consisting of a large box, it was noticed that the boxes all bore lithium battery handling labels, but the air waybill made no mention of the lithium batteries. When the shipper was asked to explain, they claimed that the labels related to previous contents and that the boxes did not contain any lithium batteries (Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment; UN3481). Upon opening the outer boxes, the handling agent found them to contain inner boxes, all with lithium battery handling labels. When the shipper was contacted by an inspector, the shipper was unaware that there were any requirements that applied to shipping lithium batteries. No further CAA action possible.

Mis-labelled. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium ion batteries, UN3480 with a Class 9 label instead of the Lithium ion battery label. The air waybill stated that the consignment contained Lithium ion batteries, UN3480, Section II of the Packing Instruction 970. An investigation by the agent advised that a package that was marked and labelled as Class 9, Lithium ion batteries, UN3480 was collected from the shipper without any dangerous goods documents. Originally the shipment was recognised as dangerous goods and placed in a dangerous goods location, but the documents were not checked. The export agents were not made aware of the dangerous goods because the consignment had been incorrectly recorded in the system. Normal procedure was applied and the consignment was forwarded to the ground handler as a consolidated consignment. The ground handler did not notice the presence of dangerous goods and the consolidation was trucked to location of the occurrence. Further inspections by the operator, noticed that the consignment contained dangerous goods. A UK Dangerous Goods Advisor was engaged to inspect the consignment to enable the consignment to be prepared in accordance with the dangerous goods regulations. As a result of this incident,

2011-0715 06/09/2011 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, it was observed that a consignment containing dangerous goods had been placed in a unit load device but had not been restrained in accordance with the operator’s standard procedures. After consultation with the Ramp Manager, this consignment was offloaded. As a result of an investigation and interviews with the counter signatory staff and acting team leader, they were made fully aware of the issues concerning dangerous goods restraints and volumetric fullness of the unit and should another incident arise, it could lead to possible disciplinary action. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. During pre-flight checks it was observed that a shipment of human plasma which contained Dry ice, UN1845 had not been recorded on the NOTOC. The information was extracted from the cargo daily operational log and the NOTOC was updated prior to the flight. Operator investigated. Staff member interviewed, but unable to recall this particular flight. Staff member reminded to check flight at the manifest state, as this is the final check to be completed. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening of four pallets, each consisting of a large box, it was noticed that the boxes all bore lithium battery handling labels, but the air waybill made no mention of the lithium batteries. When the shipper was asked to explain, they claimed that the labels related to previous contents and that the boxes did not contain any lithium batteries (Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment; UN3481). 2011-0706 06/09/2011 Gatwick

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to freight forwarder. Telephone call to freight forwarder. The shipper did not declare that the consignment contained aerosols. The managing director of the freight forwarder spoke to the shipper and explained that dangerous goods had to be declared. Had he known, the consignment would have gone by road. Warning letter to shipper. No further action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During unloading the 3 cylinders were found containing Air, compressed, UN1002. The valves were found to be closed, but on opening the valves, air escaped indicating pressurised contents. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further investigation revealed that these items are prohibited on operator's aircraft in accordance with standard operator's procedures. The cylinders were usually transported by sea, but the shipper was unaware of this. The operator has reiterated to the shipper that cylinders cannot be accepted for carriage on a particular aircraft. Checks have been made of the fire personnel's training and if necessary will undertake further training. All flight crew have been briefed to have a higher degree of vigilance and oversight of the loading process. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x 50ml undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Italian Authority who confirmed that the freight forwarder had been sent a warning notice to advise them about this incident and that more stringent inspections must be made when accepting packages from this shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 50ml, 1 x 75ml and 1 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Previous incident 2009-1128. Referred to the Italian Authority. Italian investigation complete. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 2Kg undeclared Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that they have amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring including advising their customers they are unable to send any dangerous goods by air. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Carbon dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who carried out an investigation and discovered that due to human error the product was not flagged correctly as dangerous goods on their system. This was rectified and their dangerous goods processes were reviewed and amended to prevent a re-occurrence. The shipper’s policy was to restrict dangerous goods items to overseas mail order customers and further checks were implemented to minimise the risk of another breach. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading at Heathrow it was noted that the consignment inside the unit had shifted, the dangerous goods freight was on its side and the freight had not be secured. Operator investigated. Outstation responsible for shipping unit interviewed relevant staff member. Staff fully trained in ULD build, and strapping has been used. To prevent reoccurrence the agent has been advised to use additional strapping and support spreaders in future. Station performance to be monitored. No further CAA action required
Passenger error. Unprotected dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger’s hand baggage was opened and a large plume of smoke escaped. The bag was doused with a powder fire extinguisher, and the emergency services were called. On further inspection, it was discovered that the hand baggage contained a Lithium ion battery, UN3481, packed inside the charger and which was not protected against short circuit. The passenger’s name and address was supplied by the operator. No further CAA action.

During security screening, at Boston airport a passenger’s bag was found to contain fuel additives, Petroleum distillates n.o.s UN1268. The items were removed from the baggage and passenger and bag continued onward journey. Appropriate action taken by operator. FAA informed.

Passenger a GB national. No further CAA action possible
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who advised that the due to an administration error, the wrong destination label and consignment was created. The consignment was supposed to be destined to a UK Mainland address via road transport. Future air or sea freight will be passed to their specialist freight forwarder, who will ensure that the correct documentation is created and ensure that the correct packaging and labelling is used. Warehouse staff have undergone training to ensure that they comply with the applicable road regulations and company procedures have been amended to prevent re-occurrence. Letter sent to Freight forwarder requesting why goods were offered for air transport when UN number clearly visible on box. Freight forwarders confirmed that they subcontract all road transport operations through another agency. Due to recent staff turnover, there was a breakdown in procedures. This has now been resolved with further training to the new staff. No further CAA action required.

Leakage of dangerous goods permitted in passenger baggage. When unloading a unit load device two baggage operatives became dizzy and complained of sore throats. Investigations found a plastic bottle of nail varnish remover, Acetone, UN1090 leaking in a passenger’s suitcase. The personnel suffered no long term ill effects and had no time off work. No further CAA action necessary.

Passenger error. During routine security screening, passenger baggage was found to contain more than the limit of Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950. The excess amount was removed and the passenger advised of their actions. Operator took appropriate action. No further CAA action required.

Documentation Error. AWB 125-6778410 was manifested as being in an ULD but on arrival, could not be found. It appears that the wrong AWB number was entered into the system and shipped. Operator investigated further. The warehouse staff reported the AWBs were loaded on a total of 2 PAG, the load distribution for the 2 PAGs were the opposite way around to what the warehouse staff advised. This caused the AWB to be shipped in error. When the AWB arrived at RUH it was reported as arriving un-manifested. From the information provided, it was ascertained that this incident was due to staff error. The warehouse staff reported the AWB in question to being loaded on the incorrect unit. To prevent re-occurrence the outstation will amend the built list for dangerous goods units to have a second check signature. The staff member involved was currently on long term sick and not available for questioning, but will be interviewed upon return and necessary action will be taken. No further CAA action required.

2011-0736 12/09/2011 Manchester

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 200ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

2011-0730 12/09/2011 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 8 x 200ml, 5 x 125ml, 4 x 90ml and 5 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 2kg Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2010-0157 and 2011-0662. Letter sent to shipper under 2011-0662. The shipper investigated the incident and identified a weakness in its 'parcel room' at their main production site, which was that the procedures for correctly identifying the consignment were not followed. As a result, the shipper implemented a number of changes; a notification has been sent to all managers at the shipper's sites regarding shipping awareness; dangerous goods consignments will only be processed at one site only and additional awareness posters have been posted in Logistics areas. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 200 bar compressed gas n.o.s. (Nitrogen/oxygen), UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper/freight forwarder. Previous incidents 2003-414, 2004-228 and 2011-0064. The shipper has raised a non-conformance and all warehouse personnel will be going through a refresher dangerous awareness programme to prevent any further incidents. The freight forwarder has admitted their oversight on this particular incident and their staff should have been more vigilant to the commodity listed in the shippers invoice. The relevant staff member has received a refresher dangerous goods course in the interim and will completed their refresher dangerous goods by air course in March 2012. No further CAA action possible.

NOTOC error. It was noticed during offloading that a consignment had a corrosive sticker displayed. The crew were not aware of any dangerous goods and there was no mention on the NOTOC. Referred to the Guernsey authority. Further to the operator’s investigation it was established that the operator’s engineers presented the Handling Agent with two consignments of dangerous goods to be returned to the United Kingdom. As these consignments contained different classes of dangerous goods, it was decided to despatch these consignments on two different flights. Unfortunately the Handling Agents inadvertently manifested the consignment as courier and not as aircraft spares including dangerous goods. The Handling Agent failed to keep copies of the shippers dangerous goods declaration and the dangerous goods check sheet in their export flight file. The NOTOC was not faxed to the to the various other points as per the operator’s procedures and the NOTOC was not attached to the outside of the flight documents bag. The reason for this failure was due to the inexperience of a team member, who was subsequently provided with the appropriate training. All staff have been briefed on the need to keep copies of all paperwork on file. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During aircraft loading, a consignment was found to contain Dry ice, UN1845. The consignment was not secured in the unit. Operator investigated further. Staff member interviewed and stated they were aware of needing to restrain dangerous goods, but, could not remember this particular shipment. Staff agreed would be more vigilant in the future. Performance to be monitored. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 50ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266 and 2 x 150ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 24 x 400g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. Training has been given to all warehouse staff and the company procedures have been amended to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 24 x 400g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. Training has been given to all warehouse staff and the company procedures have been amended to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 369g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. An inner box was partially marked with 'Aerosols' but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During unloading of the unit load device, it was noticed that the drum containing dangerous goods was not secured inside and the pallet was actually on top of the drum. The operator investigated and the staff member responsible for the build and the team leader accepting the build quality were interviewed. After showing the post arrival photos, staff agreed that the unit was of poor build quality. To prevent reoccurrence, the incident was discussed with the team leader and advised that in a similar circumstance to lash the base of the barrel with rope to the wooden stillage pallet, place pallet in unit and secure both the pallet and freight using the fixings in the unit. Operator has requested teams to use more rope instead of straps for extra security. A trial of new rope dispensers is under way to facilitate ease of use. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 24 x 170g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Battery fluid, acid, UN2796. The consignment was not marked or labelled as dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods consignment. An investigation by the Belgian authorities advised they had conducted an audit of the shipper. No further CAA Action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival at Heathrow, a unit containing dangerous goods was found unsecured. As a result of the investigation, it was identified that the skid on the bottom was restrained with straps, leaving the smaller pieces of dangerous goods unsecured. The member of staff who built the unit did not follow the operator's standard build. They have now been removed from their current position for further training to prevent re-occurrence. All the ground handling staff were informed that all dangerous goods freight must be properly restrained to avoid any movement during flight. Ground handling staff have been requested to take pictures of every unit build with dangerous goods in it, showing how it was built and emailed to the operator the day before the flight for monitoring and taking remedial action if needed. The operator will monitor this station. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. The NOTOC for the inbound flight was properly filled out and a notation was made on the ULD tag. Due to the 9 field not being completed the NOTOC for the outbound service was not completed correctly as the Dry ice, UN1845 was not identified. This was noticed before the flight departed. An amended NOTOC was issued prior to the departure of the flight. As a result of investigation, it was identified that a checklist was not completed by staff when the freight was checked in to the warehouse and the 9 field in the booking was not noted by the staff at the booking stage. As a result of this incident, a read and sign has been completed by all staff at the departure station to confirm only dangerous goods qualified staff are to accept any dry ice shipments. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During freight checks, a consignment was found to smell of fuel. Further investigation revealed the consignment contained a generator, which was full of fuel. Referred to the Ghana authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

2011-0782  16/09/2011  East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During freight checks, a consignment was found to smell of fuel. Further investigation revealed the consignment contained a generator, which was full of fuel. Referred to the Ghana authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

2011-0757  17/09/2011  Philadelphia, USA

Undeclared dangerous goods. During check in, a passengers baggage was found to contain a 500ml bottle of Silver nitrate, UN1493. The bottle was removed and the baggage flew. An investigation by the operator advised the passenger was a US National. The FAA were informed. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 811g tins of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. During routine loading checks at the aircraft side, a unit load device was found containing unsecured dangerous goods. The unit load device was returned to the loading shed. All staff involved in the build and movement of the unit were interviewed. However, it was not possible to establish why the dangerous goods were not secured. The build teams stated that the cargo left the shed fully secured and in an undamaged unit. The cargo driver stated that if the unit was damaged during the drive to the aircraft, it would have been off-loaded and returned straight to cargo. It was not possible to determine if the movement of the unsecured freight caused the damage to the unit or if the unit’s damage caused the freight to become unsecure. All drivers were aware that damaged units had to be returned to the cargo shed as per the procedures and all the warehouse build staff were made aware that dangerous goods must be secured. Due to a lack of evidence, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. 3 x Oven cleaner, Aerosols, UN1950, removed from passenger baggage. Further information requested from operator. Passenger Indian national. Appropriate action taken by operator. FAA informed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 269 and 1 x 226g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 290g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. The load in the unit had shifted and although strapped, the strapping was unable to support the load built on top of the drums. Returned. No damage to boxes of dangerous goods. Photos of shifted load taken by ramp manager. Operator investigated further. From evidence provided, you can see freight was restrained in both directions. Although the build could have been stronger, the scale of disruption would suggest that the unit has suffered a severe trauma. It has not been possible to locate the driver, however, no incidents or accidents have been reported. Unable to determine how unit became dishevelled. Operator has issued instructions to operations managers, with camera phones and software to ensure rapid response of dangerous goods incidents. Unable to determine if unit had been dropped, therefore no further CAA action possible.
Incorrect of dangerous goods. During off loading it was noted that the shipment contained 12 x 35kgs Nitrogen, refrigerated liquid, UN1977. The shipment was due for onward transportation, but was stopped at Heathrow due to the quantities. The operator's investigation with the station manager at origin revealed that the root cause of the incident was due to the person who checked the DG material did not identify that the consignment contained Cryogenic Liquid, the limit of which is 50kg and was specified in the operator's operations aircraft manual. The person only identified the consignment of non-flammable gas. Copies of the manuals were available on the operator's intranet site, but not as hard copies. The person was also a new starter. The error was also not picked up by the central loading team in the UK, who had access to the operator's loading aircraft manuals, but only noted the IMP code and not the UN number. The supervisor at origin will double check the work of newly trained staff and keep pages of the maximum allowed quantities of dangerous goods types per aircraft at origin and checks will be carried out on changes to the manuals. No further CAA action taken.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain self-inflating UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Previous incident 2006-518. Shipper stated they were unaware that carrier would be using air freight for a domestic delivery. Shipper is aware of the paperwork required for air transport and as such will ensure that consignments for domestic delivery are only carried by forwarders who drive, as it is not time or cost effective to full out the appropriate paperwork for air travel. See 2011-0787. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 8 x vests, life-saving appliances, self-inflating UN2990 and 4 x Gas cartridges, UN2037. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Previous incident 2006-518. Shipper stated they were unaware that carrier would be using air freight for a domestic delivery. Shipper is aware of the paperwork required for air transport and as such will ensure that consignments for domestic delivery are only carried by forwarders who drive, as it is not time or cost effective to full out the appropriate paperwork for air travel. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During routine security checks, passenger’s luggage was found to contain 3 x 340g and 1 x 42g of undeclared industrial Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. Passenger Nigerian National. The operator confiscated the aerosols and the passenger advised the dangerous goods had been removed from their luggage. FAA were informed of this incident. No further CAA action required.

No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

2011-0761  20/09/2011 Glasgow

2011-0770  20/09/2011 Baltimore, USA

Undeclared dangerous goods. Removed from passenger baggage 2 x All purpose cleaner and 2 x Comet bleach UN1760. Passenger a US National. Appropriate operator action taken. FAA informed. No further CAA action required.

2011-0767  21/09/2011 Manchester

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 125ml, 9 x 100ml, 1 x 75ml, 1 x 50ml and 8 x 7ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266 and 12 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. Freight forwarder involved, with four previous incidents this year. Shipper phoned and AR agreed to release consignment. Visited freight forwarder and was satisfied the company provided appropriate information on dangerous goods and had processes in place to prevent consignments of undeclared dangerous goods. The website contained the ‘Have you Declared It’ poster and it was suggested that they could use pictures of everyday items. The shipper had also signed a declaration to say the consignment did not contain dangerous goods. The shipper denied the personal effects contained dangerous goods in the telephone call to the company when making the booking. Letter also received from the freight forwarder about their procedures. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading, the ramp supervisor noticed that the ULD contained unsecured dangerous goods, Flammable Liquid, toxic, UN1992, and the orientation labels had not been attached. Operator investigated further. Interviewed staff responsible for build and they confirmed that dangerous goods container was a ‘snug’ fit between battens and a large box, which was strapped and should not have moved. No reports of accidents or incidents when cargo taken to aircraft, no further information available, therefore no further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Shipper stated as interim measure, no dangerous goods consignments would be sent without prior agreement from the Safety Health Environment and Quality department, and would be sent via a competent third party company. In the longer term, new post holders with relevant experience will be employed and the position of Supply Chain Manager created to ensure overall responsibility of shipping and dangerous goods awareness. Dangerous goods training and awareness training for all relevant personnel. Improvement of logistics procedures and processes to convey more information and instruction on compliance of dangerous goods. Audit carried out by consultant and updates implemented due to findings. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1L of Paint related material, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. A material safety data sheet enclosed with the consignment confirmed it was dangerous goods. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 94g Corrosive liquid, UN1760 and 3 x 811g Environmentally hazardous substances, UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to the ‘shipper’ as indicated on the incident form, who advised that they were the freight forwarder and provided the name of the shipper. Further letter sent to the shipper, who responded and advised that the incident occurred because of an internal oversight. The shipper used a specialist packer/shipper to send future consignments containing dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger bag was found to contain Aerosol, UN1950. Passenger was a US National. The item was removed from his baggage, and passenger and bag continued to destination. Appropriate action taken by operator, FAA informed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 100ml, 2 x 200ml and 6 x 125ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading of cargo, Load team leader checked dangerous goods to discover that it was unsecured. Consignment was found to contain Dry Ice, UN1845. Consignment was offloaded. Operator investigated further. This was a shipper built unit from Baltimore. Shipper has been contacted and advised of the correct loading requirements. There were three handling agents involved in the hand-over of this unit. One completed the dry ice checklist, one completed the fit-to-fly and the third took the picture. Agent responsible for accepting the shipment was aware that information must be entered into the system, which he failed to do on this occasion. Station and individual's performance to be monitored. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. On arrival at the aircraft the flight crew were met by an engineer who had requested 2 x 5 litre cans of structural void filling compound be flown on the flight deck. The compound was for an aircraft repair that was on the ground at the destination airport. These cans were classed by engineering as un-manifested spares, however both tins had hazardous material symbols on them indicating that the contents were an irritant and environmentally hazardous. After contacting load control, it was agreed to load the 2 cans in the hold and that these items would pose no safety issue. Subsequent to the flight it was established that one of the cans was in fact dangerous goods, Environmentally hazardous substance, solid, n.o.s., (4,4 isopropylidenediphenol epichlorohydrin polymer), UN3077. From the operators investigation it was established that in 2007 there was a revision to the material safety data sheet which deemed this product as Environmentally hazardous substance. Unfortunately this information was not updated on the engineering tracking system, thus resulting in this oversight. The system has now been updated and a review of all material safety data sheets has been undertaken to ensure that the latest information is available to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. NOTOC showed dangerous goods (UN3090/Class 9) in a ULD positioned for the main deck. Loadmaster pre-flight inspection found the shipment in another ULD positioned P31 lower deck. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger bag was found to contain a soldering iron, Heat producing articles. Operator investigated further. Passenger a GB National. No contact details on operator file. Therefore no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening at Philadelphia airport, a passenger’s bag was found to contain 2 x chainsaws, Dangerous goods in machinery, UN3363. The items were removed from the baggage and the passenger and their bag continued onward journey. Operator investigated further to discover they were petrol chainsaws. FAA informed. Passenger was a US national. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 125ml, a 75ml and a 50ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 1l of Alcohols n.o.s., UN1987. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a courier bag was found to contain 10 x 250ml plastic bottles of undeclared Isopropanol, UN1219. The courier bag was not marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. All of the plastic bottles of Isopropanol were packed in brown packages, clearly identifying the dangerous goods with the appropriate UN number displayed. The freight forwarders confirmed that they subcontracted all road transport operations through another agency and because of a turnover of staff in the audit function, there was a breakdown in procedures. This was resolved with staff training. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading of cargo, Loader reported 6 x boxes of Dry ice, UN1845 unsecured. Operator investigated further. No photos available. Occurrence investigated by outstation. Staff member responsible for load was interviewed and adamant that consignment had been loaded correctly. DGR check sheet and fit to fly paperwork were all in order. Due to staff member being so certain that unit was built in the correct way, supposition was that the aircraft hit severe turbulence en route. Out-station was issued a read and sign letter to all operations staff to ensure they comply with the rules and regulations when loading dangerous goods. South African authorities have been informed. Due to being unable to determine integrity of build prior to flight, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 750ml, 6 x 500ml, 3 x 120ml, Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Previous incidents 2004-364, 2004-368 and 2011-0714. Warning letter sent to shipper under 2011-0714. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 75ml Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 20 x 400ml Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0215. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised that the member of staff that sent the consignment was a trainee and was not aware of the regulations. The have now amended their procedures to ensure that trainee staff will be supervised by a senior member of staff and that all staff are trained on the requirements to send dangerous goods by air. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 10ml, 1 x 250ml Perfumery products, UN1266 and Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Due to no UK address available, no further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 10 x Aerosols, UN1950, perfumery products, UN1266 and 2 x batteries. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. This is part of a consolidated shipment with DGOR 2011-0809. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 2 x Aerosols, UN1950 and 3 x Hair Dyes, containing Hydrogen Peroxide. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. This was a consolidated consignment with 2011-0810. Requested shipper's details from freight forwarder. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium polymer batteries, UN3480. The consignment was marked "Package contains lithium polymer battery. Prohibit transport on passenger aircraft. Transport on cargo aircraft and ground vehicle only". This is the second attempt to send this consignment. Original attempt 18/09/2011. Package did not travel. Operator informed FAA. FAA reported incident to the USPO Hazardous team. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading of cargo, Loader reported dangerous goods not restrained or tied down. Shipment off-loaded and returned to cargo shed. Operator investigated further. The dangerous goods had been strapped, but not lashed together. The staff responsible for this build and counter sign of the build card have been taken through the incident to prevent reoccurrence. Rope dispensers are now in operation in the area and ready for use with similar loads. All staff in the area have sat and passed the spreader and lashing training course. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment found to contain Gas cartridges, UN2037 and life-saving appliances UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who conducted a full investigation. The shipper confirmed that the relevant staff was trained and this was just an oversight. Staff received further refresher training and a check system was introduced to ensure shipments were verified prior to release. A formal process document will be developed for use as an aide memoire and the internal audit team would conduct monthly spot checks on the shipping department. No further CAA action required.
Mishandled and leaking dangerous goods. A consignment of 1 x 6L of Paint and 1 x 1L of Paint Related Material UN1263 was mistakenly loaded onto an aircraft. Upon arrival during security screening, one of the containers of paint was found leaking onto the filler and inside the fibreboard box. The acceptance checklist did not note any damage or leakage from the package. The outer box bore orientation labels. A report advised that the operator carried out an internal investigation stating why the consignment was mishandled. The root cause was because the team leader miscounted the pieces of cargo being loaded onto the wrong aircraft and did not check the destination of the freight. As a result, the paint could not be found on the correct flight, even though there was a NOTOC and the dispatcher for the wrong flight was not aware the paint was loaded in error. The difficulty of counting palletized and shrink wrapped cargo was noted, as pallets were not allowed to be broken down. The team leader was interviewed and disciplined in line with the operator’s procedures. Team leaders were put on a Roles and Responsibilities course. An instruction was issued to staff highlighting the checks required whilst loading the aircraft. A visit was made to shipper but they could not provide a plausible explanation.

Passenger error. During security screening, at Boston airport a passenger’s bag was found to contain 2 x Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950. These aerosols were removed by Security. The passenger was an Algerian national. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, a consignment containing Environmentally hazardous substances, UN3077 was found to be unsecured on arrival. Operator is investigated further. The chief loader believed that the consignment was safe due to unit being circa 70% volumetrically full. He genuinely believed that the way it was loaded was safe. Staff reminded via read and sign bulletin that all dangerous goods need to be tied down. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 1L and 2 x 400ml Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Incidents 2011-0481 and 2011-0531 concerning the same shipper. Referred to French and Italian authorities. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Compressed gas, UN1956 and Petroleum crude, UN1267. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Handling agent has also informed operator of their findings. Letter sent to shipper and to Director of Civil Aviation, Ghana. Full investigation conducted. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x breathing apparatus, Compressed gas UN1956, with the gauge showing 220 Bar. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Freight forwarder confirmed that they do not operate a road routing from Edinburgh to Glasgow therefore all freight is routed through the hub facility at East Midlands. Dangerous goods are picked up when screened at Edinburgh, however, due to the enthusiasm of an employee, although the consignment was placed to one side for further investigation, staff member assumed it had fallen off the process line, and the consignment was shipped to East Midlands airport and reported to the DGO. Edinburgh has now installed a restricted area next to the x-ray machine. Requested confirmation from freight forwarder as to no road routing from Inverness to Glasgow. Operator confirmed no road routing from Inverness to Glasgow, would be routed to Edinburgh and then flown to East Midlands airport and routed to Glasgow. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 500ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0123. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that they were unaware that the consignment would travel by air. They raised a report to their externally accredited Quality Management System with urgent actions to update their knowledge of the requirements to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Diesel fuel, UN1202. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Due to the leak, it was not possible to ascertain the amount of diesel fuel. Obtained the shipper’s details from the courier company who delivered the consignment to the airline following a visit by DGO. Warning letter and chase letter sent to shipper. In response, the shipper considered this consignment to be a ‘national’ delivery and expected their goods to go by road and sea and had negotiated rates with their courier company accordingly. The shipper will raise the incident with their courier company to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action possible.

Loading and securing error. Whilst carrying out an inspection, a CAA Dangerous Goods Inspector noticed that an inbound pallet with a number of drums containing Environmentally hazardous substance, n.o.s., UN3077 (Simvastatin) were damaged. A spreader board was also found hanging from a handle of one of the drums. The damaged goods were built into another ULD and forwarded on, whilst still in a damaged condition. Operator issued a safety alert to remind staff of the need to check for damage prior to loading. No further CAA action necessary.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger bag was found to contain lighter fuel, Petroleum distillates UN1268. The item was removed by the passenger at aircraft side. The lighter was also removed from the passenger at aircraft side, before proceeding on flight. Passenger is a Italian national. No furtherCAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No furtherCAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Paint related material, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper, who advised that the consignment was offered for road transport to the courier, who drove the consignment to one depot and then flew it to the destination. The shipper amended its procedures and all future consignments were transported using their own transport facilities abiding by the dangerous goods regulations. No furtherCAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x 250ml Gas cartridges, UN2037. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No furtherCAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Whilst unloading cargo from the aircraft, a consignment in a unit load device was found unrestrained. The Dry ice, UN1845 which was underneath a fibreboard box containing Infectious substances, affecting humans, was not strapped in accordance with the operator’s procedures and was on its side. The operator investigated further. No photographs were taken on arrival by ramp staff, and the shipment was broken for dispatch before the cargo shed was informed of a problem. No apparent damage was noticed. The staff involved with the build of the unit were experienced cargo builders and because of no photographic evidence were unable to ascertain the route cause of the incident. The cargo section’s performance was monitored and build quality discussed regularly at daily team meetings. No furtherCAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 6 x 100ml, 7 x 75ml, 4 x 50ml and 2 x 12ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. The freight forwarder responded and supplied a signed affidavit by the shipper confirming that no dangerous goods were contained with the personal effects. No furtherCAA action is required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 15 x Flammable liquid n.o.s., UN1993 in glass bottles. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Refer to previous incident 2011-0767 for a full response from the freight forwarder. Unable to identify the original shipper. No further CAA action possible.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger’s bag was found to contain 1 x Butane, UN1011, a box of matches and a lighter. The items were removed from the passenger by security. No further CAA action possible.

Documentation error. During the cargo representatives’ inspection, they discovered a unit load device which contained Dry ice, UN1845. On checking the NOTOC is was established that the Dry ice had not been recorded on the NOTOC. The NOTOC was subsequently updated prior to the departure of the flight. Operator investigated. Due to the nature of the handling agent’s business procedures, freight can be accepted 60 mins prior to departure, when paperwork has been started, and in some cases completed before this time frame. All details were entered into operator’s system as soon as they were known, however on this occasion it was after ground handlers had issued the NOTOC. In conclusion, no dangerous goods regulations were broken, due to the loaders and cargo representatives vigilance, and correct information passed to the captain prior to departure. This incident arose due to the ground handler’s system procedures. Ground handlers have been reminded of the importance of passing information on as soon as received so that the NOTOC can be amended before final issue. No further CAA action required.

No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 200ml, 1 x 100ml and 1 x 250ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0845. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.
Documentation error. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Dry ice, UN1845. The consignment was loaded onto the unit without the correct paperwork being made available to the load team. When queried, it was advised that there was no ice in the consignment and the load team was advised to offload the items until the paperwork was corrected. However, it was later established that there was ice in the boxes. A new NOTOC was raised and handed to the captain and the cargo staff were reminded of the importance of correct paperwork for dangerous goods shipments. As a result of the operator’s investigation, it was identified that there were various contributing factors, which were addressed by both the operator and the ground handling agent. As a preventative measure, a new check sheet was put in place to prevent a re-occurrence of the of incident. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 1Kg Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible due to a delay in reporting the incident.

Handling agent error. Four refrigerated units were loaded with dry ice without a note made on the load instruction report or the NOTOC. The freight was offloaded and re-booked for the following day. From the operator’s investigation it was established that the causes of this incident were, the relevant field was not entered onto the system at the point of origin. The freight was loose loaded onto a refrigerated truck to Frankfurt where it was built onto units. It was at this stage that a Dry ice checklist should have been completed, but was not and was why Heathrow was not aware of the Dry ice. Both causes were due to human error. All staff at the point of origin were made aware of the incident and Frankfurt ensured that all a Dry ice checklist was completed and accompanied the original documentation. No further CAA action required.

Leakage of dangerous goods. A steel drum containing Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s. (Pyrethrum extract), UN3082 which had been stored in the interim cargo area, pending collection from the cargo ground agent. A leakage was noticed from this steel drum prior to collection. The fire brigade were called and appropriate action taken. The State authorities were informed. From the preliminary investigation, the drums were strapped onto wooden skids and it is very unlikely that damage occurred during transport or offloading from the aircraft. After inspection of the steel drum, it appears that the mostly likely cause is due to material of the drums being defective or inappropriate for use. The operator has been advised that similar incidents involving the same shipper had been reported to other states. The operator has completed their investigation. It is the operators procedure to fully inspect upon acceptance and departure of all dangerous goods for leakage / spillage. This would ensure that the place of any leakage / spillage would be identified immediately and the necessary action taken. In this particular instance, it has not been possible to locate where the leakage first started, but as there was no leakage in the aircraft hold it is believed that it first started at the destination airport. Unsecured wheelchair. During the offload of an aircraft it was noted that a wheelchair was unsecured. The operator investigated further. The Ground Handling Agent interviewed the Head Loader who stated that the wheelchair was not tied down as it was loaded in compartment three with the rest of the baggage and was blocked by baggage. The wheelchair brakes were applied and it was his understanding that the wheelchair would be unable to move. The loader stated that he was unaware that it was an electric wheelchair, as it was carried from the plane to the aircraft door after the passenger boarded. The Head loader assumed that the wheelchair power was isolated by the owner. The operator at the station of origin reviewed its procedures on wheelchair bookings to improve the communication process between the check-in staff and the ramp staff. It also issued a ‘Read and Sign’ to ensure compliance with the operator’s procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Environmentally hazardous substances, n.o.s., UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Life-saving appliances, not self-inflating, UN3072. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Washington, Dulles,
Passenger error. During routine security screening, passenger baggage/fibreboard box was found to contain an undeclared mower, Dangerous goods in machinery, UN3363. The mower, although new, had been removed from packaging and was tested by the passenger prior to flight, therefore contained petrol fumes. The mower was removed by security and delivered to the Operator's offices. Arrangements were made for a family member to collect the mower. Passenger was a US national. The FAA informed. No further CAA action required.

Leakage of dangerous goods. The cargo shed received a unit load device that contained a canister of Nitrogen, refrigerated liquid, UN1977, which had fallen over and the contents had leaked out. The item in question was checked by the dangerous goods co-ordinator, who advised that it was repacked and re-filled with gas. The operator investigated and advised the incident occurred because a staff member was called away to inspect another unit containing fresh fish fillets for reweighing before the aircraft's departure. In the process, the unit was delivered to the aircraft side without the restraints secured in place. The freight at the time was protected from the movement of other pallets within the unit. On arrival, the unit was unloaded and because staff were unaware of unsecured dangerous goods inside the unit, the consignment moved when the pallets were removed. When the dangerous goods package fell causing it to leak and once the shipment was placed in an upright position, the leaking stopped. There were no photographs available to determine categorically the cause of the incident. Although it was verified that the crew at the outstation were fully trained and that records were up to date, the staff involved in this incident were revalidated to ensure compliance to procedures for future shipments. No Passenger error. During routine security screening, passenger baggage was found to contain 3 undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The aerosols were removed and disposed of. The passenger was informed of their error and advised of the consequences of their actions. Appropriate action taken by the operator. FAA informed of this incident. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator taken appropriate action and informed FAA. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger bag was found to contain 4 x 20oz Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Unable to establish the passenger’s nationality. The FAA was informed. No further CAA action required.

Washington, Dulles,
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Dangerous Goods in machinery, UN3363. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that the incident occurred because of an oversight at their overhaul facility. They have now addressed the oversight and the responsible persons shall determine the requirements for shipping of Dangerous Goods in Machinery and pack it appropriately. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During the flight when a passenger reclined their chair, there was a flash and a smell of gas because a cigarette light was stuck under a seat. It was not thought necessary at any point to go into the fire drill. The flight deck was informed immediately and the first officer assessed the area thoroughly to ascertain that the lighter and seat posed no further hazard and that the situation was contained. On arrival at the destination, the plastic lighter was recovered from under the seat in a damaged condition and the gas had leaked out. There was no evidence of localised burning. An investigation confirmed that the seat covers, carpets and all the soft furnishings had passed CAA, FAA and EASA fire regulations prior to their installation onto the aircraft. Furthermore, the seats as part of the certification had passed the object trapment tests. However, the seats had gaps as they were moving parts, but brushes and guards were installed to prevent objects falling into the mechanism. The operator concluded that the crew followed the correct procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger's bag was found to contain 1 x Batteries Wet, non-spillable, UN2800 (car battery). The consignment was not marked as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, although it bore Corrosive and Poisonous labels on the top of the car battery. The passenger had asked the operator for advice before the flight about travelling with the battery, and he was told that the battery had to comply with Special provision A67 and that he had to produce a material safety data sheet. The passenger was unable to produce any paperwork, therefore the bag was returned to baggage services and the passenger was advised to collect it on his return. Appropriate action was taken by the operator. No further CAA action required.

Leakage of dangerous goods. During offloading, it was discovered that 4 x 27.8L Toxic liquid, organic n.o.s. (Pyrethrum Solution), UN2810 in a unit load device became unsecured during the flight. The weight of the canisters was over 110Kgs, which meant they could have vibrated during the flight and caused the liquid to leak. The operator investigated and advised that they were unable to determine the cause of the freight to slip. The evidence showed that the unit was built with the correct amount of restraints and the correct building technique was used to prevent the freight's metal base from slipping. The freight was also restrained in all directions of travel. The French authorities were advised. Due to inconclusive evidence, no further CAA action possible.

Mishandled mobility aid. A Mobility Aid, Battery Powered Equipment, UN3171 was correctly loaded into the hold with the battery connected, but the Engineer told the loaders to disconnect the battery. The passenger signed an Electric Wheelchair Declaration form provided by the PRM provider, which confirmed that the battery was non-spillable, therefore, the joystick was deactivated, the key was removed and the isolation switch was switched off. The root cause of the incident was that the relevant staff did not follow standard operating procedures. No further CAA action required.
Document error. On loading a consignment in to the aircraft, loading staff observed a dangerous goods label on the consignment which contained Dry ice, UN1845. No dangerous goods entries had been recorded in loading documents or on the NOTOC. Loading staff spoke with the cargo representative who confirmed that the consignment contained Dry ice, but could not confirm the quantity. The consignment was offloaded prior to the flight. Investigated by operator. Investigation revealed that AWB offloaded was in fact due to fly on a different flight, but was sent to the wrong service due to the eagerness of a new staff member’s desire to complete the task quickly. Staff member was interviewed and the error explained to them. They have been re-trained to prevent re-occurrence. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 9 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 1 litres of undeclared Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper who confirmed that their procedures have been amended and all relevant staff have been informed of this incident and have read and signed to confirm that they must comply to the revised procedures to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening at the destination airport, a rushed bag was found to contain 1 x 190g of undeclared Flammable gas, UN2037. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Dubai authorities. The ground handling agents advised that it is a mandatory requirement to include safety and security related information to all staff during their daily briefings. The most important being observation of any dangerous goods notification to passenger’s baggage and asking specific questions to passengers about any boxes/cartons presented for check-in on any flight. As a result of this incident, staff have been reminded that matters related to safety and security need to be taken with extreme importance when briefing staff and during their routine operational observations. The FAA conducted their investigation and took administrative action against the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 125ml, 1 x 75ml and 1 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was loose in Hold 5. The Operator investigated further. The Load master was interviewed and was adamant all dangerous goods were secured. No photographic evidence available because there were no cameras to photograph the load on arrival of the aircraft. The operator obtained cameras for use by safety and loading staff to ensure accurate recordings of future incidents. Due to inconclusive evidence and no photographs, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 312g undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain undeclared Kerosene, UN1223. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The German authorities forwarded a letter to the shipper/freight forwarder requesting a statement and clarification of this incident. German authorities confirmed shipper no longer trading, and nature of consignment not revealed. No further action possible but German authorities. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During a bonded warehouse check a consignment lost since 2010 was found and was subsequently returned to the point of origin. The air waybill or NOTOC made no reference about this consignment containing dangerous goods. Operator investigated further. New air waybill was raised at Heathrow and forwarded to Gatwick. The member of staff who requested the new air waybill to be raised did not mention that the shipment contained any dangerous goods and due to the length of time elapsed since first shipping, the system no longer held any dangerous goods information against original air waybill number. On arrival at Gatwick, the consignment was built with normal cargo and shipped to origin as per company procedure. The build crew failed to notice the dangerous goods labels/markings on the box and as no mention of dangerous goods was made on the air waybill, there was no knowledge of needing to ensure information was on the NOTOC. Due to this incident, staff cutting air waybills are to ask if any dangerous goods are in the consignment, and build staff and Gatwick have been reminded to remain vigilant and if there is a discrepancy between paperwork and labelling/markings to inform the office immediately. No further CAA possible.

2011-0895  22/10/2011 Manchester

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 30ml, 4 x 50ml, a 60ml, 2 x 75ml, 10 x 100ml and 2 x 125ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

2011-0899  24/10/2011 Stansted

2011-0900  24/10/2011 Stansted

2011-0901  24/10/2011 Stansted

2011-0897  24/10/2011 Stansted
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 50ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 30ml, 3 x 50ml, 1 x 75ml, 3 x 100ml and 1 x 115ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.
Loading error. During a spot check prior to the flight, a unit load device was inspected by a vigilant loading member of staff and a small pallet containing Carbon dioxide, solid, UN1845 was identified as not being restrained correctly. The loading team were notified who carried out the necessary measures to ensure the safe passage of the dangerous goods. The reporter is concerned that with the change in operators procedures, the loading teams no longer have to inspect inside containers, which might increase the risk of dangerous goods being incorrectly secured prior to departure. As a result of the Operator's investigation, no photographs where taken and the root cause could not be identified. Camera phones have been ordered for all building crews and they will follow the operator's procedures when building dangerous goods units. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 75ml Perfumery product, UN1266 and 2 x 198g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During routine security screening at the departure station, 8 sets of shock absorbers and struts were found in passenger baggage. The passenger was located and advised of the implications of their actions. The items were removed from the passenger baggage. The FAA has been informed of this incident. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 192ml undeclared Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that the consignment had been collected by the wrong agent. The consignment should have been collected by another agent with the correct documentation. The agent who had incorrectly collected the consignment realised their error but instead of returning the consignment back to the shipper they forwarded the consignment directly to the agent that should have collected the consignment but they did not advise them of the contents therein or provide them with the correct documentation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Netherlands authority. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During offloading it was discovered the load manifest and the computer manifest did not correlate with each other. The dangerous goods (Dry ice) was loaded in a different location. Upon investigation, it was identified that the staff member loaded the aircraft opposite to the load instruction report form and failed to tell the turn around manager what had happened or take any action to rectify the situation, which could have resulted in the aircraft to be out of TRIM. The staff member’s performance was monitored because he failed to follow the procedures in the cargo manual. No further CAA action required.

Mislabelled and mis-packed dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3481. There was no mention on the air waybill that Lithium batteries were present and the Lithium batteries do not appear to have been packed in accordance with the packing instructions. Letter sent to freight forwarder whom in response has produced a declaration form for customers to sign to confirm they have complied with the applicable packing instructions for consignments containing lithium batteries. Following a visit to the shipper it was advised that the consignment had been purchased under ‘Inco terms 2010 ex works’ agreement, which placed the transportation requirements to be met by the consignee. As a result, the shipper has agreed to undertake the responsibility of ensuring consignments meet the requirements for air transport and will notify future consignees accordingly. The shipper has introduced guidance to packing staff in accordance with the applicable packing instructions of the ICAO technical Instructions. No further CAA action required.

Incorrect loading of wheelchair. Upon arrival at the destination airport it was discovered that a dry cell battery wheelchair had not been placed in a container within the hold compartment, which is against the specific instructions for this type of wheelchair. The wheelchair was tied down within the hold, but only the rear was tied and not as specified in the standard operator’s procedures. Investigation revealed that no notification was given to the departure station to load this particular type of wheelchair into a unit load device. It was determined that this wheelchair was adequately secured, according to the requirements of the IATA Dangerous Goods Regulations. In the absence of photographic evidence, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x 15ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. An investigation by the French authorities advised they had received a letter from shipper which stated their corrective actions. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 100g of Environmentally hazardous substances, solid, n.o.s., UN3077. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading of a fibreboard box containing Dry ice UN1845 was found unsecure and other directional cargo were not facing the correct way up. Operator investigated further. No securing instructions, ropes or restraints where given to loaders, due to this it was assumed that the cargo was to be loose loaded and did not contact office to verify. All loaders have been reminded of the importance of communicating with office when uncertain of cargo. Decision has been made to systematically secure all dangerous goods/special loads in bulk, even if not required. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 7 x 250ml and 8 x 400ml Aerosols, non flammable, UN1950 and 8 x 250ml Isopropyl Alcohol, UN1219. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter forwarded to the freight forwarders who confirmed the identity of the shipper. In response the shipper advised that they had updated their procedures to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. The crew were informed that 1 Kg of non-hazardous aircraft spares for an aircraft that was on the ground at the destination airport. Shortly prior to departure the crew were presented with a NOTOC for dangerous goods. The crew gave instructions to ensure that the consignment was lashed down in accordance with the operator’s procedures. On arrival at the destination airport, the crew were advised that the consignment which was labelled as "Explosives" was loose in the hold, although the lashing ropes were in the vicinity of the consignment. Operator interviewed all staff involved. Two ramp agents had secured the package with binding rope that was supplied. It had been difficult to restrain the consignment, due to size and configuration of space available, therefore the ramp supervisor and dispatcher were called upon to check the security of the binding. All parties agreed that the package was secure. The consignment became loose during travel. All staff have been informed of the incident and have been reminded to ensure dangerous goods consignments must be secured, and if this is not achievable, the consignment must not travel. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 400ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the French authorities. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 19ml, 1 x 50ml and 1 x 68ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 50ml, 6 x 100ml, 2 x 125ml and 1 x 200ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 100ml of Perfumery, products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger bag was found to contain Aerosols, UN1950. The items were removed from the passenger bag and disposed of. Reported to the FAA. Letter sent to passenger as UK National. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. During off-loading on arrival at Heathrow, a consignment within a unit load device was found to be unsecured. Operator investigated further and outstation manager stated the build quality was due to human error. All staff involved have been trained in ULD best practice and build and dangerous goods handling. The manager has reminded all staff of the importance of ensuring dangerous goods are adequately and properly restrained. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. The flight was loaded according to the first loading instruction report form and the aircraft pushed back. The aircraft was returned to the gate as the aircraft exceeded load capacity by 5 tons. The turn around co-ordinator advised the senior aircraft loader that some positions needed to be offloaded. The information was hand written on the back of the loading instruction report form, which had been advised by central load control, then handed to the senior aircraft loader. The new loading instruction report form was received and the senior aircraft loader proceeded to offload positions based on the pre-advise and proceeded into the operations office after the offload was completed to retrieve the new loading instruction report form, which was faxed to the central load control without verifying the unit load device numbers offloaded. It was later established that the correct units had not been offloaded or moved to the new allocated area, resulting in a unit not being identified on the NOTOC and an incorrect loading instruction report and NOTOC being signed by the senior aircraft loader. The implications created a difference of 998kgs between the two units, which was not accounted for in the weight and balance of the aircraft. As a preventative measure, the senior aircraft loader attended.

Undeclared dangerous goods. A consignment of post bound for Lebanon was returned to the UK due to having Israeli writing on a bag. The consignment was opened, with the intention of removing the offending bag and returning the items on the next available flight to Lebanon. During unpacking of the postal bag, an box was discovered that was labelled Lighters, UN1057. The box was labelled and marked as containing 50 lighters. Upon further examination and being x-rayed, found to contain food supplies. Information passed to Irish authority for their records. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 8 x 30ml, 8 x 50ml, 12 x 100ml, 4 x 60ml and 2 x 75ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Spanish authority. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 16 x 150ml, 3 x 250ml, 2 x 250g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper advised that the consignment had been packed and palletised by them merely for ease of handling and transport from their warehouse. Their customer had arranged the consignment to be collected by a freight forwarder. Following a visit to the shipper, preventative measures will be put into place. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger's baggage was found to contain bleach (Corrosive liquid, n.o.s., UN1760). The FAA was notified. The goods were disposed of locally. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Helium, compressed, UN1057. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger bag, was found to contain 50 x 150ml Aerosols, UN1950. The items were removed from the passenger bag and both continued onward to destination. Passenger was a Nigerian national. Appropriate taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Undeclared and unmanifested dangerous goods discovered by consignee. Shipment was shrink wrapped and collected by courier. Upon receipt of shipment, consignee removed the shrink-wrap to discover that it contained further packages that were undeclared and unmanifested. Packages contained Organometallic compound, toxic, solid, UN3467, Ethanol, UN1170 and Toxic Solid, UN2811, Environmentally Hazardous substances solid n.o.s. UN3077. Operator investigated further. Shipment originally arrived into Heathrow from Manchester. As per standard operating procedures, due to the dangerous goods packages being small, they were shrink-wrapped together to enable easier orientation and more stable securing. The 5 pieces weighed 7kg total. On arrival at Heathrow the shrink-wrapped skid should have been broken down into its 5 items, however, a relatively new member of staff saw the consignment, and registered it as one piece against AWB 125-97015295. The whole consignment of 5 pieces was then forwarded to final destination. Responsible individual was identified from the scanner record logs, and they are unable to recall the consignment or offer an explanation as to how this oversight may have occurred. This agent has been given a 3 month extension to a
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium batteries packed with equipment, UN3481. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Consignment originated in Sweden, and was transported to the UK by road. The freight forwarder in the UK had been advised that the consignment was non-hazardous by their partner agent in Sweden, and the supporting air waybill declaration had been signed confirming there were no dangerous goods in the consignment. The freight forwarder was advised that the consignment must be correctly prepared in accordance with the applicable Section II packing instructions. Although the consignment did not travel by air to the UK, the Swedish Authority has been notified of this incident as the shipper originated in Sweden. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Crew leader identified unsecured dangerous goods and contacted Cargo shed advising that the net was not appropriate restraints and rope would be required. Operator investigated further. Staff members responsible for build have been interviewed. They did not believe that straps were necessary because the pieces weighed less than 250kg and they believed the net would secure sufficiently. They have been advised of their error and made aware of operators requirements for future builds of dangerous goods shipments. Although this was a road haulage consignment from an outstation, the build is to be of air transport quality to enable a swift transfer to aircraft if required. All personnel involved with the build will have refresher training and monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 414ml, 1 x 488ml and 6 x 59ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The flammable aerosols were not for medicinal or toiletry use so were removed from the passenger baggage by security staff. The FAA was informed. The passenger was non UK resident. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During off-loading on arrival at Heathrow, a consignment of dangerous goods within a unit load device was found to be unsecured. Operator investigated further. The poor build of dangerous goods has been highlighted to the Operations Manager. All warehouse staff have been reminded of the restraint procedure for unit builds. Pictures with dangerous goods loading features have been laminated and published in warehouse info boards. Station performance to be monitored. Report sent to German CAA. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 80ml, 2 x 50ml and 1 x 15ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 12 fibreboard boxes were found to contain 144 x Fireworks (Party Poppers), UN0336. The consignment was labelled as containing ‘Party Poppers’ 1.4G UN0336, and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. The shipper was also contacted who confirmed that party poppers would be removed or restricted on the ordering system. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger bag was found to contain Corrosive liquid, UN1760. The container was removed and both passenger and bag proceeded onto destination. Passenger an Indian national. FAA informed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 450ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 50ml and a 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266 and a 198ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 275ml, 6 x 400ml and 12 x 300ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 8 x 15ml of Aviation regulated liquid, n.o.s., UN3334. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Dutch authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During passenger screening, a checked bag was found to contain 2 x shock absorber, Articles, pressurised, UN3164 2 x Lighters UN1057. The items were removed from the baggage and has informed relative to enable collection. Passenger a Nigerian national. FAA informed. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured and non-notified dangerous goods. Upon arrival at destination handling agent notified flight crew that dangerous goods had been found within the aircraft hold. No NOTOC had been presented to the Captain at aerodrome of departure and there was no mention on the cargo manifest. In addition, the dangerous goods cargo, which was marked with “this way up” labels was found unsecured and in the wrong hold. The operator has investigated and has issued a ground operations alert to all handling agents highlighting them to adhere to the dangerous goods handling within the operators ground operations manual. The handling agent at departure aerodrome has also issued a staff instruction in regard to presenting NOTOCs to flight crew for signature. No further CAA action required.
Damaged Packaging. During off-loading, a consignment was found to be leaking, which contained Ferric chloride Solution, UN2582. The consignment appeared to have leaked due to suitability of the steel drums used, and the operator instructed the freight forwarder to carry out an investigation. Following their investigation a visit to the freight forwarder was arranged. It would appear that they had to partially repack the consignment as when received initially, the inner packing quantity limits had been exceeded. The forwarder sourced steel drums from a specialist packing company who have subsequently advised they were unaware of the dangerous goods being shipped, and they were not corrosion resistant as required by Packing Instruction 852. The freight forwarder has instructed all staff that they will no longer repack any dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 1L Isopropanol, UN1219. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. A DGI visited the operator on 22 November 2011. The file was referred to the CAA Air Regulation Enforcement (ARE) for formal investigation. The shipper manufactured equipment to recognise and handle bank notes and coins. The shipper was asked to send the product containing Isopropanol, which was used to clean the printer heads of a machine that had been transferred to China. The product was in the shipper’s Standard Operating Procedure. Sending the product was outside of the shipper’s normal business practice and admitted that they had no knowledge of the regulations. The shipper conducted its own internal investigation. A logistics manager was sent to China to assist with sourcing and approving a local product that performed the same function, which was successful and therefore, alleviated the need to send the product again. Also as a result of its investigation, the shipper drew up a shipping policy and key personnel were trained on it to prevent a similar incident in the future. On 13 June 2012, the shipper was given and accepted a CAA action.

Incorrect loading of wheelchair. Upon arrival at the destination airport it was discovered a wheelchair had not been made safe/switched off. An investigation by the operator found no reference to a mobility aid was made when the flight was booked. The loading team involved in the incident were interviewed and clarified the battery was not a spillable wet cell and did not need to be removed or disconnected prior to loading. Confirmation was received the ignition key was removed once the mobility aid was loaded and switched off, therefore, it is unknown how the mobility aid arrived powered on. It was possible there was a fault with the mobility aid which allowed it to be powered on. All staff involved with handling mobility aids are familiar with the correct procedure. Without further information on this particular mobility aid, it was not possible to conclusively state why the item arrived at destination powered on. The team leaders were reminded of the need to handle these items with extreme care and to ensure the controls were not touched or able to come into contact with any other items during loading or flight. No further action possible.
Phone caught fire. During a flight, a passenger was charging their phone using a USB connection via a computer. When the passenger repositioned their seat from the fully flat position, a metallic smell was observed and the phone was extremely hot. Thick white smoke and loud cracking noises were seen and heard by passengers/cabin crew in the vicinity. Fire drill procedures were undertaken by cabin crew and the situation brought under control. After landing the phone was taken into custody by the Operator. On receiving instructions, the phone was placed in water to prevent possible further thermal runaway. The manufacturer of the phone has been contacted and they will be conducting an investigation. From preliminary investigation it would appear that the phone was crushed on the seat track when the seat was being adjusted to the upright position. The passenger's seat was inspected and declared serviceable. As a result of this incident the operator amended their cabin crew procedure for lithium battery items, which are subjected to overheating/fire. No further CAA action required.

Labelling error and handling error. During security screening at location, a package was found to bear a label which stated 'UN0014 Cartridges Power Device', however, the shipper’s documentation stated Cartridges, Power Device UN0323. The freight forwarder also accepted the package even though the labelling on the package was not as per the DGD. Warning letter to shipper with response. Contacted the shipper who admitted that the cause of the error was partly because the incorrect label was printed off and because the driver did not check the package against the DGD. The software was fixed and the driver in question was reminded to check the details on the package and the DGD. The acceptance check sheet, carried out by a handling agent sub-contracted by the operator, was not completed correctly and the person who filled out the checklist did not annotate whether or not the consignment was acceptable, yet the consignment was handed over for air transport. The operator and the handling agent investigated the incident and the member of staff who carried out the acceptance check was interviewed, who was embarrassed by the error. The handling agent confirmed that the accuracy of his checks were normally reliable and he was a conscientious member of staff of the Fast Track facility. His

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 472ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Documentation Error. During aircraft loading, a consignment found to contain Dry Ice, UN1845, was found to be in the wrong hold according to the paperwork. Ramp manager contacted office and they confirmed shipment was located in a unit and not loose loaded in hold 5. The correct position was noted and a new NOTOC raised. Operator investigated further. Investigation revealed this was due to staff error. Although informed, due to workload, staff member forgot to communicate the change to Load Control. Staff member has been reminded of the importance of pass on the correct information in a timely manner. No furtherCAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During movement of a consignment onto a pallet, the warehouse staff noticed a strong smell on petrol. Upon closer examination, the consignment was found to contain a generator, Engine, internal combustion, (flammable liquid powered), UN3166. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following a visit to freight forwarder it was established that the shipper advised the freight forwarder that the generator was brand new and had not contained any fuel. The freight forwarder will be implementing preventative measures to prevent recurrence. Letter sent to freight forwarder to hand to shipper upon collection as address unknown. No furtherCAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 75ml and 70ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No furtherCAA action required.

2011-0981  14/11/2011 East Midlands

2011-0982  15/11/2011 USA

Passenger error. During routine security screening of passenger luggage, a pair of automobile shock absorbers were found in checked baggage. These items were removed and the passenger advised of the possible consequences of their actions. The FAA were advised of this incident. Appropriate action taken by operator. No furtherCAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 200ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to German authorities for investigation. No furtherCAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 25 x 2ml, 2 x 100ml and 2 x 50ml of Perfumery products, UN1266 and 20 x 75ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Spanish authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During off-loading on arrival at Heathrow, a consignment, Biological Substance UN3373 was found to be unsecured. Operator investigated further. The dangerous goods code was missed from the final cargo telex sent by cargo agent and loading supervisor did not notice dangerous goods shipments. Due to these omissions the shipment was not restrained. Refresher training raised for all staff. Regular safety bulletins and “Read and Sign” programme to be introduced. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 100ml of undeclared Perfumery, products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Swedish authority. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain a 250ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

Loading Error. During loading, a dangerous goods package containing Dry ice, UN1845 fell from the loading belt onto the apron. The Fire brigade were called and attended. The investigation revealed the dry ice package was not placed correctly on the belt, as the loaders were momentarily distracted during loading operations. The dangerous goods manager considered this to be a one-off event and debriefed the staff involved, reminding staff of the dangers and consequences of distractions. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, at Washington Dulles airport a passenger’s bag was found to contain 1 x Aerosol, flammable UN1950 and a soldering iron containing butane gas (Receptacles, small containing gas, UN2037). The items were removed and the FAA was informed. No further CAA action required.

Wheelchair loading error. During offloading of aircraft it was noted that a wheelchair was live and not disconnected. Operator investigated further. No photographs were taken on arrival so unable to confirm how/whether wheelchair had been deactivated. The wheelchair was fitted with a dry battery so no requirement to disconnect if wheelchair can be deactivated by an alternative method. Denver Airport Manager states that the correct procedures were followed to deactivate the wheelchair. There is no evidence from the Heathrow team to demonstrate that the wheelchair had been inadequately protected or fully activated. Wheelchair weight should read 91kg not 226kg as stated in original statement. Wheelchair 200lbs not kg. Due to lack of photographic evidence no further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading, the rear bulk freight hold was found to contain unsecured dangerous goods. There was approximately 20 boxes of dry ice. Operator investigated further. The boxes were correctly marked as labelled as containing Dry Ice, UN1845, however, as the loads were perishable items the load team was advised by the management that they should not have been restrained. The investigation concluded that there was a complete misunderstanding of the markings on the load sheet. Those involved were re-trained and a note was issued to all those involved with the loading of an aircraft reiterating the correct procedures for loading of perishables containing dry ice and the correct loading of dangerous goods. Also a further check was added to the turnaround coordinator’s checks before departure to ask the loading supervisor about any dangerous goods on a flight and how they were restrained. The South African authorities were also informed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During routine screening of passenger luggage, 3 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 were discovered. The offending items were removed from the passenger. Passenger US National. Operator investigated further. FAA informed. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. During offloading, a consignment was found to contain Nitriles, toxic, solid, n.o.s. UN3439 in excepted quantities, however the air waybill was not annotated accordingly. Letter sent to freight forwarder who cut the air waybill. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival a unit containing dangerous goods was found to be bulging, thereby indicating the contents had moved/were unrestrained. Items slipped due to insufficient restraints used. Staff at outstation informed they need to complete a fit to fly check signed by 2 staff members. No further CAA action required.

Passenger Error. A passenger boarded an aircraft with oxygen that had not been cleared for use in the cabin. When the passenger attempted to use it, the cabin staff informed her that she was not allowed to use her own oxygen supply. The operator investigated further. The device was an oxygen concentrator, and although could be carried under the passenger provisions, prior authorisation was required from the operator. The operator investigated into how the item was carried on board without a note being added to the passenger’s log. The passenger boarded in France, for a flight to America, transiting through Heathrow. When the passenger arrived at the check in desk, she was requested to take the oxygen concentrator on board in the cabin because she was uncertain of the strength of the item for hold transportation. The ticket desk staff did not realise that the item contained lithium batteries, or that the operator’s provisions had to be adhered to because it was medical equipment. All check in staff were reminded of the passenger provisions on carrying medical equipment and ticket desk staff were trained to search the Internet for these items. The passenger was told to contact the operator before the return journey to ensure the safe transport of the device. The operator will work closely with travel

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger’s baggage was found to contain 1 x Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The aerosol was removed and was disposed of locally. The FAA was informed. No further CAA action required.

2011-1000  21/11/2011 Heathrow
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 125ml, 2 x 90ml and 2 x 75ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the FAA authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

2011-1003  21/11/2011 Baltimore, USA
Passenger error. During routine security screening four shock absorbers were found in a passenger’s baggage. These items were removed and the appropriate action was taken by the operator. The passenger was not a British citizen, therefore no further CAA action possible.

2011-1007  22/11/2011 Stansted
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 87ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading of an aircraft, a pallet was offloaded due to the loose netting used to restrain dangerous goods. The restraints were pulled tight over the pallet with polystyrene which had disintegrated. The operator investigated further. The freight was built in a safe and secure manner as evidenced in the photographs, but there were no photos available to show the damage to the build or the reason for off loading due to no camera being available. The staff members involved with the building of this unit were made aware of the incident and would strive to deliver a high safety standard. Due to no evidence available to identify what happened from the build to loading, no further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 32 undeclared Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990 and 32 x 60g of undeclared Gas cartridges, UN2034. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that they acted as a Facility Management Company and the incident occurred because one of their clients advised that they required a pickup and delivery of 'Training Materials'. Unfortunately they were not given specific details of the contents and were unaware that the contents of the consignment contained dangerous goods. To prevent further incidents occurring they required their clients to provide detailed information and they investigated alternative methods, whereby suppliers make direct delivery to sites. The shipper was contacted and further advised of the dangerous goods regulations. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. During an FAA inspection it was noted that a shipment 125-98933424 was incorrectly described. Cargo staff had failed to include the subsidiary risk in the system entries associated with the subject consignment. Second person oversight will be carried out by Customer Services Manager, Operations Manager or Operations Supervisor. If none of the aforementioned persons are available, complete documentation will be sent to Air General Home Office for oversight review by Home Office dangerous goods acceptance trained staff. If neither of these options are available for second sight, no dangerous goods will be loaded onto affected flight. A daily verification will be sent to Home Office stating that check has been carried out by a second person. The NOTOC entries are completed correctly. All staff responsible for dangerous goods acceptance, NOTOC and system entry will be retrained. Weekly oversight and reviews will be undertaken by operators central management staff to ensure ongoing compliance. Audits to be carried out quarterly at a minimum. Annual compliance audits to be carried out on a corporate level. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 500ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium batteries, UN3090. The consignment was marked or labelled as containing lithium batteries and the air waybill stated that Special Provision 45 applied, which has not been in use since the IATA 49th Edition. Further information was requested from the operator, who ascertained that USG-02 State Variation and the Operator Variation applied to the consignment, but were not followed. Warning letters to the shipper and the shipping company. The US supplier provided the shipper with the incorrect MSDS, which was subsequently supplied to the shipping company, but the shipper failed to recognise the outdated MSDS. The shipper changed its documentation to highlight dangerous goods requirements and to ensure staff completed and authorised the form correctly before sending consignments to the shipping company. The shipper and the shipping company confirmed that the consignment would not be shipped until they received the correct MSDS from the supplier. The shipping company issued a communication to all operational staff, including drivers and warehouse staff on new handling procedures for dangerous goods, which were incorporated into the company’s ISO procedures. The shipping company sent a warning letter to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

2011-1015 23/11/2011 Baltimore, USA

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The aerosols were removed and the FAA was informed. As the passenger was a non-UK national no further CAA action possible.

2011-1014 24/11/2011 Stansted

2011-1024 24/11/2011 Philadelphia, USA

2011-1013 24/11/2011 East Midlands Airport

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 7 x 8ml bottles of undeclared Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2011-1018 26/11/2011 Manchester

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. The turn around manager noticed the contents in a unit bulging and advised the loading staff. On investigation it was discovered that a barrel became dislodged and fell out from the unit onto the stand. The barrel was placed back into the unit and returned to the loading shed to be re-built. The barrel had not split or spilt. The operator investigated further. The staff member responsible for the build was interviewed, however, without post build photographs it was not possible to determine whether the correct or appropriate strapping was used. No photographs available from the stand where the unsecured dangerous goods were noticed. Due to insufficient evidence, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 330ml, 1 x 275ml, 1 x 300ml, 1 x 200ml, 1 x 250ml, 1 x 65ml and 1 x 4oz of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Cyprus authority who conducted their investigation and held meetings with both the shipper and freight handler. Both the shipper and freight forwarder amended their procedures to prevent any further re-occurrence. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival dangerous goods were found unsecured in a container. The goods arrived loose to the departure airport, but the agent failed to ensure the build was secured and restrained correctly within the container using additional straps and an extra pallet as per instructions. The agent was removed from dangerous goods builds until he was retrained, disciplinary action was taken and station performance was monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 1 x 500ml of Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950 and 3 x 100ml, 2 x 50ml and 1 x 40ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. The freight forwarder responded and provided a sample of their personal effects agreement with a company who x-ray consignments before they are delivered to the airport. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 60 x 312g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was marked with Aerosols and bore the UN1950 diamond but had been overpacked with black shrink wrap which had not been marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. The shipper and the freight agent advised that the consignments of aerosols for transport overseas would go via road and sea and be sent as Limited Quantities. The shipper spoke to the Account Manager at the freight agent company, who was unable to explain how the package was offered for air carriage. The shipper was also unable to provide an explanation. The shipper discussed provisions to prevent a re-occurrence with the courier company and investigated further how the package was offered for air transport. The shipper ensured that similar boxes are covered in clear outer packaging. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain two undeclared 12V Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. A material safety data sheet provided, detailed the batteries complied with Special Provision A67. The shipper ensured future consignments would be provided with documentation, to enable the necessary information being placed on the air waybill. The shipper updated their procedures to reflect the information. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon loading cargo, it was observed that the contents in a unit load device had shifted. The loading staff were advised and upon inspection the load had become loose from the straps. The load contained liquids and Dry Ice, UN1845. The turn around manager was notified and it was agreed to offload the cargo and return it to the loading shed. Operator investigated further. Shipment appears to have been built by ground handling agent. Unable to ascertain individual responsible for this build, however, business case has been raised to issue cameras to ensure pictures of all dangerous goods builds are taken upon completion. No further CAA action required.

Documentation Error. Due to a problem with the flight plan, the aircraft was delayed. On arrival, crew were handed a "nil" NOTOC. A member of the ground crew returned with a new NOTOC which stated that there were three consignments of Toxic substances on board. Had the aircraft departed as scheduled, the crew would not have received notification of the changes to the NOTOC in time. The staff member recommended that the operator was more proactive in notifying changes to the NOTOC in order brief the crew. No further CAA action required.

Mis-routed dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 33g cartridges of undeclared Carbon Dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was marked, labelled and declared for the transportation of dangerous by road. However the consignment was offered for air transport. Letter sent to shipper and freight agent. The freight agent responded and advised that their Dangerous Goods Safety advisor ensures that training material is current and continually reviewed to ensure new incoming regulations or procedures are cascaded and adhered to and that their staff regular receive refresher training. To prevent further incidents occurring immediate re-training was arranged for the staff which handled this consignment. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading, dangerous goods were found not damaged, but had moved in bulk as they had not been secured because the unit load device was not volumetrically filled. The staff member was interviewed by his line manager about the importance of securing dangerous goods in the hold, was taken off line and re-trained on the tying and lashing of dangerous goods and was monitored on flights for a period of time to prevent a recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 300ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 2 x 250ml and 2 x 100ml of Flammable liquids, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

Damaged items. Damaged items received found when offloading flight. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 75ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 50ml, 12 x 75ml, 8 x 100ml, 2 x 118ml, 6 x 125ml and 2 x 150ml of undeclared Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The operator flagged the incident to its Corporate Head Quarters and its local station addressed the matter with the shipper. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 16 x 14oz of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. In response to our warning letter the shipper introduced new procedures to prevent a reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

2011-1056 08/12/2011 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain petrol in the fuel tank. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 141g and a 253g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Dangerous goods moved within a unit load device, which resulted in the unit load device being offloaded. The operator investigated further. Photos were taken of the completed build before sending to the aircraft which were stored for 14 days before they were deleted from the system. However, due to staff illness, the request for photos was not seen prior to the system update. No photos were taken of the unit when offloaded. The crew who built and signed for the consignment were unable to recall the shipment, due to the length of time which had elapsed prior to the enquiry. All staff members involved with the build were made aware of the incident to prevent reoccurrence. Their records showed no previous incidents. Due to a lack of evidence, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Helium, compressed, UN1046. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Previous incident 2011-1053, and 2011-1062. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 3 x 10ml, a 75ml, a 100ml, 2 x 50ml and a 60ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. A pallet was delivered as an intact transfer unit to connect with an incoming flight. When the unit arrived at the aircraft side it was noted that there was a hazardous label affixed to the unit, but not that the Captain knew about it. Further investigation identified the hazardous item as Dry ice, UN1845, but because the weight could not be established, the unit was offloaded. The operator investigated further. The incident was linked to DGOR 2011-1083 as one was inbound and the other outbound. The staff member who booked the freight failed to record the presence of Dry ice and it was concluded that the mistake was caused by human error because of staff illness. The staff member was revalidated in dangerous goods upon his return to work. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Passenger advised operator on outbound flight of carriage of Oxygen cylinder, UN1072, but declared the weight as less than 5Kgs. On inbound flight, the cylinder weight was confirmed as 10Kgs. The cylinder was not permitted on the return sector and the passenger advised of the requirement limits. As a result of this incident the operator amended their procedures to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.
Loading / Documentation error. A unit was delivered as an intact / transfer unit to connect with an incoming flight. The unit was checked and passed as fit-to-fly when it was accepted. The fit-to-fly check documentation confirmed that the unit load device tag had been checked. When the unit arrived at aircraft side it was offloaded as no device tag was present. The freight on this unit was Perfumery products, UN1266 and there was no facility to re-print hazardous unit load device labels at the aircraft side. The unit was sent back to cargo where the unit was fed back into the system and then processed as fit-to-fly. No exact cause could be identified, but it is thought that the loading team responsible for loading the unit onto its second section of flight, did not correctly check the unit was fit-to-fly or someone added a new unit load device tag and did not inform anyone of their actions. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. A shipment of perishables containing Dry ice, UN1845, was trucked from Manchester for onward transportation from Heathrow, without entering the correct coding to inform staff of the presence of Dry ice for the appropriate ventilation on arrival. Operator investigated further. The staff member who booked the freight failed to record the quantity of Dry ice. The investigation concluded that the error was caused by human error. The staff member was revalidated in dangerous goods training. This incident was linked to DGOR 2011-1096 because one was inbound and the other was the outbound flight and also occurred because of the incorrect coding on the shipment. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A consignment consisting of 118 pieces described as a consol was found to be lithium batteries. A number of these boxes containing the goods were found ripped and damaged, with the content spilling out from the fibreboard boxes onto the unit and lying loose on the unit and inside the truck. The damage appeared localised and was only to one corner of the unit. The Operator investigated further. It has been concluded that the damage was likely to have been caused whilst loading the vehicle for onward transportation to Heathrow. The loading staff were made aware of the incident and reminded that care must be taken when loading freight for transportation, however as there was no photographic evidence available whilst loading or unloading the vehicle, it was not possible to ascertain when the damage occurred. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x 150ml and 5 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. Load control advised of 2 pallets and 2 units to load onto the aircraft, but the actual was 3 pallets. The loader checked with Cargo who agreed it should have been be 3 pallets and the system was rechecked, which revealed the goods already allocated were no longer showing. The loader realised a pallet and a unit load device had the same number. Load control removed the item and moved the consignment down. However, the NOTOC was incorrect as the dangerous goods were loaded in a different position on an extra pallet. The operator investigated further. The incident was caused by incorrect information entered by the Controller who acknowledged the mistake and helped to rectify the situation prior to departure, although the amendment to the NOTOC was overlooked. The controller was reminded of the importance of accurate data entry into the system. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 425g Carbon Dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter to shipper sent under 2012-252. In response, the shipper reviewed its processes and the staff and management at its third party warehouse received further training to prevent a recurrence. Furthermore, all packages containing the cylinders despatched from the warehouse irrespective of the destination were labelled with 'Do Not Fly' stickers. The shipper also tested an update to its shipping system that automatically changed the carrier service to road for packages of cylinders with an off-shore post code, and would therefore, not be sent on the express service. The shipper's Managing Director stated they were committed to ensuring the processes were followed correctly and would conduct internal quality spot checks to check procedures. No further CAA action required.

2011-1074 12/12/2011 East Midlands

2011-1070 13/12/2011 Manchester

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found containing shock absorbers, Articles, pressurized, pneumatic; UN3164. The box was not marked or labelled as dangerous goods and no dangerous goods transport document accompanied the consignment. A DGI visited the logistics company in 2008. See also 2007-0548. Warning letter sent to the logistics company reminding them of similar incidents in 2007. The logistics company carried out an investigation and identified the root causes and implemented corrective actions. The company located the MSDS, which stated that the part should have been declared, but their system did not show the hazardous indicator for the part. The incident was addressed with the packing team and the process for identifying hazardous labels was reiterated. An investigation was carried out into the process for identifying new parts without an indicator and the logistics company also raised hazardous indicators and missing client data with the shipper. The packer was identified and his dangerous goods training certificate was provided, which was in date. It was suggested that the packer's work should be monitored for a period of time. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During x-ray screening, a consignment was found to contain a 150ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further information requested to ascertain shipper. Unable to establish shipper details. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 200g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 200ml of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During off loading, a consignment of 1 x 10L, Resin Solution, flammable UN1866 was found with the strapping not utilised correctly and the package was found loose in the compartment. The package was found damaged and crashed between pieces of baggage, but there was no leakage. An investigation by the operator advised that the ground handling agents were adamant that the dangerous goods were secured prior to departure. This was not confirmed by photographic evidence. The staff were fully briefed and reminded of the correct procedure for restraining dangerous goods by tying them down in an upright or effectively in a volumetrically full hold or unit load device and must ensure packages cannot be damaged by other cargo in the same hold or by the movement of baggage. The staff were monitored to ensure they fully understood the requirements. No further CAA action required.
A passenger arrived at the gate with an electric battery-powered mobility scooter. The Captain insisted that the wires from the battery were disconnected from the scooter. The dispatcher isolated the wires prior to the flight to prevent shorting and further investigation revealed that the battery-powered mobility scooter had a power switch to isolate it, which should have been engaged. The operator's investigation also revealed that the ground staff did not want to disagree with the Captain about disconnecting the battery. The operator issued an electronic read and sign flight crew notice and a ground services notice, however, it was some time before staff were confident in their understanding of the rules to be able to implement them correctly. The operator's training programme examination also included a question about correctly handling a non-spillable battery-powered mobility aid. Further information was sought from the operator and the ground handling agent about incidents 2012-0075, 2012-0083, 2012-0123 and 2012-0278, which occurred at the same location. No further CAA action taken.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 50ml, a 75ml and a 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0978. Referred to the Spanish authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 50ml, a 75ml, a 100ml and a 125ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 32 x 100ml, 18 x 125ml, 19 x 75ml and 9 x 90ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the FAA for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 400ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain canister of Carbon dioxide, UN1013. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a canister of Carbon dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a Battery, wet, filled with acid, UN2794. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Batteries, wet, filled with acid, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Shippers revised their procedures to avoid sending such items by air in future. Also, arrangements made for stores department personnel to attend a dangerous goods awareness course. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger's baggage was found to contain a 400ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment had been concealed by black tape around the lid and red and white tape around the can. The item was removed from the passenger's baggage and a declaration of surrender of prohibited or restricted articles obtained. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading 3 x 10kg and 1 x 40g of Toxic solid, organic n.o.s. UN2811 was discovered unsecured within the unit. Operator investigated further. Due to the time elapsed since the incident was raised because of annual leave and staff sickness, all photographic evidence of the build pre-flight was deleted as per the Operator's standard procedures. The build card was signed as 'fit to fly', but the root cause was not identified because of a lack of evidence and photographs from both stations. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard was found to contain 3 x 500ml of undeclared Paint, UN1263. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 250g, a 100ml and 2 x tubes of Adhesives, UN1133. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During offloading, unmanifested dangerous goods were discovered to have been carried. The investigation revealed that at the originating airfield, due to the close proximity of the departure time of another flight, the handling agent collected the cargo from the warehouse for both flights at the same time. Ramp staff of the flight in question were not aware that the consignments on the truck were for the two separate flights and so loaded all of it on the same aircraft. As a corrective measure, the handling agent required that cargo consignments for each flight to be collected from the cargo warehouse in individual trucks. Ramp staff received a briefing memo to check all cargo shipments are for the correct flight, before loading onto the aircraft. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 3 x 100ml and 2 x 50ml of Perfumery products, UN1266; 5 x 10ml and 2 x 4ml of Paint related material, UN1263 and a 100ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. Loaders removed a consignment of Lithium batteries before take off. Operator investigated further. Ground handling acceptance staff did not notice that the Lithium batteries entry on the air waybill did not stipulate the packing instructions when accepting the consignment. A checklist was drawn up and incorporated by acceptance staff as part of their procedures when receiving consignments. The checklist was available at the acceptance counter and completed copies were filed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, two fibreboard boxes were found to contain 12 Life saving appliances, UN2990 (life jackets). The boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading error/unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading, the freight inside a unit load device was found to be unsecured and the rest of the load had slipped due to a lack of restraints. An investigation revealed that the cargo agent responsible for the build was qualified. After the load was built, fit-to-fly pictures were taken, which clearly demonstrated the inadequate building / securing of the load. Subject to the operator's investigation, the cargo agent was retrained to the standards expected for proper unit load device builds. With immediately effect, two signatures were required on the fit-to-fly documentation once physical inspections were completed. The handling agent employed an experienced cargo professional, who undertook the responsibility of retraining all staff on unit load device build requirements. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. The load team leader was not happy with the way 10 units containing dry ice in the rear hold were secured; 6 units were on the floor and 4 were placed on top and one of which fell on its side. They were tied down with one piece of rope loosely wrapped around the side of the boxes. The load team leader secured the units correctly, but the aircraft incurred a 22 minute delay. The original team leader was interviewed and it was explained why the original build was unacceptable. He undertook refresher training to ensure he was up to date with requirements. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 10ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 100ml, a 50ml and 2 x 40ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 200ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 12v Batteries, wet, filled with acid, UN2794. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Shipper advised a breakdown in communication with courier and had intended consignment to be shipped by road. They use a professional distribution company and have informed them of the incident and will ensure all future consignments are marked for road transport only. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 24 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 48 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Unable to establish shipper details. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 340g of undeclared Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, 1 x 946.4ml of undeclared Paint, UN1263 and 5 x 946.4ml of suspected undeclared Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-1150. Referred to the USA authorities (FAA) for investigation, who initiated an enforcement investigative report for alleged violations of the dangerous goods regulations. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured wheelchair. Upon arrival, an electric wheelchair was found loose in the hold. An investigation by the operator advised that the staff member responsible was reiterated of the importance of securing electric wheelchairs and mobility aids. The incident was recorded on the staff member’s file and an assessment was carried out to ascertain whether or not re-training was required. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2009-0769, 2011-0140 and 2011-0298. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised the vendor had not provided them with the relevant dangerous goods information. The shipper issued a formal notice to the vendor notifying them of the breached of contract and any further violations would result in the contract termination. Permanent employees only handle dangerous goods who complete dangerous goods training on an annual basis. If temporary staff are employed, they have no contact with dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 2L of Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
2011-1157 22/12/2011 Bury St Edmunds

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2011-1134 22/12/2011 Baltimore, USA
Passenger error. During routine security screening, 1 x Aerosol UN1950 was discovered in a passenger’s baggage. The item was removed and disposed of locally. The passenger was a Ghanaian National. The FAA was informed. No further CAA action required.

2011-1132 22/12/2011 Aberdeen
Undeclared dangerous goods. On arrival, it was noted that a shipment was found to be leaking. On further inspection an MSDS was pulled from the shipment which stated contents were 1 x 500ml Nitric Acid, UN2031. Additional paperwork found identified the product as a solution. No further CAA action possible.

2011-1137 23/12/2011 Stansted
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 500 PSI cylinder 11 cubic foot of undeclared Oxygen, compressed, UN1072. The consignment was placed in a fibreboard box, with the relevant markings had been crossed out. From the paperwork, the cylinder was declared as empty, but on inspection it was found to contain 500 PSI. In response the shipper advised that they had updated their procedures to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

2011-1162 23/12/2011 Heathrow
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 75ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

2011-1135 23/12/2011 East Midlands
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 1L of undeclared Corrosive Liquid, N.O.S., UN1760 and 2 x 4Kg of undeclared Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, N.O.S., UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Following visit to shipper, it was advised that consignment should have travelled by road/sea. The shipper has held a meeting with the intermediary used and have implemented further preventative measures. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During routine security screening, one can of water and stain repellent Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950 was removed from passenger’s baggage. The FAA have been advised of this incident. Operator investigated further. Passenger US National. Item removed by Terminal Security Agent, and all appropriate paperwork sent to FAA. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During routine security screening, 2 x spray bottles Clorox clean-up spray, 1 x spray starch UN1950, 1 x bleach spray bottle were discovered in a passenger’s baggage. The items were removed and the FAA was informed. Passenger a Nigerian National. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. During routine inspection on the aircraft stand, a staff member noticed a fibreboard box containing dangerous goods that had not been not strapped down securely within a Unit Load Device (ULD). The staff member took a picture and reported this to the turn-round manager. The fibreboard box was re-strapped and made secure before loading the ULD onto the aircraft. Unfortunately the staff member did not retain the picture as they had used their personal phone and had not been issued with a company mobile phones.

Subsequently, staff were informed that company cameras were available and must be utilised when taken photos of dangerous goods occurrences. The crew who built and signed for the consignment were unable to recall this particular shipment due to length of time elapsed prior to enquiry. All members involved with the build were made aware of the incident to prevent reoccurrence. Their permanent records showed no previous incidents. Due to lack of evidence, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During routine security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 75ml bottle Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During routine security screening, 8 cans of Flammable liquid UN1993 was discovered in a passenger's baggage by US Border patrol. The items were removed. The Ugandan CAA conducted the investigation and discovered that the dangerous goods training for x-ray screening staff had lapsed. All staff with lapsed certificates received training in March 2012. Staff were reminded to be vigilant and they carried out hand searches when they were uncertain of the items seen on the x-ray screen. Check in staff were reminded to draw passengers' attention to dangerous goods signage and additional dangerous goods signs were placed in all customer areas.

Passenger error. During routine security screening, 1 x Aerosols, flammable UN1950 was discovered in a passenger's baggage. The passenger was an Ugandan National. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During routine security screening, 1 x Aerosols, flammable UN1950 was discovered in a passenger's baggage. The aerosol was removed. The passenger was an Ugandan National. No further CAA action required.

Wheelchair loading error. During offloading of aircraft it was noted that an electric mobility scooter was not restrained and its lithium battery was loose on the hold floor. Operator investigated further. No photographs were taken on arrival as the agent did not have a camera. When the mobility scooter was covered for transportation, it resembled a hard suitcase. Check-in staff were unaware that it item contained a battery because it resembled a suitcase. It was believed that the battery was de-activated prior to transport, however, the terminals were probably not covered. Baggage loaders were unaware of an electric mobility aid as no information was passed to them from check-in and it was believed that the battery was housed within the cover and came loose during flight. Incident occurred due to a break down of communication between the passenger, check-in staff and loading staff. All staff were made aware of the new style of electric scooter and completed a Read and Sign reminder on electric items on an aircraft. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger baggage was found to contain 2 x 8oz of Paint UN1263. The items were removed and the passenger advised of the consequences of their actions. The FAA were notified of the incident by the operator. No further CAA action required.

2011-1166 30/12/2011 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. A unit load device was rejected at the aircraft side and the unit was returned to cargo for rectification. After investigation supporting photographs showed that the freight had been secured when the unit load device left the cargo building. The driver responsible for delivering the unit to the aircraft did not recall any incident which had contributed to this incident. As no photographs had been taken of the unit load device after loading, no root cause could be identified. As a precautionary measure, cargo staff were informed of this incident. Cargo staff had been trained to build units to a very high standard and even had an extra lashings and restraints training course, the Performance Manager advised that no cargo staff would require revalidation training. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading, it was discovered that an electric wheelchair weighing 110Kg, Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171 was unsecured in the hold and baggage was placed around the wheelchair in the container to avoid movement. An investigation by the operator revealed that the ground handler was a new member of staff and was unaware of the spreader requirements and to secure a wheelchair in the hold. It was a dry-cell battery and the wheelchair was switched off, the key was removed and the brakes were applied. The handling agent addressed the error with the loader who was made aware of the operator’s procedures and requirements for electrically powered mobility aids and also received performance monitoring. No further CAA required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a plastic bottle with 250ml of Flammable liquid n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x Life-saving appliances, self inflating UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However, the consignment bore a label stating jackets for annual service/certification. The shipper was one branch of a larger logistics company with various locations in the UK (see previous incidents 2011-0534 and 2011-578). Following a visit to freight agent, further warning letter sent requesting preventative measures to be put in place to prevent recurrence. In response, agent has undertaken an internal review of shipping procedures and programmed additional staff throughout the company to undertake dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. A unit load device arrived into the departure airport by road with Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., (Salbutamol Mic bulk USA), UN2811 not secured in the unit. Further to an investigation by the operator, the operations manager at the origin interviewed the cargo agents responsible for the build and they assured him that the dangerous goods within the unit were strapped down. No photos were taken of the completed build before being transported, therefore, it was not possible to establish a cause. All staff at the airport where the unit was built were reminded of the importance of securing dangerous goods for transit and the cargo agent agreed to photograph all dangerous goods builds. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Whilst checking a unit load device, the team leader raised a concern of the tying down of the 6 barrels containing Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., (Tramadol Hydrochloride), UN2811, as the barrels could be moved around the unit with little effort. The unit load device was rebuilt. To prevent further incidents occurring, a new procedure has been introduced incorporating a shrink-wrapped process, which would reduce the barrels moving in transit. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 30ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 100ml and a 75ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Ghana authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 75ml and a 30ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0004 and 2012-0006. Referred to the Ghana authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain two breathing kits, each containing a cylinder of Air, compressed, UN1002. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that they had updated their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. The original manifest included Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. At the last moment it was decided not to transport the dangerous goods and an amended manifest was given to flight crew by the heli-admin clerk (NOTOC no longer required). Before departure, flight crew sought verbal confirmation from the HLO that the dangerous goods had not been loaded. However, on landing at the destination airport, it was discovered that the dangerous goods had in fact flown. In response to this incident, the Duty Holder made the HLO the sole point of contact with flight crew regarding the loading of cargo. The investigation also verified that only qualified heli-admin and deck crew were utilised. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a mail package containing a model aircraft was found to contain Lithium batteries packed with equipment, UN3481. An investigation by the operator established that the staff members were briefed and told to be vigilant. The FAA was informed and the area manager at the departure airport contacted the Hazardous Materials Specialist at the courier company who shipped the package about the incident. Appropriate action taken by the Operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 1 x 250ml of Butyl acetates, UN1123 and 57ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 1L of Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 340g Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The items were removed by the operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 340g Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 500ml, a 125ml, a 150ml and a 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 340g Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a total of 2.7L of Paint related material, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the USA authorities (FAA) for investigation. The information was forwarded to the appropriate field office for investigation and then it was determined which state the shipment originated from. The FAA took administrative action against the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 2L of Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Emails were sent to the shipper between January and March 2012, but no response was received. The Deputy Manager of the Dangerous Goods Office wrote a Final Warning Letter, but it was not sent. A letter with response was sent under 2012-1069 and the shipper responded under that occurrence. The shipper's corrective and preventative actions were to transport dangerous goods by road by placing a Class 2 hazard label on the package. The Managing Director was asked about staff training, to which he stated that a member of staff was given the responsibility to read up on the ADR regulations. The Managing Director was advised by email that his staff must undertake formal training, but no response or acknowledgement was received. When contacted by telephone for a response, the Managing Director was uncooperative and defensive and was not concerned about more incidents of undeclared dangerous goods being reported to the CAA or if legal action was taken against him. No further action possible.

Passenger error. A passenger checked in a fibreboard box bearing a UN Specification marking as checked baggage. Upon arrival at destination, the box was thought to be freight and transferred to cargo where security checks were conducted. The package was identified as containing liquid. The passenger was called and an enquiry conducted. It was established that the package contained Environmentally hazardous substances, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082 and Amines, liquid, corrosive, n.o.s., UN2735. Investigation conducted by the operator established that dangerous goods information and notices were available to check-in staff. The check in staff member was interviewed and confirmed that relevant check in security questions had been asked, however had not noticed UN specification mark as this was partially obscured with brown tape and a fragile label. As a result of this incident, the operator has issued a ground handling notice to alert check-in staff to conduct a visual check on all baggage presented at check in, and must establish the contents of any packages presented. It was subsequently established that the passenger was an airworthiness engineer of another air operator, who have revised their maintenance procedures as a result of the incident. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, three fibreboard boxes were found to contain 30 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The boxes were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and were not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain various vials of liquid amounting to 211.9ml of Corrosive liquid, toxic, n.o.s. (Hydrochloride acid, sodium nitrate), UN2922. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and was in packaging that bore UN specification markings, but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document and was described on the air waybill as ‘dangerous goods in excepted quantities’. See also 2004-330, 2005-450, 2006-048 and 2011-0715. Warning letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. The shipper explained that the dangerous goods were manufactured, packed, marked and labelled at one site, but then sent to another site together with details of the dangerous goods so that the dangerous goods transport document could be raised. On this occasion, the information that was sent showed the product to be “EQ UN2922, Class 8 Full Haz”. It was suspected that this was misinterpreted as meaning that the consignment met the excepted quantities provisions and that a dangerous goods transport document was not required. The shipper confirmed that the relevant staff had been trained but that a third person would be trained to DGSA level and the company’s procedures had been improved. The agent Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 340g and a 113g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 75ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 2 x 50ml of Perfumery products, UN1266 and 4 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Unable to establish shipper details. No further CAA action possible.

Incompatible freight. It was originally reported that a unit load device (ULD) had been offloaded due to Toxic liquid, inorganic, n.o.s. UN3287 which had been loaded in the same ULD as perishables (saffron), contrary to the requirements. It was later believed that the unit had not been delivered to the aircraft side, as the flight planner who received the build card spotted the conflict and returned the unit to the cargo shed to be rebuilt. The loading supervisor for the flight could not recall the incident. Unfortunately the relevant build card could not be located, resulting in further investigation being difficult. There had also been a delay in the reporting of the incident, resulting in an improved reporting system being introduced. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 76g and 6 x 50ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 76g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Whilst unloading the aircraft, ramp staff discovered two wheelchairs were unsecured in the hold. One wheelchair was a mobility aid with a non-spillable battery, which had not been isolated, but the passenger had disconnected it before departure. No damage was reported. The ground handling agent interviewed their team leader at the station of origin about securing the wheelchair to the floor of the hold. A copy of a read and sign ground services notice and an internal memo provided by the operator was issued to the ramp staff and the dispatch office. The dispatch allocators ensured that the correct procedures for loading and handling wheelchairs were included in their daily briefings to staff. The operator bought rope and rings to secure battery-powered wheelchairs to the hold and instructed overseas bases that they were not be removed from the hold and must be returned to the UK. No further CAA action possible.

Passenger error. During routine security screening, 2 x 177mls of Acetone, UN1090 (nail polish remover) was found in a passenger’s baggage. The items were removed. The FAA was informed. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, the offloading team opened the forward hold to find the hold nets were not in the correct position, which had allowed baggage and an electric wheelchair to be thrown forward through the netting. The post that holds the netting in place was not in its securing point and had failed to support the doorway net. An investigation by the operator established when the ramp leader loaded the wheelchair, they called the captain, who inspected the loading position and netting and gave their approval. The operator do not provide lashings to the handling agent, therefore the handling agent did their best to secure the wheelchair. The operator advised they do not supply lashings to secure objects in their hold to handling agents, but provide handling agents with procedures of how to secure items such as wheelchairs in the hold. The captain who authorised the load was interviewed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a gas canister containing Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During routine security screening, Oxidizing solid, n.o.s., UN1479 was discovered in a passenger's baggage. The item was removed by security personnel. The FAA was informed. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 200g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to German authorities for investigation. The content of the package was not inspected because it was a present. The military office are improving the separation of private and duty shipments and are raising the level of safety in their shipments. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. Freight off-loaded due to no dangerous goods documentation with consignment. The operator's investigation concluded that the oversight was down to human error. The flight was due to depart and the documents were missing. There was some confusion with the shipment, as the dangerous goods had been spread over three units. The staff member was interviewed and advised that in future, when they are faced with this type of situation, they must raise the issue with the team leader on shift and ask for help to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a petrol generator, Engine internal combustion, UN3166. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the French authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 24 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. Inner boxes were marked with UN1950 in a black diamond and marked with Aerosols but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Passenger error. During routine security screening, two car struts were discovered in a passenger’s luggage. Security removed the car struts. The operator informed the FAA. As the passenger was from another country, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening of transit freight, a consignment described as "parts for chairlift" on the air waybill was found to contain undeclared Batteries, wet, filled with acid, electrical storage; UN2794. The goods had been carried by air to reach this point. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Italian authorities for investigation, who held interviews with the local airport security manager and ground handling agents. Security and ground staff received a briefing on the need to pay maximum attention to all packages, even those identified as "general cargo". No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 50ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Canadian authorities for investigation. No CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a passenger bag was found to contain 2 x Life-saving appliances, self inflating, UN2990. The passenger was advised the life-jackets would not be permitted for carriage and the items would be removed. An investigation revealed the passenger advised check in staff they were carrying life jackets in their hold baggage, and had no prior operator approval obtained from the operator. The check in staff did not challenge the passenger for further information and the baggage was checked in but during security screening the cylinders were queried. To prevent a re-occurrence, the check in staff received additional training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 125ml, 10 x 100ml, 6 x 75ml and 1 x 200ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. During breakdown of a unit load device (ULD), cargo staff found the straps securing a 25Kg metal drum of Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., UN2811 had become loose. The straps were lying loose at the bottom of the unit, still attached to the securing points on both sides. The drum had a metal base and had been placed directly on the ULD, creating a metal-to-metal situation. The staff responsible for this ULD build had the incident highlighted to them. They had thought they had built the ULD to the correct standards, however no wooden spreaders/skid had been used by the ground handling staff whilst completing this job. The airport supervisor informed all warehouse staff of the correct building techniques to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Environmentally hazardous substances, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. A copy of the material safety data sheet was found inside the consignment which stated the product was classified as dangerous goods for transport purposes. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that they had updated their procedures to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain undeclared Phosphoric acid, UN1805. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper conducted a full investigation and confirmed that the oversight was purely due to human error. The shipper amended and incorporated new procedures to prevent a re-occurrence. Supporting evidence was provided regarding the training of their employees. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured and undeclared dangerous goods. During off-loading, when the ground security agent broke down the unit load device (ULD), one of the skids was found improperly shrink-wrapped and the cartons were not aligned. When the photographs of the damage were examined by the operator's investigator, Lithium battery handling labels were seen on the packages. The operator conducted an investigation, which raised two issues. The first issue was the handling and build of the ULD. At the time of the cargo lodgement with the ground handling agent, the base wooden pallet of 1 of 4 skids collapsed during check-weighing of cargo, which was believed to be due to poor construction material. In the presence of the shipper, the individual boxes of mobile phones from this skid were checked, noted as undamaged and then rebuilt onto a new base wooden pallet. A handling failure occurred in that the rebuilt skid was not shrink-wrapped and created a risk of theft. All the relevant ground handling agent warehouse acceptance staff were briefed to reject valuable cargo that was lodged with sub-standard packaging. In addition, loading staff were briefed to use shrink-wrap when necessary, to minimise the room for movement of the cargo during ULD handling or in-flight. The second issue involved the undeclared Lithium ion
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 11 x 50ml, 2 x 60ml and a 30ml of Perfumery, products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. A physical security hand search of a suitcase revealed 7 Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 5 Perfumery products, UN1266. The suitcase was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x Life saving appliances, self-inflating UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The freight agent was contacted and a copy of the air waybill was obtained. The air waybill did not indicate that there were dangerous goods attached as indicated on the dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder, who responded and advised formal interviews were conducted with the personnel involved in the incident, including a re-emphasis on dangerous goods processes. Additionally, all warehouse personnel attended dangerous goods refresher training, as a result of this occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 170g and 10 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 100ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. A packet of sparklers, Fireworks, UN0333, fell out of the side pocket of a bag when staff member loaded bag into a container. The item was removed and placed in a dangerous goods bin. The passenger was transferring from another flight as a third party booking, therefore, no address or contact details were available. Standard Operating Procedures received from the operator showed new baggage procedures for all staff who may handle dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Infectious substances, affecting humans, UN2814. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The courier document found inside the consignment described the contents as UN2814. The consignment had not been packed in UN specification packaging. Due to the nature and urgency of the consignment, it was released. Referred to the Maltese authorities for investigation, who advised the freight forwarder's driver, mistakenly placed the consignment in a courier bag after being informed the consignment was to be handled urgently. The freight forwarder took appropriate action and adopted additional safeguards in their processing system to ensure the incident would not be repeated. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1L Adhesive, UN1133. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 500ml and 2 x 500ml of Adhesives, UN1133. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper was contacted and advised they would not send consignments by air. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0381 and 2011-0391. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised that they had amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 50ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 cylinders of Nitrogen, compressed, UN1066. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2008-0294, 2006-0263 and 2007-0532. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised that they had amended their processes and procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During off loading a consignment of Dry ice, UN1845 was found not tied down. The operator's investigation revealed the shipment was diagnostic specimens (reagent, non-infectious, non-restricted freight). Due to lack of knowledge by the ground handling staff, it was not tied down and secured in accordance with the operator's standard procedures. Ground handling agent staff were debriefed and were retrained in accordance with the operator's dangerous goods manual. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a two steel drums of a consignment consisting of 8 x 25L steel drums was found to contain Pentamethylheptane, UN2286. The consignment was on a pallet, which had been overpacked with a clear shrink-wrap. The Class 3 labels and UN2286, Pentamethylheptane were visible through the shrink-wrap but no dangerous goods transport documentation accompanied the consignment. See also 2006-527 and 2007-574. An investigation by the Irish authorities advised the incident occurred because an inexperienced staff member of the shipper processed the delivery of the consignment. To prevent further incidents occurring the shipper fully briefed all employees in the packing department. No further CAA action required.

Mis-labelled dangerous goods. Upon arrival at freight shed a package of Lithium metal batteries, UN3090 bore a 'cargo aircraft only' label. The consignment originated in the USA and bore the words 'primary lithium, batteries - forbidden for transport onboard passenger aircraft', in accordance with USG-02 variation. An investigation by the operator advised the incident was caused by a combination errors. The shipper had fixed the CAO label in error and (whilst invalid) this had not been noticed by personnel handling the consignment. Staff were made aware of the errors and their performance would be monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 100ml, Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 chainsaws, (Engines, internal combustion, UN3166). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The engines had been emptied but a full purge had not been carried out. Letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. The freight forwarder responded and advised that they had amended their website, which would advise their shippers of the everyday items that are classed as dangerous goods and put up dangerous goods posters. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. The details of a passenger’s battery-powered electric wheelchair was not recorded by the check-in agent as per the operator’s ground service notice, but the passenger had notified the operator in advance about his wheelchair. The wheelchair was not secured in accordance with the operator’s procedure, but instead secured by building up hold baggage against it. The ground handling agent was only aware the wheelchair was incorrectly loaded because the aircraft’s departure was delayed, which was caused by the wheelchair passenger. As a precautionary action, a message was added to the movement log warning the loaders at the destination a large / heavy electric wheelchair was in the hold and to be careful when opening the hold door. The operator ordered ropes and rings to secure wheelchairs in place and instructed overseas bases not to remove them from the aircraft hold and to return them to the UK. The operator also issued a memo and ground services notice on the correct procedures for handling wheelchairs to all bases. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 500ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the German authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2010-001, 2009-0056 and 2008-679. In response to our warning letter, the shipper confirmed that the fibreboard box had been enclosed inside a freight forwarders pack, which was quite clearly marked and labelled as Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, with a Limited Quantity label. The appropriate dangerous goods documents were attached. The freight forwarder normally sent these consignments by road and sea. Due to human error, this package was accidentally forwarded for air transportation. As a result of this incident, the freight forwarder amended its offshore procedures. All pieces of freight were inspected prior to dispatch to the airport to prevent a re-occurrence. The freight forwarder advised consignments to Ireland by air would cease by the end of May 2012. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 500ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a chainsaw, (Engines, internal combustion, UN3166). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. An investigation revealed that the petrol tank was still full of petrol. Warning letters sent to shipper and freight forwarder. The agent responded and advised they had amended their website such that the order system would not allow the customer to proceed unless they provided a description of the items being sent, and “chainsaw” was added to the list of prohibited items. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 300ml of Flammable liquid, toxic, n.o.s., UN1992. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter send to the company indicated on the documentation as the shipper. In response, the company advised that they manage a complex of offices and one of their tenant companies arranged through them to send the consignment, without advising that it contained dangerous goods. As a result, the company advised they were introducing new procedures to prevent a reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 800ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950 and a 315ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 300ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper’s identity could not be traced. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x 16g of Carbon dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. A mixed consignment of dangerous goods were wrapped in cellophane and presented for loading. Once placed in the unit load device, it was not possible to identify the dangerous goods, as only one label was visible through the cellophane. From the NOTOC it was not possible to verify the contents and the load was refused by the Captain. The unit load device was sent back for correct packaging and loading. Subsequent investigation revealed that the original booking was made by the call centre. The freight was accepted without knowing what type of aircraft the freight was travelling on. Whilst preparing the freight, the warehouse supervisor did not highlight the fact that the shipment could not be loaded onto one single unit, as the labels would not be visible. The supervisor failed to contact the call centre and amend the reservation booking. In order to prevent a reoccurrence, all warehouse staff members attended a dangerous goods awareness training course, including building unit load devices. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 30ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. When the unit load device arrived at the workstation to be broken down it was discovered that 1 x 5L of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082 and 1 x 1L of Polyamines, liquid, corrosive, n.o.s., UN2735 had not been secured in accordance with the operator’s standard requirements. From the operator’s investigation, the ground handling agent confirmed that error was due to a staff failure. The ground handling agent confirmed that all loading staff were fully trained. The staff member was advised of this incident and informed of the correct techniques to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 150ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 50ml and 2 x 30ml of Perfumery, products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0045. Unable to establish shippers details. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a fibreboard box was found to bear a Division 1.4 hazard label. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document and consequently it had not been included on the NOTOC. The air waybill described the contents as aircraft parts. The operator’s investigation revealed the shipper normally used the freight forwarder concerned to ship their consignments. When dangerous goods were previously shipped, the process normally involved the shipper attaching a copy of the applicable dangerous goods hazard label to the front sheet of their general documentation making it clearly visible to the freight forwarder. On this occasion it appeared that the label had been placed on the back of the documentation and therefore was not spotted, resulting in the consignment being processed as non dangerous goods, despite the box being correctly marked and labelled. The consignment was then collected by the operator’s agent and subsequently loaded by them into a ULD. Staff of the freight forwarder were fully trained, but the warehouse agency did not provide dangerous goods awareness training to their staff. In response to this incident, the freight forwarder and warehouse agency introduced dangerous goods awareness training to all their staff. The

Leipzig-Halle,
Unsecured dangerous goods. When conducting pre-checks of unit load devices (ULDs) prior to loading onto the aircraft, 2 barrels containing Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., UN2811 bearing orientation arrows were not tied down securely and had fallen onto their sides. The ULD was offloaded and returned to cargo for repacking. The operator’s investigation concluded that the team leader responsible for counter signing the build card for the unit had checked the load for security before he signed the build card and maintained that it was secured, with the freight being restrained in both directions, which was evident from the photographs. As no photographs were taken of the unsecured load, the operator was unable to ascertain how or why the freight slipped. A shrink-wrapped procedure was introduced, which bound the drums together and reduce the movement of the barrels in transit. No further CAA action required.

2012-0105 27/01/2012 Heathrow

2012-0102 27/01/2012 East Midlands

2012-0104 27/01/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, two over packs consisting of 352 electronic devices. Each device contained Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the FAA for investigation, who responded and advised enforcement action taken against the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Prior to loading dangerous good were found unsecured in a unit load device (ULD). The ULD was offloaded and returned to the cargo shed for rebuilding. As a result of investigation by the operator, it was identified that the dangerous goods were 12 fibreboard boxes of Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s. (colecalciferol), UN2811, which were not restrained in accordance with the operator’s standard procedures and training. The staff member involved received additional training to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3.74L of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letters sent to freight forwarder and shipper. No further CAA action could be made.

2012-0101 28/01/2012 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival a consignment 1 x 380Kg of Engines, internal combustion (flammable liquid powered), UN3166, was found unsecured. Operator investigated and root cause was Staff error. All staff members involved retrained to prevent further occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. When the freight forwarder delivered courier bags destined for Zambia, security conducted hand searches whilst the freight forwarder was present and found several Aerosols, flammable, UN1950; and also some air rifles. Security personnel addressed this matter immediately with the freight forwarder. As this was the first indiscretion involving the freight forwarder for many years the operator took no further action. There are adequate dangerous goods notices displayed in the area where the freight forwarders deliver the courier bags/consignments. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods, loading, documentation error, mis-directed and NOTOC. At the destination airport (Israel), warehouse staff spotted three pieces of Biological substance, UN3373 with Dry ice, UN1845 which appeared not to have been offloaded at the departure station (England) and flown. After obtaining copies of the air waybills and discussion with the consignor, it was established the consignment also contained some infectious substances, which prevented a physical search by security. Security insisted that the shipment be x-rayed before returning the consignment back to England. From the operator’s investigation, the exact cause could not be identified. As there were two shipments of dry ice, both with three pieces on the same flight, which might have resulted in the confusion. The relevant staff were reminded to check the air waybill and destination of freight they are building and not assume that the freight in the storage location is correct, due to it being the same amount they are looking to build. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 7 x 100ml, 5 x 75ml and 2 x 125ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods/documentation error. During routine checks prior to flight, the head loader noticed Dry ice, UN1845, contained in unit load device had not been secured correctly and not documented on the load instruction report form. Central load control and cargo were alerted to update NOTOC and dangerous goods secured correctly. From the investigation, it was not possible to locate the flight file detailing the staff member responsible for the build quality and check entry. This computer system was updated, to ensure that in future, it would be possible to identify the staff member responsible for the build and check entry, to ensure that appropriate action taken. All staff at the station were fully trained in accordance to the operator’s build procedures and were fully aware of the requirements to ensure correct entries are made in the relevant systems. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared/mislabelled dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box described on the air waybill as "consolidation" was packaged, marked and labelled as Lithium metal batteries contained in equipment, UN3091. From discussion with the freight forwarder, it would appear during the picking process, two fibreboard boxes were picked from stock at the same time. One fibreboard box was already packed and labelled as dangerous goods containing Lithium metal batteries contained in equipment, UN3091 and was destined for Saudi Arabia, the other fibreboard box contained general freight destined for Germany. Unfortunately the warehouse operative attached the incorrect address label onto each fibreboard box, resulting in the consignment of Lithium metal batteries contained in equipment being incorrectly offered for transport as general freight. As a result of this incident the freight forwarder raised this incident to the appropriate staff members and reiterated the importance of complying to the dangerous goods regulations. Awareness training was brought forward for all warehouse staff members. Additional verification checks were introduced which require each consignment of dangerous goods to be checked and signed off by a supervisor before being loaded. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 100ml of Perfumery, products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 15ml, 12 x 20ml and 5 x 17ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Dubai authorities for investigation. Correspondence between the operator and the shipper was unable to establish whether the perfumery products were classified as dangerous goods. As no conclusion could be reached, the shipper requested the freight forwarder to repackage the consignment in accordance with the dangerous goods requirements. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 500ml and 1 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2011-1108. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they were an overnight courier and their customers are advised they ship goods to all of the United Kingdom but use different agents for international deliveries. Their customer incorrectly followed the United Kingdom delivery procedures, although the shipment was an international delivery, their customer was advised. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 13 x 200ml, 6 x 150ml and 2 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and to freight forwarder. In response, the shipper advised a procedure was in place with the freight forwarder whereby all dangerous goods consignments are clearly identified with the words “DGP”. The freight forwarder receives the parcel then engages the services of a professional packing company to prepare and pack the consignment in accordance with the ICAO Technical Instructions. On this occasion, due to human error, the system broke down. As a result of this incident the freight forwarder amended their procedures to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action possible.

Passenger error. During security screening a passengers checked baggage was found to contain Articles, pressurized, hydraulic, UN3164. The items were removed from the baggage. The passenger was informed of the potential implications. Referred to the USA authorities (FAA), for investigation. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action necessary.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During breaking down of unit load device (ULD) 3 steel drums of Paint, UN1263, were found placed directly onto the metal base of ULD, and not onto a stillage pallet. This method of securing was considered inadequate due the high risk of the goods slipping and becoming unsecure. As a result of the operator’s investigation, it was identified that this ULD was built at the ground handling agent’s outstation. Warehouse staff were informed of this incident and were retained on a five day International Air Transport Association (IATA) course on pallet building and dangerous goods ramp handling, to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Acceptance check not completed. A consignment containing two fibreboard boxes containing 500ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993 and 500ml of Resin solution, UN1866 arrived in Germany by road for a connecting flight without evidence of an acceptance check at State of Origin (Austria). The shipment was offloaded from the flight and put on hold in the warehouse pending investigation. From the operator’s investigation, it was found that this oversight was due to staff error and not a training issue. To prevent a re-occurrence, communication has been sent to all dangerous goods acceptance staff and made aware of the importance of dangerous goods acceptance checks. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. After unloading, a fibreboard box was found to be wet. The FAA investigated and found that the box was simply damaged by rain water, but inside the box were 6 further boxes, each containing 20 smaller boxes, each containing a Lithium ion battery, UN3480 in a plastic bag; a total of 120 batteries. The batteries probably could have been packed in accordance with Section II of packing instruction 965, but the outer box did not bear a lithium battery handling label and the consignment was not accompanied by the document required by the packing instruction. Only the outer fibreboard box was damaged. FAA completed their investigation with administrative action. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error leading to security error. During cabin checks during the aircraft turn around, a live 12 bore shotgun cartridge was found and reported to the flight crew. The dispatcher and police were immediately informed and security conducted a full inspection of the aircraft and the cabin team conducted a further inspection of both holds and all lifejackets. The NOTOC confirmed the inbound flight from Spain included the carriage of 12 sporting weapons in the hold belonging to passengers on board but they were not loaded with ammunition. An investigation by the operator advised the airport security staff re-checked the recorded tapes of the passengers through the security x-ray machines for this flight but no suspicious objects were identified. The operator conducted a security audit at the airport and all security equipment was found to in accordance with the European standard. It had not been possible to identify how the cartridge found its way on board this aircraft, therefore, no further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A fibreboard box of Lithium metal batteries, UN3090 was found not tied down in the hold. The operator’s investigation concluded the head loader had secured the package by packing it in with other cargo, to prevent any movement in flight. The batteries had been packed in accordance with Section II of the applicable packing instruction and therefore were not required to be included on the NOTOC. The operator’s dangerous goods manual stated that lithium batteries, regardless of their size or weight must be restrained with straps and ropes to prevent any movement during flight. As corrective measures, all lithium batteries would be marked with luminous tags to ensure that they would not be overlooked in future. Head loaders were retrained to raise their awareness levels as to the importance of securing lithium batteries. The staff concerned completed read and sign files confirming their retraining. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During breakdown of a Unit Load Device (ULD), a barrel of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082 was found unsecured and laying in the nose of the ULD, but there was no evidence of a leakage. It appeared that damaged foreign operator’s straps were used to secure the fibreboard boxes within the ULD rather than the operator’s straps and the straps became loose in transit. The investigation concluded that the incident was caused by staff error, because the incorrect restraints were used. To prevent a re-occurrence, the ground handling staff at the outstation were advised to only use the operator’s straps for future builds. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 141g and 1 x 184g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Wheelchair, unsecured dangerous goods. After arrival and on opening a unit load device (ULD), a battery operated wheelchair weighing approximately 35Kg was found unrestrained. The unit also contained passenger baggage. The ULD was inspected for spillages, none were noted. Flight crew advised the turn around crew of a rattling noise from the forward hold, which may have been caused by the movement of the wheelchair in the unit. From the supporting photographs, no evidence could be established that passenger baggage had been placed loose in the ULD. All baggage and loading staff were aware that electric mobility aids must be secured using ropes / straps and any baggage in the container must be restrained to prevent damage to the wheelchair. This has also been highlighted on the airmanship course and via alerts / airmanship bulletins. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival, when the unit was offloaded from the aircraft it was noticed that the freight contained inside the unit load device (ULD) had shifted and was hanging out of the side curtain. After further investigation, 23kgs of Dry ice, UN1845 was also found unsecured inside the ULD. From the operator’s investigation, it was found that the ULD was an “intact shipper built unit”. The shipper, regularly uses the operator to ship their product to Europe and Middle East. Due to the unit having a status of “transfer unit”, the unit was not inspected when accepted at the outstation. Had there been any sign of the freight in the unit shifting upon acceptance, then the unit would either of been returned to the customer for a re-build or been rebuilt by the ground handling agent at the outstation. In conclusion, the cause of this incident was a combination of build quality and that it was not opened and inspected at the outstation. To prevent re-occurrence, the operator has coached the shipper on proper build standards, when loading dry ice on top of a wrapped product. The dry ice will be enclosed with the product or loose loaded on a skid to allow strapping in the future. The ground handling agent to inspect and open each ULD upon arrival and verify the build integrity with supporting pictures.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Unit load device (ULD) arrived at workstation with the curtain under strain from freight. On opening the velcro straps, the 4.8L and 1.2L of Flammable liquid, no’s., UN1993 and 30g of Chemical kits, UN3316, fell out of the ULD onto the floor. The investigation found that the cargo agent failed to properly secure the shipment on the skid with shrink-wrap. Furthermore, the cargo agent did not cross strap or add additional straps, which is a requirement of the operator. Discussion took place between the operator and the cargo management. As preventative action, the Assistant General Manager scheduled fit-to-fly audits. Appropriate build posters and pictures along with the requirements, included as part of the briefing cycle. No further CAA action required.

2012-0139 06/02/2012 Heathrow

2012-0140 06/02/2012 Heathrow

2012-0137 06/02/2012 Heathrow

2012-0152 06/02/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 1Kg and 2 x 0.8Kg of Fire extinguishers, UN1044 and an inner fibreboard box, which was labelled with UN3269 and a LQ label, containing 4 x B40g tins of Polyester resin kit, UN3269. The outer box was not marked or labelled as dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they had introduced new procedures and retrained their staff. No further CAA action required.

2012-0134 06/02/2012 East Midlands

2012-0135 06/02/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 70cl of Alcoholic Beverage, UN3065. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

2012-0136 06/02/2012 East Midlands

2012-0133 06/02/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. The aircraft had just completed a maintenance check and was positioning back to the United Kingdom. The aircraft was carrying aircraft spares as cargo. The aircraft spares were unloaded and trucked to the operators engineering premises. During unload, it was found that one of the item of aircraft spares was a HPT clearance turbine valve, which had not been emptied or drained and was found to contain fuel which had leaked onto the packaging. This item had been sent as general cargo, with no dangerous goods documentation completed. The operator informed the Serbian Civil Aviation Authority of this incident. The investigation revealed that the shipper failed to oversee the loading of aircraft spares onto the outgoing aircraft which resulted in the undeclared dangerous goods been loaded. The shipper relied heavily on the third party to ensure regulations were complied with. In future the operator will have a member of staff who is qualified to ship dangerous goods on site to maintain a full audit trail of items leaving the facility on the aircraft. The shipper's procedures were updated, to make priority of each step of activities in order to ensure the proper handling with dangerous goods. Staff attended refresher dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 1Kg Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they are aware of the regulations and their responsibility to ensure the applicable requirements are met. They also advised they do not sell or stock dangerous goods and this was a one off occasion when they supplied an item at the request of their customer. No further CAA action required.

Wheelchair / unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, one electric gel cell wheelchair weighing 150Kg had not been secured with the appropriate straps. The battery had not been isolated. The investigation revealed that according to the service provided, their staff had tied down the wheelchair. They did not disconnect the terminals as the item was loaded with no other items that would interfere with the wheelchair power source. From the photographs, the straps were on and around the wheelchair. The International Civil Aviation Organization Technical instructions do not require the disconnection of non-spillable batteries, because it is often difficult to achieve and can result in damage to the equipment. In future, the loading staff will take pictures of non-standard loads to conform compliance. A review and sign was introduced at the station for the loading of electric wheelchairs and mobility devices power point at presentation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 50ml and 1 x 30ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 2 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. An investigation found it appeared the recorded shipper forwarded the consignment on behalf of a customer who left personal effects at the hotel. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0788, 2011-0787 and 2006-518. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised their procedures had been updated. Additional awareness training was provided to all relevant personnel, to ensure when they forward consignments to their professional packers, all the correct information is provided. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x 100ml, 5 x 90ml, 6 x 30ml, 2 x 120ml, 1 x 40ml, 1 x 75ml and 6 x 1.5ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to French authorities for investigation. See also 2011-0948. No response received from the French authorities, therefore, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 200ml, 2 x 150ml and 1 x 250ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Dubai authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 17Kg canister of Liquefied Gas, flammable, n.o.s., UN3161. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they had updated their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment containing personal effects was found to contain 2 x 50ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The items were removed, appropriate action taken by the handling agent. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 cylinders of Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they had misunderstood the dangerous goods regulations. To prevent further incidents occurring a licensed gas specialist who are compliant with dangerous goods regulations would be employed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 200ml, 2 x 150ml and 1 x 250ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they had misunderstood the dangerous goods regulations. To prevent further incidents occurring a licensed gas specialist who are compliant with dangerous goods regulations would be employed. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 200ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. The loader refused to load the unit on to the aircraft, as the strapping securing the dangerous goods had become loose within the unit load device (ULD). The ULD was returned to cargo shed and the Articles, pressurized, hydraulic, UN3164 were repacked. The Articles, pressurized, hydraulic (shock absorbers) had previously been secured in placed with two straps in both directions. Operator’s investigation could not determine the exact cause how the straps became loose. However bad handling of the unit is one possibility to caused the restraints to slip. From the supporting photographs taken when the unit was built, the strapping process was correctly completed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 700ml and 3 x 340g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded that whilst staff were aware that aerosols were subject to restrictions when sent by air a human error had resulted in them being forwarded for carriage. The importance of the dangerous goods requirements was re-iterated to staff and consequently no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 Life saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. The shipper conducted their investigation and revealed that a third party arranged for the shipment of “end of lease” items for an aircraft, to be moved from the shipper’s stores to Ireland, using the third party’s nominated courier. Unfortunately the courier company was not advised that the shipment included dangerous goods. To prevent this type of incident to re-occurring, the shipment must be checked for dangerous goods contents before handing over to a third party. The correct marking and labelling are applied as per the ICAO regulations. The dangerous goods note must be raised and the courier informed and all relevant dangerous goods paper work raised and handed over with the consignment. Finally the operator’s brand name tape must be removed from boxes used for shipment, as this was for the sole use of shipment originating from the operator’s stores and for which they are responsible under the dangerous goods regulations. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During x-ray security screening an agent became suspicious of cylinders on the x-ray image. The fibreboard box was opened for hand search and life-jackets (Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990) were discovered. The life-jackets were not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document and were described as ‘helicopter parts’ on the house air waybill. Warning letter sent to shipper who advised that this oversight was due to human error. The individual consigning the items did not recognise the goods as being dangerous goods, despite being appropriately trained. The individual was subsequently mentored concerning the incident and its implications. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods and incorrect NOTOC. Prior to flight, the captain reviewed the NOTOC and requested confirmation that a cylinder of Oxygen, compressed, UN1072 that had been loaded was not leaking and was secured in place, which was confirmed. On arrival, the dispatcher advised the cylinder in the hold had not been ‘tied down’. The captain asked the dispatcher if the cylinder had been damaged, if the cargo net was still in place and that there was no evidence that the cylinder had moved during the flight, all of which was confirmed. There appeared to be confusion about the operator's requirements for securing of dangerous goods. A subsequent review of the NOTOC found that it had also not been completed correctly in that the gross weight of the cylinder had been shown rather than the net quantity of oxygen, the loading position had not been noted and a statement concerning there being no evidence of damage or leakage was missing. As a result of this incident, the operator and handling agent issued an instruction notice to all handling staff advising the NOTOC must be fully completed including the aircraft hold position and the net quantity of the dangerous goods, the load instruction report form (LIRF) must clearly identify cargo from bags and also in the special instructions column state...

No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading two consignments containing Biological substances, Category B, UN3373 "not restricted" packed with Dry Ice, UN1845, were not restrained, resulting in one of the consignments laying on its side. Barrels which did not contain dangerous goods had also been placed on top of freight had not been restrained in accordance with the operator’s standard procedures. The Indian authorities were advised of this incident. From the operator’s investigation it was found that this unit was built by a fully trained member of the ground handling agent. The staff member failed to build the unit to the standard they had been trained to. To prevent re-occurrence, the staff responsible for the building of the operator’s cargo undertook additional ULD training and dangerous goods course via the intranet. A warning letter was placed on their file and they were advised to follow the operator’s laid down procedure. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 8 x 1Kg of Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised the warehouse operative had not identified the fire extinguishers as dangerous goods because they were not labelled as hazardous on the cylinder, the outer carton or the product data sheet. To prevent further incidents occurring they updated their system to ensure all incoming fire extinguishers are moved to their hazardous store where robust processes are put in place to ensure the packaging is correctly packed, marked and labelled before being distributed. As an additional measure a prominent notice was added to the system to highlight the requirements for the item if shipped by air or sea. No further CAA action required.

Non-UK incident, passenger error, incorrect carriage of spare lithium batteries. Three passengers (a UK TV film crew) arrived at the boarding gate with a film camera. The passengers were asked whether they were carrying lithium batteries for the camera, to which they replied they had 7 batteries in their checked baggage and that they had authorisation to do so from the aircraft operator. Boarding staff requested ground staff to contact the captain to see if the loadsheet indicated dangerous goods uplift. The ground staff advised that the captain 'was satisfied' and so the passengers were allowed to board. It was only after take off and in cruise phase, when the cabin service manager and the captain discussed this matter that it was established the captain had not been notified. After a review of the requirements for spare lithium batteries confirmed that they must be carried in the cabin, the aircraft returned to the departure station. The passengers luggage was removed and the relevant passengers requested to identify their luggage. The lithium batteries, each with an 88 Wh rating, were removed and placed into the passengers' carry on luggage, following which the aircraft departed again. An article was released to relevant media, to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

2012-0200 18/02/2012 Karratha, Australia

Passenger error. During security screening the quantity of toiletry aerosols within a passenger's checked baggage was found to exceed the 2L / 2Kg limit so a number of items were removed. The passenger was informed of the potential implications by the airport security. The passenger was not from the UK so no further CAA action possible.

Incorrect loading of dangerous goods on pallets. Upon arrival, during offloading, the crew leader noticed pallets containing Dry ice, UN1845 had been inadequately secured in accordance with the operator's standard operating procedures (SOP). Only nets had been used to secure the dangerous goods on the pallets. No straps had been used. The operator held discussions with the ground handling agent at the station. Unfortunately, the unit load device (ULD) numbers mentioned in the report were seemingly incorrect, therefore a full investigation was not possible. It was established that all ground handling staff at the station were fully trained in ULD build standards in accordance to the operator's SOPs. This incident was relayed to the staff at the station to show how important correct build standards are. No further CAA action possible.

2012-0202  18/02/2012 Heathrow

Documentation error. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was held because it was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The batteries had been placed in individual polystyrene boxes. Upon further investigation a material safety data sheet stated the consignment complied with Special Provision A67, therefore, the consignment was not subject to the dangerous goods requirements. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0211  18/02/2012 East Midlands

2012-0212  18/02/2012 East Midlands

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival it was found that Dry ice, UN1845 had not been restrained correctly in the hold. The operator discussed this incident with the ground handling agent at the station, who spoke with the loading supervisor to ensure they had a full understanding of all the operator’s loading requirements. All remaining loading supervisors were briefed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment consisting of three fibreboard boxes, was found to contain three cylinders of Compressed gas, flammable, n.o.s., UN1954. Each fibreboard box was wrapped with thick black plastic. The black plastic was removed from each box which revealed a Class 2, flammable gas label. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The x-ray image suggested all three cylinders were full. Letter sent to shipper who responded and stated the error occurred because they were unaware the consignment was being transported by air. The shipper advised they had updated their procedures and all future consignments would be sent by road and sea transport only to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Warning letter sent to shipper who advised appropriate remedial action had been taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 350ml of Toxic liquid, organic, n.o.s., UN2810. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised Toxic liquid, organic was clearly marked for “collection only”. Due to staff oversight the Toxic liquid, organic was accidentally processed through their courier company. The shipper updated their procedures to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading, a consignment containing Dry ice, UN1845 was found unsecured inside a Unit Load Device (ULD). An investigation by the operator advised the incident occurred because of staff error, who had not secured the consignment in all directions of travel but it was advised a secondary strap should be attached. The area performance manager discussed the build standard issue with the team leader to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, baggage loaders discovered that a wheelchair was not tied down in the rear hold and that baggage was used to secure it in place. The operator’s handling agent carried out an investigation. The team leader was interviewed who admitted that he believed a wheelchair could be secured with baggage because he had done that before and was briefed on the correct procedures. The team leader was not aware of the wheelchair before loading the aircraft. The handling agent did not issue a read and sign copy of the operator’s ground safety notice, however, it was put on the agent’s safety television and a message was put on the safety bulletin board in its room. The operator provided rings and the handling agent was equipped with ropes. The handling agent issued its own safety brief to staff on securing wheelchairs in the hold, which went on training files and it issued a procedures handbook for team leaders. DGORs 2012-0330 and DGOR 2012-0331 also occurred at the same origin. No further CAA action taken.

Spillage of dangerous goods. During offloading, a courier bag was found leaking. On closer inspection, it was noticed the courier bag had a hazardous label on and warning that the bag contained Environmentally hazardous substances, solid, n.o.s. (Cobalt sulphate). The courier bag was placed in the dangerous goods cage, pending operator’s further investigation. This incident was caused by a staff error at the freight forwarder’s facility and upon acceptance, the screener did not notice that this consignment was dangerous goods. To prevent re-occurrence the staff member was removed from the job function that allowed them to cause this incident and the screener was dealt with internally. Several staff members from the freight forwarder attended a dangerous goods training course, as well as key members who attended a full 5 days training course. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. Load completely slipped during transit which was rebuilt into two separate unit load devices (ULD). Contained within the ULD was Dry Ice, UN1845. From the operator’s investigation, the staff member was questioned, who admitted they forgot to enter the comment in the system. As a preventative measure, staff members were informed of this incident and all staff members now send hardcopies of the dangerous goods checklist and/or dry ice checklists with the documents, which is an additional reminder to enter the comments into the system. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 48 x 250ml Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter to shipper. There were several phone calls with one member of staff the shipper and the Managing Director came to Aviation House, because he was worried that the CAA would prosecute him. He was crying because his wife died last year. It was extremely difficult to understand what he and the staff member were saying on the telephone and it was difficult to ascertain if they understood what they had to do. The shipper supplied an invoice which verified that it accepted dangerous goods into its warehouse, but none of the staff were dangerous goods trained. The Managing Director was advised that his staff must be trained and the shipper was sent a list of CAA approved training organisations. A member of staff at the shipper was trained in dangerous goods awareness although he was advised by the training company he had to do a full three day course, but he insisted on doing awareness only. The training company advised the Dangerous Goods Office that the staff member from the shipper struggled to understand the Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival an electric wheelchair was found unsecured in the bulk hold. The wheelchair moved in flight and was up against the hold door, which was also obstructed. Access to the bulk hold was gained via the main rear hold after moving four unit load devices and flight kit. The handling agent at the origin purchased rings and ropes for securing wheelchairs. The operator in the UK also obtained ropes and rings for securing wheelchairs and instructed all its overseas ground handling agents not to remove ropes and rings from the hold. The operator's Airport Manager also visited the station of origin to investigate the incident and confirmed that the ground handling agent had a stock of rope and rings and they fully understood the procedures in the operator's ground services notice. The Airport Manager observed the loading of some of the operator's flights, and although no electric wheelchairs were carried, he advised the operator at the outstation that he was confident that the ground handling agent understood the processes for loading wheelchairs and they had the correct equipment available. No further CAA action required.

Leakage of dangerous goods. During offloading, a consignment consisting of 17.8Kg of Nitrogen, refrigerated liquid, UN1977 (correctly consigned) accidentally tipped over resulting in a small leakage of liquid nitrogen which quickly evaporated. No injury to personnel or damage to the aircraft occurred. The airport fire services attended. The shipment was determined to be safe and consequently offloaded. On further inspection at the cargo shed, the top of the canister was found to be sealed, although loose to allow venting of gas in accordance with the packing instruction. Appropriate operator action taken, no further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During freight checks, a consignment of Dry ice, UN1845 and Biological substance, category B, UN3373 were found unsecured in the hold. An investigation by the operator advised the consignment had been loaded on spreaders and restrained, which was annotated by the ramp supervisor and checked by the turnaround coordinator and the holds were volumetrically full which prevented further movement of the boxes but photographs were not taken as evidence. To prevent further incidents occurring all dangerous goods must be restrained to prevent movement, irrespective of the compartment being volumetrically full; dangerous goods must be on spreaders, lashed and secured with nets; the loading information report form must be annotated by the supervisor; as a local procedure, a photograph must be taken of any dangerous goods consignments and retained. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 425g of soda stream kit. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-1078 and 2012-0297. A Repeat Offender letter was sent to the shipper. In response, the shipper reviewed its processes and the staff and management at its third party warehouse received further training to prevent a recurrence. Furthermore, all packages containing the cylinders despatched from the warehouse irrespective of the destination were labelled with ‘Do Not Fly’ stickers. The shipper also tested an update to its shipping system that automatically changed the carrier service to road for packages of cylinders with an off-shore post code, and would therefore, not be sent on the express service. The shipper’s Managing Director stated they were committed to ensuring the processes were followed correctly and would conduct internal quality spot checks to check procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 quad bikes (Vehicle, flammable liquid powered, UN3166) and Battery fluid, acid, UN2796. The boxes containing the batteries were marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but they had been packed in the crate and overpacked with hessian, with the quad bikes, which were marked ‘UN2796’ and ‘Overpack’. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. A further investigation also found the quad bike tanks contained petrol. Letter sent to freight agents who responded and advised they were aware of the dangerous goods regulations but had allowed training to lapse because their consignments were sent by sea. The incident occurred because the steps provided were inadequately applied. To prevent further incidents occurring any future consignments containing dangerous goods would be treated more rigorously and fully documented. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a cylinder of 22.3L of Helium, compressed, UN1046. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2009-1236. Letter sent to shipper, who advised that very few consignments were sent outside of the United Kingdom mainland and a failure to follow internal procedures caused the incident. To prevent a recurrence the shipper reviewed their procedures and amended their web site to the effect that all items containing contain dangerous goods are not available to customers outside the United Kingdom mainland. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 2Kg of Fire Extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder requesting an explanation based on the corrective actions it implemented last year as a result of previous incidents. The freight forwarder’s investigation revealed that one of its administration staff despatched the fire extinguishers, rather than despatch, following a request from the shipper. To prevent a recurrence, the freight forwarder notified the shipper to ensure its employees went through the warehouse and despatch team. All relevant staff were briefed on the company’s procedures on dangerous goods that all shipments must go by road and sea. A process review was also carried out on its operations to identify whether similar breaches would occur in the future. The freight forwarder was certain there would not be a further breach of its dangerous goods procedures and that future shipments would not be offered for air transport by them on behalf of the shipper. The freight forwarder also sent a list of the employees who undertook dangerous goods awareness training following

Wheelchair / unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival, electric wheelchair was found loaded in the wrong position, not tied down and with baggage on top of it. An investigation by the operator advised the wheelchair was powered by a dry cell battery and the leads were disconnected and taped off by the handling agent supervisor. Loading staff claimed they had loaded the wheelchair in accordance with a presentation they had viewed a week prior to this incident. As preventative measures, the operator reviewed the content of the presentation and also issued a ‘read and sign’ reminding that all wheelchairs must be tied down regardless of where they are loaded. This also reiterated that when loading baggage with wheelchairs or scooters, no bags are to exceed the height of the joystick/power panel. With regard to the incorrect load, a read and sign was created, to annotate the wheelchair position on the loading instructions. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. On opening the unit load device (ULD) which contained an electric wheelchair, a 1Kg Fire extinguisher, UN1044 (powder) was also found. The wheelchair assistant at the airport handed the fire extinguisher back to the ground handling assistant as it did not belong to the wheelchair passenger. The operator’s investigation revealed that at the originating station, the electric wheelchair weighing 90Kgs arrived in a trailer at the aircraft side 10 minutes prior to pushback. During the process of removing the wheelchair from the trailer and loading it into the ULD, the wheelchair caught the side of the trailer’s elevator, where the fire extinguisher was located. During the pushing and pulling of the wheelchair, the baggage crew leader saw the extinguisher roll onto the floor and assumed that the extinguisher belonged to the wheelchair and placed it in the ULD with the wheelchair. The baggage crew leader had no previous experience with the elevator equipment. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a small tub marked with a toxic label. The consignment was not marked or labelled as dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who forwarded a copy of the material safety datasheet (MSDS) identifying the item as non-dangerous. This MSDS was forwarded to a specialist for confirmation, who confirmed the item was incorrectly identified on the MSDS. The item in question should have been identified as Thallium compound, n.o.s., UN1707. The shipper was advised. No further CAA action required.

Loading / documentation error. A consignment weighing 47Kgs of Dry ice, UN1845 was not correctly manifested. There were no other conflicting dangerous goods in the hold, the turn around manager arranged for a new NOTOC for loading team leader to sign and handed it to the captain. The investigation revealed that the staff member responsible for the manifest was interviewed and disciplined. As a preventative measure, the handling agent researched the possibility of an automatic update for check entries. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Polish authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.
Handling agent/loading error. During checks of a pallet in transit, it was noticed that the dangerous goods labels on one box of Isopropanol, UN1219 were not fully visible, so the pallet was broken own in order to re-build it. In doing so, it was noticed that the box in question was crushed on one corner. The box was on the bottom of the pallet, which was double-staked; i.e. two layers of packages, separated by a wooden pallet. It was considered that a pallet was possibly damaged by a retaining strap rather than the pallet between the layers of packaging, however the exact cause could not be confirmed. As a preventative measure, all staff building pallets were reminded to be extra vigilant when securing dangerous goods to unit load devices (ULDs), ensuring no damage can occur because of securing freight as well as any freight loaded on top. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A unit load device (ULD) offloaded at the aircraft side as the freight was bulging out of the ULD and a dangerous goods package was not secured correctly. A local investigation was carried out, which concluded that the dangerous goods in the ULD were secured and that it was not overbuilt, because maximum volumes were encouraged to help with the stability of the load. There was no explanation as to why and how the straps became loose in both directions. To prevent a recurrence, the team leader who checked and countersigned the build card was advised that a secondary strap across the dangerous goods would have been beneficial. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured wheelchair. During offloading, a motorised wheelchair was found unsecured in the bulk hold. The operator’s handling agent conducted an investigation. The team leader responsible for the load signed the NOTOC believing that the wheelchair was correctly loaded. He did not know that he was responsible for gathering the correct equipment e.g. rope spreaders, eyes, when he was informed about a special load. The shift managers ensured that all staff were aware of the read and sign notice placed in the agent’s crew room. The handling agent obtained a stock of rings and ropes for securing wheelchairs. 2012-0311  12/03/2012 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a transit load containing 2 x 14Kg, 1 x 38Kg, 2 x 35Kg and 1 x 22Kg of Carbon dioxide, solid, UN1845 was offloaded because it was found overhanging on a pallet. An investigation by the operator revealed the incident occurred because the outstation had made an error when building the unit. The outstation amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.
2012-0327  13/03/2012 Heathrow

Loading error leading to NOTOC error. A load instruction report form and NOTOC were received at the stand before the aircraft arrived, so that NOTOC was presented to the aircraft commander. After the aircraft departed, it was found that a replacement NOTOC had been received at the stand. Although the second NOTOC did not list any additional dangerous goods, further discussions found that neither of the NOTOCs listed 27.4kg Disodium trioxosilicate (Class 8, packing group III), due to late notification by the handling agent. Applicable staff were reminded of the need to provide accurate information as early as possible. No further CAA action required.

2012-0321  13/03/2012 East Midlands

2012-0322  13/03/2012 East Midlands

2012-0323  14/03/2012 Heathrow

2012-0325  14/03/2012 Glasgow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a wooden crate was found to contain 17 tins of Polyester resin kit, UN3269 of which 12 tins were inside a fibreboard box and 5 tins were loose within the crate. The fibreboard box bore a flammable liquid label, UN number and proper shipping name, but was not of UN specification. The wooden crate bore no markings or labels and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0260. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised their staff would receive the full dangerous goods training but would continue to use the specialist agent until this was achieved. They also advised other staff would receive awareness dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

2012-0329  14/03/2012 East Midlands

2012-0324  14/03/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Seat-belt pretensioners, UN3268. The consignment consisted of three fibreboard boxes, which had been taped together as one. The consignment was separated and the middle box was found labelled as containing dangerous goods but because it had been placed in the middle, the label was concealed. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they now fully understand the dangerous goods requirements and assured us further incidents would not occur because they would no longer transport dangerous goods by air. No further CAA action required.

2012-0328  14/03/2012 East Midlands

Shortly after rotation, both the captain and first office noticed a strong chemical smell which was increasing in intensity. Crew placed their oxygen masks on and contacted the departure tower who instructed the crew to return to the departure airport. The fire services followed the aircraft in and the fire and ambulance were on standby. Once the aircraft was shutdown and windows opened, the crew took off their oxygen masks. The First Officer noticed de-ice liquid on the smoke curtain and a pool of fluid around the four canisters, which were stored behind the front bulkhead. The fire services were stood down, as the crew did not require medical attention. The operator conducted an investigation. The aerosols were part of the aircraft equipment provided to the crew for de-icing the external aircraft door and were placed in a dedicated secure equipment box. The crew left the lid off the box and then placed their bags on top of the contents, which set off one of the aerosols that had a cap left off also by the crew. The crew were interviewed. The aerosols were taken off the aircraft and replaced with a squirt bottle type and the equipment box was moved away from behind the cockpit. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured wheelchair. During the offload check, a ramp agent found a Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171 (dry battery), not tied down. There was no damage to either the mobility aid or the interior of the aircraft. The operator’s handling agent conducted an investigation. The team leader responsible for the load signed the NOTOC believing that the wheelchair was correctly loaded. He did not know that he was responsible for gathering the correct equipment e.g. rope spreaders, eyes, when he was informed about a special load. The shift managers ensured that all staff were aware of the read and sign notice placed in the agent’s crew room. The handling agent obtained a stock of rings and ropes for securing wheelchairs. Monitors were installed in the crew room which played reminders about local procedures. See also 2012-0330. No further CAA action possible.

2012-0337 15/03/2012 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 100ml, 1 x 75ml and 1 x 85ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0124, 2011-1115 and 2011-0995. Referred to the French authorities for investigation, who responded and advised a warning letter was sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0334 15/03/2012 East Midlands

2012-0335 15/03/2012 East Midlands

2012-0336 15/03/2012 East Midlands

Documentation error. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was held because it was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Upon further investigation a material safety data sheet stated the consignment complied with Special Provision A67, therefore, the consignment was not subject to the dangerous goods requirements. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised all their consignments would be transported by road and sea. Further information sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0326 15/03/2012 Belfast

Undeclared dangerous goods. The shipment was booked on a third party account and declared as 'car parts', which was thoroughly cleaned and flushed through. Whilst processing the package on arrival, the management team was informed the package was leaking and there was a strong smell of gas. The shipment was moved outside the warehouse and the shipper was contacted, who advised the consignment was as an 'empty LPG machine', which was inactive and was thoroughly cleaned six months prior to shipment. Upon returning to the warehouse, five minutes after the initial report, the operations manager took the decision to evacuate the facility because of the intense vapour emanating from the package. The fire service was contacted and they cordoned off the area. The shipment was stripped down and was found to contain an LPG car conversion kit that was still pressurised and leaking. As the cylinder did not incorporate a cut off switch or valve, the fire brigade was forced to wait until the contents of the cylinder were fully vented before making the area safe. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised that the consignment was arranged on an "ex-works" basis. A further information warning letter sent to the "seller". A warning letter also sent to the "buyer" who arranged for the collection. No further action required.

2012-0333 16/03/2012 Washington, Dulles, USA

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger's baggage was found to contain 6 x 523ml and 7 x 591ml of Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950 (furniture polish and starch spray). The passenger was informed and advised of the implications of their actions. The items were removed and disposed of. The operator informed the FAA. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 25 x 7fl oz of Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The agent requested a copy of the manifest. Once this was received, the shipment was opened and checked. It was at this point the canisters were found to be full and not empty as declared on the supporting documentation. Referred to the FAA for investigation. No further CAA action required.

2012-0349 16/03/2012 East Midlands

Passenger error. During check-in, a passenger's baggage was found to contain 3 x 20oz Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The items were removed. Appropriate action was taken by the operator. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger's baggage was found to contain 3 Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was held because it was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Upon further investigation a material safety data sheet stated the consignment complied with Special Provision A67, therefore, the consignment was not subject to the dangerous goods requirements. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised all their consignments would be transported by road and sea. Further information sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured wheelchairs. Upon arrival, three wheelchairs, one of which was motorised, were found unsecured in the hold. The operator’s ground handling agent at the location reported the incident to the operator and took photographs. The operator contacted the ground handling agent at the airport of origin for an investigation report, but the ground handling agent could not find a record that a motorised wheelchair was loaded onto the aircraft. The operator was unable to obtain an investigation report from the handling agent at the station of origin. The DGO carried out an audit of the handling agent and the incident was discussed, but they denied that a motorised wheelchair was on the aircraft and believed that the wheelchair was on a different aircraft. The handling agent’s contract with the operator ceased on 1 April 2012 and the operator believed that was the reason why they could not obtain an investigation report. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The items were removed by the operator. Appropriate operator action taken, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. On arrival at the destination airport, dangerous goods were found unsecured in accordance with the operator’s standard procedures. The dangerous goods were secured by cargo netting but were not strapped down. The load did not shift in flight. The operator conducted an investigation, which concluded that dangerous goods must be loaded in a manner that fully protected them from any movement over the course of the flight and whilst handling. The ground handling agent ensured that unit load devices containing dangerous goods were built volumetrically full or applied straps and ropes to restrain the package. Skids or spreaders were put on top of the outer side of the dangerous goods carton package when using straps to protect the package and to enhance load security. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 311g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0319. The items were removed by the operator. Appropriate operator action taken, no further CAA action required.

Unsecured and damaged dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment containing plastic drums with Corrosive liquid, acidic, organic, n.o.s., UN3265 were found unsecured. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The ramp supervisor reported the consignment had collapsed and was not secured. When the consignment was offloaded two drums were found damaged and had split onto the aircraft floor and contaminated another 17 pieces. The two damaged pieces were disposed of and the rest of the consignment was re-built and secured and forwarded to the destination. The incident was due to a poor build, a failure to follow dangerous goods loading regulations and to inspect cargo prior to loading. The operator was contracted by another operator to operate the service between the origin and the location of the incident and they both investigated the incident. The operator's investigation confirmed that the liquid was packed in plastic drums and tested in accordance with Packing Instruction 856. Spreaders were purchased for the team at the origin to ensure secure pallet builds; the handling agent and the build team were also retrained in building unit load devices; a monthly build review was completed by the operator.

Loading error. Prior to pushback, the Captain requested to make a last minute change for 10kg of cargo, this was accepted and the load sheet was amended. After disembarking at destination, an engineer advised flight crew a fire extinguisher UN1044 had been carried in the hold without the correct dangerous goods procedures being followed. Operator investigated and advised that new procedures have been implemented to ensure stores personnel dispatch all dangerous goods consignments including AOG spares through the qualified cargo agent. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 85ml, 2 x 75ml, 1 x 100ml and 1 x 60ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0337, 2012-0124, 2011-1115 and 2011-0995. Referred to the French authorities for investigation, who responded and advised a warning letter was sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During offloading, a fibreboard box was found to contain 12 x 100ml of Ethanol solution, UN1170. The box was marked with a white diamond and UN1170. There were no other markings or labelling and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2010-0900. Referred to the German authorities for investigation who advised they had requested a written statement from the shipper. The shipper responded and advised they had amended their internal procedures. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger’s suitcase was found to contain antique ammunition. The operator was unable to establish the stability of the ammunition and method of packing, therefore, with the agreement of Security, the items were removed. Appropriate operator action, therefore, no further CAA action required.
2012-0355 21/03/2012 Heathrow

2012-0361 22/03/2012 Stansted

2012-0360 22/03/2012 Leeds/Bradford
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a suitcase was found to contain 14 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 5 x 93ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0357 22/03/2012 East Midlands

2012-0359 22/03/2012 East Midlands

2012-0356 22/03/2012 East Midlands

Damaged dangerous goods. During off loading, a consignment loaded inside a Unit Load Device was found to contain various plastic drums of Organometallic compound, toxic, solid, n.o.s., UN3467. The drums appeared to have been affected by air pressure causing them to compress during the flight but it appeared no leakage had occurred. The banded lids were intact but the compression caused the drums to become mis-shaped. The consignment was forwarded to its destination. No further CAA action possible.
Damaged electric wheelchair. Upon arrival, a wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found damaged on the left side. The armrest was loose, the electrical part was at the bottom of the chair, not in the correct position and the rubber buffer from the left wheel detached. The passenger was offered a hire electric chair or manual but refused, as they preferred to use their own. From the operator’s investigation, it would appear the damage was caused whilst the wheelchair was going round on the carousel, as no damage was reported when it was removed from the aircraft. The wheelchair was of a small lightweight type and had the appearance of a manual wheelchair, which was why it was placed on the carousel by mistake. As a preventative measure, a memo was sent to the handling agents to raise awareness of the risk of carrying electrically powered wheelchairs and to check thoroughly before placing them on the carousel.

No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 500ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and one Life-saving appliance, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who response and advised they had noted the regulations and serious consequences that could occur by not complying with the dangerous goods regulations. No further CAA action required.

2012-0358 23/03/2012 East Midlands
No further CAA action required.

Loading error. After landing and after opening the forward hold door, the ramp supervisor noticed two locks were not engaged on the pallet between two positions. The pallet contained Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., UN2811. In addition, six locks were also not raised in two positions. No damage or injury was reported. The operator conducted an investigation, which confirmed that the loader was interviewed and shown photographs of the dangerous goods on the pallet. He did not recall the incident, but acknowledged he would be more vigilant and was told this would lead to disciplinary action if it happened again. No further CAA action required.

No further CAA action required.

2012-0398 24/03/2012 Heathrow
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 198g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The item was removed by the operator. Appropriate operator action taken, no further CAA action required.

2012-0362 24/03/2012 Heathrow
Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger’s suitcase was found to contain an Aerosol, flammable, UN1950 (insulating foam sealant). The item was removed. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

2012-0367 24/03/2012 Heathrow
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 cylinders of Compressed gas, UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Information received from the shipper advised the cylinders should not have been packed as full cylinders. The consignment was due to go by sea but because of the location of their customer the consignment was arranged to travel by air but the shipper failed to check the cylinders were de-pressurized. The shipper advised they had amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

2012-0366 27/03/2012 Frankfurt, Germany

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, an electric scooter with a dry cell battery was found in the doorway of the hold not tied down, although it had been disconnected. Prior to departure a passenger had been offloaded, which had contributed to the way in which the hold was loaded and baggage had shifted onto a cage containing an animal. The ramp agent was a new member of staff and although they were trained, they did not place the baggage into the hold correctly. This staff member subsequently resigned. A senior aircraft loader stated wheelchairs often arrived not tied down in the hold. The loader was advised wheelchairs must be tied down and restrained according to the operator’s requirements. All loading staff attended a refresher training course and the loaders completed a ‘read and sign’ document about the correct procedures for tying down wheelchairs. The team at the station of origin were confident a similar incident would not reoccur. No further CAA action required.

Prohibited items loaded onto the aircraft. Sporting weapons were prohibited by the operator, but they were found listed on the cargo documents 15 minutes prior to departure and already loaded onto the aircraft. The weapons were offloaded and returned to the shipper, which caused a delay to the departure of the aircraft. The operator conducted an investigation, which concluded that human error was the root cause. The operator’s contracted cargo management company assumed sporting weapons were allowed for carriage by the operator. The entire cargo network, including the ground handling agents were reminded by means of an email that required their acknowledgement, to familiarise themselves with the operator's ground handling manual. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 7 x 200ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0933, 2011-0525 and 2011-0472. Referred to the Spanish authorities for investigation. As no response received from the Spanish authorities, no further CAA action possible.

Documentation error. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x Batteries, wet, non-spillage, UN2800. Further investigation revealed the batteries met the Special Provision A67, therefore, not restricted for air transport. Advisory letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a soda stream kit, (Carbon dioxide, UN1013). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised cylinders are normally removed prior to shipment. This was an oversight due to human error. Procedures were amended to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A unit load device (ULD) was offloaded from the flight as the dangerous goods within the ULD were found to be unsecured. Operator conducted investigation that revealed the crew who built the (ULD) had been interviewed but could not remember this particular unit. They have been reminded of the need to ensure that all cargo is securely restrained particularly dangerous goods and the potential consequences that could occur during flight. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 1L of Aviation regulated liquid, n.o.s. (Formaldehyde 10% solution), UN3334. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In their response, they advised that Formaldehyde in concentrations less than 25% was not classified as dangerous goods for surface transport and for air transport was simply classified as Aviation regulated liquid, n.o.s. When they had arranged for transport and spoke to the courier company they would be using, the shipper understood that the consignment was to be shipped by road and sea and were asked for a dangerous goods transport document for the sea element of the journey. Since the product was not classified as dangerous goods for those modes, they did not need to do so and therefore didn’t. As a result of the incident, the shipper advised they had amended their procedures to prevent a re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 12v Battery, wet, filled with acid, UN2794. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper investigated the root causes of the incident. There were problems with printing transport labels, including 'No Fly' stickers, but the package was despatched before it was inspected. The courier company was supposed to segregate and hold the shipper’s freight until it was checked, but it was loaded whilst the shipper believed the package was still live on its system. The shipper reviewed its processes and introduced more frequent system and physical checks, which were used in conjunction with the courier company and changed its processes to ensure packages of batteries went by road. The shipper’s management team and the management at the courier company met to agree and accept the new processes. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading, a tag for toxic substances was found attached to a Unit Load Device (ULD). The ULD was opened and a barrel was found unsecured. Ropes and spreaders were supplied, but they were found loose inside the ULD. An investigation by the operator revealed that the build card was signed correctly and photographs were taken of the barrel secured in both directions by straps, but no rope or spreaders were used. The operator was unable to investigate further because photographs were not taken of the unsecured barrel or the ropes spreaders found loose in the unit. However, the build crew were reminded of the need to ensure all cargo was suitably restrained and the handling agent was reminded to supply photographs of any further incidents. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 27 x 500ml and 12 x 300ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Two letters were sent to the shipper under 2011-0598. After no response from the shipper, a DGI spoke to the Managing Director, who agreed to investigate the incidents and all of the paperwork was emailed to him. The Managing Director did not investigate the incidents and was consistently unavailable when the DGI tried to call his office and would not call the DGO back. Final warning letter from Manager DGO sent to the Managing Director. Response received from the Director of the company via the Warehouse Manager on 24 July 2012. The shipper reviewed its processes, booked dangerous goods training for its employees on a CAA approved dangerous goods course and worked with its courier to ensure that the regulations were fully complied with. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 71g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival the contents of the hold were found badly loaded. The fibreboard boxes were not stacked with the arrows in the up position. A fibreboard box with a compressed gas label displayed, had not been tied down and was not in the upright position. The operator's investigation concluded this event was due to the arrival of the late courier to the aircraft in conjunction with the rain. The loading team loaded the late courier into the hold without checking the labels or arrows on the boxes. The load plan and NOTOC did not indicate dangerous goods for the hold and from investigation it would appear the dangerous goods labels had not been removed from the box from a previous consignment. The loader had been distracted and did not notice the signage on the boxes. A meeting was held with the loading teams and the operator, which concluded that a briefing notice must be signed showing that goods were secured and tied. Any lapses in the future would result in disciplinary actions. It was recommended that no dangerous goods would be loaded in HS, if required urgently the cargo agent would deliver the item separately from the rest of the cargo. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box which had been black shrink wrapped was found to contain 1 x Batteries wet filled with acid, UN2794, 3 mobile phones, Lithium ion batteries, UN3481 and a Ipad, Lithium ion batteries, UN3481. The Ipad was in its manufacturers package and two of the phones were in a small cardboard box with the third phone loose in the outer package. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Investigation revealed that the shipper relocated to Zambia, just after arranging the shipment. A signed declaration by the shipper was provided by the freight forwarder confirming that no dangerous goods were contained within the consignment. No further CAA action possible.

Passenger error. During security screening of passenger baggage, a suitcase was found to contain 1 x 240ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The item was removed from the suitcase and the passenger informed of the potential hazards. The FAA authorities were informed. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During the baggage loading a fibreboard box displaying a green non-flammable diamond shaped sticker was observed by the loading staff. On further investigation, it was found to contain Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. Operator conducted investigation and responded Passenger Service and Baggage staff to re-take Dangerous Goods course, issue alert sent to all staff regarding shockabsorbers and potential of dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During routine security screening, a passenger's baggage was found to contain 1 x container of Sodium hydroxide, UN1823. The item was removed from the baggage. It was advised that sodium hydroxide was used in divers' breathing apparatus in place of Carbon Dioxide. The passenger did not declare the sodium hydroxide at check-in. The operator identified that the incident was a possible trend for diving destinations. The containers were refused for carriage. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 150ml and 1 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During offloading it was found that a unit load device (ULD) containing dangerous goods had arrived with no stops securing the ULD and an unstowed door handle. The investigation revealed the ground handling agent loader and ramp leader both claim to have put the red locks up after loading the pallet and sliding the locks to the yellow line to secure the 4 ULDs in position 21 and 22 L/R. If the red locks had not been raised then the locks securing the ULDs in 21 and 22 L/R would not have been secured at the yellow line. A loading discrepancy would have been immediately apparent. From the supporting picture which show the red locks not in position is difficult to refute. As a preventative, the loader operator has retaken their "hand on company loader operator training" again. The ground handling company has started a new campaign with loading irregularities as the first focus. With regards to the unstowed door handle, the ramp leader remembers closing the door and ensured the handle to be flush against the aircraft. The engineer performed his walk around prior to departure and did not find the door handle to be out of position. There is a possibility the hold door handle became unlatched upon landing. Engineering will look for a history of the hold five door handles out of position on this Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a wooden crate was found leaking, the crate was opened and found to contain an engine driven generating unit filled with petrol and battery terminals still connected to the unit (Engines, internal combustion, UN3166). An investigation by the cargo handling agent at the station of origin concluded the shipment was delivered as 'known' cargo with a valid Consignment Security Certificate, which indicated the logistics company screened the consignment and was declared as 'non-haz dye products', therefore, no further checks were needed and the packaging was not compromised prior to departure. The misdeclaration was discovered when the crate was found leaking and inspected. Letter to shipper who responded and advised they had sent a letter to the operator but a further response advised the incident occurred because the person responsible for overseas shipments was away and the Goods Inwards Department sent the goods in their absence to avoid delaying shipment to the customer but they were not aware of the dangerous goods regulations. An internal enquiry was held which resulted all their Stores Personnel receiving dangerous goods training. The shipper also advised more stringent procedures were put in place to prevent further incidents occurring.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 11 Life-Saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990 and 1 cylinder of Carbon Dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and confirmed they had updated their procedures to prevent a re-occurrence.

Undeclared dangerous goods. At the departure airport, a passenger requested their scooter be made available at the gate upon arrival at the destination airport. On arrival, the unloading staff found the scooter inside the hold had not been tied down, but rather surrounded by baggage, above the armrest height and around the scooter. The battery was still attached. Initial investigation revealed no damage to the scooter. Further investigations showed that specific instructions would be changed and implemented. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 50g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 small engines, each with a fuel tank attached. From the x-ray machine, the tanks appeared to contain fuel. On opening the consignment, the fuel tank caps were removed and both fuel tanks had at least a quarter tank of fuel in each of them. Both engines also had a battery attached to each engine. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 30 x 150ml and 4 x 75ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. When the passenger arrived for their flight they were accompanied with a portable oxygen machine which had not been pre booked at the time of their original booking. The turn around manager conducted enquires and was informed that the portable oxygen machine had not been cleared for use by the operator, even though the passenger had used this item on several sectors before. The passenger used the operator’s passenger oxygen unit, which was authorised by the captain. Operator conducted an investigation which revealed after interviewing the check-in agent who does not recall the incident. If she had known the container had contained oxygen she would have set in motion the procedures she was trained. No further CAA action required.

2012-0407 05/04/2012 East Midlands
Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading, miscellaneous dangerous goods (Class 9) were found to be unsecured in the hold. Operator conducted investigation and found this was due to human error as the dangerous goods labels were not noticed, and the correct information was not passed to the checking staff. All staff responsible for dealing with dangerous goods had been retrained to prevent such incidents reoccurring. No further CAA action required.

2012-0411 06/04/2012 Helsinki
Undeclared dangerous goods. During the build up of a unit load device, it was noticed that two boxes bore hand written labels stating "Lithium ion batteries". Further checks revealed that a consignment of filming equipment contained four packages containing lithium ion batteries. In addition, the manifest also indicated that the consignment included laptop computers. Letter sent to shipper and freight agent (see also DGOR2011-0534, 2011-0578 and 2012-0001). In response the shipper will arrange relevant shipping personnel to undertake dangerous goods training and have appointed a Head of Shipping to revise and develop new procedures within their shipping manual. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured mobility aids. Whilst offloading the aircraft, the ramp agent found two mobility scooters with dry batteries not tied down in the forward hold and the hold net sections were not closed. There was no damage to the mobility aid or to the interior of the aircraft. The operator’s handling agent conducted an investigation. The team leader was interviewed. He requested the loaders to load the mobility scooters whilst he finalised the paperwork. He arrived late to the aircraft and did not oversee the loading or open the hold to check, because it was nearly the departure time. The team leader admitted his instruction to the loaders could have been clearer. The loaders were not part of his regular team and were not familiar with his way of doing things. The loaders were also interviewed, who both confirmed they knew the procedures for securing mobility aids. They were already trained in 'tie down' but received further training. The team leader and the loaders’ performance was monitored and reminders were issued to all staff on the tie down process. The handling agent also developed a safety notice based on the CAA Notice SN-2012/003. No further CAA action taken.

Unsecured dangerous goods. An electric wheelchair arrived at the destination airport contained in a unit load device (ULD), but had not been strapped down within the ULD. Baggage had been used to secure the wheelchair in place. No damage was caused to the wheelchair, which was found upright and operable. Operator conducted an investigation which revealed that this wheelchair was loaded and secured in the bin with bags. However the loader failed to tell the chief loader the battery had been disconnected. Loading instructions had now been updated to reflect that baggage crew must inform the turn round manager of a wheelchair in the bin. Baggage staff attended a series of away days to make sure training was up to date. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured wheelchair. Whilst offloading the aircraft, a wheelchair with a non-spillable battery was found unsecured in the forward hold. Baggage was used to secure the wheelchair in place and there were no ropes or rings within the hold as required by the operator. The operator’s ground handling agent conducted an investigation and interviewed the team leader and the dispatcher. The root cause of the occurrence was because of their lack of experience, which resulted in a breakdown of communication between the team leader and the dispatcher. The dispatcher did not conduct a visual inspection of the unit and that the wheelchair was restrained. The team leader assumed that one of the loaders had completed the task rather than checking it himself. The handling agent concluded that the team leader and the dispatcher did not communicate effectively with each other nor make a visual and verbal confirmation. Both members of staff received notification of training issues, which was tracked by the company. The dispatcher underwent more shadowing and the team leader completed a refresher dangerous goods course and a ballast restraint module. The handling agent recognised that they should have taken their lack of experience into account and allocated a more experienced member of staff to

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0286 and 2011-0261. Letter sent to freight forwarder who responded and advised they were surprised as they recently installed a x-ray machine which should have identified this item, prior to shipment to the operator. Additional training was given to the relevant staff to prevent re-occurrence. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. Two dry ice shipments were carried on a flight without an acceptance check or being recorded on the NOTOC. Further investigations showed that the ground handler and flight agent had overlooked the shipment. They have been retrained in dangerous goods awareness and NOTOC audits would prevent a recurrence of this type of incident. No further CAA action required.

Electric wheelchair incorrectly prepared and unsecured in aircraft hold. Upon arrival, a passenger’s electric wheelchair was found unrestrained in a unit load device (ULD). The batteries had both been removed from the wheelchair and had been placed in the same ULD. The operator investigated and reported that the Airport’s PRM Service Provider at the origin station had removed the batteries and handed them together with the wheelchair to the loading staff for loading. The loading Team Leader knew that if loaded loose in the hold, the wheelchair would need to be secured, but thought that since it was being loaded into a ULD and no other baggage or cargo were in the ULD, no further securing was required. Following the incident, the operator advised that it would hold a workshop at the originating station, open to staff from the PRM Service Provider, check-in staff, loaders and supervisors to review the correct procedures for handling electric mobility aids. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. A consignment was found to contain 29Kg of Dry ice, UN1845. The checklist had not been completed and the goods were not shown on the NOTOC. The operator investigated which found human error to be the cause of this incident. The staff were retrained on dangerous goods awareness. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 20 x Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised future consignments would be transported with a “DO NOT FLY” notice, which was implemented with immediate effect. Random spot checks would also be conducted to ensure the revised procedure was followed. The shipper also advised a meeting was held between the shipper and freight forwarder to discuss preventative actions and an agreement was met between the two and corrective actions would be implemented. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured mobility aid. On arrival, the loaders found an electric scooter not secured in the hold and baggage was used to secure the scooter in place. The duty manager at the station of origin conducted an investigation on behalf of the operator. The ropes and rings provided by the operator were not available on board to restrain the scooter correctly and the loading staff were reminded not to remove tie down devices or restraint material from the aircraft. As a result, the operator provided the station of origin with rings and the station of origin bought their own rope. The loading supervisor was not informed about the mobility scooter until it arrived at the aircraft side. The passenger handling agent was supposed to provide advance notification of the wheelchair passenger to the ramp / loading agents, but this was not done. The duty manager at the station of origin requested that the passenger handling agent conduct briefings on mobility aids to staff and on the correct handling of special loads. No further CAA action possible.

Cause undetermined. During flight, a passenger had plugged their IPAD (Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481) into a socket to charge and placed it into the stowage drawer. A while after it was found the IPADs screen had melted and shattered. Upon landing, engineers were requested to check the socket and no fault was found. Cause undetermined. No further CAA action.

 Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x 500ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who in response confirmed that they were knowledgeable of the requirements, but had believed the consignment would be carried by road and sea (although the consignment had not complied with the requirements for those modes either). No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 14 x 1L of Paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised their procedures were updated to prevent re-occurrence. The relevant staff underwent training in the transport of dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 8 x fibreboard boxes containing Lithium metal batteries contained in equipment, UN3091. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but the air waybill made no mention of the shipment containing Lithium metal batteries. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they had contacted their agent and amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During secondary screening of personal effects a fibreboard box was found to contain a box of Firelighters, solid, UN2623. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The firelighters were removed from the fibreboard box and the consignment was released for transportation. Referred to the Saudi Arabian Authority for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found in a unit load device (ULD) not tied down, with bags packed around it. An investigation by the operator advised the incident occurred because the correct procedures had not been followed. The wheelchair was sent through the wrong channel which confused the ramp agents. The type of battery was not identified or taken into consideration, however, the battery was isolated which prevented an inadvertent activation. An awareness briefing was organised for all ramp staff using the fly ability training. All loading supervisors on station had also been made aware of their responsibilities to do a physical check of all wheelchairs taken from passengers, before loading. No further CAA action required.

<td>Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment consisting of 19 pieces. Twelve packages were found to contain 856 x 200ml (171.2L) of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. A letter was sent to shipper asking for a response and sent a copy of the GHS and CHIP labels document. The shipper apologised and stated that she did not know she was breaching dangerous goods regulations. She acted as an agent for a contact in China, who ordered the aerosols direct from British companies, used her as the delivery address and she arranged shipment to China. The shipper admitted that this was a regular arrangement with the consignee in China and believed they were also ignorant of the regulations. The shipper confirmed that she would either cease sending aerosols or make sure that they were packed by a shipping company. She also stated that she would be more aware of consumer labels on aerosols in the future. No further CAA action taken.</td>

<td>Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 2.25L Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised the incident occurred because new software had been installed which had allowed a limited number of items not suitable for air transport slip through the system. All items for export destinations were found by their experienced packing team but United Kingdom items were handled by less experienced members of staff which allowed items to be mistakenly put forward for air transportation. The shipper introduced new procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.</td>

Passenger error. Whilst security screening of passenger baggage during transfer, a used gas generator (Engines, internal combustion, UN3166) was found. The item was removed from the passenger’s baggage for disposal. The FAA authorities were advised. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, a package containing Dry ice, UN1845 was not secured in aircraft cargo hold. There was no leakage or damage to the package, container, baggage or to the hold. The operator’s cargo agent at the station of origin conducted an investigation. The cargo apologised for the incident. The loadmaster checked the cargo before the package was loaded, but did not check it once it was loaded and the team leader was unable to recall what happened. They were both reminded of the importance of correctly securing dangerous goods and a memo was also issued to all staff. The paperwork was forwarded to the Belgian authorities. No further CAA action possible.

Non-dangerous goods. During security screening, canisters were found appearing to contain Compressed gas, oxidising, n.o.s., UN3156. The canisters were marked with the proper shipping name and UN number but the outer box was not marked or labelled as dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further information from the reporter and shipper advised the canisters were empty. The shipper was contacted by the dangerous goods office and further to a discussion they advised they would amend their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 150ml and 1 x 240ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Email sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening a passenger’s baggage was found to contain 4 shock absorbers, (Articles, pressurized, hydraulic, UN3164). The items were confiscated by security and were later collected by a relative of the passenger. The FAA authorities were advised.

Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 1 x 400ml of Corrosive Liquid, n.o.s., UN1760. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The consignment did display orientation marks on the fibreboard box. The box was opened and a material safety data sheet was found inside, which declared the product as Class 8, Corrosive liquid (Sodium Hydroxide). Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised the incident occurred because an employer receiving training sent the consignment who was unaware of the company procedures. The shipper amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During unloading a consignment of dangerous goods (Life-Saving appliance, self-inflating, UN2990) was found to have been carried without a declaration or NOTOC. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator investigations found the team involved did not realise or note the presence of dangerous goods and failed to react appropriately. The operator verified the personnel had current dangerous goods qualifications and the loading team was debriefed on the correct procedures to avoid reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Prior to push back, the loader received notification from Load Control confirming aircraft loaded with 25Kg of Dry Ice, UN1845 in the rear hold which exceeded the maximum dry ice limit of 14kg. The hold were reopened and the consignment was removed. The operator investigated and responded that the member of staff had not checked the available table to refer to dry ice limitations. The staff member was informed to make reference to the allowance table in future, if the mistake was repeated there would be possible disciplinary action. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading, a consignment of Dry Ice, UN1845 was found on a pallet restrained by only one strap. An investigation by the operator advised the staff member responsible for signing off the unit load device (ULD) had not ensured the pallet had been properly strapped. The staff member was advised to review the ULD build training booklet regarding the procedures for strapping. A chart showing the procedures for strapping was revised to include strapping for dangerous goods cargo. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 1L of Amines, liquid, corrosive, flammable, n.o.s., UN2734. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2010-0608. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised the incident occurred because the shipper were unaware the agent they used would send a domestic consignment by air rather than road. The shipper met with their agent and were made aware of their processes regarding domestic flights. It was also established the agent should have rejected the consignment when it was known it would travel by air because it did not comply with the dangerous goods requirements. The agent confirmed they had put corrective measures in place including a staff disciplinary action and retraining collection staff. The shipper amended their Standard Operating Procedures (SOP) and systems and retrained their staff. The SOP was amended to clearly state and include when using their agent, domestic consignments would be prepared in compliance with the dangerous goods requirements. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 210 x 150ml, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. See also 2012-0280 and 2007-101. The shipper explained that they had not been aware that the courier company they used were directing their products via air transport and as a result, had arranged for training to be provided to their own staff and revised their procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 300ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0169, 2012-0212 and 2012-0444. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they had meetings with their freight agent to ensure they understood the dangerous goods requirements. To prevent further incidents occurring all their overseas consignments were not released for travel until they were authorised by the Production Manager. The shipper also advised their freight agent confirmed they would not transport any of their consignments by air. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x Battery fluid, acid, UN2796. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2008-645. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised the error was due to a training issue. To prevent further incidents occurring the shipper fully briefed all employees in the warehouse department. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 12v Battery, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. Unsecured electric wheelchair. During unloading, an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found not lashed down. The wheelchair was surrounded by baggage to prevent movement. The Operator conducted an investigation and interviewed the team leader of the loading section. Due to the lack of recollection of the incident, it was not possible to establish exactly how the wheelchair was immobilised. The team leader did not engage with his team adequately or supervise their activities. He was instructed to be more vigilant over the supervision of his team and was reminded of the importance of compliance in this area. All mandatory training was up to date and the incident was recorded on the team leader and the team members' file. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During preparation of the consignment, the freight forwarder conducted routine security checks of the 11 pieces making up the consignment. During this screening, the boxes were found to contain a large number of mobile phones with lithium batteries included (Lithium ion batteries, packed in equipment, UN3481). Some of the mobile phones were missing their back covers, exposing the battery. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. A CAA inspector visited the shipper, who was unaware of the requirements. They were duly explained. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a large fibreboard box was found to contain 6 x 25Kg UN specification fibreboard boxes, containing Environmentally hazardous substances, solid, n.o.s., UN3077 and 4 x 25Kg non-UN specification paper sacks which bore a product label indicating they contained Environmentally hazardous substances, liquid, UN3082, but clearly contained a powder. The inner boxes and sacks all bore Class 9 hazard labels but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who in response advised that a new member of staff had prepared the consignment and the supervisor who oversaw their work was off-site at the time. The shipper confirmed that dangerous goods training would be provided to the employee concerned. Further information provided to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival baggage handlers alerted the captain to the way a container of Dry ice, UN1845 had been loaded. It was unsecured, tilted towards its side at approximately a 40 degree angle, with other freight piled around it. The container was undamaged and there was no evidence of hold contamination. Operator investigating. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain three glass bottles with small amounts of Phenol, solid, UN1671, Camphor, UN2717 and Mesityl oxide, UN1229. 2012-0672 25/05/2012 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. During freight checks a consignment of Dry Ice, UN1845 was found to be insecure. The Unit load device (ULD) was offloaded. Operator investigated and found the staff member responsible for completing the build of the ULD had not followed correct procedures. A poor performance report has been placed on his file. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During hold inspection a Unit load device (ULD) contained a corrosive consignment of Mercury, UN2809 which had to be offloaded. This caused the flight to be delayed while the aircraft was pushed from the stand and re-trimmed. Operator investigated and found the flight planner had missed the dangerous goods and as a result the flight plan was processed as showing no dangerous goods. The staff member responsible was placed on a disciplinary monitor. No further CAA action required.

2012-0633 27/05/2012 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. As Unit load device (ULD) was offloaded, it was noted that 8 x 4.5L of Paint related material, UN1263 and one fibreboard box containing 0.0.15Kg of Receptacles, small, containing gas, UN2037 was not secure. Rebuild was required to make it fit-to-fly. Operator investigated and because no photos were taken by the reporting area it was impossible to determine the route cause. The crew that built the ULD have been made aware of the incident and insist the unit was fit-to-fly when it left the cargo. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. During transit a Unit load device was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. There was no record of this on the NOTOC. Operators investigation revealed the dangerous goods were originally not listed on the NOTOC as the forwarder had not mentioned the dangerous goods when pre-booking carriage of the consolidation. To prevent reoccurrence the reservation team would double check all freight from the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Operator investigated and because the reporting area did not take photos and did not raise an incident it was impossible to determine the route cause. The crew who built the Unit load device were made aware of the incident but insist the unit was fit-to-fly when it left cargo. No further investigation was possible so the incident was closed. No further CAA action.
Undeclared dangerous goods. The head loader informed the turn around manager before loading that a Unit load device (ULD) had a Dry Ice label. The turn around manager checked with Load Control who after investigation found the consignment contained 9Kg of Dry Ice, UN1845. Operator investigated and found the root cause of this incident was due to the team leader taking over the flight from one of his agents on duty that day and not checking. The team leader has been advised of his error and of the importance to double check. No further CAA action required.

Improper preparation of an electric wheelchair. A passenger boarded the aircraft carrying a large wheelchair battery. The battery was re-installed to the wheelchair in the hold. Operator investigated and found staff had not been vigilant and not intercepted the passenger at the gate. New procedures were implemented to ensure immobilisation. A presentation was made to staff on the safety carriage of wheelchairs and staff were reminded to be more vigilant. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 150ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 1 x 150ml of Paint, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2012-0407. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they had developed a system to handle the requirements of dangerous goods but would develop it further in order to prevent further incidences occurring and enhance the training for the relevant staff. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 37L of Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. In response, the Managing Director stated that the consignment was meant for road transportation and that their freight forwarder did not inform them that they used a third party for the shipment, which was offered for air transport. The shipper discussed the incident with the freight forwarder and amended its internal procedures to establish the mode of transport used before they passed any consignments to them. No further CAA action possible.

Suspected incorrectly packed lithium batteries. During an inspection by an inspector from the Netherlands Authorities, a black hard-plastic equipment case was noticed to display dangerous goods markings and labels indicating it contained Lithium metal batteries, UN3090. The case bore a Class 9 hazard label, a lithium battery handling label and a cargo aircraft only label and the consignment was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However, the black case did not bear any UN specification markings. Inside the case was some foam padding together with 20 fibreboard tubes, each containing a long plastic tube containing lithium batteries. It appeared that the terminals has not been protected from short circuit. The consignment was being sent from Congo to Tanzania via Paris, but had been mis-routed via Schiphol. It appeared however that the black case, possibly with the batteries, had originally been shipped to Congo from the UK. Referred to Netherlands authorities. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During flight, a passenger advised cabin crew they were carrying Taser equipment. The Taser was confiscated by the cabin crew and secured in a padlocked cart and handed to security when they landed. The passenger was met by the police on arrival and explained the gravity of the event. The passenger advised he worked for Taser and the equipment he was carrying was for customer demonstration purposes. The operator confirmed dangerous goods notices were present at check-in and have raised concerns with security at the airport of departure. Appropriate actions taken by the operator. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who responded by stating the incident was due to human error and measures had now been taken to prevent recurrence. A further meeting was held between the shipper and their Health and Safety Consultant which advised of additional processes required within the area. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 400L of Oxygen, compressed, UN1072. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2012-0543, 2011-0189, 2011-0139 and 2011-0137. Letter sent to freight forwarder. No response received. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 198g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 4 plastic bags of 50 sachets of Solids containing flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN3175. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Ground staff were uncertain over the type of batteries whether lithium batteries or not, so consignment was refused. Operator investigated and found the passengers baggage was removed from the hold. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. During loading it was noticed a consignment of 21Kg of Dry Ice, UN1845 was not shown on the Captain's NOTOC. The maximum ice allowable on this aircraft was 20Kg so the consignment had to be untied and offloaded delaying the departure. The freight booking clerk had tasked to identify the consignment as dangerous goods on the freight reservation system, so was rebriefed on this requirement. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 500ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passengers bag was found to contain 4 x 708g of Aerosol, flammable, UN1950 which was for non-toiletry use and therefore forbidden. The dangerous goods were confiscated. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 400ml of Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2010-0398. Letter sent to shipper, but no response was received. The incident was closed incorrectly on 29 June 2012 because a letter received in relation to a different incident was used to close this incident. Due to the small quantity within the aerosol and the length of time involved, a standard warning letter was sent to the shipper reminding them of the regulations and that we did not receive a response to the original letter. No further CAA action taken.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 445g of Butane, UN1011. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2006-0190. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action appropriate.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 14 x 458ml of Aerosols, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See 2011-0151. Letter sent to shipper. After three chaser letters and finally no response to the final letter. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 10L of Adhesive, UN1133. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised the incident occurred because they were unaware of the requirements. To prevent further incidents occurring they sub-contracted a Dangerous Goods Safety Advisor to audit their use of dangerous goods and to ensure they comply with the regulations. They also sub-contracted the services of an IATA agent who are approved in dangerous goods for air freight. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 gas cylinders, UN1013 and UN1006 in passenger baggage. The items were removed and confiscated and the operator advised the passenger of the dangerous goods regulations. Letter sent to passenger. No further CAA action required.
Leakage of dangerous goods. Inbound dangerous goods shipment was observed to have a small wet area on outer packaging containing 3 x 250mL plastic bottles of Diesel fuel, UN1202. Further investigation found that one inner packaging plastic bottle had leaked. There was no limited quantity label or orientation labels on the package. The Proper Shipping Name was not marked on the outer package. The quantity was declared in Kg instead of litres on the dangerous goods transport document. The sequence of information and air validation certification statement on the dangerous goods transport document were incorrect because a very old IATA dangerous goods transport document had been used. The person that conducted the acceptance check only had training applicable to shippers. Operator verified that heli-admin and helideck crew had current basis dangerous goods training records. 2012-0662 06/06/2012 Stansted

Unsecured dangerous goods. During inspection of hold 5 following arrival dangerous goods were found unsecured. Cargo had been buried under return blankets and although the hold had 735Kg, it was not volumetrically full. Operator investigated and found the supervisor signed the NOTOC but did not verify final loading and restraining of the dangerous goods. The loading supervisor had been withdrawn from duties and undertaken refresher training on dangerous goods and loading supervision. No further CAA action required.

2012-0670 06/06/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 6floz and 1 x 4floz of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 500ml of Acetone and 1 x 500ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they had an established process with their agent to ensure dangerous items were not sent by air, however, the consignment was sent by air in error. To prevent further incidents occurring the shipper and agent revised their procedures to ensure all future consignment were sent by road and sea. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a life jacket (Life saving appliance, self inflating, UN2990). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain about 500g of Sodium hydroxide, solid, UN1823 and 3Kg of Paraformaldehyde, UN2213. The consignment was not labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However, the outer packaging did display the applicable UN numbers in diamonds and these were included on the air waybill together with the chemical names of the substances, all of which was not noticed by the freight forwarder. Letter sent to shipper (a university), who claimed that prior to sending the consignment, they had spoken to the freight forwarder and been advised to place the markings on the box and descriptions on the air waybill. This was contrary to the normal procedures of the freight forwarder, who would normally approve customers wishing to ship dangerous goods. As a result of the incident, the university advised they would provide additional training to relevant departments and ensure that dangerous goods packages would be assessed by a DGSA prior to shipping. No further CAA action required.

Suspected undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to be labelled 'hazardous waste'. Paperwork accompanying the goods indicated that the consignment contained 5 x 29Kg steel-wool cartridges used for screening silver contaminates from photographic chemicals. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 0.74L of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Electric wheelchair loaded in hold 5 tied to the net only, no tag and no spreaders. Operator investigated and revealed there was no prior knowledge that the wheelchair was travelling on the flight. The staff knew the wheelchair needed to be restrained but as it was unexpected no ropes or spreaders were used. Staff under went additional training to ensure all understood that electric wheelchairs must be disabled and properly secured. All staff were briefed and required to sign off the read and sign file. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. On checking a wheelchair was found to be only contained by one strap in Unit load device (ULD) with four other wheelchairs. Operator investigated which revealed the loadmaster had been briefed and the training records for staff had been checked. The conclusion of this investigation showed a judgement error and procedures had not been followed. Refresher training was implemented for loading staff so this type of occurrence did not happen again. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Upon further investigation a material safety data sheet stated the consignment complied with Special Provision A67, therefore, the consignment was not subject to the dangerous goods requirements. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 250ml, 1 x 200ml, 1 x 400ml and 1 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 100ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950 and 25ml of Acetone, UN1090. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0410, 2011-0286 and 2011-0261. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised their procedures were not adhered to by their customer. To prevent further incidents occurring an example of the incident would be used for training purposes to further enhance the operator skills at identifying dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

2012-0682 13/06/2012 Heathrow

Loading error. Loading crew noticed when checking the cargo 2 consignments of Dry Ice, UN1845 were in the forward hold. There was no mention of the special load on the load plan or NOTOC. Operator investigated and found although no mention was made on the NOTOC this was rectified and a new NOTOC raised to show the dangerous goods. Handling staff have received training to prevent this happening again. No further CAA action required.

2012-0703 13/06/2012 East Midlands

Not dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain what appeared to be a cylinder of Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who explained that the item was in fact an expansion vessel used in hot water storage systems and did not contain a gas under pressure. No further CAA action required.

2012-0683 13/06/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 20 x small butane gas cartridges, UN1011. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who explained that the incident resulted from a 24hr delivery service being used rather than a 48hr service. Further information sent to shipper reminding them that the courier company used had a policy of not accepting any dangerous goods and that whichever company was used, the package had still not been in compliance with either the sea or air transport requirements. No further CAA action required.

A shipment of radioactive material excepted package (UN2910) was carried in contravention of the operators policy of not carrying radioactive material, established as an Operator Variation in the ICAO Technical Instructions. In addition, the operator's internal special handling code was incorrect. Operator's investigation established the incident was caused by a combination of staff error and system failure. To prevent recurrence the manager responsible instructed staff and ground handling staff about the Operator Variation in force. No further CAA action necessary.

Unsecured dangerous goods. When the crew leader opened hold 5 door Dry Ice, Un1845 was found to be not tied down. Operator investigated which revealed the ramp supervisor offloaded two cargo containers, one container was replaced with a baggage container, the other with another cargo container. Some courier bags were offloaded and 6 first class bags in Hold 5. Due to this he failed to check that the dangerous goods had been secured. The ramp supervisor had been briefed and told safety must not be compromised even if this results in a delay in departure. Staff would be retrained so prevent this type of occurrence happening again. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a pot containing Cartridges, small arms, UN0012. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Contacted reporter for details of why put forward for air transport. The reporter responded stating the courier had missed the hazard labels and he had received a warning and placed on his file. In addition he retook the dangerous goods awareness course. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products, UN1266 totalling 1.065L, 1 x 125g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and Flammable liquids, n.o.s., UN1993 totalling 30ml. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain various items of Perfumery products, UN1266 and Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Several letters were sent to freight forwarder but no responses were received. Following a visit to the freight forwarder, further preventative measures will be put into place to prevent recurrence, including additional website information, customer declaration form and staff to undertake dangerous goods training.

Documentation error. A consignment of Dry ice, UN1845 was sent to an aircraft for loading but was not recorded on the NOTOC. This was due to a failure by freight booking staff to identify the consignment as dangerous goods on the freight booking system. Personnel re-briefed to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action necessary.
Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a unit load device (ULD) opened at the workstation found 4 fibreboard boxes x 12Kg G, 2 fibreboard boxes x 20.5Kg G and 1 fibreboard box x 6.5Kg G of Consumer commodity ID8000 freight had not been secured and had moved in flight, with some of the freight on its side. Operator investigated and found a staff member failed to properly secure the goods, the strapping of the cargo was found to be inadequate. The cause of the incident was down to human error. To prevent reoccurrence the employee has been retrained and reprimanded. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening an Airbag system for a Honda vehicle was discovered in a passengers baggage. The dangerous goods were removed from the baggage and picked up by relatives. Passenger of Non UK nationality. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. During the unloading of the hold a wheelchair battery was found unsecure in the hold amongst baggage. Operator investigated and found the incident occurred due to human error and confusion. The ground handling stated there was no requirement for any staff to disconnect the battery from the wheelchair, unless they were told it was a lithium battery. Corrective action has been taken where staff have been made aware of procedures when handling electric mobility devices. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Battery, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2007-095, 2010-0320, 2010-0838 and 2012-0751. Letter sent to shipper (see 2012-0751). Following a visit to the shipper, the material safety data sheet held was incorrect for the type of battery shipped and they had not followed the correct procedures for air transpiration. It was advised that their supplier were replacing the former lead acid battery with a lithium ion model as per the safety datasheet held. As a result, the person responsible for shipping will undertake dangerous goods by air training and procedures will be revised to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2011-1163 and 2012-0225. Letter sent to shipper, who responded stating this incident occurred due to human error. Staff have been briefed so no further incidents will occur. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 13.4L cylinder of Helium, compressed, UN1046. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 5L of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993, 2 x 1L of Paint related material and 1 x 2L of Turpentine substitute. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Misloaded dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., totalling 24L of UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator investigated and responded that the loading of the ULD was human error due to ramp supervisor not opening ULD to inspect and changing ULD number thinking paperwork incorrect, so incorrect ULD loaded. Retraining and briefings carried out for all staff involved and performance review for supervisor. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they were aware of the regulations but the incident occurred because there was an oversight by one of their staff. To prevent further incidents occurring they reviewed their procedures to ensure future oversights occurring. They reaffirmed to all their staff the mandatory requirements for dangerous goods consignments and the consequences of non-compliance. They also advised they would look at alternative options for the distribution of dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0122 & 0115) Letter sent to shipper and as a result of this and previous incidents, further preventative measures have been put in place at various locations to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 670mls of Amines, liquid, corrosive, flammable, n.o.s., UN2734 and 1 x 330ml of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who responded stating this was human error and had the transport co-ordinator been aware of the contents the dangerous goods would have been transported differently. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products totalling 230ml, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Shipper. No further CAA action required.

Damaged dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a passenger found they had dropped their mobile phone into the seat, which was struck halfway in the upright position. An engineer was requested who dissembled the seat and found the mobile phone was completely distorted and the lithium ion battery almost cut in half, which could have resulted in a fire. Appropriate operator action taken, no further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment containing 9kg of Dry Ice, UN1845 was found unsecured in the hold. Operator investigation found the root causes of this incident to be a lack of supervision, co-ordination and communication. The staff involved were re-briefed and a read and sign process was used to alert of the need to secure dangerous goods and confirm this has been achieved. No further CAA action required.
Misloaded dangerous goods. Prior to loading, it was found that a Unit Load Device (ULD) containing 1 x 1kg of Corrosive solid, acidic, organic, n.o.s., UN3261 and 2 x 15.14L of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993 and 1 x 15.14L of Xylenes, UN1307 and 2 x 20L of Extracts, flavouring, liquid, UN1197 and 3 x 1L of Extracts, flavouring, liquid, UN1197 were not secured correctly. The build card for the ULD was not available. Polystyrene was used to ensure the dangerous goods were not damaged and it appeared to have become loose during transportation from the cargo facility to the aircraft stand. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Report sent to Italian Authority. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain I x 500ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s, UN1993 and 1 x 75g Solids containing flammable liquid, n.o.s (contains turpentine substitute), UN3175. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper no response required. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable totalling 3.375L, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded by email stating that an investigation was carried out. The result of the investigation revealed that staff failed to recognise the aerosols as dangerous goods. New procedures were put in place and staff were retrained so they were aware of dangerous goods shipments by air and to prevent similar occurrences. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival, 1 x Battery-Powered vehicle, UN3171 was found unsecured in the forward hold. The Ground Handling Agent carried out an investigation on behalf of the operator. The root causes to the incident were that the dispatcher did not include a ‘Remark’ about the mobility aid as part of the flight data, which would have informed the ramp team that a mobility aid was onboard and to ensure that the appropriate equipment and staff were available at the gate when the mobility aid arrived. The Ramp Team were made aware of the mobility aid by the Dispatcher at the gate. The tie-down equipment provided by the operator was not available, therefore to prevent a delay, the Team Leader secured the wheelchair in place by blocking it with baggage. The Ground Handling Agent implemented a procedure to issue PRMs with a securing kit to take with them to the gate. The Ramp Team Leader and the Dispatcher received disciplinary action. The Ground Handling Agent implemented a series of procedures for passenger handling and ramp staff to ensure that all the details about the mobility aid were communicated to Operations and to the Airside Shift Manager. No further CAA action required.
NOTOC error. Dangerous goods carried without acceptance check or NOTOC. During transit a Unit load device was found to contain a consignment of dry ice, which was not recorded on the outbound NOTOC. This had been carried on previous sectors without a NOTOC. Error was made by cargo booking agent who had failed to identify the consignment as dangerous goods on the freight booking system. Personnel involved were briefed. No further CAA action required.

2012-0733 24/06/2012 Baltimore
Dangerous goods carried by passenger. During security screening, a passenger's hold baggage was found to contain 1 x 567g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The aerosol was removed and the passenger informed. No further CAA action required.

2012-0741 25/06/2012 Stansted
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x
330ml and 1 x 150 ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, and 1 x 50ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0795 25/06/2012 Heathrow
Passenger error. During boarding, a passenger advised she had brought a disposable barbecue (Carbon, activated, UN1362) on board. The item was removed from the aircraft and was left with the turn around manager. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

2012-0738 25/06/2012 East Midlands
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 750ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0739 25/06/2012 East Midlands
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 500ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0745 26/06/2012 Stansted
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x
40ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0746 26/06/2012 Stansted
Passenger error. During boarding, a passenger advised she had brought a disposable barbecue (Carbon, activated, UN1362) on board. The item was removed from the aircraft and was left with the turn around manager. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.
2012-0787 26/06/2012 Gatwick

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival, one Battery-Powered vehicle, UN3171 was found unsecured in the rear hold. The Ground Handling Agent at the station of origin interviewed the members of staff involved and the reason the mobility aid was not tied down was because there was no space in the hold and the staff did not ask to use another compartment area. An internal instruction was issued to advise using hold four in the future. There was no damage reported to the wheelchair. No further CAA action required.

2012-0740 26/06/2012 East Midlands

2012-0742 26/06/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 156g Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0743 26/06/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Also 2012-0416. No further CAA action appropriate.

2012-0744 26/06/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 20 x Gas cartridges, UN2037. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0747 27/06/2012 East Midlands Airport

Passenger error. During transfer baggage screening a butane/propane gas cylinder was found in a passenger's checked baggage. The cylinder was confiscated. Operator took appropriate action.

2012-0794 27/06/2012 Aberdeen

2012-0750 28/06/2012 Stansted

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Dangerous goods in machinery, UN3363. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The outer package was dry but the engines were visibly wet and with a strong fuel smell emanating. See also 2007-095, 2010-0320, 2010-0838 and 2012-0697. Letter sent to shipper. Following a visit to the shipper, they advised that the engine had been purged and believed the smell reported was the cleaning agent and not fuel. The shipper was made aware of Special Provision A70 and if the requirements are met they were advised of the words 'not restricted' to be placed on the air waybill for future consignments. In view of this and previous incidents, the person responsible for shipping will undertake dangerous goods by air training and procedures will be revised to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading a staff member noticed an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered equipment, UN3171) had been thrown on top of the bags and was unrestrained. Operator investigated and found the loader was concerned as the wheelchair was small and light it would be damaged if put on the floor of the Unit load device and baggage moved in flight. Correct procedure was not followed. A new procedure was put in place to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, two fibreboard boxes were found to contain 48 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable. The outer boxes were marked with a UN1950 ADR label but the boxes bore no other dangerous goods markings or labelling and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 2kg Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 1 x 4L Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 50ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 1l of Alcohols, n.o.s., UN1987. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products, UN1266, totalling 396ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

NTOC error. Ethanol solution, UN1170; Nitrocellulose membrane filters, UN3270; and Dry Ice, UN1845 were not recorded on the NTOC. ULD was tagged appropriately. Operator investigated and found the air waybill for the shipment had been left off the worksheet and the NTOC. The staff involved had not checked the consignment correctly because they were running late. This incident occurred due to human error due to workload at the time. New processes have been introduced to double check work and initial worksheets. All staff would now complete a read and sign document to prevent similar occurrences. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival the baggage container was opened to reveal an Electric mobility scooter (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171). On inspection it was clear that the scooter was switched on and covered with baggage. Operator investigated and found that the loaders had folded down the wheelchair, it was very small no bigger than a checked piece of luggage. They confirmed the power source had been disconnected and they placed baggage either side to secure it in place. Although the team had been trained on proper electric mobility device handling, they felt due to the unusual size of the scooter it did not require straps for securing. There are new procedures and ramp procedures in place to stop this type of occurrence happening again. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Whilst offloading loose-loaded cargo, 26 boxes of Lithium ion batteries, UN3480, were found unsecured. None of the boxes were found damaged. The Operator investigated and found the ground handling staff had overlooked the requirement for the restraint of these items. A new process was put in place to avoid recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 48 x 226g of Refrigerant gas R 134a, UN3159. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Canadian authority for investigation. Following a visit to the freight agent, the Canadian Authority issued a ‘Notice of Infraction’ and advised the goods could be released. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. This shipment was tendered for transport and was checked by the agent. Unfortunately this shipment travelled unmanifested. Error reported and logged. No further CAA action possible.

Passenger error. Whilst securing the cabin for landing it was noticed by cabin crew that a passenger had a lighter refuel can in their hand, this was confiscated. The passenger was warned verbally. The Passenger was a student travelling under a group booking. No further CAA action required.
Improper carriage of electric mobility aid battery. Upon arrival, loading teams were unable to locate the electric mobility aid in any of the baggage bins and discovered the chair had been carried in the forward wardrobe. The cabin crew were unaware it was a powered wheelchair. Operator investigated and found that the passenger had taken action to prevent the wheelchair from operating by taking off the battery. Non-spillable batteries of collapsible devices are required to be carried in the hold, having been securely packed. The turn around manager had not followed procedures and staff had not seem a collapsible battery powered wheelchair before. Staff have been retrained on loading of electrical wheelchairs/mobility aids and briefed on the importance of correct handling. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 26ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Non-dangerous goods carried whilst bearing hazard labels. During transit 2 x 9.3Kg cylinders were noticed to be labelled as containing Refrigerant gas, n.o.s, UN1078 and bore Division 2.2 hazard labels. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, but shipping documentation described the cylinders as ‘clean’. Discussion with the shipper established that the cylinders were empty but they claimed they had not affixed hazard labels. Shipper acknowledged that the cylinders should have not been shipped whilst marked with UN number and Proper Shipping Name. Operator and their handling agents investigated and found that staff had failed to notice and remove hazard labels from the empty gas cylinders. The handling agents have each issued an internal memo reminding staff of the requirements and to be more vigilant. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 1 x 15ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Alkaloids solid n.o.s., (Methotrexate), UN1544. The consignment was marked and labelled but the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Email sent to shipper, who responded by stating the incident occurred due to a misunderstanding on the msds between the manufacturer and the shipper. A new booking process had been implemented to cover dangerous goods shipments, so in future more checks would mean no further incidents of this nature reoccurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 42 Section II Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The consignment did not bore a Lithium Battery handling label and was not declared as non-restricted as per Packing Instruction 965. DGI visited the shipper on 27 July 2012. The shipper had two online businesses and advised that he only shipped replacement Lithium ion batteries by road within the UK. It was established that the Watt hour rating of the batteries were less than 100Wh. The shipper apologised and wanted to prevent a recurrence. When the shipper was informed that the consignment was snagged, he obtained handling labels and the DGO provided him with ICAO and IATA guidance material to assist him with labelling and packaging future consignments. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a Seat-belt pretensioner, UN3268. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who phoned and emailed stating the incident occurred due to human error. All staff were made aware of the dangers associated with this product and other dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products, UN1266 totalling 612ml, and 1 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See 2012-0711. Letter sent to shipper, who phoned and emailed stating the incident occurred due to human error. All staff were made aware of the dangers associated with this product and other dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products, UN1266 totalling 612ml, and 1 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0699. No further CAA action required.
Passenger error. During security screening, a passengers bag was found to contain a fuel bottle containing fuel. Operator investigated and stated the FAA had been informed, the passenger was of non UK origin, and the items had been confiscated. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 14L of Helium, compressed, UN1046. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During routine screening a passenger baggage was found to contain 2 x 500g of Polyamines, liquid, corrosive, n.o.s., UN2735. The dangerous goods were confiscated by the security staff. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. On arrival an electric mobility aid was found inadequately secured and not protected from potential damage by the movement of baggage (it was covered by cases). Operator investigated and found the ground handler believed he had tied down the wheelchair correctly. To prevent this happening again measures have been taken for wheelchairs to always be tied down with spreaders regardless of the weight. Also wheelchairs would be unplugged and power cables for them securely packed away. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A box of dry ice was not tied down. Operator investigated and found the incident occurred due to human error. The crew leader undertook a dangerous goods training course. The operator’s manual was updated to state that all goods must be tied down irrespective of the hold was volumetrically full. Staff were interviewed and were monitored for a period of time. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Whilst offloading hold 5, 2 boxes of Dry Ice, UN1845 were not secured. Operator investigated and found the loader believed it acceptable to restrain the dangerous goods by surrounding it with baggage, cargo or mail. In conclusion the operator had issued a read and sign procedure to restrain all dangerous goods. All staff were briefed and the policy implemented. Sufficient tie down rings and rope to support the carriage of dangerous goods was provided. No further CAA action required.

Suspected undeclared dangerous goods. During routine inspection of a wooden box, declared as containing Engines, internal combustion, flammable liquid powered, UNI166, it was noticed that there was a note attached to the box stating that it also contained '1 x drum highly flammable liquid', which was not included on the dangerous goods transport document. Upon further inspection, the box was found to contain 1 x 5L metal jerrican, marked as containing Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. Upon further enquiries, the packing company explained that the jerrican contained used engine oil that was being shipped for analysis and the markings on the jerrican and the wording on the outside of the box did not relate to the contents, but they had not removed or obscured them. No further CAA action required.

2012-0785 04/07/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared and leaking dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 236ml of Corrosive liquid n.o.s (Ammonium Hydroxide), UN1760. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The Operator took appropriate action. No further CAA action possible.

2012-0776 04/07/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 5L tin of Paint, UN1263. The box was marked with UN1263 on two sides but there were no other dangerous goods labels or marking and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0597. Email sent to agent and letter sent to shipper. The agent responded and advised an interview with the member of staff responsible established the dangerous goods labels were missed. Notes were placed on their file and they were give a written warning and it was also arranged for them to re-sit a dangerous good awareness course. A response from the shipper advised it was not their normal practise to ship dangerous goods and confirmed they would not be shipping them unless they received the appropriate dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

2012-0778 04/07/2012 East Midlands

2012-0840 05/07/2012 Palma, Spain

Passenger error. Whilst boarding, two passengers brought to the attention of the crew that there were Lighters, containing flammable gas UN1057 in their checked baggage. The passengers retrieved the lighters from their baggage. The flight was delayed and the Captain made an announcement about dangerous goods and carrying lighters in checked baggage. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. This shipment was tendered for transport and passed fit to fly. Unfortunately the warehouse staff forgot to add this shipment to the pallet tag resulting in the shipment travelling unmanifested. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consolidation of two consignments was found to contain Printing ink, UN1210 totalling 140L. The consignments were marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods, but were not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0030, 2008-570, 2008-423, 2007-228. Email sent to freight agent and letter was sent to shipper. The shipper responded stating the incident occurred due to human error. As a result the shipper put in place additional checks which were carried out prior to despatch and they provided copies of dangerous goods by air revalidation certificates for staff. Refresher training was carried out for drivers and additional checks were put in place at their warehousing facility. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products, UN1266 totalling 750ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. After aircraft pushed off stand the turnaround manager called load control to advise that 10Kg of dangerous goods that had been loaded into the bulk hold was missing from the load plan and NOTOC. The consignment was identified as 8Kg of Dry Ice, UN1845. Operators investigation revealed that cargo had not correctly identified the dangerous goods on the manifesting system. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival it was reported that a consignment was found to contain toxic, dangerous goods. The consignment was not secure and baggage had been packed around it. Operator investigated and found the team leader was interviewed about this incident. He had not strapped the barrels individually as per procedures. His performance was monitored and he retook dangerous goods training. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On opening a container a Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171 was found unsecured. It was strapped down incorrectly marking the seat and was not on spreaders. The knob was missing from the control lever and the battery had not been isolated. Operator investigated and found the correct procedures were not adhered to. The incident occurred due to staff error. The correct procedures were now in operation and a read and sign system was introduced. These measures would prevent any future issues with loading and securing wheel chairs. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival a box of Dry Ice, UN1845 was found unsecure and had moved whilst the aircraft was taking off and landing. The box was found upside down. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Perishables and dry ice were not tied down securely in hold 5 and were found on their sides. Operator investigated, the loading staff involved were interviewed and their training records were checked to be up to date. The staff were briefed to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

2012-0836 06/07/2012 East Midlands

2012-0800 06/07/2012 Dewsbury

2012-0801 06/07/2012 Dewsbury

2012-0904 06/07/2012 Bristol

NOTOC error. When the aircraft arrived onto the stand, the loader queried to the turnaround manager that there was no record of Dry Ice, UN1845 on the NOTOC. The aircraft was late loading and the NOTOC was changed before flight out. Operator investigated and found the incident occurred due to staff error. The member of staff responsible was reminded they must check the commodity of consignments (dangerous goods) on the actual airway bill and act in accordance with procedures. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival an electric wheelchair was found unsecured and the brakes were not engaged. There was damage to the wheelchair, which was reported to the ground engineer, who passed the information on to the Captain. The handling agent at the station of origin investigated the incident, which was a result of human error. The Head of Ramp Handling and Cargo Department explained that it was 'rush hour' at the time of the turnaround and the baggage loaders received the information about the mobility aid at the last moment. The loaders were given instructions by the Team Leader, but he was not present at all times and as a result, the wheelchair was not checked that it was loaded correctly. No further CAA action possible.

Leaking dangerous goods. Upon arrival and break-down of a pallet a fibreboard box was found to be leaking. The box was one of 22 boxes of dangerous goods from one consignment on the pallet and the box was declared as containing Dimethyl sulphide, UN1164. The box had been on the base of the pallet and was not over-stowed. The side of the box appeared to have been damaged, possibly by the blade of a forklift. The shipper confirmed that the packaging consisted of a metal can within the outer fibreboard box. Operator investigated and concluded that the damage occurred after the ULD was loaded on the aircraft but before it arrived into arrival cargo building. The exact cause could not be determined, but all stations involved with this consignment had dangerous goods spillage procedures in place. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. Prior to departure, loading staff realised that a ULD containing dangerous goods had been loaded but was not recorded on the NOTOC. ULD was offloaded. Operator to monitor for possible reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

2012-0819 09/07/2012 Tamworth
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 400ml, 1 x 150ml and 1 x 25ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0831 09/07/2012 Stansted
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 3 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The outer box bore a LQ ADR label but there were no other dangerous goods marking or labelling and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0820 09/07/2012 Stansted

2012-0821 09/07/2012 Stansted

2012-0827 09/07/2012 Stansted

2012-0829 09/07/2012 Stansted
Improper carriage of an electric mobility aid. Upon arrival a crew leader found a dry cell wheelchair had been loaded in hold 5. The wheelchair had been tied down but with no spreaders and bags packing around the wheelchair. Operator investigated and found the staff had not used spreaders as they were not readily available. The correct procedures were now implemented to prevent future recurrence. Restraining material including spreaders were readily available for future use and spot checks would be carried out. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 100ml and 4 x 150ml of Flammable liquid n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. An electric wheelchair arrived unsecured with baggage loaded around it. The batteries had fallen out and no spreaders or ropes were used. The operator investigated and found it was not possible to clarify the means by which the wheelchair was immobilised. Staff were distracted which lead the team not to follow instructions correctly. Precautions were now in place to prevent recurrence. Staff training was up to date. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a crew members baggage was found to contain a 400g Soda Stream cylinder (Carbon dioxide), UN1013. The cylinder was removed. Operator's investigation revealed the crew member was interviewed and produced a report confirming how the incident happened. Precautions were made to prevent this happening again. No further CAA action required.

A consignment of Radioactive material, excepted package, UN2911, was offered for carriage contrary to the Operator's policy of not carrying radioactive material. No further CAA action necessary.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During offloading an unsecured consignment was found to contain Dry Ice, UN1845. It was offloaded at the aircraft side by the loading crew. Operator investigated and confirmed the staff member who built the unit load device said the freight was secured. It was possible the freight became loose during transit. The staff member was made aware of the incident. No further CAA action required.

Collapse of non-dangerous goods. During transit goods loaded onto a pallet were noted to have collapsed, so it was broken down and rebuilt. No damage to the dangerous goods was noted. Operator investigated, and a photo of the build appeared to show the ULD was fit to fly. It was suspected that drums containing non-dangerous goods vented in flight causing the build to collapse. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods leading to damaged dangerous. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 24 x 300ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The box contained two shrink wrapped packs and both the inner packs were marked with an ADR black and white diamond label. Further inspection found at least one aerosol had exploded damaging the contents and the outer box. The outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the French authority for investigation. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Life-saving appliances, self inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Life-saving appliances, self inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0372. Following a visit to shipper it was advised that they were unaware that the gas cylinders were classified as dangerous goods. As a result, the shipper has spoken to the manufacturer and advised that in future any life jackets supplied by them will have the gas cylinder removed and will be sourced locally by the customer. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 14L of Helium, compressed, UN1046. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0774. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The inner packaging bore an ADR Limited Quantity and Aerosols marking and the aerosols were each marked with UN1950. The outer packaging was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2012-0329 and 2007-226. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared, leaking, forbidden dangerous goods. When package arrived at the consignee it was discovered it contained a liquid in a glass bottle that was leaking from the lid. The accompanying documentation described the contents as “spearmint oil” and declared it as not dangerous goods. However, the consignment was found to contain 1 glass bottle containing Titanium tetrachloride, UN1838. The bottle was wrapped in bubble-wrap inside a wooden box (not UN specification) and the bubble-wrap showed signs of leakage of the contents. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Details of incident sent to Chinese authorities for investigation and response received advising that the shipper would be dealt with according to Chinese law. No further CAA action required.

Dangerous goods carried by passengers. After boarding, 15 passengers were found to have Fireworks, (party poppers) in their hand luggage. The bags were removed from the overhead lockers and the party poppers removed from the aircraft. Investigation revealed the security officers were not aware of the party poppers in the luggage. As a result development training has taken place to prevent such similar occurrences happening again. The operator carried out an audit to ensure all destinations displayed dangerous goods awareness posters, at check-in and ticket desks. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During loading it was noticed a Unit load device had dangerous goods which were not secured correctly. Operator investigated and found the freight was restrained but not in all directions of travel. The crew were spoken to and advised of the correct methods of securing freight. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening 59 Scotch Guard canisters were discovered and removed from the passengers checked baggage. Operator investigated and provided x-ray details, the baggage was stopped as passing through the xray the operative noted the inner appeared too dense, so was searched. Passenger appears to be of non UK origin. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 400ml and 1 x 100ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 75ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 25g of Sodium Azide, UN1687. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, although the container was marked as ‘toxic and corrosive’. Letter sent to shipper who advised that a new member of staff packed the order and did not follow the procedures. The shipper updated its training records to ensure the proper procedures were followed and to prevent a reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 25g of Sodium Azide, UN1687. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, although the container was marked as ‘toxic and corrosive’. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded stating this was a one off incident and measures were put into place to ensure this would not happen again. In future all materials would be properly inspected prior to despatch to ascertain a proper mode of transport. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 700g and 1 x 500g of Corrosive liquid, n.o.s, UN1760 and 1 x 500g of Environmentally hazardous substance, solid, n.o.s, UN3077. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper investigated the incident and advised that because the vendor did not forward a Material Safety Data Sheet, the products were not flagged as dangerous goods, although the items were marked with UN numbers and hazard markings and the items should not have been despatched. The Product Compliance contact within the company advised that training was reinforced within its warehouses. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x of Dangerous goods in apparatus, UN3363. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator investigated and revealed that the personnel had attempted to drain the fuel control unit but residue had remained. They also identified that the unit was not processed through their goods out department and despatched direct. Further procedures have been implemented to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon landing in the UK the aircraft load team alerted the captain that an electric mobility device had been misloaded. The wheelchair was not secured with tie downs, the battery was disconnected but not protected from short circuit. The operator investigated and found the root cause of the incident was due to human error. The loaders may not have received the mobility aid until just before departure. All staff involved with the incident were advised and have all participated in refresher training. Preventative measures were now in place to stop recurrence. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC error. Just before departure a member of ground staff found a package which contained a film which was clearly marked as dangerous goods. The NOTOC was already delivered stating no notifiable load. The package was removed. Operator investigated and revealed there were no hazard labels on the packages and they looked like general cargo. On closer inspection it was discovered the package contained a film which contained iodine. Although the iodine could have been diluted it still proposed a risk, so the packages were not loaded and returned to the cargo area for formal contact with the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During checks a wheelchair (UN3171) dry battery was loaded inside the Unit load device (ULD). It was not tied down and no spreaders under it, with pieces of luggage. Operator investigated and found the loaders were late in being notified of the wheelchair, and the ULD did not have any straps to secure the item. All staff were now up-to-date with their dangerous goods training. A read and sign log was issued as a reminder for all staff and checks were implemented for double checking ULDs. No further CAA action required.

2012-0852 13/07/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 425g cylinder of Carbon dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0856 14/07/2012 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. During transit a carton of 9Kg of Dry Ice, UN1845 was found unsecured in the bulk hold. Operator investigated and found the loaders were interviewed about the incident and a memo was issued via read and sign process. All staff held up to date dangerous goods training. No further CAA action was required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, an electric wheelchair was found on its side and not lashed down in the hold. The battery was tagged separately, lying loose on its side and also unsecured. The Ground Handling Agent (GHA) carried out an investigation at the departure airport. The reason the wheelchair was not secured was due to human error. The staff members involved were interviewed and disciplined as per the GHA's policy. They were re-trained on wheelchair procedures and completed the One Team One Goal questions. As a preventative measure, the GHA monitored any issues staff flagged up about loading and securing wheelchairs. The necessary equipment was available to the loading staff. There was no damage to the wheelchair reported. No further CAA action possible.

NOTOC error. During pushback it was realised that a NOTOC had not been provide to the flight crew. The presence of flammable liquid onboard was confirmed with load control. The aircraft was returned to stand to collect the NOTOC from the turn around manager. Presenting the NOTOC at the same time as the load sheet would have prevented the need to return to the stand. Operator investigated. No further CAA action required.

2012-0853 15/07/2012 Heathrow

NOTOC error. During departure the turn around manager found a NOTOC unsigned by the Captain for a consignment of flammable liquid. The aircraft was returned to the stand and the NOTOC passed to the captain for signature. Operator investigated and found if the NOTOC had been presented at the same time as the load sheet this would have prevented this occurrence. No further CAA action required.

2012-0862 15/07/2012 Heathrow

No further CAA action required.

2012-0921 16/07/2012 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle), UN3171 was found buried and not tied down under bags and the battery was not isolated. Operator investigated and found the staff in the baggage area did not inform operations that an electrical wheelchair had been loaded. All training records for baggage staff were checked and they were all up to date. Reminders were placed in the baggage area to remind staff of the importance of the procedures. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 47 lithium ion batteries contained in equipment (mobile phones), UN3491. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who explained that he was unaware of any requirements concerning lithium batteries. Further information sent to shipper.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 2 x 10ml and 1 x 9ml of perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Unable to contact shipper as staying in hotel and shipping to himself. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival it was noticed that an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered equipment), UN3171 had not been tied down securely. There was other baggage on top of the wheelchair next to the wheelchair battery. Operator investigated and found the team leader had assumed the wheelchair was a folded walking frame as the tag read "deambulateur electrique". A read and sign procedure was introduced and all staff training was up to date. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 400ml Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2007-239. Letter sent to shipper, who responded and advised the incident occurred due to human error because a member of staff was not aware an aerosol was classed as dangerous goods. To prevent further incidents occurring, they implemented a number of measures to ensure all relevant members of staff were sufficiently aware of the types of product which are classified as dangerous goods. This included provision of appropriate training sessions and reminders, warning signs and a section on dangerous goods in their staff handbook. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment containing 87Kg of Dry Ice, UN1845 was insufficiently secured, which caused damage to other cargo. The operator investigated which revealed the consignment was secured but possibly insufficient strapping used. To prevent reoccurrence the staff member was interviewed and made aware dangerous goods consignments should be secured in all directions. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Passenger had 1L of Isopropyl Alcohol, UN1219 in their possession which was confiscated. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x Perfumery products, UN1266, totalling 400ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Received the shipping form from the shipper on behalf of the customer, which was not signed declaring that the package did not contain dangerous goods as per the Terms and Conditions. Requested an explanation from the courier company as to why the form was not signed. The reason was because the member of staff responsible for the shipment did not check the form before it was despatched. The staff member was made aware of the importance of checking the form. The courier company also confirmed that the perfumes were not found when the package was hand searched. The customer also did not know there were perfumes in the package. Emailed the Finance and Operations Director at the courier company’s head office about the incidents; provided him with a list of the branches where the incidents occurred; the types of dangerous goods and quantities involved, a copy of the shipping form and made suggestions about the information on their website. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a personal effects consignment was found to contain 1 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 31 glass bottles totalling 2.36L of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171 was not tied down securely in the hold. The rope was tied to the seat and across the steering arms thus allowing movement in flight and damaging the soft fabric. The wheels of the scooter had moved off the spreaders. Operator investigated and found this was due to human error. Staff have been retrained on the correct procedure of adding straps and spreaders. The station performance to be monitored. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. Whilst unloading, a cabin sized bag was found leaking a clear fluid from a plastic container of Paint related material, UN1263. The container was marked as flammable, caustic and as UN1263. The Rescue and Fire Fighting Services were called. The operator's engineering service provider also attended the aircraft and confirmed that the aircraft was free from contamination. Also found in the passenger's baggage was an electric portable drill with the battery attached. The passenger was interviewed via a translator and denied having any knowledge of dangerous goods. The check-in agent had pointed to the dangerous goods notice, but the passenger did not understand the question and did not believe what he was carrying was dangerous. The container and liquid were destroyed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised that their procedures for marking and labelling dangerous goods were not followed. To prevent a further incidents occurring they advised their staff the importance of ensuring dangerous goods procedures were followed. No further CAA action required.

2012-0892 20/07/2012 East Midlands

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger had a gas cylinder of Propane, UN1978 in his backpack. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The item was removed by security. Referred to the French authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

2012-0914 21/07/2012 Southampton

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger had 11oz of Rust-Oleum Metallic Paint (Paint, UN1263) and 32oz of Rust-Oleum Protective Enamel (Aerosols, flammable, UN1950). These were removed by the security team. NOTOC of dangerous goods sent to the FAA. Operator investigated and found the passenger was of non UK origin. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the French authority for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 31 x Perfumery products, UN1266 totalling 2.840L. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0889. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 125ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Leaking dangerous goods. During x-ray screening, a consignment was found to contain Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. The consignment contained 4 jerricans, 2 jerricans contained Burst 100, 2 jerricans contained Wet-In, these two had leaked due to insecure lids. Following a visit to the manufacturer, an internal investigation had been carried out and preventative measures put into place to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain various Perfumery products, UN1266, ranging from 5ml to 200ml and 2 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder. Operator took appropriate action. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 75ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 75ml, 2 x 100ml and 2 x 60ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to freight forwarder. Operator took appropriate action. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival it was noticed a fibreboard box of 3.785L of Ethanol solution, UN1170 freight was unsecured and bulging against the door of the unit. Operator investigated and found the outstation had reported a poor build, and found that the restraint was used but it was not possible without photographic evidence to see if this was sufficient. The photos of how the unit arrived clearly show that the restraint was not sufficient and had caused this incident. To prevent reoccurrence staff have been retrained even though their current training was valid. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading, a staff member noticed a pallet with 2 boxes of Dry Ice, UN1845, which was not tied down securely. An investigation by the Operator found all pre-flight procedures were followed. The fit-to-fly check was signed and attached stating all dangerous goods cargo was restrained. It was not possible to establish if there was a problem with the unit because no photographs were available showing the freight was not restrained. The staff member responsible for building the unit was current in their build training. Due to a lack of information it was not possible to say what actions could prevent reoccurrence. Staff involved in the building and checking of units would do their utmost to prevent poor builds. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival the loading crew noticed that two barrels had tipped over. Operator investigated and found the Unit load device was of poor quality, but without photographic evidence no further action could be taken. All staff responsible for building dangerous goods freight were trained and re-validation training was carried out on a regular basis. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a travel bag was found to contain 1 x 50ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2012-0905. Operator took appropriate action. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a travel bag was found to contain 5 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266 and 1 x 200ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 7 x 250ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 7 x 19ml of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator took appropriate action. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The air waybill stated 'not restricted'. Further to an investigation by the Dutch authority they advised the shipper was given an official warning and they had closed the case. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During passenger security screening, two small boxes of fireworks were found in a passenger’s bag. The items were confiscated and passed to the operator. Warning letter and travelling safely leaflet sent to passenger.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 32 x 15ml, 7 x 200ml and 6 x 250ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 3 x 30ml, 1 x 60ml and 3 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 118ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0929. The shipper identified that the product was not flagged appropriately to warn the staff at the distribution centre and a Material Data Sheet was not available prior to despatch. The shipper worked with its Health and Safety managers in the UK to ensure dangerous goods training at the distribution centres was consistent and that there were standardised procedures for dealing with hazard markings. New members of staff "walked" through the processes in the warehouse rather than learning the job in the classroom. It was emphasised that the shipper must not rely too heavily on a tool to identify dangerous goods before they were despatched, but it must improve internal preventative measures within its warehouses and to improve dangerous goods training of its staff. No further CAA action possible.

Radioactive material consigned contrary to operator policy. During transit checks of a package containing dry ice, it was noticed to also be labelled as containing Radioactive material, excepted package, UN2910. Although the air waybill (completed by the freight forwarder) contained the required information concerning the dry ice, it didn't contain details of the radioactive material. The operator had a policy of not carrying radioactive material. No further CAA action necessary.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. The documentation showed discrepancies. Operating investigated and states consignment was packaged as PI966 under Special Provision A123. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival two electric wheelchairs were found unsecured within a ULD. The head loader was interviewed and he stated he thought having the two wheelchairs together in the one ULD was sufficient as they had their brakes on. The head loader was de-briefed by his management and verified to have a current dangerous goods training qualification. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival a consignment containing Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, was found unsecured in the hold. Requested further information from the operator. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During transit, it was noticed by the handling agent that a consignment of Magnetized material, UN2807, was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Magnetized material only requires a dangerous goods transport document if the field strength causes a compass deflection of more than 2 degrees at a distance of 4.6 metres, but would then require an approval from the States of Origin and of the Operator. No approval was shown on the dangerous goods transport document and none were granted for the consignment. Measurements confirmed the actual field strength required such approvals. An explanation was requested from the shipper together with a copy of the training record for the person who signed the dangerous goods transport document. The person who signed the dangerous goods transport document explained that they worked for a packing company rather than the shipper and had simply been asked to raise a transport document for a consignment of magnetised material. They had received dangerous goods training, but only in category 6 (acceptance), not category 1 (shippers). The operator advised that the consignment would be re-packed to reduce the field strength to a level that would not require a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 20 x 6g of Gas cartridges, UN2037. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Shipper contacted to ascertain if cartridges meet SP A98. No response received. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 10 x 300ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. An inner box bore an ADR LQ label but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 cylinder of Oxygen, compressed, UN1072. Whilst the cylinder bore class 2.2 and division 5.1 hazard labels, the outer packaging was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who explained that they normally sent cylinders in an un-charged state, but due to the person who normally dealt those shipments, an error was made, as a result of which, the company's procedures were reviewed to prevent further similar incidents. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 3 accumulators, was found to contain 3 x 10L cylinders of Compressed gas, n.o.s, UN1956. The cylinders all bore Division 2.2 hazard labels but the outer packaging was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who explained that the consignment was intended for a destination within the UK mainland. The shipper's transport provider had recently introduced a new transport booking system and had changed the default transport method from road to air, which had not been noticed by the shipper's staff, meaning that the consignment was inadvertently sent for air transport. As a result, the shipper advised they had amended their processes. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1x 500ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 500ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 1L of Corrosive liquid, acidic, inorganic, n.o.s., UN3264. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded stating the consignment had been sent in error and precautions had been taken to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 450ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 1 x 50ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Operator error. Prior to aircraft loading, it was noticed that a consignment bore Radioactive material, excepted package, UN2911 label. The operator had a policy of not carrying radioactive material. The package was off-loaded and staff reminded of the company policy. No further CAA action necessary.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During x-ray screening, it was noticed that a pallet of boxes, covered in black shrink-wrap contained what appeared to be cylinders. Upon further examination, it was found that the consignment included boxes of Aerosols, UN1950, Solids containing flammable liquids, UN3175 and Aviation regulated liquids n.o.s., UN3334. The boxes bore UN specification markings (partially covered by air waybill labels), together with hazard warning labels and dangerous goods markings. However, the marking and labels were not reproduced on the black shrink-wrap and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. It was reported by the handling agent that the consignment was one that was previously presented under a different air waybill number, but was rejected for similar reasons. File was passed to ARE for investigation. Shipper received a Conditional Caution on condition he attended a dangerous goods by air course. The Shipper sent confirmation to the CAA that he was booked to attend a three day Dangerous Goods by Air course in September 2013. No further CAA action required.

2012-0954 02/08/2012 East Midlands

2012-0961 03/08/2012 Stansted

2012-0959 03/08/2012 Stansted

Operator error. A passenger with terminal lung disease checked in with her own Portable Oxygen Concentrator (POC), which worked off batteries or a mains supply. The passenger did not know the battery type and the batteries were removed and the passenger was told they would be repatriated. It was later established that they were not lithium or dry cell, but were Nickel metal hydride. The operator contacted the manufacturer of the POC and was asked to provide more specific information about the batteries in the future to prevent a misunderstanding. No further CAA action required.

2012-1176 03/08/2012 London Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. During hold check prior to flight a wheelchair was incorrectly secured and the battery was loaded with bags. Operator investigated and found human error had caused the wheelchair not to be tied down correctly. Procedures were now in place to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

2012-0967 03/08/2012 Jersey

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 125ml of Heptane, UN1206. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

2012-0960 03/08/2012 East Midlands

Passenger error. Upon departure a passenger’s baggage was found to contain a car shock absorber; Articles, pressurized, pneumatic, UN3164. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, an electric wheelchair, (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) inside a container, was found not tied down and no spreaders under it. The brake was not engaged and it was buried under passenger baggage. Operator investigated and found the staff responsible were aware of the electric wheelchair, although it was relatively smaller compared to most common models. The incident was caused due to human error. Refresher training was carried out by staff and their dangerous goods certificates were up-to-date. Staff concerned were briefed and a read and sign procedure introduced. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 14 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 totalling 1Kg. Also 1 x 50ml of Perfumery products, UN1266 (Personal Effects). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. Also contacted the freight forwarder, who provided a recording of the telephone booking made between the freight forwarder and the shipper. The shipper was warned not to put aerosols and perfumes inside the consignment, to which the shipper said ‘I know.’ Provided the freight forwarder with suggestions to improve the information on their website. The freight forwarder confirmed they paid airlines to screen consignments of personal effects on their behalf and they believed some customers ignored their warnings. Asked the operator's handling agent to attach a 'Personal Effects Letter in Consignment' letter to the package prior to its release. No further CAA action required.

2012-0968 06/08/2012 Stansted

Loading error. During loading of a ULD, fibreboard boxes, which bore orientation labels were found secured an incorrect orientation. Another consignment containing flammable liquid was unsecured. Operator investigated and identified an out of date SOP which did not fully reflect current requirements for securing dangerous goods to prevent movement. The procedure was amended accordingly and it was also verified that lashing and restraint training included adequate instruction on the use of the limited number of tie down points in the particular design of ULD.

No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a 400g cylinder of Carbon dioxide, UN1013 was found in a passenger’s bag. The soda stream was confiscated. The operator took appropriate action.

No further CAA action required.

2012-0966 07/08/2012 JFK, New York, USA

Passenger error. Upon arrival, a passenger’s unaccompanied baggage was inspected by a Customs Border Patrol officer and was found to contain a can of pepper spray, which triggered and injured the officer and emitted fumes into the custom hall. Appropriate action was taken. The passenger was in transit, therefore, there were no contact details available. No further CAA action possible.
Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) loaded within a ULD was found un-secured and not protected from potential damage by the movement of baggage. The operator investigated which revealed the electric wheelchair had been loaded in accordance with superseded procedures. Clear procedures for the preparation and loading of electric mobility aids were re-issued in local language to all staff concerned and all relevant staff re-briefed on the applicable requirements. Duty Managers are to supervise the future loading of electric mobility aids.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x Paint related material, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2011-0038. Following an internal investigation by the shipper, the incident occurred due to human error in not following company procedures. The member of staff has undertaken refresher training and disciplinary action has been taken. A visit to the shipper was made to verify their processes and procedures with regard to the transportation of dangerous goods by air. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 24 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0618 and 2012-0718. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised their procedures were amended to ensure no aerosols were despatched outside mainland UK. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 100g of Lead dioxide, UN1872. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the logistics company, who responded with a letter from the shipper that packed the consignment. The Export Director at the shipper explained that the consignee was chasing them for an urgent delivery, whilst they waited for payment of the goods. Confirmation from the bank came before the collection date, but the packages of Lead Dioxide were not checked correctly before they were despatched. The shipper transported few courier shipments, but the Export Director specified that he would check all dangerous goods consignments before despatch. He also sent his current and previous dangerous goods training certificates. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 50ml Perfumery Products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No CAA action possible because there was no record that the report was sent from the Reporter.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 0.175Kg of Infectious substances, affecting humans, UN2814. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, who responded stating the package was a small amount of soil being sent for analysis. They felt that the pathogens present in this sample was not considered as dangerous goods. Staff had been briefed and training reviewed, an alternative service provider was sought for the transport of samples. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 7 x 60ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 12 fibreboard boxes described as ship's spares, were each found to contain 4 x self-inflating lifejackets; Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990, fitted with inflation cylinders. The boxes appeared to have been re-used, since the majority of the boxes bore Class 9 hazard labels and previous air waybill labels, but these had mostly been covered up by white paper. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper, which was a Netherlands company that owned several ships. In response, the company explained that the lifejackets had originally been correctly consigned as dangerous goods for transport by road to one of their vessels in port in the UK. Once on board, it was discovered that they the correct type and so were off-loaded from the ship in order to be returned to the manufacturer. The freight forwarder who arranged the subsequent shipment neglected to confirm the contents and therefore claimed they did not realise the boxes contained dangerous goods. It was not known who had covered up the hazard labels. As a result of the incident, the shipper reviewed its procedures. Then freight forwarder also reviewed its procedures and arranged for additional procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 40 x 128g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See DGOR 2012-0512. Letter sent to shipper, who responded stating the incident occurred due to human error. Preventative measures were now in place to stop this happening again. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Passenger had 2 cans of insulating foam sealant (Aerosols, flammable, UN1950) which were confiscated. Passenger was of non UK origin. Operator investigated and the FAA informed. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. On arrival a consignment of 2 x 25Kg drums of Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., was found in the hold. Operator investigated and found the limit permitted by State Variation USG 13 had been exceeded. The incident was caused through human error, the staff were briefed and reminded to check all detail prior to booking in dangerous goods. A read and sign confirmation procedure was introduced. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Dangerous goods offloaded due to not being tied down securely. Operator investigated and found a photo taken of the build demonstrated appropriate strapping was used. It was not possible to investigate further as no photo was taken of the unsecure load discovered prior to loading. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a (life raft) Life-saving appliance, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. 2012-1022 17/08/2012 East Midlands
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 bottles of Toxic liquid, organic, n.o.s., UN2810. The consignment was not marked as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However, a Material Safety Data Sheet and 'This Way Up' and 'Fragile' labels were attached to the outer packaging. Letter to shipper. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found un-secured in Hold 5 and not protected from the potential damage by the movement of baggage, because baggage fell from a Unit Load Device during flight. It was established that rope was used to secure the wheelchair in place, but it became untied and that the straps became loose. The Lead Agent who tied the wheelchair down could not explain how the rope untied itself. Ramp staff were reminded about the procedures for securing mobility aids. The Ground Handling Agent implemented an Electric Mobility Aid Protocol for all staff. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 box of Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The officer was checking the shipment having his knife for screwdriver in his hand and damaged the battery. Smoke came out from the battery and a customs officer threw it on the floor outside the warehouse. Smoke emitted from the battery for a short time, then stopped then started again and eventually it caught fire. There was a label on the boxes warning it contained Lithium ion batteries and may catch fire when damaged. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a side airbag for a 2007 Highlander was taken from a passengers bag. The FAA were informed. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2003-372. Letter sent to shipper who responded stating the incident occurred due to a staff error. Precautions were put in place to prevent a reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 box of Lithium metal batteries, UN3090. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was accompanied by an incorrect dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2011-0153. No further CAA action required.

Leakage. Two pieces 14Kg of freight cargo found leaking in warehouse, area cordoned off and reported, awaiting repack. Smell in the hold was from past cargo, no leakage of goods could be found. Operator investigated and found incident was caused by human error as the package was placed upside down in the racking despite depicting orientation labels. All staff were reminded of the need to handle all cargo including dangerous goods in accordance with package labelling. Staff were also reminded of spillage procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, an outer fibreboard box was found to contain three inner boxes, one containing 6 x 150ml Aerosols, UN1950 and two containing Perfumery products, UN1266 (one box containing 6 x 125ml and one containing 6 x 15ml). The inner boxes all bore ADR dangerous goods markings but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised the consignment was sent in error because they did not export dangerous goods. To prevent further incidents occurring they reiterated their company policy to all their staff. No further CAA action required.

Misrouted, unmanifested dangerous goods. A consignment was found to have been misrouted resulting in it's carriage without having been manifested or recorded on the NOTOC. Consignment consisted of 3 packages of Mercury contained in manufactured articles; UN2809 and 1 package containing Consumer commodity; ID8000. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator investigated and advised that the consignment was taken from the dangerous goods area in error and loaded onto incorrect flight. Warehouse staff had simply selected the first 4-piece consignment in the dangerous goods area and had failed to reconcile the AWB number and Proper Shipping Names/UN numbers. The staff member concerned was released from employment due to perceived gross negligence. Cargo procedures were changed to incorporate a second verification of all dangerous goods shipments selected at ULD build. All staff to be briefed on the incident and additional warehouse reconciliation process. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. 1 pair of automobile shock absorbers confiscated during baggage screening. The FAA was informed. The passenger was of non UK origin. Operator investigated passenger notified that items can not travel by air. No further CAA action required.

Damage outer packaging. Upon arrival and whilst removing a fibreboard box from a unit load device, it was noticed that the box was damaged, possibly by the fork of a fork prong from a forklift truck. It was suspected that the damage had occurred prior to flight. The box contained lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN 3481, and was labelled and documented as in compliance with Section II of the packing instruction. Package was re-packed prior to being forwarded on. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During a routine ramp inspection at the location, a vapour shipper flask containing cryo-biological bovine semen found to contain Nitrogen, refrigerated liquid, UN1977. It was accompanied by an air waybill which stated that the consignment was not restricted as per Special Provision A152. However, after a shake test was carried out, it was discovered that this was not applicable as liquid was found in the flask. Letter sent to shipper, who investigated and explained their processes for converting the liquid nitrogen in the flask into a ‘dry shipper’ and it was assumed that a tiny amount was still present. The shipper re-examined its procedures to discharge surplus liquid from a flask, seven technicians received refresher training, secondary checks were implemented and the manager increased the number of spot checks on the flasks before they were despatched. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Gas lighter discovered in passenger’s baggage which was confiscated. FAA informed. Appropriate action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 300ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further information from the freight forwarder advised the shipper had moved overseas, therefore, no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 1L of Oxygen compressed, UN1072 and 5 x oxygen sensors marked as containing a corrosive substance, but the UN number was unknown. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. A letter was sent to the shipper, who responded and advised that dangerous goods were shipped by a freight forwarder. The consignment was incorrectly sent out by a member of staff who did not realise the shipment contained dangerous goods. The procedures were changed to ensure all dangerous goods were flagged up to the shipping department. No further CAA action possible.

Documentation error. During load planning, it was noticed that a consignment of Lithium ion batteries, UN3090 had been entered into the computerised system using the IATA IMP code RMD (miscellaneous dangerous goods) rather than RLI (fully regulated lithium ion batteries). The entry was corrected prior to the NOTOC being produced. Operator investigated and operator procedure error. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. An aircraft manufacturer received an undeclared Oxygen generator, chemical; UN3356 that had been shipped by an aircraft operator. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. It was, however, properly packed. FAA notified by Operator. Operator's investigation established that a passenger service unit assembly had been removed from an aircraft and was being sent to the manufacturer for repair whilst containing a serviceable and non time-expired chemical oxygen generator. The spares management system identified the chemical oxygen generator as dangerous goods, but higher assemblies were not so identified as they may or may not contain a generator at the time of shipping. System updated to flag higher assemblies as potentially containing generators. Stores dangerous goods procedures were reviewed and consolidated. Dangerous goods flag on stores management documentation was made more prominent. DGSA was relieved of supervisory responsibilities to enable him to focus on dangerous goods matters, including regular monitoring of the identification of dangerous goods on the stores management system conducted as part of the new inventory item.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival a consignment was found to contain Radioactive material, excepted package, limited quantity of material, UN2910. The operator had a policy of not carrying radioactive material, but the consignment was loaded in error. No further CAA action necessary.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Dangerous goods offloaded due to unsecured in ULD. The operator investigated and confirmed that the consignment was secure on leaving warehouse. Unable to investigate further where straps were removed. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a non-spillable battery powered wheelchair was found unsecured in the hold and surrounded by passengers' baggage. The Ground Handling Agent (GHA) interviewed their Team Leader who allowed the wheelchair to travel unsecured in the hold and was demoted. The Team Leader was trained in the CAA 'One Team One Goal', therefore it was concluded that there was no reason why the mobility aid was loaded unsecured. The GHA acknowledged that the incident was safety critical. The Operator and the GHA implemented an Improvement Plan to ensure corrective and preventative measures were followed. Photographs were taken of mobility aids on flights departing from the station of origin, the Operator's Duty Manager monitored the process for each mobility aid booked and, where possible audits were also carried out. No further CAA possible.

Undeclared suspected dangerous goods. During security screening, 1 x 455ml of rubbing alcohol was found in passenger's baggage, this was removed in front of passenger. Appropriate action taken. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival dangerous goods were discovered not secured. Operator investigated and found the incident occurred due to human error. The staff member was interviewed and briefed of the importance of checking the NOTOC against dangerous goods, he was monitored. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 5 Kg of Zinc chloride, anhydrous, UN2331. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter to Shipper who responded that the item was purchased for a particular order as it is outside their normal range of goods so was overlooked as being dangerous goods. Procedures taken to check all goods in future for dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared suspected dangerous goods. During security screening, 1 x Excel-G Gas shock absorber was found in passenger’s baggage, this was removed in front of passenger. Appropriate action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 500ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, also 1 x 75ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993, also 10 wipes of Solids containing flammable liquid n.o.s.(Isopropanol), UN3175. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 500ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Radioactive material carried against company policy. A consignment of 1 x 17Kg of Radioactive material, excepted package-instruments, UN2911 was delivered to the operator's handling agent for carriage. The forwarder was advised that the operator had a policy of not carrying radioactive material and was asked to collect the consignment. Prior to collecting it, the forwarder re-allocated the air waybill number to another consignment. In the meantime, the air waybill number was manifested for a flight and the warehouse staff collected the original radioactive material consignment for carriage rather than the new one. The consignment loaded and carried and it was only after the aircraft departed that the error was noticed. The freight forwarder and handling agent reminded its staff of the operator’s policy of not carrying radioactive material. No further CAA action necessary.

Upon arrival 1 x electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found correctly secured but with unsecured baggage behind thus not protected from damage. Operator investigated and responded All outstations have received instructions on the handling of electric mobility aids and station to be monitored. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival 2 x electric wheelchairs with dry cell batteries weighing 158Kg / 85 Kg were found inside a container, unsecured and one wheelchair was upside down causing wires to become dislodged. Operator investigated and states incorrect loading of electric wheelchairs was due to breakdown of communication by handling agent on a shift change which was compounded by procedures not being followed. Clear procedures for the preparation and loading of electric mobility aids were re-issued in local language to all staff concerned. No further CAA action required.

2012-1075 29/08/2012 East Midlands

2012-1063 29/08/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a canister of Helium, compressed, UN1046. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0774, 2012-0834 also 2012-0887. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised the incident occurred because a member of their despatch team forwarded the consignment to the incorrect freight agent. To prevent further incidents occurring all their staff were retrained and they amended their procedures. No further CAA action required.

2012-1066 29/08/2012 Berlin, Germany

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival 1 x 1kg package labelled Biological substance, category B, UN3373 was discovered not secured. Operator investigated and found a staff member did not notice a visible hazard label on the package. The staff member had undertaken all relevant dangerous goods training and was reminded to fully check all express handling of dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

2012-1068 29/08/2012 Baltimore

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon departure a consignment of Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993 within a ULD was discovered unsecured. Head Loader secured load at aircraft side. Operator investigated and responded that consignment was properly secured at time of build but insufficient evidence available to determine causal factors. No further CAA action required.

2012-1071 30/08/2012 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 1L of Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0020 and 2011-1136. Warning letter sent with response, including reference to previous incidents. The shipper's corrective and preventative actions were to transport dangerous goods by road by placing a Class 2 hazard label on the package. The Managing Director was asked about staff training, to which he stated that a member of staff was given the responsibility to read up on the ADR regulations. The Managing Director was advised by email that his staff must undertake formal training, but no response or acknowledgement was received. When contacted by telephone for a response, the Managing Director was uncooperative and defensive and was not concerned about more incidents of undeclared dangerous goods being reported to the CAA or if legal action was taken against him. No further action possible.
2012-1076 30/08/2012 Gatwick

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) with dry cell battery was found unrestrained in the hold. The Operator investigated and stated that the loading team did not follow the correct procedures as they considered that the wheelchair was small and light and could have been damaged by the rope and that packing baggage around the chair would have provided sufficient restraint. The team and team leader were reminded of the correct procedures. No further CAA action required.

2012-1103 03/09/2012 USA

Passenger error. During security screening, 2 bottles of Isopropyl alcohol, UN1219, also 1 x 1.892L of Ammonia solution, UN2672 were found in passenger’s baggage, these were removed and FAA notified. Appropriate action taken. No further CAA action required.

2012-1133 03/09/2012 USA

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger was found to have 1 box, containing cream chargers in his baggage (Gas cartridges, UN2037). The FAA was notified. Passenger was of non UK Origin. Appropriate action was taken by the operator. No further CAA action required.

2012-1091 03/09/2012 USA

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 2 bottles of Isopropyl alcohol, UN1219 were found in passenger’s baggage, these were removed and FAA notified. Appropriate action taken. No further CAA action required.

2012-1077 03/09/2012 Heathrow

Loading error. A breach of dangerous goods occurred as a battery operated wheelchair was brought into the cabin, and not loaded in the hold. The dry cell batteries had been removed and handed to the passenger. The batteries were kept in the cabin during the flight. Operator investigated and a company air safety report raised to highlight breach of regulations. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Consumer commodity, ID800. The over pack and outer packaging were marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Freight forwarder advised they had simply been storing the cargo for many months and had received a request to ship part of it, including the items that were dangerous goods. Freight forwarder responded to email stating that retraining through Training Team to be arranged. No further CAA action required.

2012-1078 03/09/2012 East Midlands

2012-1084 03/09/2012 East Midlands

2012-1078 03/09/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 2 x Batteries, dry which were classified under Special Provision A123. The outer packaging was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. One inner package was labelled with an ADR UN1950.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During transit a fibreboard box containing Dry Ice, UN1845 was found unsecured in the bulk hold. The item was secured prior to next sector. Loading staff at station of origin were interviewed and they admitted that the dangerous goods had not been secured as required. Memo to remind all leading hands was issued by 'read and sign'. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. A consignment was found to contain Dry Ice, UN1845. The consignment was not on the manifest and did not appear on the NOTOC. Operator investigated and found this incident occurred because of human error as staff were under time constraints. Warehouse picked the items without knowing the correct number as documentation checks were still being completed. Ten items looked similar so were assumed to be of a single consignment. Staff were interviewed and the seriousness of issues arising from their actions was explained. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival a wheelchair was found inside a container, unsecured and not on a spreader and held in place with passengers’ baggage. The Operator obtained an investigation report from the ground handling agent. The root cause of the incident was that the Team Leader did not want to pick up delay, because time was short. The Team Leader was demoted and faced disciplinary action and underwent retraining. The ramp team were aware that a battery powered wheelchair was on the flight and rings and ropes were available in the Duty Officer’s office. All staff were shown the CAA DVD ‘One Team, One Goal’ and underwent refresher training. It was not possible to ascertain what time the passenger arrived at the gate by the PRM service provider. It was reiterated to Duty Officers in the daily briefs that securing a wheelchair in place with baggage was unacceptable and that checks must be carried out to prevent a reoccurrence. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening 2 x 567gs of Aerosols, non flammable, UN1950 were found in a passenger’s baggage, which were removed. Appropriate action was taken and the FAA was notified. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) loaded within a ULD was found not secured to company requirements and not protected from potential damage by the movement of other un-secured baggage. Operator investigated and found due to lack of space all items were loaded in the same container. Although training material had been given to the trainer he failed to pass on the training to the agents working on the flight. Staff were retrained and procedures updated. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 600ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See DGOR 2012-0738. Shipper responded stating items had been incorrectly coded in their system but had since been corrected and their procedures and processes made more robust. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 15 x 250ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded stating the incident occurred due to human error. The procedures for handling dangerous goods were improved. The individual involved was reminded of the correct procedures to use. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x Life-saving appliance, self inflating, UN2990. The consignment was marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not classified as dangerous goods and allowed another 15 life jackets in the consignment to travel. The shipper arranged training for its despatch staff and new procedures were put in place. The Operator investigated why the other consignment was not snagged and advised that all relevant staff were reminded of their responsibilities with regards to the dangerous goods regulations. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Seat-belt pretensioners, UN3268. The consignment was marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper responded that dangerous goods requirements were communicated to all employees. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) loaded within a ULD was found un-secured. The operator investigated and found the incident occurred due to human error. Corrective actions were introduced to prevent further occurrence. Regular briefings and sessions were organised to provide staff with the most up-to-date training. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 items of safety equipment, containing compressed air (Life-saving appliances, self-inflating; UN2990). The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. The shipper investigated and found that there were four consignments due to be sent, one of which contained the life-jackets, which should have been separated from the other three consignments, but was not. As a result, another employee processed the four consignments together as non-dangerous goods for shipment. The shipper advised that it has revised its procedures to prevent a recurrence. All repair shipments would be processed by one person to ensure continuity and each shipment would be dealt with individually to ensure the correct transport mode. In addition, company paperwork would be stamped to indicate dangerous goods where applicable.

No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x 750ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Also see DGOR2012-1109. See also 2007-354. Warning letter sent from Manager of the Dangerous Goods Office to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Batteries, wet, non-spillable, electric storage, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. (see also DGOR2012-1108). Following a visit to the freight forwarder by a Dangerous Goods Inspector, further preventative measures were put in place to prevent recurrence including website information enhancement, automatic and manual scrutiny of packing lists and additional staff to undertake dangerous goods training.

No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, totalling 300ml, also Perfumery products, UN1266, totalling 80ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A manual wheelchair, which had a battery add on unit was found unsecured in the hold of the aircraft. The passenger arrived at check-in with a manual wheelchair with a battery added on, but the check in agent did not realise. The passenger did not request assistance to the gate and was late to the gate. The airport PRM service provider took the passenger to the gate, but did not notice the battery. The Dispatcher removed and left the battery with the wheelchair and therefore, was not carried in strong rigid packaging in accordance with the Regulations. It was not communicated to the Ramp Team Leader by the Dispatcher that the wheelchair had a battery and was treated like a manual chair and was not tied to the aircraft. Information about add on batteries was provided by the DGO to the Ground Handling Agent (GHA) and the Operator via the BHTA log. The GHA implemented a number of corrective and preventative actions regarding better communication on the ramp, procedures for checking manual wheelchairs and on removing batteries from wheelchairs. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, totalling 1025ml, also Perfumery products, UN 1266, totalling 430ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Also see 2011-0207 and 2007-327. Letter sent to shipper who responded stating the incident occurred due to a change in stock from 'roll on' deodorants to aerosols. The shipper and operator met for a meeting to discuss handling of dangerous goods. All staff were re-briefed and procedures were updated. No further CAA action required.

2012-1098 07/09/2012 East Midlands

Damaged dangerous goods. During transit a consignment of Lithium ion batteries, UN3480, was offloaded as the outer fibreboard box was noted to be damaged. Operator investigated and could not identify how the damaged was caused as staff at station of origin had conducted all required checks and remembered having properly secured the cargo. Staff at outstation briefed on this incident. No further CAA action required.

2012-1114 08/09/2012 Philadelphia, USA

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon acceptance and preparing for build, a consignment was found to contain 9 x Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was marked with Class 9 label and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, but the handling agent had not been made aware of this shipment from the freight forwarder. Letter to freight forwarder who has responded that upon investigation the consignment was collected from the shipper by their carrier and they had not been notified they were hazardous goods. Further training and amendment to procedures have been implemented to ensure that all consignments must have proof of status of goods at pick up. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Prior to departure dangerous goods were discovered not segregated so were offloaded by Airside manager. Operator investigated and found the incident occurred due to staff error. Staff were interviewed and their training was verified to be up-to-date. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Prior to departure a consignment of Dry ice, UN1845 was discovered unsecured within a ULD so was returned to the freight shed. Personnel responsible for the build claimed that the goods had been secured correctly but there was no photograph had been taken after build to prove this (as required by operator’s procedures). No further CAA action possible.
Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon departure, a consignment containing 43Kg of Dry Ice, UN1845 was insufficiently secured, and not annotated on LIRF. A second load plan was issued following discovery of the discrepancy and a new NOTOC was raised. In addition, the load was secured. Operator investigated and found there was confusion as the NOTOC was annotated as Carbon dioxide solids. Appropriate action taken by the operator therefore, no further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading a battery powered mobility device was found unsecure. The wheelchair was not protected from other pieces of baggage and measures were not taken to secure the wheelchair. Operator investigated and found because of a heavy workload the dispatcher was pressed for time and with no rope readily available to secure the mobility device, an incorrect decision was made to surround the wheelchair with baggage. A safety notice of the correct procedures was issued to all staff, to make staff aware of the paramount importance that under no circumstances should an aircraft be allowed to depart with an unsecured wheelchair. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon departure an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found inside a container, unsecured and not on a spreader, on top of passenger baggage. Operator investigated and stated that this was a tagging and documentation error as wheelchair in two pieces tagged twice. Electric wheelchair was returned and prepared correctly. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous. During loading it was found a consignment of Lithium metal batteries (including lithium alloy batteries), UN3090. was loaded on to the main cargo deck and not in accordance with operators policy to load in the lower holds. The pallet was removed and loaded in the lower hold. Appropriate action taken by operator. No CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a generator, Engine, internal combustion, (flammable liquid powered), UN3166. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The fuel tank contained fuel vapours. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 77ml Perfumery product, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a Life-saving appliance, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document but was not stated on the air waybill. Operator took appropriate action. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, an over pack was found to contain Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s (hexahdrohexamethyl), UN3082. The outer package was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Swedish authorities for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Kuwait authority for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper investigated and provided a detailed report (see report saved under DGOR 2012-1162). The vendor did not provide the shipper with a safety data sheet which meant the shipper’s online system did not know the product was dangerous goods. The product was shipped from a warehouse which did not handle dangerous goods. The shipper relied on its system to verify that a product was dangerous goods, rather than ensuring the member of staff identified the aerosol during the packing process. The shipper introduced various enhancements to their processes and communications to vendors to ensure that dangerous goods were not transported internationally from a non-dangerous goods centre and was confident that training in place for staff was adequate. This occurrence was one of many with similar root causes which occurred over several months. The DGO continued to work with the shipper to address those issues. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Dry ice, UN1845. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2008-693. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival one electric mobility aid, Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171 was found unsecured and blocked in with passengers’ baggage. The Operator asked the Ground Handling Agent to investigate. It was concluded that the loading staff did not tie down the wheelchair and the flight supervisor did not check that it was secured correctly. An internal memo was issued to all staff and the ‘One Team, One Goal’ DVD was incorporated into staff training. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon receipt of consignment from freight forwarder, a consignment was found to contain 1 x petrol powered generator emitting petrol vapour, Engines, internal combustion (flammable liquid powered), UN3166. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The consignee and freight forwarder claimed fuel professionally drained out. Letter sent to shipper and freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

Damaged dangerous goods. Upon arrival 2 x electric wheelchairs (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) were found inside a container, secured and on a spreader. One wheelchair was found to have a damaged control panel. Operator investigated and found from the photographs very little damage to the rubber/plastic moulding which would have been caused by the operators equipment, and the rope would not have caused this either. No further CAA action required.

2012-1122 11/09/2012 Bahrain

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, cargo was found in the hold that was left onboard from the previous sector, containing Infectious substances, affecting humans, UN2814, and Dry ice, UN1845. The Operator investigated and the incident occurred because of human error. A NOTOC was raised and the dangerous goods were returned to the origin. It was agreed with the Ground Handling Agent that ramp agents carried out a visual check from the ground, particularly at night and also issued a ground safety notice about the inspection of aircraft holds. No further CAA action required.

2012-1140 12/09/2012 Nice, France

2012-1134 12/09/2012 East Midlands

2012-1136 13/09/2012 Stansted

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 300g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Unable to contact shipper as staying in a hotel and shipping to herself. No further CAA action possible.

2012-1135 13/09/2012 Heathrow

2012-1143 13/09/2012 Belfast
Unsecured dangerous goods. During pre-flight checks, a fireboard drum containing Printing ink, UN1210 was found to be unsecure. There was also noted to be non-dangerous goods loaded loosely into the same container, which could conceivably have caused damage to the dangerous goods. Operator investigated and as a photo had been taken by build staff which demonstrating adequate securing, the cause of the slippage could not be identified. A safety notice was issued to all staff reminding that dangerous goods must be protected from damage by other cargo. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passengers baggage was found to contain Matches, 'strike anywhere', UN1331. The bag had been carried on a previous flight. FAA notified. Appropriate action taken by the operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. On receipt of goods it was noticed paint was leaking from fibreboard box. The consignment was found to contain 4 tins of Paint related material (including paint thinning or reducing compound), UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Shipper/freight forwarder responded stating will undertake dangerous goods training and ensure new procedures put in place including new documentation for customers to sign. No further CAA action required.

Non-occurrence. A captain insisted that details of sporting ammunition carried within a passenger's checked baggage be recorded within the dangerous goods section of the NOTOC. Airline systems would not permit this (as this was in appropriate) so the baggage was offloaded in order to avoid delay. The baggage was forwarded to the passenger the next day. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. A passenger was found to have 1 x 428ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 in their baggage. The item was confiscated. No further CAA action required.

Leaking and Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Batteries, Wet, Filled with Acid, UN2794. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to Indian Authority. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Whilst offloading, a wheelchair was found to be unsecure. No spreaders were used and the battery was not isolated as the lights were still on. The operator investigated and found the correct procedures were not followed in loading the mobility aid. New procedures were now in place to prevent recurrence, which included spreader boards must be used and straps must be used to tie down the mobility aid. The battery must be disconnected and terminal leads taped up. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival, an electric mobility aid was found unsecured with baggage loaded on top. The Ground Handling Agent at the origin carried out an investigation. The root cause was because the ramp staff were pushed for time to close the aircraft doors and achieve an on-time departure and one of the wheelchairs was delivered late to the hold by the PRM team. All staff were interviewed and retrained on the 'One Team, One Goal' DVD. A safety bulletin was placed on the agent’s notice boards to raise staff awareness and a ‘read and sign’ Ground Safety Notice was also issued. The staff involved were reminded they must comply with the regulations in all circumstances. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personal effects was found to contain 26 x 850ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Passenger error. A passenger was found with a petrol pressure washer and it was leaking petrol. The item was accepted for travel at check and sent to out of gauge area a smell of fuel was noticed emanating from the box. The item was confiscated and did not travel. Operator investigated and found that the check in agent had failed to notice the words 'petrol washer' on the box. Staff member was interviewed and has undertaken retraining. No further CAA action required.

2012-1149 17/09/2012 Heathrow

2012-1130 17/09/2012 East Midlands

Passenger error. A bottle of Isopropyl Alcohol 91%, UN1219 was removed from a passenger’s checked baggage. FAA was notified. Operator took appropriate action. No further CAA action required.

2012-1147 18/09/2012 USA

2012-1138 18/09/2012 Stansted

Loading error. An aircraft had to return to the stand after pushback to offload dangerous goods that were not on the NOTOC. The operator investigated and found there was confusion between the loader and the load control as to dangerous goods actually being in the hold. The loader had thought the package was only corrosive and not dangerous goods so class 3 and 5.1 loaded in the same hold. The incident was caused by lack of dangerous goods awareness by Hub controller. Staff counselled in correct segregation of dangerous goods procedures to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

2012-1144 18/09/2012 Oslo, Norway

Loading error. Two sporting shotguns were loaded in the forward hold, but the Operator’s policy was not to carry firearms or sporting rifles. The Ground Handling Agent (GHA) believed that the operator carried them and the check-in agent did not confirm whether or not shotguns were accepted with the operator’s Lead Agent. The sporting weapons were offloaded prior to travel. As a corrective measure, all staff were advised of the failure and instructed with immediate effect not to accept sporting weapons. A read and sign notice was issued to all staff and to prevent a reoccurrence, all staff were instructed to ensure they contacted their Lead Agent. The GHA also implemented product training sessions for all its staff associated with the operator’s product, including procedures on baggage acceptance and non-acceptance. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain an Engine, internal combustion, UN3166. The engine was found to contain a small amount of fluid in fuel tank. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Also see 2012-0835 and 2011-0372. Following a visit to shipper, further preventative measures have been put in place to prevent recurrence including staff training in accordance with Special Provision A70, further engine purging processes and revised documentation to intermediary. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly prepared dangerous goods. Electric mobility aid was presented to handling agent staff un-prepared for travel. The PRM provider failed to ensure the device was isolated prior to handing over. The handling agent took appropriate action by isolating the device using a key and the device was loaded and secured within the ULD, verified by the turnround co-ordinator. The handling agent and operator have subsequently addressed the issue of responsibilities for making the electric mobility safe prior to loading with the PRM service provider and airport operator and have implemented additional preventative measures until such time as contractual issues are resolved. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 30ml and 1 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by the operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 425g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by operator. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 113g and 1 x 225g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Appropriate action taken by the operator. No further CAA action required.

Declared dangerous goods. A leaking shipment was found at CVG gateway, the consignment was found to contain 2 x 500ml of Diethylamine, UN1154. One of the glass bottles had broken and leaked entire contents. Reported to FAA. No response from FAA. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, totalling 975ml, and 1 x 75ml of Flammable liquid n.o.s. UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 batteries, wet, filled with acid. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 2L of Oxygen, compressed, UN1072. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded stating the cylinder was unpressurised and not hazardous. Procedures were now changed so that all parcels containing cylinders would have a declaration on them stating they are empty, whether going by sea or air. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival a consignment of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, also Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. were discovered not secured. Operator investigated and responded that unfortunately photographs of build are not available so unable to find exact route cause. To prevent reoccurrence the crew have been made aware and the team leader to be monitored. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Two containers of dangerous goods were offloaded. One contained unsecured dangerous goods and the other was offloaded because the Captain complained that the cargo documentation was inadequate. The Operator investigated, but was unable to verify the build quality because of a lack of photographic evidence, therefore, no further investigation was possible. The Performance Manager for the crew verified that they were fully trained and competent, however, the crew's performance was monitored. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a Battery, wet, filled with acid, UN2794. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Unable to establish shipper. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Chemical kit, UN3316. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper was asked to investigate. The product was not identified as dangerous goods by the supplier, therefore it was not registered on the shipper’s inventory. The online system did not prevent the product from being shipped internationally and did not prevent the product being offered for air transport. The shipper was advised that members of staff must be trained to identify products containing dangerous goods during the packing process. The shipper introduced a programme for vendors to notify them about products containing dangerous goods and enhanced the dangerous goods information in the Vendor’s manual. This incident was one of many and was part of ongoing liaison between the DGO and the shipper. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, an electric mobility aid (scooter), Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171 was found inside a container and buried under passengers' baggage and the battery was removed from the scooter. The Operator's Ground Handling Agent at the station of origin investigated the incident and identified the root causes. There were no internal hold separation nets in the aircraft and although the loading staff tied down the scooter, it was not protected from damage from baggage. The Captain instructed the load team to load the scooter in a particular hold, but he was not told it was loaded with baggage. The loading team also incorrectly removed the battery from the scooter and loaded into the hold. All passenger services and ramp staff were retrained on electric mobility aids. A loading instruction was issued to ramp staff and load control to ensure compliance and that the Captain was made fully aware of the exact location and load type for electric mobility aids. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 1Kg of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s. (epoxy resin), UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Dutch Authority. No further CAA action required.

2012-1334 19/10/2012 Heathrow

2012-1301 19/10/2012 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 X 22.49L of Helium compressed, UN1046. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, however a Class 2.2 hazard label was covered on outer packaging. Letter to shipper who responded stating the incident occurred due to a staff error. Procedures were now in place to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

2012-1312 19/10/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods in mail. During transit, an item of mail was noticed bearing a label indicating it contained Perfumery products, UN1266. The package was off-loaded. Operator investigated unable to establish shipper. No further CAA action possible.

2012-1328 19/10/2012 Benbecula

State variation not complied with. During flight, crew noticed from NOTOC that quantity of dangerous goods loaded within a single compartment had exceeded 25Kg, in breach of state variation US-13. Investigation established cargo build had deliberately split the consignment between 2 Unit Load Devices, but load control had erroneously planned both ULDs within the same compartment. Operated investigated and found the incident occurred due to human error. The conclusion of the report found both units were loaded correctly but the weights should have been checked and ticked off, which would have shown the weights within the permitted limits. Staff were coached to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Staff were coached to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 12 x 300ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. The shipper has liaised with the freight forwarders and modified their computer system and website to ensure that under no circumstances must any aerosols be sent on a 24 hour delivery service. See also DGOR 2012-1397 and 2012-1386. No further CAA action required.

2012-1303 20/10/2012 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 totalling 5Kg. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Dutch authorities for investigation. Other goods released, aerosols held until response from Dutch authorities. No response from the Dutch authorities. No further CAA action required.

CAA action required.
Loading error. Unit load device (ULD) containing dangerous goods arrived with no dangerous goods ULD identification tags. Ramp supervisor prevented the ULD being loaded and tags were changed to the correct ones. Operator investigated and responded that error was due to no stocks of appropriate tags being available. Instructions given to all staff to use ULD tags of a partner airline until labels arrive. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Prior security screening, a package was found to contain 1 x Lithium Ion Battery, UN3480 and one laptop, which were both damaged. The contents were identified because the cardboard box was found partially open and a report was raised before it was screened. The package was not labelled as containing a lithium battery. DGI visited the operator 29 October 2012 and it was established that the shipper returned the damaged laptop and battery to the manufacturer. After initial liaison with the shipper in the UK, the incident was referred to their offices in the United States. The DGI had a telephone meeting with the shipper. The customer was asked to ship the battery and laptop to the shipper for investigation, but guidance on the packaging requirements and labelling were not supplied to the customer. The shipper confirmed that this type of recall was rare. However, to prevent a reoccurrence, the shipper ensured that future shipments met road and sea regulations, which was also communicated to their teams in the UK. No further CAA action required.

Unmanifested dangerous goods. A shipment of 3 Fire extinguishers, UN1044 were found after arrival to have been carried unmanifested and unrecorded on the inbound NOTOC. The FAA were informed. The operator investigated and found the incident occurred due to human error and a congested warehouse, having recently started to handle the operator. Staff were briefed on the handling of dangerous goods and additional checks and balances were put in place to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During unloading a white cardboard box was noticed to bear an orange sticker stating ‘Do Not Fly- This item/bag contains goods which are not permitted to fly. Send by surface mail only’. It was not otherwise marked and labelled and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The item apparently contained perfumed oil (flammable) and was discovered by screeners acting on behalf of Royal Mail and subsequently misrouted for carriage by air. The goods were not retained after unloading so the precise nature of the goods could not be categorically ascertained. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The outer packaging was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, however the jerrican bore flammable, irritant and danger to the environment consumer markings. See also 2012-0301. A further letter was sent to the shipper who stated that they thought the consignment was travelling by road and were unaware of the road transport requirements. Further training was arranged for January 2013. No further CAA action required.

2012-1336 27/10/2012 East Midlands

Loading error. On arrival, the loading team discovered an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered equipment, UN3171) secured in the hold with rope, but had baggage loaded on top of it. The Ground Handling Agent (GHA) at the station of origin investigated. The root cause was because the scooter arrived late at the aircraft and the loading staff acted quickly. The GHA's Supervisory Agent issued a ground safety notice with photographs of a correctly and incorrectly loaded electric mobility aid attached provided by the Operator. The loading staff were retrained and the Agent reminded loading staff to use the Mobility Tag. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 400g of Carbon dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled on the outer packaging but an inner packaging was labelled as containing dangerous goods. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. The shipper identified that the product came from a different non-dangerous goods centre as the one marked on the package label. The root causes of the incident was that the vendor / supplier did not identify the product as dangerous goods to the shipper but later provided a Safety Data Sheet (SDS). The shipper did not update their inventory / online system with the SDS information before it was ordered. The shipper was confident that their online system was updated with dangerous goods products and that dangerous goods were not shipped from a non-dangerous goods centre. This incident was one of several over several months between 2012 and 2013 with similar causes and corrective actions. The shipper was warned about possible enforcement action and the DGO was in continual communication with the shipper to resolve the various issues. The DGI visited one of the shipper's non-dangerous goods centre in March 2013 following further incidents of a NOTOC error. A consignment was found to contain 1 x 1L of Coating solution, UN1139. The goods were not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator investigated and found the incident occurred due to staff error because they were unfamiliar with the task. Preventative measures were put in place which included staff being briefed on dangerous goods procedures and a brief awareness of dangerous goods course. No further CAA action was required.

(liquid polysulphide polymer), UN3077. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-1143. Letter sent to the shipper who responded stating the incident occurred due to human error as they were advised by intermediary that road transport would be used. To prevent reoccurrence the shipper has instructed staff that any future dangerous goods shipments are to be sent direct from their supplier and not through their own facility. No further CAA action required.

Documentation error. Reported to FAA. The operator investigated and found the contents on the air waybill did not match the description. Staff were briefed on the implications of the incident and preventive measures put in place to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. The operator investigated and found upon arrival 2 barrels of Environmentally hazardous substances, solid, n.o.s., had toppled over one another and were dented but did not spill any contents. The slippage was due to the barrels being compressed due to the pressure in-flight which meant they became free from the restraints. It was recommended that wooden planks would be used between the drums for double stacking and each layer properly restrained. Loading staff were briefed on the new procedures. No further CAA action required.

Leakage. During loading an open cryogenic receptacle was tilted to enable it to pass through the cargo door resulting in leakage of liquid nitrogen into the forward hold of the aircraft. The leak was quite significant with a lot of vapour evident. The fire services attended the aircraft and instructed all passengers and crew to disembark. The fire services waited until the leak from the container stopped before removing it from the aircraft. The shipper must mark or label packages containing refrigerated liquefied gas with orientation symbols on at least two opposite vertical sides of the package and the wording "KEEP UPRIGHT" must be placed at 120° intervals around the package or on each side. Packages must also be clearly marked "DO NOT DROP — HANDLE WITH CARE". The operator concluded that the loader should not have tipped the package to enable it to be loaded and debriefed the loading teams accordingly. However, there is no specific requirement that cryogenic receptacles be loaded, stowed, secured and unloaded always in an upright position. Paper to be written for consideration by the ICAO Dangerous Goods Panel. No further CAA action necessary.

Incorrect packaging. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 plastic drum of Flammable liquid, n.o.s, (Decamethyltetrasiloxane) UN1993. Spillage of dangerous goods. During the unloading of a Unit Load Device (ULD), a package containing Flammable liquid n.o.s (Kerosene, 1-Methoxy -2-Propanol), UN1993 was found leaking. All other freight in the ULD was removed as they were not damaged or contaminated. No staff were injured. The Operator investigated, but no leakage was observed prior to loading or whilst it was loaded into the aircraft hold. The reason for leak was that the freight became damaged, but the cause of the damage was not found. It was verified that the loading teams were aware of the Operator’s procedures for dealing with spillages and the appropriate measures were taken at the time of the incident. No further CAA action possible.

2013-0053 05/01/2013 Fuerteventura

Loading error. Electric wheelchair arrived tied down in the hold and was taken to the door of the aircraft. The passenger advised the dispatcher that the battery was missing. On checking the hold, loaders realised it was sent with the normal baggage to arrivals, but there were no labels and markings on the bag and it was not secured in the hold. At check-in, the battery was sent down the oversized baggage belt and the passenger was permitted to complete and sign the electric mobility tag. A memo was issued by the ground handling agent to ensure that the PRM Service provider and a check-in supervisor were present when a PRM checked in. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Dangerous goods fumes. On arrival a strong smell of fumes was coming from a pallet containing 20 boxes of dangerous goods. The fire brigade was called to make the area safe. 4 staff members taken to hospital as a precaution due to dangerous good hazard if inhaled. No spillage or broken boxes were found but the fumes were found to have emanated from a single box containing a variety of dangerous goods including Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s..

Operator investigating. The applicable packing instructions for the goods within this box specified that a range of packagings may be used, including fibreboard boxes, but that inter-alia, they must be to a specific UN standard, the design of which has been subjected to testing successfully. Whilst the outer fibreboard box bore a UN specification marking, it was not clear that the inner drum which had leaked had been tested in combination with the outer fibreboard box. Based on the variety and varying volumes of other dangerous goods within the package, this seemed unlikely, so it was possible that the dangerous goods were not packed in accordance with the ICAO Technical Instructions. Referred to CAA of State of Origin. No further CAA action necessary.

Wheelchair unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival the ramp team reported that an electric wheelchair was found loaded into the front hold with no spreader and the battery left on and functioning as lights on display panel glowing. NOTOC Error. During loading, the dispatcher noticed that a consignment contained Lithium ion batteries; UN3480, that they believed should have been included on the NOTOC. When questioned with Load Control, they confused the consignment with another consignment for the same aircraft that was not required to be shown on the NOTOC since it was shipped according to Section II of the packing instruction. The consignment in question however had been shipped according to Section IB of the packing instruction and therefore should have been included on the NOTOC. The consignment was not loaded. Further information requested from Operator who responded that a briefing document has been distributed to all operational staff. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival, 1 x electric mobility aid (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found unsecured in the rear hold and surrounded by baggage. The operator’s handling agent at the origin investigated. Due to a lack of space in the forward hold, the planned baggage was re-trimmed for loading in the rear hold and whilst loading the baggage, one electric scooter arrived unannounced at the departure gate for loading. It was established that there was no space available to secure the scooter by means of lashing down, because there was a significant amount of baggage and cargo, and as a result, the Team Leader took the decision to load the scooter amongst the bags in the doorway. The investigation established that the Team Leader failed to adequately plan for loading the scooter and failed to follow the correct procedures for securing the scooter in the hold. A One Point Lesson plan was issued by the Ground Handling Agent to all Team Leaders about securing electric mobility aids and scooters. Communication between check-in staff and the PRM service provider and the GHA’s Load Planning were improved. This was monitored and corrective actions had a positive effect. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Repeat Offender. The DGI visited one of the shipper’s fulfilment centres on 14 March to observe the picking, packing and labelling process and to discuss prevention of further occurrences. During discussions, the root cause of the incident was established, which was due to an employee in an overseas office responsible for managing product information, who overrode the system and identified products as non-hazardous that were classified as dangerous goods by the shipper’s suppliers. Staff carried out six-sided checks to identify potential dangerous goods, but believed what the system told them rather than the dangerous goods that were in front of them. Staff were also instructed to alert experienced helpers when they were not sure about a product, but this was also not done. This failure in their checks in the centres before goods are despatched was highlighted to the shipper as a result of previous incidents in 2012. See 2013-0322, which was also due to the employee’s error. The employee was sacked. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Compressed gas, n.o.s, UN1956, and Batteries, wet, filled with acid, UN2794. The consignment travelled from Bahrain to Heathrow unmanifested. Referred to the FAA. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly secured dangerous goods. On arrival a consignment of 1 x 1L of Triethylamine, UN1296. was found inside a unit load device incorrectly secured. Operator investigated and root cause was found to be due to incorrect handling of dangerous goods by the handling agent. All handling agent staff at outstation rebriefed on correct securing procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 600ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 50g of Amines, liquid, corrosive, n.o.s., (Cycloalphatic Amine), UN2735, and 300g of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. The inner packaging was marked with hazard labels however the outer packaging was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper who responded and advised the incident occurred because the consignment was inadvertently placed in their internal mail rather than being collected by their agent who fulfil the necessary requirements. The shipper put in place a system to separate and mark the dangerous goods consignment from non-dangerous goods to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Mis-loaded dangerous goods. 4 x 150Kg of Dry ice, UN1845 incorrectly loaded in forward hold so 45Kg over maximum allowed in forward hold. Operator investigated and the root cause was human error. Staff member counselled to double check their work. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a battery, wet, non-spillable, electric storage, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Upon further investigation it was noted the consignment complied with Special Provision A67, therefore, the consignment was not subject to the dangerous goods requirements. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, however there was documentation stating the damage was being returned as damaged. See also 2011-0874 and 2006-064. Email sent to shipper who identified the cause as human error and supplied a copy of the material safety data sheet confirming that the battery is not restricted for air transport. To prevent a recurrence a review was undertaken of the shipping process and modifications were made to their computer system to ensure Special Provision A67 is quoted on despatch paperwork and air waybill. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Two barrels x 25Kgs of Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s (etodolac), UN2811, were double stacked and due to compression pushed against the curtain on arrival and slipped. Operator investigated and the root cause was due to insufficient restraints being used. Staff requested and completed retraining in loading of dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 950ml of Compressed gas n.o.s (methane, nitrogen mixture), UN1952. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However there was a Certificate of composition with consignment. See also 2013-0263. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured electric wheelchair. During unloading, the dry cell battery of an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found secured in the hold with bags. Operator investigated. The handling agent Team Leader was interviewed. There were no boxes in which to pack the battery correctly, but the operator supplied the station with some. The passenger did not provide the operator with advance notice of their intention to carry and electric mobility aid.

No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 82 x Lithium Ion Batteries, UN3480, and 85 x Lithium Ion batteries contained in equipment. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing lithium batteries or lithium batteries in equipment and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Formal letter sent to the company. The incident was not referred to ARE. The DGI contacted the company originally believed to be the shipper to arrange a visit, but he gave details of a customer who used their account. The DGI inspected the consignment and contacted the customer and it was established he was the shipper. It was advised that normally the batteries and mobile phones were transported by road and sea by the customer's brother. The customer insisted that this was a one-off shipment and he would not attempt to ship batteries and phones in this way again. Provided guidance on shipping lithium batteries to the shipper and the company. Warning letter sent to shipper. Advised both the shipper and the company that a further incident would be referred to ARE. Also see File Note. No further CAA action possible.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery powered vehicle, UN3171) was found incorrectly secured and attached by ropes to the rings of the curtains in hold. The wheelchair was put in the rear doorway and not in the rear hold and the ramp agent who actioned this did not challenge the decision for its location, although it was not feasible to tie it down securely in accordance with Operator’s procedures. The incident was investigated, but the agent can only confirm that it was due to human error, he did not think the issue through and believed it was not a safety issue. He felt that the tie down was acceptable in the location and did not challenge the decision. It was verbally confirmed to the Team Leader that the chair was securely fastened. The agents involved in the turnaround were interviewed. The Team Leader was re-questioned as he had overall responsibility for the safety of the departing aircraft, because he failed to visually confirm the chair was in a correct loading position. The agent who loaded the chair received a disciplinary. He was counselled on the importance of challenging decisions that were felt not be safe practice. A 'read and sign' safety briefing detailing the correct loading of electric mobility aids was also been issued to the ramp agents. A ramp trainer also completed audits to view the Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival a consignment was loaded in error, it contained 1 x 25L of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s (alpha-cedrene), UN3082 and 1 x 10L of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s (1,3,4,6,7,8-hexahydro-4.6.6.7.8-hexamethylcyclopenta-gamma-2benzoypyrn(HHCB)), UN3082. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document for the flight to Heathrow. Referred to the French and United Arab Emirates authorities. The United Arab Emirates authority has responded that root cause due to Staff error when loading transfer consignments into large unit load device, basic checks over looked. Disciplinary action taken and staff monitoring in place. No further CAA action.

Passenger baggage. During security screening, a passenger’s baggage was found to contain 1 x 426G of Carbon dioxide, UN1013. The cylinder was confiscated and handed to Security firearm team. No further CAA action.

Passenger error. Prior to departure a passenger was found to be carrying an unauthorised cylinder of Oxygen UN1072. Passenger off loaded. No further CAA action required.

Loading and NOTOC Error. Upon arrival and during unloading, two consignments of dangerous goods were found which had not been manifested for the flight and not included on the NOTOC. The handling agent at the departure airport advised that a handler collected consignments for two flights and the dangerous goods were subsequently loaded on the incorrect aircraft. Details of preventative action requested from handling agent. No further CAA action possible.

Damaged packaging. Upon arrival by truck for an onward flight, a fibreboard box overpack was found to be damaged. Upon opening the overpack, the composite packaging (a steel drum with plastic receptacle) was also noticed to be damaged, unrelated to the damage on the overpack. The contents had been declared as Toxic liquid, corrosive, organic, n.o.s (Dichloromethane/methylene, chloride, cresol) UN2927 and although the overpack had been correctly marked and labelled, the composite packaging had not, but bore a large label stating ‘Damage has been accepted by customer’. See also 2011-0552 and 2010-0690. No further CAA action possible.

NOTOC error. Prior to departure Team Leader noticed the trim of 56 x 21.17L of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s (Epoxy Resin), UN3082 not annotated so that NOTOC would have been incorrect. Operator investigated and the root cause appears to be a systems fault as the cargo agent completed the process correctly. No further CAA action possible.
Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, an unsecured Battery powered vehicle, UN3171 was found in the hold and the location station was not informed there was an electric mobility aid on board. It was tied to the net, but not adequately and the wheelchair moved in flight and was found leaning against the net. It was identified that a briefing and an Alert was not clear to the staff, because the right place to secure the lashing material was not indicated and the load masters believed it was enough to attach it to the security net. A further alert was issued with the proper procedure for securing all electric mobility aids inside a container properly tied with rings. The Operator's internal procedures were reinforced and signed by all load masters. A periodic review by the Training Department was carried out every two weeks using audio visual aids and provided to all dispatch/operations & ramp staff. No further CAA action possible.

Incorrect documentation. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 200 Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. Whilst the outer and inner packaging bore the required lithium battery handling label, the consignment was not accompanied by a document as required by Section II of the packing Instruction. Appropriate operator action taken. Email sent to shipper explaining the requirement. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment which contained 6 x 10kg of Aviation regulated solid, n.o.s (Benztropine Mesylate), UN3335, was found unsecured. Operator investigated and responded that the root cause was due to staff error. Preventive action taken and staff monitored for compliance of correct securing procedures. Referred to South African Authority. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Life-saving appliances, self-inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 20oz cylinder of Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The box contained an inner box which bore an ADR limited quantity label but the outer box was not marked or labelled and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment was found to contain 3 boxes of Radio active cargo. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. It is suspected cargo not offloaded from previous flight. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x 50ml Flammable Liquid n.o.s., UN1993 and 1 can of Aerosols, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly secured dangerous goods. Prior to departure a unit load device was found to contain an Electric mobility wheelchair, (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) incorrectly secured and not on a spreader. Operator investigating and responded that the handling agents normal practise is not to use spreaders and that the procedures does not state how many tie down points to use. Operator informed Handling agent that spreaders must be used for all electric wheelchairs. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Airbag modules, UN0503. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The Shipper and freight forwarder were each visited by CAA which established that the shipper had no knowledge of dangerous goods requirements and had offered the shipment in ignorance. The freight forwarder traded in accordance with BIFA standard terms and conditions which required pre-notification of dangerous goods, which was not provided by the Shipper. The member of the freight forwarder’s staff that processed this shipment had not been provided dangerous goods training within the previous 24 months. Dangerous goods hazard labels and the description ‘airbag assemblies’ on the shipper’s invoice were both missed by this member of staff. Assurances were given by the shipper and forwarder that appropriate corrective and preventative measures had been implemented. No further CAA action necessary.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a unit load device was found with a consignment of dangerous goods secured incorrectly. The Operator investigated and the staff member responsible for the build was retrained in the correct restraint procedures. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 250ml Flammable liquid, n.o.s., UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Repeat offender. The shipper investigated. The root cause of the incident was due to an employee in an overseas office responsible for managing product information, who overrode the system and identified products as non-hazardous that were classified as dangerous goods by the shipper's suppliers. Staff carried out six-sided checks to identify potential dangerous goods, but believed what the system told them rather than what was in front of them. Staff were also instructed to alert experienced helpers when they were not sure about a product, but this was not done. The shipper's Legal Department ensured that training was enhanced and safety audits were introduced and undertaken at all fulfillment centres. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Three pallets containing Lithium-ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3481 were found unsecured in the hold. Two out of three pallets were found unsecured in the hold and the pallet that was loaded last (near the door) was tied down using only two pieces of rope on the top. The one loaded first was in contact with the compartment rear wall. There was damage to the wall of the compartment, but it was rated as minor by the ground engineer and the aircraft was released to depart without a delay. The operator provided the air waybill which confirmed that the consignments containing ‘Lithium ion batteries’ were packed in accordance with Section II Packing Instruction 966 and it was confirmed that Lithium Battery Handling labels were affixed to the pallets. DGI Contacted the freight forwarder and advised the person who signed the air waybill to ensure the Proper Shipping Name in accordance with the Technical Instructions was entered in future. No further CAA action required.

Loading error. An electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was loaded into the hold with passengers’ baggage. The Operator investigated. There was already a delay to the flight and to prevent a further loading delay, the Ramp Team Leader took the decision to volumetrically load the Unit Load Device (ULD) with baggage. Because of time constraints placed on him, he felt this solution was quicker than removing the already loaded cargo from Hold 5 than to secure the mobility aid as per the Standard Operating Procedure. The Loading Team was not aware of the mobility aid until 10 minutes after departure and decided that there was enough baggage to secure the electric mobility aid via the volumetric method and used that option and advised the Dispatcher of the new location of the scooter. The Team Leader was shown the photos and admitted that he knew what the correct procedure was, but felt that he was using his initiative. The interviewing Ramp Manager made it quite clear that this was unacceptable and that the initial delay was caused by Central Load Planning, therefore he should have correctly secured the scooter. The incident was logged on the Team Leader’s performance record. All Team Leaders were reminded that an empty ULD must be used to containerise mobility scooters and an electric wheelchair. The incident was logged on the Team Leader’s performance record. All Team Leaders were reminded that an empty ULD must be used to containerise mobility scooters and an electric wheelchair.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 150ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and 1 x 6.8ml of Paint related materials, UN1263. Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment which contained 1 x 18Kg of Toxic solid, organics, n.o.s, UN2811 was found unsecured. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival a mobility aid (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found incorrectly secured in the rear hold and was buried under pushchairs. The Operator’s handling agent at the station of origin investigated. The Loading Supervisor confirmed that the pushchairs were not loaded originally as the photograph suggested, but were loaded behind and at the side of the wheelchair and it was believed they moved during take off and landing. However, loading staff rushed to load the wheelchair because of an incoming delayed flight. The Operator confirmed that all aircraft were fitted with bags of tie-down equipment to secure mobility aids in the hold. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment which contained dangerous goods was found unsecured. No further CAA action possible.
Leakage of dangerous goods. During a pre-flight inspection by the First Officer and ground personnel prior to departure, a slight smell of solvent was emitting from a consignment of Printing Ink, UN1210. On closer inspection, there were now obvious signs of damage or leakage. Upon arrival the consignment was offloaded and a further inspection was carried out and evidence of a leakage at the base was found. The consignment was broken down and a nail protruding from a crate alongside was found to have punctured one of the jerricans. Appropriate action taken by the operator, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. A consignment containing 1 x 25Kg of Nitrogen, refrigerated liquid, UN1977 was accompanied by an air waybill with the statement ‘cryogenic flask containing bovine semen declared - not restricted as per special provision A152’. The handling agent check-weighed the consignment showing a 20Kg discrepancy. This was referred to the shipper who then stated that the consignment also did not comply with SP A152. The shipper explained that the flask was dual use. The tank was designed for both vapour shipment and liquid storage. An absorbent layer in the base of the storage tank enables them to be charged with nitrogen and employed as dry shippers with holding times of up to thirty days. Once at the final destination, the tanks can be filled with liquid nitrogen as normal and used for long term storage. In this case, the excess liquid nitrogen had not been decanted prior to shipping and so SP A152 was not applicable. Having identified their own error the shipper submitted a full dangerous goods transport document to the carrier and undertook to speak to the staff concerned and review their procedures to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action necessary.

Suspected leakage of dangerous goods. On arrival a pungent odour emitting from 3 Jerricans of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s (D-Limonene, UN3082, totalling 64.5L. 2013-0514 27/04/2013 Gatwick

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 25Kg of Lithium batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing Lithium batteries and was accompanied by an air waybill, which verified by the freight forwarder that it fell under Section II of Packing Instruction 966. The Operator contacted their cargo agent and believed that a NOTOC was mandatory and that the consignment should have been offloaded. The cargo handling agent verified the regulations to the Operator. However, the flight crew were concerned that lithium batteries could be loaded without a NOTOC, although 'Dangerous goods not required to appear in the information to the pilot-in-command' was in Table 7-9, within Part 7, Chapter 4, Page 3 of the ICAO Technical Instructions. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival Class 6 dangerous goods were found unsecured in a unit load device. No further CAA action possible.

Suspected incorrectly labelled dangerous goods. During the dangerous goods acceptance check, one overpack consisting of several metal drums shrink-wrapped on a pallet was noticed to have a tear in the shrink wrap, beneath which ‘cargo aircraft only’ labels were seen. The consignment had been declared as being suitable for carriage on passenger aircraft. In addition, the packing instruction for two of the substances involved required combination packaging, but only single packagings had been used. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Prior to departure, a consignment of dangerous goods were found incorrectly secured and incorrect orientation of boxes. No further CAA action possible.

Loading error of dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found secured to the hold netting instead of to approved tie-down points. The electric mobility aid tag was unsigned. All staff involved in loading the aircraft were disciplined and received a copy of the Station instruction for Electric Mobility aids loading /securing. All station staff received a reminder of the relevant procedure on read/sign basis. Ramp supervisors received a written instruction to cross check and guarantee the proper loading/securing on every occasion. All staff have also been reminded on the need to correctly complete and sign the appropriate loading document. No further CAA action required.

Loading error of dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found inside the hold, it had not been deactivated. The PRM supplier claimed that they had disconnected the battery cable together with the PRM prior to handing the chair over for loading. Unfortunately as there were no photos or other evidence the aircraft operator could not challenge this claim. An investigation of the flight file showed that both sections of the Electric Mobility Aid Loading Form were completed and signed. The PRM provider stated that their Agent on this case was very experienced. Upon consultation with the PRM provider it was established that their training regime features at least an annual classroom refresher as well as read & sign instructions/updates throughout the year. The PRM providers’ work instruction on handling PRMs travelling with their own EMAs (in German) in general appeared similar to the operator’s instructions, and most importantly state in bold that “in case of any doubt the electric wheelchair is not safe” (i.e. not deactivated and isolated) “it must not be loaded”. Operator shared the latest material on their Extranet with the PRM Provider. They will provide their staff with this material and use this case to re-raise awareness about correct EMA loading. Provider further CAA action possible.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passenger's hold baggage was found to contain Ethyl Chloride BP, UN1037. Police questioned passenger and items confiscated. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, several boxes of dangerous goods were not restrained and were incorrectly loaded and one box was damaged during the flight. It was determined that the loading team failed to load the aircraft in accordance with the standard loading procedures when handling dangerous goods cargo, due to not following the procedures in the Dangerous goods manual. Ramp staff also failed to carry a pocket sized DG awareness card for quick reference, though this is not a requirement. The Ramp team were made aware of the importance of loading and securing cargo to the required standard prior to departure and to always ensure packages were loaded as per orientation handling label. The Ground Handling Agent issued a memo explaining the procedures for loading dangerous goods cargo and dangerous goods awareness cards were issued to every trained member of staff. No further CAA action possible.

2013-0586 14/05/2013 Gibraltar

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Incorrect labelling. A consignment of lithium metal batteries, contained in equipment was seemingly appropriately packed, marked, labelled and declared as suitable for carriage on a passenger aircraft, but was erroneously labelled 'LITHIUM METAL BATTERIES – FORBIDDEN FOR TRANSPORT ABOARD PASSENGER AIRCRAFT'. This label went unnoticed until after carriage onboard a passenger aircraft. In response to this occurrence, the accepting agent proposed to increase the technical training aspects of the DG CAT 7/8 training in regards to Lithium Batteries, issue a Lithium Battery Awareness Operational Alert, retrain all personnel that failed to notice the labelling of the package, conduct and report biweekly internal audit for the DG Process and perform two unannounced audits of the facility within 2013 with specific focus on the DG process compliance. No further CAA action necessary.

Electric mobility aid arrived unsecured. On arrival, an electric mobility aid (Battery powered vehicle UN3171) was found unsecured in the rear hold and surrounded by baggage and pushchairs. The Operator investigated and determined that the wheelchair was not correctly secured in the hold prior to departure from station of origin. The ground crew shift was operating with an 'acting up' supervisor on an extremely busy day and the team made an incorrect decision not to secure the mobility aid as required in order to make an on time departure. All ground crew were aware of the Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) and underwent the required training. The Dispatcher was not advised about the wheelchair until boarding and was made available to the loading team late in the turnaround, which put additional pressure on the acting supervisor. He was interviewed by the Airport Services Manager and told that safety was more important than an SOP. The station recruited two more supervisors and the practice of 'acting up' ceased as a result of this incident. All loading staff were required to view the CAA/GHOST 'One Team One Goal' DVD again. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a chainsaw with some residue fuel (Dangerous goods in machinery, UN3363). 2013-0743 21/05/2013 Manchester
Handling agent. An electric mobility aid (EMA) (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) arrived at the boarding gate without an Electric Mobility Aid tag and without instructions on how to make the EMA safe. The tag was completed at the gate by the Dispatcher, and it was verified by the loading team that the EMA contained a (wet cell) spillable battery and the flight was delayed whilst it was established if the EMA could be transported safely. The EMA was secured and carried in accordance with the regulations and the actual weight was noted. The Floor Walker made the error, due to the pressure of passengers at check-in. The procedures for EMAs were added to daily brief along with clear instructions to the floor walkers to process EMAs at a designated desk. This was covered in the training and the Host was spoken to regarding the incident who fully understood the requirements for EMAs for the future. It was also marked on their personal file to highlight any trends in their performance. No further CAA action possible.

Incorrectly declared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 16 x Lithium ion batteries, UN3480, totalling 60.8Kg. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, however information on the documentation was net weight not gross weight. Referred to FAA by operator. No further CAA (UK) action required.

2013-0606 21/05/2013 East Midlands

2013-0600 21/05/2013 East Midlands
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment declared to be packed in accordance with Packing Instruction 964, and consequently requiring UN specification packaging was noted to be packaged in a plywood crate bearing a UN specification mark with a bogus GB package test certificate number. The shipper had appointed a packager to prepare the consignment on their behalf. See also 2011-0382 and 2008-012. Whilst the packer held a current dangerous goods by air qualification, they erroneously believed that their status as an MoD approved packer entitled them to manufacture UN specification packagings and mark them with their own identification mark. The packing company acknowledged receipt of detailed advice provided by CAA in this regard. No further CAA action necessary.

2013-0589 22/05/2013 Hayes
Mis-marked dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment declared to be packed in accordance with Packing Instruction 964, and consequently requiring UN specification packaging was noted to be packaged in a plywood crate bearing a UN specification mark with a bogus GB package test certificate number. The shipper had appointed a packager to prepare the consignment on their behalf. See also 2011-0382 and 2008-012. Whilst the packer held a current dangerous goods by air qualification, they erroneously believed that their status as an MoD approved packer entitled them to manufacture UN specification packagings and mark them with their own identification mark. The packing company acknowledged receipt of detailed advice provided by CAA in this regard. No further CAA action necessary.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Smoke grenade. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper described themselves as a 'Local Mail, Courier & Postal Service Point' indicating that the goods may have been forwarded on behalf of another person or company. Interim letter sent to the shipper. Statement made 13/9/2013.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Flammable liquid, UN1993, and 1 x Corrosive liquid, UN1760. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Email sent to shipper requesting explanation and corrective action. No response received. No further CAA action possible.

Non occurrence. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain suspected Articles, pressurised, hydraulic, UN3164. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper has confirmed that items are not precharged and are only tested with water prior to despatch. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products, UN1266, totalling 840ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found inside the hold, buried under passenger baggage. No further CAA action possible.

Incorrectly secured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment which contained 1 x 1L Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s (Dibutyltin Dilaurate), UN3082, and 1 x 25L of Flammable liquid, n.o.s (Naphtha (Petroleum), Hydrotreated heavy mixture), UN1993, was found in unit load devise secured with 1 restraining strap and not secured in all directions so was unsecured. Outstation contacted and rebriefed all staff on correct lashing procedures to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment which contained 1 x 24g of Life-saving appliances, self inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However, it was considered likely that the consignment met the provision of Packing Instruction 955 due to the size of the cylinder. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a cylinder of Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2013-0307, 2012-1462, 2010-0700, 2010-0695, 2005-082 and 2003-163. Awaiting response for 2013-0307. No response received. No further CAA action possible.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0375. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised they reviewed their posting and packaging procedures to ensure no further flammable aerosols were sent by air and if they sent any restricted items they would comply with the applicable regulations. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured electric mobility aid. Upon arrival, an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found unsecured inside the forward hold. The Operator investigated with the station of origin and it was identified that there was a lack of awareness and understanding of the importance of securing electric mobility aids. The Operator’s Safety Alert, which was sent out in March was used to again explain the importance to staff, although, the Operator did not have an operation in the station of origin until May 2013. A ‘read and sign’ notification was issued to ramp staff, about securing special loads in the hold and the issue was raised at a weekly meeting with all ramp staff. Furthermore, the Ramp Supervisor was actioned to carry out random checks of the holds. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. A consignment which contained Aviation regulated liquid, n.o.s., UN3334 was found inside a unit load device incorrectly secured. Staff at outstation made aware of correct procedures to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Damaged dangerous goods. Upon loading a unit load device a consignment was found to contain 12kg of Dry ice, UN1845, that had been damaged. Operator investigating. No further CAA action possible.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Damaged and incorrectly packed dangerous goods. During processing in a freight forwarder’s facility, an overpack containing Airbag modules, UN3268, was found to be damaged. Upon opening the overpack, it was noticed the outer UN specification boxes used were of a type which required special tape to be used, but instead, normal parcel tape had been used. In addition, some of the airbag modules were loose within the boxes. The shipper explained they had not received any particular tape when they ordered the packagings, but had subsequently received it together with correct procedures for closing the packagings. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 600ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950 and 2 x 5L tins of Paint related material, UN11263. The tins were each marked with UN1263 but the consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised the incident occurred because of human error. A meeting with their freight agent confirmed all future consignments would be shipped by sea. They also amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.
Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found in Cpt 5 surrounded by bags, not strapped and loaded on its side. Battery was taken (disconnected) but also not secured. LIRF and LFC contained no record of the electric wheelchair. The ramp agent completed the LIRF but did not include any info regarding the electric wheelchair booked and/or any specifics regarding special loading. Ramp supervisor and/or loading staff did not follow the operator’s procedures regarding strapping of electric wheelchairs. Electric Wheelchair load form was not completed. MVT MSG did not include any info regarding electric wheelchair. Operators investigation checked the procedures and training of the GHA and that previous read and signs issued by the airline had been distributed. No further CAA action necessary.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Prior to departure, a consignment which contained Flammable liquid, corrosive, n.o.s. (ethanol guanidiniumthiocyanate), UN2924, totalling 576ml and 1 x 48ml of Ethanol Solution, UN1170, was found inside a unit load device incorrectly secured. Load Manager discussed with load team the correct procedure and reminded them to shrink wrap similar loads and secure with second strap in future to prevent reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Operator variation error. Upon arrival, a consignment was found to contain Radioactive material, excepted package, UN2911. No CAA action required.

Operator variation not complied with. During transfer of cargo, it was noticed that a consignment contained Lithium metal batteries, UN3090. The operator had an Operator Variation stating they did not carry lithium batteries and so the consignment was off-loaded. Appropriate operator action taken, no further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 120g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 and Paint related material, UN1263 totalling 220g. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 675ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

NOTOC error. Upon arrival, a consignment was found to contain Lithium metal batteries contained in equipment, UN3091. The consignment was marked and labelled and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document but was not noted on the NOTOC. Referred to the Belgium and German authorities for investigation. An investigation by the German authorities advised the officer stated he had no recollection of any marking, labelling or documentation for the consignment. The air waybill also did not indicate the consignment contained dangerous goods. To prevent further incidents occurring the officers were reminded to double check consignments before acceptance. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival at the consignee premises, a consignment was found to contain Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s., UN2811. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Insufficient information available. No further CAA action possible.

2013-1189  29/05/2013 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products, UN1266, totalling 400ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Batteries, wet filled with acid, UN2794. The consignment bore a Class 8 corrosive hazard warning label but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letters received from the shipper, freight agent and handling agent. It was advised that originally, both spillable and non-spillable batteries were included on the purchase order. However, the information from the purchase order relating to the non-spillable battery was copied to both lines on the shipping papers. This resulted in a dangerous goods transport document not being raised. The shipper advised they had implemented corrective actions to ensure a check was built into the review and approve the packing list before submission to the freight agent and further training was also put in place. The freight agent advised they did not operate out of their own warehouse and a third party received their cargo, which was where the Class 8 label was overlooked. Following the incident they subsequently controlled all their own goods and operated stricter checks when receiving consignments. No further CAA action required.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 275ml plastic bottle of Corrosive liquid, n.o.s., UN1760. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2005-110. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised it was not their normal practice to send dangerous goods by air. Their operatives were advised that the correct procedures should be followed. They also supplied a Safety Data Sheet, which stated the product was not classified as dangerous goods, however advice from a chemical advisor suggested that the datasheet was incorrect and out of date and that the product should have been classified as dangerous goods. Information forwarded to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Not dangerous goods. During security screening, two boxes were each found to contain 40 x gas springs; Articles pressurised, hydraulic, UN3164. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper later confirmed the gas springs met special provision A114 and therefore were not subject to the Technical Instructions. The shipper was advised to mark the package and/or documentation for future consignments. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x 16g cartridges of Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Articles, pressurized, hydraulic, UN3164. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. It is possible consignment complies with Special provision 114, however documentation evidence is required to show this and particularly that the fire test requirement has been carried out. No response received. No further CAA action possible.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-1042. Letter sent to the shipper who responded and amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Aerosol flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The shipper explained the aerosol was part of a kit which had been received from the USA and it had not been marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods at that time. As a result, the shipper confirmed they had revised their procedures to prevent future occurrences. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 750ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2011-0790. Letter sent to the shipper who responded the root cause was human error. Shipper has amended their procedures to ensure no further reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. <td>Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Communication from the freight forwarder stated that a Safety Data Sheet (SDS) was sent to the operator with the package. The Operator confirmed that an SDS was not supplied, but a letter was provided by the company who wanted to ship the package, which asked that a statement that the battery was 'Not Restricted' and met 'Special Provision A67' should be placed on the package. This was not done as confirmed by the operator's photographs. The freight forwarder was sent the letter, but ignored the DGI's request for an explanation as to why it was not attached. Instead, the freight forwarder continued to refer to the SDS and stated that it would be attached with future packages and asked the DGI for an explanation as to why the package was snapped. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 400 x Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter received from the shipper, who conducted an investigation. The consignee asked for the packages to be collected from a third party shipper rather than from the shipper. An air waybill was raised internally by a customer service agent, however, the agent did not follow procedures and declared the contents of the packages as 'boxes'. The agent was made aware of the error. The shipper implemented a number of measures to prevent a recurrence. The incident was going to be referred to the Investigation and Enforcement Team for formal investigation, but this was not possible once the shipper admitted the error and wrote to the DGO. The DGI visited the shipper on 10 September 2013. See related File Note. No further CAA action possible.

Letter sent to the Freight Forwarder who responded that this was due to timing issue of documentation and human error. Dangerous goods refresher training organised for staff involved with the incident and new procedures for dangerous goods documentation implemented. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found inside a container, unsecured and not on a spreader, surrounded by passenger baggage. Operator investigating. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 boxes marked and labelled as containing batteries, wet, non spillable, UN1800 and one box bearing a lithium battery handling label. However, the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The freight forwarder advised that they shipper had not pre-notified them to expect packages of dangerous goods and due to the urgency of the shipment and because the consignment had not been off-loaded from the collection vehicle prior to delivery from the shipper to the operator, the labels had not been noticed. A dangerous goods transport document had been received by the freight forwarder attached to the other documents but had also not been noticed. Appropriate corrective action taken by freight forwarder. No further CAA action required.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2013-0710 and 2006-393. Letter sent to the shipper for DGOR 2013-0710 and a response was received which advised the root cause was human error and appropriate processes were put in place to prevent further occurrences. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 15 x 170g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain a 6L Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The box was marked and labelled but the outer box the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper and agent. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival, several pieces of Class 9 dangerous goods were found unsecured surrounded by baggage. No further CAA action possible.

Mis-packed dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain excess amount of lithium metal batteries permitted per package (Lithium metal batteries, contained in equipment, UN3091). No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products, UN1266, totalling 400ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

NOTOC Error. Prior to departure a consignment was found to contain dangerous goods that were not noted on the NOTOC.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 300ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-0765. Incident discussed with shipper who confirmed they were unaware an aerosol was classified as dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Loading error of dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found in the hold with battery still connected.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During freight checks, a consignment was found to contain Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The overpack was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods, but the inner packages bore the lithium battery labels. The consignment was not accompanied by a document as required by Section II of the packing Instruction. See also 2013-0569 and 2013-0687. Letter sent to the freight forwarder as consignment overpacked by them. The freight forwarded responded and advised they interviewed their Head of Operations who informed them the incident occurred because of an error by a member of their staff, who was put forward for retraining. They advised all their staff had received awareness training and some had received full training from an approved training company. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 10 x 4L of Potassium hydroxide solution, UN1814. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However the shipper declaration stated Sodium Hydroxide Solution, UN1824. See also 2007-394. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment was found to contain Dry Ice, UN1845 was unsecured in hold. The consignment was marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator investigated and advised that staff members training up to date and was monitored. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR 2004-340. Letter sent to the shipper who responded the incident was caused by human error. The staff member given further dangerous goods training and monitored to ensure correct procedures followed. Further information requested from shipper. No response received. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No response received. No further CAA action possible.

NOTOC error. Undeclared dangerous goods. Prior to departure, a unit which contained 12Kg of Dry Ice, UN1845, was found incorrectly loaded in hold. Operator investigating. No further CAA action possible.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found secured inside a container, with the battery separate and secured to the hold netting.
Incorrect declared dangerous goods. During the acceptance check of a consignment of 8 packages, it was noticed that one fibreboard box containing Esters n.o.s., UN3272 declared as packing group II was damaged. The package was sent for re-packing and upon opening, it was found the inner packaging contained 1 x 10L plastic inner packaging, whilst the packing instruction permitted a maximum of 5L per plastic inner packaging. Upon opening up four other packages, 2 of which contained UN1866, Resin solution, the same problem was found. The company that prepared the dangerous goods transport document explained they had made an error on the dangerous goods transport document showing the products as packing group II rather than III as described in the safety datasheet. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 3 x 24g of Compressed gas, n.o.s., UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2013-0941, 2013-0940, 2013-0828 and 2006-178. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised the error occurred because of an increased volume of orders and employing temporary staff. The staff were trained but were not experienced. To prevent further incidents occurring they implemented further checks and all orders required a signature form senior management. They also advised they discussed the matter with their agent. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 2L Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The outer packaging was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, however the inner packaging bore a Class 2 Non Flammable Compressed Gas label. See also 2011-0614. Letter sent to the shipper who responded the root cause was human error. Dangerous goods training completed for persons within packing department and all dangerous goods products segregated and signage erected to ensure no further occurrences. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment was found to contain Flammable liquid, n.o.s, UN1993 unsecured in unit load device. Operator investigated and could not find root cause as straps were used in build. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, totalling 800ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 20 x 2Kg of Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The outer packaging was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However, the inner packaging bore Class 2.2 hazard labels and UN1044 label. See also 2013-0808 and 2013-0841. Letter to shipper under 2013-0841. Response received from the Quality Assurance Manager. An investigation was made into all three incidents, which concluded was the result of changing their courier company. The shipper specified to the courier company that their packages were not meant to travel by air transport and the matter was addressed and all addresses to Northern Island and islands were blocked. A meeting was requested with the shipper, however, during a telephone conversation with the Quality Assurance Manager, he reassured the DGI that a similar incident would not occur. The DGI left a message with the Warehouse Manager to call and discuss the instructions given to the courier company, but he did not call back. Due to the time lapse, a decision was made to close off the incidents. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 10 x 32.5ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. Inner boxes found inside the outer box bore UN1950 printed inside a diamond but the outer box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and the consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 1Kg of Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 48 x 450ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper, who responded that the root cause was human error due to being a new member of staff. Additional dangerous goods training has now been completed for all staff and products assessed for correct labelling and marking. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Sodium hydroxide solution, UN1824. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However a material safety data sheet was found inside inner packaging. Letter sent to the shipper who responded the root cause was human error. New procedures were implemented which included dangerous goods training for appropriate personnel. No further CAA action required.
Mishandled electric mobility aid. Upon arrival, an electric mobility scooter was found in the forward hold, but the circuits had not inhibited and the station of origin had not pre-notified the station of arrival via the local messaging system that an electric mobility aid was on board. The Operator asked the ground handling agent at the station of origin to investigate. The ground handling agent identified that the root cause of the incident was a lack of understanding of the requirements. All staff were reminded of the procedures and passengers were advised by check-in agents to use an airport wheelchair, as stated in the Operator's Ground Services Notice. The handling agent apologised for the failure and reassured the Operator that they would carry out preventative measures to avoid a recurrence. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods in mail. During security screening of mail, two parcels were found to contain dangerous goods, one containing 2 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266 and one containing 7 x Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, totalling 0.5L. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 410gm of Carbon dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 25 x fibreboard boxes of Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3481. 11 pieces of the consignment did not bear the required lithium battery handling label whilst the labels that were on the other packages were not complete. Referred to the United Arab Emirates’ CAA. No further CAA (UK) action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 11 x fibreboard boxes of Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3481. 4 pieces of the consignment did not bear the required lithium battery handling label whilst the labels that were on the other packages were not complete. Referred to the United Arab Emirates’ CAA. No further CAA (UK) action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening on 25 June 2013, a consignment was found to contain approx 7 tins marked as UN1263, Flammable liquid and 11 plastic cans of 'suspected' flammable liquid. These were returned to the shipper with a notice stating they were undeclared dangerous goods and must be sent correctly. On 27 June 2013, the same packages were re-presented to the operator and the shipper amended the invoice to state the tins of flammable liquid were 'non-flammable'. Further photographs were obtained from the operator. The shipper provided a Material Safety Data Sheet and verified that the 11 cans were not classified as dangerous goods. The shipper’s Marketing and Sales Manager could not explain why the invoice was changed, except that it was due to 'confusion' and he also enquired about dangerous goods training. Letter sent to shipper. No response received. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 3 x 2L of undeclared Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Also see 2008-248 and 2005-381. Letter sent to shipper, who stated that the person who normally prepared their consignments for transport was off sick and therefore someone unfamiliar with the requirements prepared the consignment. The shipper also confirmed they would no longer send fire extinguishers outside of the UK. Further information sent to shipper explaining just specifying the UK would not be adequate since some journeys within the UK would involve sea transport, which their consignments also did not comply with. They would therefore need to have a system in place to ensure that no dangerous goods (not just fire extinguishers) could be sent anywhere other than the UK mainland. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, totalling 800ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Consignment represented for 2013-0778. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 33g cylinder of Compressed gas, UN1956. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2008-253 and 2009-0314. Letter sent to the shipper who responded and advised the incident occurred because a staff member had not followed the correct procedures. The staff member was reprimanded and received further training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 500g of Carbon Dioxide, UN1013. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x 500ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Batteries, wet, non-spillable, UN2800. However, there was no information on the air waybill to indicate it was 'not restricted' in accordance with special provision A67. Letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products, UN1266, totalling 55.4ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x 3.95Kg of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s. (Epoxyresin), UN3082; 4 x 500ml of Amines, liquid, corrosive, n.o.s (Cyclaliphetic Amine), UN2735 and 80ml of Amines, liquid, corrosive, n.o.s. (Alphatic Amine), UN2735. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper who responded and advised the staff member failed to double check his entry on the freight agents website, where the dangerous goods section defaults to 'no' for non dangerous goods. To prevent further incidents occurring they updated and reissued their procedures; added an additional validation check and agreed with their supplier of dangerous goods consignments that they send them directly to their customers. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 x 500ml plastic containers of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s., UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Further information from the shipper advised dangerous goods consignments for air would be handled and prepared by a specialist agent. The incident occurred because their system advised their products were not dangerous goods. Their system was reviewed and rectified to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 300ml Aerosol, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-1424. Letter sent to the shipper who responded and advised they would investigate the incident fully and would contact us with their findings. Further information advised they had collated information on who was likely to send dangerous goods and they were informed what constitutes dangerous goods and the correct procedure for sending them. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a 204ml Aerosol, flammable UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2013-0651 and 2013-0632. Letter sent to the shipper, awaiting reply. No response received. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 480ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

2013-0791 28/06/2013 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The outer packaging was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However the inner packaging bore Class 2 compressed gas and UN1044 labels. Letter sent to the shipper who responded that this was due to procedure errors. All safety store employees trained in dangerous goods and all procedures reviewed to ensure no further incidents occur. No further CAA action required.

2013-0894 28/06/2013 Beijing

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment was found to contain Radioactive material, excepted package - instruments, UN2911. The consignment bore a radioactive material excepted quantity marking, but the required text was not shown on the air waybill. Referred to the German Authorities. No further CAA action required.

2013-0806 29/06/2013 Heathrow

Unsecured dangerous goods. Prior to departure an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found unsecured at front door of aft hold. Operator investigating. No further CAA action possible.

2013-0799 29/06/2013 Heathrow

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not documented on the air waybill. Letter sent to the freight forwarder who responded and advised the shipper didn't make them aware the consignment contained dangerous goods, although the consignment bore a lithium battery label. They amended their procedures to prevent future incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

2013-0790 29/06/2013 East Midlands

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6Kg Fire extinguisher, UN1044. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Passenger baggage. During security screening, a passenger’s baggage was found to contain 1 x cylinder of Oxygen, Compressed, UN1072. The item was removed by security/the operator. Appropriate operator action taken. No further CAA action required.

2013-0775 01/07/2013 Stansted

Documentation error. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain a Lithium ion battery contained in equipment (a laptop), UN3481. Since the laptop contained a single battery, no marking or labelling was required, but the consignment was not accompanied by the document required by Section II of the packing instruction. Incident discussed with the shipper and requirements explained. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Turpentine substitute, UN1300, totalling 575ml. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 117g of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 250ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Perfumery products, UN1266, totalling 130ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Suspected undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was suspected to contain Nitrous oxide, UN1070. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to shipper for DGOR 2013-0754. The shipper responded and advised the cylinders sent were empty, which should be denoted on the box but was not done on this occasion. The warehouse staff were reminded of the procedures. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See actions. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Incorrect documentation and labelling. During handling of a consignment in transit, two boxes were noticed to bear lithium battery handling labels indicating they contained Lithium ion batteries, UN3480 in accordance with Section II of the packing instruction. However, the required statement had not been included on the air waybill. Initially, the shipper claimed they had only raised the house air waybill and therefore that the operator had not completed the air waybill correctly, but subsequently, they also confirmed the consignment should have met Section IB of the packing instruction and therefore should also have borne a Class 9 hazard label. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Prior to departure a unit load device was checked and a large barrel of suspected dangerous goods was found to be unsecured. Unit offloaded, operator investigating. No further CAA action possible.

Passenger error. Prior to departure the aircraft commander noticed the dispatch documentation indicated a passenger (a police officer) was carrying 33Kgs of Cartridges, small arms, UN0012. Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening on arrival, a metal container within the consignment contained 4 x Cartridges, power device, UN0323. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing Class 9 UN 2990 Life-saving appliances, self-inflating and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document stating UN2990, Life Saving Appliances, Self Inflating. The box was prepared for shipment at the station of origin and was accepted by the Operator’s staff, who were certified in the role of shipper and acceptance staff. When the box arrived, it was transferred to the relevant section and opened by the staff who noted that 4 off cartridges UN 0323 1.4S were removed from their installed location in the 2 survival packs and placed in the metal container. There were no markings and labels on the box to indicate that the cartridges were packed separately and there was no separate entry on the Shipper’s Declaration. Staff numbers at the origin had recently decreased and the individual who handled the package was not very experienced. As the package was presented to him (open) for preparation he thought incorrectly that the engineers had prepared it correctly and omitted to consider the container which contained the 4 off cartridges which were banded together in the container to prevent

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Radioactive Material Type A Package Special Form, UN3332. Originally consigned as UN2908 Radioactive Material Excepted Package- empty package. The documents were passed out to the Agent Agility for import clearance. Handling agent advised late PM on 22nd Jul that there was a probability that the shipment had been miss declared and should have in fact been declared as UN3332 Radioactive Material Type A Package Special Form. Readings taken on the surface of the package indicated readings of 12µSv/hr on one side of the package and 6µSv/hr, 3µSv/hr at each end and 4.2µSv/hr on the top of the package. These readings confirmed that the activity exceeds the max allowed for Radioactive Material Excepted Package is 5µSv/hr, as expected the readings from 1m away were 0Sv/hr. The package is currently held in our Radioactive Storage Container at Westpoint. We requested the consignee to provide documentation on the shipment so that we could assess in conjunction with our contacted RPAS. The documentation received from High Technology Sources Limited intimates that the shipment does in fact contain a Sealed Source of Ir192 with activity 1.216Ci / 46.67 GBq. File passed to RM - information requested from ONR

Smoking baggage. Passenger error. During unloading a passengers baggage hit the ground during offloading, and at that point the contents started smoking. The bag was placed on a ramp vehicle and driven away from the aircraft, where it was examined by the fire brigade. The fire brigade found that some cans containing a kind of industrial glue had started to leak, causing the contents to react chemically with each other. This reaction resulted in flame-less smoke. The glue turned out to be a two-component glue for marble. In total the bag contained 5 cans of 250ml plus one of 400ml. The COSHH coding of the substance was reported as R 37 and R 38 (aggravates respiratory system / skin); the GHS equivalent is most likely GHS 07. Referred to the State of Origin (and of the passenger) who responded to advise that the bag was subjected to automated screening so there was no opportunity to identify the prohibited dangerous goods. It was confirmed that all staff had current dangerous goods qualifications and had information on dangerous goods and passengers and notices were displayed to passengers at the airport. No further CAA action possible.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During transfer build, a consolidation was found to contain 2 drums of Toxic solid, organic, n.o.s. (olazapine), UN2811, totalling 55Kg. A Material Safety Data sheet was attached to the drums. The drums were suspected of not being UN specification. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The incident was reported to the Canadian Authority. The root cause was due to human error resulting in the dangerous goods leaving their warehouse without the proper documentation. The procedures were reviewed with their warehouse and office staff to ensure no reoccurrence. The packaging was found to be in compliance with the UN specification. Refresher training was recommended for handling staff at the point of acceptance because they failed to spot labelled dangerous goods. Further information from the Canadian authorities advised they had received a revised air waybill and a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 1 x 2L of undeclared Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Interim warning letter sent to shipper informing them of a formal investigation, however, the shipper responded. The parcel was sent for sea transport, which was agreed with their courier company. The shipper spoke to the courier company, who advised that the parcel was classed as 'lost' for a number of weeks and when it was eventually located by the courier company, it was not labelled or marked yet they decided to offer it for air transport without contacting the shipper. Had the shipper been contacted they would have had the goods back, as another package was sent to the customer. The courier company admitted that it was their error and not the fault of the shipper. As a result of this information, there were no grounds for a formal investigation against the shipper. No further CAA action possible.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Prior to departure the Captain concerned about information on NOTOC, checked hold for dangerous goods and found consignments incorrectly loaded. All dangerous goods were removed from the aircraft. The Operator investigated. The root cause was that the Ground Handling Agent did not realise that the packaging for Class 4.3 Dangerous Goods had to be waterproof and assumed that the Cargo agent had prepared the consignment correctly. The Team Leader stated that he understood that Class 4.3 meant ‘Dangerous When Wet’, but because the item was delivered to the aircraft side covered and that the weather was fine he did not realise that the consignment must be in waterproof packaging. The Dispatcher and Ramp Team Leader were interviewed and confirmed that the boxes secured on the wooden pallet showed the correct outer labelling except for one which was facing inwards. The 20kgs consignment was offloaded by the Pilot in Command because it was not waterproof. It was unknown whether the packaging within the boxes was waterproof and the cargo was sent back to the cargo agent with the reason for the offload. All Ramp Team Leaders and dispatchers were reminded that Class 4.3 dangerous goods must be checked and to check that the packaging was

See also 2013-1139, 2013-0837, 2013-0767, 2013-0750, 2013-0731. Letters sent to the shipper and the freight forwarder. A response from the freight forwarder advised they were unaware the consignment contained dangerous goods because they had been forwarded the incorrect MSDS. If they had been made aware the consignment contained dangerous they instruct a freight forwarder with dangerous goods training to handle it. A response from the shipper advised the error occurred because the person usually responsible for handling dangerous goods shipments was on holiday and the person who handled the shipment had not received dangerous goods training. They amended their procedures to prevent further incidents occurring. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. Upon passenger arriving at aircraft without Electric Mobility Aid (EMA) it was discovered that the EMA was packed in a suitcase and placed with baggage and the lithium batteries were in the passengers other luggage. The EMA was removed from baggage unit load device (ULD) and secured in separate ULD and Lithium batteries were stowed in aircraft cabin. Passenger briefed by Flight Officer and a signal sent to Venice to advise for return journey. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consolidation was found to contain 13 x 25L of Toxic liquid, organic, n.o.s. (10'10' Oxbisphenoxarsine), UN2810. The consolidation was shrinked wrapped, but was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The consignment of jerricans bore the Class 6 Toxic Hazard label, but they were not listed as dangerous goods on the air waybill. The shipper’s customer did not declare the jerricans contained dangerous goods, therefore, the freight forwarder did not prepare the air waybill accordingly and did not see the consignment, because it was collected by a third party courier company. The cargo handling agent also verified that the UN markings on the jerricans were obscured by the air waybill. The third party courier company investigated, but only verified that the drivers assumed that the correct paperwork was with the consignment and verified that the consignment was presented to the cargo handling agent in the manner it was collected. The shipper's customer was contacted by DGO, because they did not declare the consignment contained dangerous goods. Warning letter sent to the freight forwarder. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 9 fibreboard boxes was found to contain a total or more than 1000 mobile phones; Lithium batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. The consignment was not marked or labelled in accordance with Section II of the relevant packing instruction and was not accompanied by the required lithium battery documentation. Letter sent to the shipper who responded, explaining that they had prepared the consignment a few weeks prior to shipment, but that the consignee had arranged for the transport. However, they acknowledged their responsibility to prepare the consignment correctly and confirmed that although the staff concerned with the shipment were aware of the requirements, they would review their procedures and provide additional training to the appropriate staff. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Prior to departure an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found to be loaded incorrectly in hold surrounded by baggage. Battery which had been disconnected was removed and placed in cockpit on instructions from Captain.

Unmanifested dangerous goods leading to a NOTOC error. Upon arrival, during freight checks, a consignment was found not manifested. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods and was accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document but no checklist was attached to the original documentation, therefore, it was believed the consignment was not manifested and a NOTOC was not raised. Referred to the FAA for investigation. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Upon arrival the battery of an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found inside a hold between two planks of wood. NOTOC error. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was supposed to be in a unit load device. In fact, although the wheelchair was loaded in the hold, the passenger had the battery in the cabin.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 400ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 1L of Fire Extinguishers, UN1044 and 12 x 414ml of Aerosols, non-flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Passenger error. During security screening a passengers baggage was found to contain 1 x 3.78L of Corrosive liquid, basic inorganic, n.o.s. (contains sodium hydroxide), UN3266. Appropriate measures were taken by security staff. FAA were notified. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment was found to contain 1 x 1Kg of Lighters, UN1057. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of personnel effects was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, totalling 360ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found inside the hold unsecured. The EMA was one of the last items to be passed to the GHA because the passenger did not arrive before boarding commenced. The loaders placed the EMA in Hold 5 without correctly securing it and they stated in their interviews that they were aware it was supposed to be tied down, but felt that it was secured enough with the other items around it and left it as it was. The GHA failed to follow procedures, because they acted hastily to achieve an on time departure and although they received the EMA late, they rushed their duties in order to try and recover the time. The GHA was reminded that rushing in an attempt to ensure the aircraft departs on time was not a reason for failing to follow procedures. They were advised that similar incidents would result in disciplinary action in accordance with the procedures, concerning the acceptance/positioning/securing of EMAs. No further CAA action possible.

Incorrectly secured dangerous goods. Upon arrival 2 x electric mobility aids (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) were found secured to net in the hold. The holds were closed when the Team Leader returned to the aircraft side. When interviewed, the Team Leader had asked the GHA if they’d tied the EMAs securely to which they replied yes. The GHA did have rope, but did not have enough eyes to secure the EMAs correctly. They were approaching STD and decided to tie the EMAs to the nets rather than follow the standard procedure of secure fastenings (eyes) in order to protect OTP. The eyes were distributed by the Allocator in the Ramp Department on the day of the flight the stand-in staff to cover absence were not trained and allocators and stepped up to assist the operation. As a result they failed to ensure enough eyes were made available as they were concentrating on the allocation of manpower. The GHA requested the Operator forward the details of the EMAs expected for the following day. The information meant that Ramp Allocators,
Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Prior to departure an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found inside a container, surrounded by passenger baggage. The wheelchair was not on the original load sheet and was loaded in hold 4 alongside the remaining baggage. The layout of the aircraft allowed for EMAs to be loaded within the doorways of holds 1 and 4, separating EMAs from the baggage. However the layout of the netting at the time did not allow for this. The GOA dated May 2012 relating to loading of EMAs was not available on station as the handling did not commence until March 2013. The Central Load Control procedures at the time were to plan for EMAs to be loaded in with the remainder of the bags in hold 4, which was against the instruction contained in the GOA. The EMA was not planned in the loading and when it turned up at the gate, the loading of hold 1 was completed and the staff loaded the EMA in Hold 4 with bags. The staff were not aware of the requirement to separate baggage and EMA as the GOA was not available and the existing location of the netting made separation of EMAs difficult in the event of full hold baggage. It was ensured that all relevant GOAs were obtained and communicated to staff. Staff were briefed on the requirement to load EMAs separately to Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a fibreboard box was found to contain 2 x 100ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The box was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. No further CAA action possible.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found inside the hold with a manual wheelchair placed on top of it. The Ground Handling Agent at the station of origin investigated and it was apparent that the Load Master flight was trying to ensure a quick turnaround and instead of using the forward hold, which was empty, he loaded the mobility aid in the same hold as the hold baggage. However, he secured the mobility aid but did not segregate it from the baggage, which was not in accordance with the regulations. The loaders were all trained on the DVD “One Team One Goal” and the Team Leader underwent refresher training. The station of origin was reminded of the Operator’s Ground Service Notices and the Quick Reference Guide on the Safe Carriage of Electric Mobility Aids, which demonstrated the correct method of securing an electric mobility aid. It was noted by the Operator that whilst the incident was not acceptable, it was the first incident that occurred at that station, which was one of the Operator’s main bases for carrying electric mobility aids. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 120ml of Flammable liquid, n.o.s. (acetone solution), UN1993, and 4 x 9ml of Paint related material, UN1263. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During freight checks, a consignment of aircraft spares (Fire extinguishers, UN1044 and Oxygen, compressed, UN1072) was loaded into the hold, operated by an operator that was not approved to carry dangerous goods. The spares were marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but were not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The engineering company who had maintained the aircraft had placed the spares in their warehouse but the dangerous goods spares were placed a part and a note was placed on them stating ‘do not ship’. A representative contracted by the operator gained access and placed the items on board against the engineering’s instructions but they were unsuccessful explaining the importance of the matter, that it was illegal and the representative didn’t change his decision and the spares flew. No further CAA action possible.

Non-occurrence. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 6 x 0.5gm of Gas cartridges (flammable), UN2037. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. DGI visited the shipper's Head Office on 27 January 2014. See File Note saved under DGOR 2013-1628. They asked their suppliers to provide a Material Safety Data Sheet and their IT system was updated to identify which of their products were dangerous goods. They ensured that packages were checked before leaving the warehouse and that 'Do Not Fly' labels were affixed, because they were not meant to go by air. The shipper admitted that their packers were not formally trained and their 'training' was based on information provided by their courier company about Limited Quantities and UN numbers. It was evident that the shipper was not familiar with Special Provision A98. The shipper was advised that at least one member of staff must be undertake formal dangerous goods training in either the road, sea or air regulations and was provided with the list of CAA Approved Training Organisations. No further CAA action possible.

Passenger error. During security screening, a passengers baggage was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950 totalling 26.505L. Appropriate action was taken by security staff. Letter sent to Passenger. No further CAA action required.
Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found inside the hold with the battery still connected and surrounded by baggage. The flight ramp supervisor and dispatcher were interviewed and a written report was requested. The Flight ramp supervisor confirmed he supervised the EMA loading process and received it from the PRM agent and proceeded to load it in Hold 3 according to the loading information report. The EMA was folded like a suitcase with wheels and the battery was disconnected and he checked that the loading agent lashed it horizontally and it was secured. Both the loading flight supervisor and dispatcher confirmed that it was the first time they saw a folding EMA, but they followed the correct procedures. They were not totally aware that the bags had to be tied down or netted back if an EMA was in the same hold, due to the complexity of completing the tie down. As it was the size of a usual suitcase, other suitcases must have moved and covered the EMA. A reminder was cascaded to all staff involved; check-in agents, dispatchers and ramp agents. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, totalling 7.2L. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. However the inner packaging bore ADR Limited Quantity marking. Letter sent to the shipper who responded that procedures were in place but not adhered to. Remedial training was given to all admin and warehouse staff dealing with sample orders and a ‘double check’ system was put in place for the picker and packer to check documentation and the team leaders to sign off the consignments before shipment. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 x 275ml of Perfumery products, UN1266. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (EMA) (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found in the hold with battery. Following this and a number of similar incidents all team leaders have been issued with guidance on how to load electric wheelchairs and the correct methods for disconnecting and loading DG including lithium batteries. The loader in this event had been trained and his training was up to date, however he failed to follow his trained procedures.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 24 x 300ml of Aerosols, flammable, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper. The shipper responded that the company had procedures in place for printing documentation and labels, but this incident was the result of human error. A ‘double check’ system was put in place for the picker and packer to check documentation and the warehouse manager signed off the package before shipment. A retraining exercise was conducted and a DGSA from the courier company also provided training to the Product and Purchasing / Logistics Manager. No further CAA action possible.

The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also 2012-1223. Letter sent to the shipper, who responded that all processes and dangerous goods training were reviewed and amended to ensure no reoccurrence. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found unsecured inside the hold, without the brake engaged and surrounded by passengers' baggage. Whilst loading the EMA, the loading supervisor and loading team neglected to follow the Handling Agent and Operator procedures. The team involved understood the seriousness of the incident and commented that the OTP was on their agenda, although they acknowledged that procedures must be followed. After speaking with the loading supervisor & loading team involved it was apparent that negligence was the root cause. All persons involved saw the notices regarding loading of EMAs and received full internal briefings / training. The Loading Supervisor & Team involved were interviewed and internal action was taken. Internal communications regarding loading of EMAs were re-issued for all loading supervisors & the loading team and weekly safety briefings / refresher training were organised to ensure that managers spend a set amount of time each week covering issues in relation to ramp loading and safety procedures. No further CAA action possible.

Letter sent to forwarder who advised that the Shipper had incorrectly pre-notified the consignment as EQ and the forwarder’s warehouse personnel subsequently failed to notice the Class 8 hazard label during consolidation. Forwarder notified the Shipper of their error, interviewed their warehouse personnel involved, reviewed their procedures and rebriefed all warehouse staff on the detection of hidden dangerous goods. No further CAA action necessary.
Incorrect air waybill. Upon delivery to the airport, the handling agent noticed a UN specification fibreboard box containing AOG spares was marked and labelled as containing 5L of Paint, UN1263. A copy of the dangerous goods transport document was attached to the box, but the air waybill did not contain any indication the consignment contained dangerous goods. On discussing the incident with the freight forwarder, they explained the consignment had been collected by an agency drive and delivered directly to the airport. They had completed the air waybill on the instructions from another forwarder in Germany and had not been told that it contained dangerous goods. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Prior to departure an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found inside the hold surrounded by crew baggage. There were numerous issues with regards to the loading and the aircraft bulking out. The TL went to load the EMA as per the LIR, as there was no hold that did not contain baggage or cargo, but he was stopped by the First Officer from loading and told to wait until a new LIR was produced by load planning. This meant that the crew bags went into Hold 2 and the EMA into Hold 1. The EMA was initially planned for Hold 4 and the TL stated that he was aware to load the EMA into a separate hold, but at the time he was concentrating on trying to load the aircraft for an on time departure. The planner did not realise he could move the crew bags, freeing up an empty compartment for the EMA. The TL was aware that an EMA must be loaded into a separate compartment, but there was nowhere to put it, until the aircraft was re-trimmed. He should have informed the dispatcher earlier, but felt he was under pressure to achieve an on-time departure so followed the LIR as it was. The corrective action was taken at the time when the First Officer stopped the loading of the EMA into Hold 4. A memo was forwarded by the Ground Handling Agent to Load Planning to Non occurrence. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Life-saving appliances, self inflating, UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. DGI visited the shipper's Head Office on 27 January 2014. See File Note saved under this occurrence. They asked their suppliers to provide a Material Safety Data Sheet and their IT system was updated to identify which of their products were dangerous goods. They ensured that packages were checked before leaving the warehouse and that 'Do Not Fly' labels were affixed, because they were not meant to go by air. The shipper admitted that their packers were not formally trained and their 'training' was based on information provided by their courier company about Limited Quantities and UN numbers. It was evident that the shipper was not familiar with Packing Instruction 955. The shipper was advised that at least one member of staff must be undertake formal dangerous goods training in either the road, sea or air regulations and was provided with the list of CAA Approved Training Organisations. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, the packaging of a consignment of Radioactive material was found damaged seemingly due to inadequate securing. The agent that accepted and built the cargo investigated and advised their policy was for two separate staff to visually inspect Class 7 consignments and this had been done. The acceptance and loading processes were reviewed on CCTV and there was no event which could account for the damage. The use of a single strap for this consignment was discussed with the loader responsible and identified as inadequate. Loader re-assessed on his competency of loading and securing cargo including dangerous goods. Evidence provided that all personnel involved held current records of dangerous goods training including in Class 7. Closing report referred to State of Arrival (at their request). No further CAA action necessary.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found inside the hold on top of baggage and not secured. Although the battery had been disconnected the terminals were not covered.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During handling, a consignment was seen to bear a hazard warning label and marked as containing Fire extinguishers, UN1044, but it was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. On opening the consignment an aircraft fire extinguisher was found. Letter sent to the shipper, an aircraft operator’s engineering department, who explained that the fire extinguisher had originally been received by another company fully declared, marked and labelled as dangerous goods, but they had not realised it was dangerous goods. Further details requested from the shipper, who responded they would in future employ another company to prepare all of their dangerous goods. It was pointed out to the shipper that they still required a process to identify which parts were classified as dangerous goods in the first place and they confirmed they would contact the manufacturer to identify them accordingly. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Upon arrival, an electric mobility aid (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found unsecured in the hold and was surrounded by baggage. The Ground Handling Agent (GHA) at the station of origin claimed they did not load an EMA on the flight and the PNL did not show that one was booked. Check-in staff also confirmed that there were no EMAs booked on the flight. The station of origin believed it was a flight number error and asked for evidence from the location station. The Airport Manager at location station confirmed with her team and the GHA that this was the correct flight number and aircraft and that the EMA was found unsecured on arrival. The station also stipulated that photos were taken on landing and therefore submitted a report. Ropes and rings were issued to the station of origin and was reminded of the Operator's Ground Safety Notice on the Safe Carriage of Electric Mobility Aids. The station of location agreed that they would take a picture of the Mobility Aid Tag as supportive evidence should a similar incident occur. No further CAA action possible.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Prior to departure an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was discovered hold 2 and not hold 1. The device was not securely tied down and it was laid on its side, the battery was in a separate box, in amongst the gash bags.

Dangerous goods carried without acceptance check or NOTOC. On arrival a properly prepared consignment containing 1 x 19.7Kg of Fire Extinguishers, UN1044 was found to have been carried without an acceptance check or NOTOC. Acceptance agent received the consignment with the dangerous goods transport document (shipper’s declaration) but seemingly failed to record the dangerous goods on the NOTOC or ensure that the dangerous goods transport document (shipper’s declaration) accompanied the consignment. Following the operator’s investigation, the cargo agent verified all staff hold current dangerous goods training and implemented a number of process improvements aimed at preventing a recurrence. No further CAA action necessary.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. During security screening, an electric mobility aid (EMA) (Battery powered vehicle, UN3171) was found secured in the hold, but passengers' baggage was not secured behind the net. The Operator's Ground Handling Agent (GHA) at the station of origin investigated. The root cause was that although the EMA was secured with ropes and rings, baggage was stacked behind it and moved during the flight and were found around the EMA and the Loading Supervisor also did not sign the tag. The GHA acknowledged that the baggage should have been secured with a net to prevent movement in flight. The incomplete tag was an oversight by the Team Leader and he stated that he must have been distracted. The missing signature was due to human error by the Team Leader who went to remove equipment whilst the PRM Service Provider was called back to the aircraft to also sign the tag. He rushed to net the EMA and close up the aircraft for an on time departure. It was emphasised to the Team Leader that aircraft safety came first and procedures must be followed even if it caused a delay. He was issued with an Employee Performance Ticket and was monitored by the Ramp Duty Management Team. He sat a training intervention session with the training team which included a discussion on why Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, 4 packages from a shipper were found to contain a total of 144 refurbished mobile phones; Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See DGOR2013-1345. The shipper explained they had a process to apply lithium battery handling labels to consignments of mobile phone, but on that occasion a new employee, who had been trained, failed to do so. The shipper advised they would amend their process further. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Fire extinguishers, UN1044. The consignment was marked or labelled beneath clear shrink wrap as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Email sent to the shipper who responded that the exportation of products was new to them. In future they will use a competent agent to ship on their behalf and stores personnel will undertake dangerous goods by air training. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Aerosols, flammable, UN1950, totalling 375ml. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See 2013-1459 regarding the Freight Forwarder. Letter sent to shipper. The shipper investigated. The root cause was that the freight forwarder added extra items to the package by a new member of staff who was unaware of the implications and of the procedures to ensure compliance. The shipper retrained all relevant staff and issued an updated company briefing document to ensure correct procedures were followed in future. They audited their procedures and reviewed their agreement with the freight forwarder to establish any weak points to prevent another occurrence in the future. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 35 Lithium batteries contained in equipment. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The items were discovered to be very hot to the touch. The shipper was contacted to carry out an investigation. In response, they advised that the smart phones may have been placed in standby mode as opposed to being switched off. In addition, the consignment was prepared from their Head Office by staff not aware of the regulations. To prevent a recurrence staff will be provided with explicit packaging instructions in accordance with the applicable packing instruction. No further CAA action required.

Suspected undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was suspected to contain 10 x 3L of Environmentally hazardous substance, liquid, n.o.s. (Dipentene), UN3082. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See also DGOR2013-0511, 2008-061 and 2007-547. Shipper provided evidence that manufacturer of the product had advised in to be not restricted, despite MSDS on their website identifying it as EHS. Manufacturer advised that old stock number RSN 173739 is dangerous goods whereas the current product RSN 448314 is not. Reporter could find no stock number on the product. Shipper asked to review inventory/order history and instruct UPS whether the goods were dangerous goods. No further CAA action possible.

2014-0607 07/02/2014 East Midlands

2014-0641 07/02/2014 East Midlands

2014-0605 07/02/2014 East Midlands

2014-0675 07/02/2014 East Midlands

Undeclared and leaking dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment which contained 1 x 2.5L of Paint, UN1263 was found to be leaking. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The consignment inappropriately bore 2 x Royal Mail Consumer Commodities labels but these were not of the specification issued by RMG. The sender could not be established, therefore no further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 4 fibreboard boxes containing 2000 Lithium ion batteries, UN3480 was found. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. An Inspector of the CAA Dangerous Goods Office visited the shipper to assess the company procedures for the shipping of lithium ion batteries. The shipper was made fully aware of the regulations and will be implementing preventative measures to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain Compressed gas, n.o.s., (5% co2, 20,6% o2, bal n2), UN1956. The consignment was marked and labelled as containing dangerous goods but was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to the Saudi Authorities. No further CAA action required.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171 (EMA)) was found inside the hold securely strapped, however passenger baggage was also in hold and there was no security net between the baggage and the EMA.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UNS171) was found inside the hold, unsecured and with the lights on and therefore not isolated and surrounded by passengers’ baggage. The Operator investigated with the Ground Handling Agent. The Ramp Agent thought that the additional bags would protect the EMA more and the agent was made aware to put the EMA in a separate hold whenever possible. Also the EMA tag was not signed. All three staff involved were investigated and brought in for disciplinary action. The Agent responsible for lashing was suspended from lashing until training took place. The Dispatcher received formal disciplinary action on the grounds he prioritised an on time departure over safety. The Operator issued procedures about EMAs and issued safety alerts and to emphasise that it was an important topic and that the EMA Tag must be signed prior to travel. No further CAA action possible.

Incorrectly loaded dangerous goods. Upon arrival an electric wheelchair (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171) was found unsecured inside the hold. The Handling Agent at the station of origin investigated. The EMA was checked in at the last minute and was not pre-notified and there was no report of it in the PNL. Ropes were not used to secure the EMA and was reinforced with baggage. The Handling Agent knew it was wrong according to the Operator’s procedures and the ICAO requirements. The majority of handling staff were aware of the requirements for the safe carriage of EMAs and it was identified that new personnel needed specific training. Ropes and rings were made available by the Operator and wheelchair codes were also monitored. No further CAA action possible.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 148 x Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3481. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Letter sent to the shipper who responded that the root cause was human error and appropriate processes were put in place to prevent a further occurrence. No further CAA action required.

Forbidden dangerous goods found in passenger baggage. During security screening, a passenger’s hold baggage was found to contain 2 x ship distress flares. Incident to be investigated by the Police.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 1 x fibreboard box was found to contain 61 mobile phones, Lithium Ion Batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. The box bore a lithium battery handling label but had been placed in black shrink wrap and was not accompanied by a document as required by Section II of Packing Instruction 967. Email sent to shipper.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 3 x fibreboard boxes was found to contain 92 mobile phones, Lithium Ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. The consignment bore no lithium battery handling labels and had been placed in black shrink wrap and was not accompanied by a document as required by Section II of Packing Instruction 967. Email sent to shipper.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 2 x fibreboard boxes was found to contain 59 mobile phones, Lithium ion Batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. One fibreboard box bore a lithium battery handling label but both boxes had been placed inside black shrink wrap which bore no such label, and was not accompanied by a document as required by Section II of Packing Instruction 967. Following visit to consignment email sent to shipper. Chaser email sent 23/06/2014.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 7 x fibreboard boxes was found to contain 328 mobile phones, Lithium ion batteries packed with equipment, UN3481 and 1 Galaxy Notepad, Lithium Batteries contained in equipment, UN3481. Only one of the boxes bore the lithium battery handling label and had all been placed in black shrink wrap, and was not accompanied by a document as required by Section II of applicable Packing Instructions. Following visit to consignment, shipper contacted to arrange visit.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment of 4 x fibreboard boxes was found to contain 30 x Ipdads, 11 x mobile phones Lithium Ion Batteries contained in equipment, UN3481, 45 x mobile phones, Lithium Ion Batteries packed with equipment, UN3481 and 67 Lithium ion Batteries, UN3480. None of the boxes bore the lithium battery handling label and had all been placed in black shrink wrap, and was not accompanied by a document as required by Section II of the applicable Packing Instructions. Following visit to consignment, shipper contacted to arrange visit.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 4 x Jerricans, 2 of which contained Isophorone diisocyanate, UN2290. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. CAA Dangerous Goods Inspector visited the shipper to discuss incidents and as a result preventative measures have been put in place to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 2 bottles of Ethanol, UN1170, quantities unknown inside a fireplace. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document, however, the outer packaging did bore a ADR Limited Quantity marking. The shipper investigated. The root cause of the incident was that the outer packaging of the product did not bore a flammable hazard symbol warning the warehouse that there were bottles of Ethanol inside and because the supplier of fireplace did not inform the shipper the fireplace contained bottles of Ethanol. The product was removed from the shipper’s website. The shipper admitted that staff did not recognise the ADR Limited Quantity marking. The shipper incorporated the symbol into its awareness training. No further CAA action possible.

Unsecured dangerous goods. On arrival, one Electric mobility aid, (Battery powered vehicle, UN3171) was secured but loaded in the same hold as loose baggage and items were placed on the seat.

Prohibited dangerous goods found in mail. During security screening, mail was found to contain prohibited dangerous goods. Warning letter sent to sender, response received and reply sent. No further CAA action necessary.

Mishandled dangerous goods. On arrival, one collapsible Electric Mobility Aid powered by a lithium-ion battery was found still attached to the chair. The passenger advised that he offered to provide the Airsafe plug, but the offer was declined and took the battery out and carried it in the overhead in the cabin as he was instructed to do on other flights and airlines. The EMA tag was marked that the battery was fully encased with no exposed terminals, but this was not the case and the battery was still connected. As a corrective step, briefings took place before every flight. A Bulletin Service and Read and Sign was published to all staff to remind them of the importance of sticking to procedures. Refresher training was also delivered to all relevant staff. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Life saving appliances, self inflating UN2990. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Telephone call received from the shipper on 27 March 2014. The shipper obtained the life raft from a supplier, but did not know it contained dangerous goods. The shipper apologised. Normally, life rafts were serviced on the rigs, but on this occasion, a new life raft was required. The shipper was advised that they must obtain information about the products, such as a Safety Data Sheet, prior to shipping items or ask the supplier for more information. The shipper was certain it would not happen again. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During unloading of the aircraft on arrival, one Electric Mobility Aid (EMA) (Battery powered vehicle, UN3171) was found lashed down only on one side, which caused the mobility aid to fall over and the mobility aid was loaded with baggage. The mobility aid was not damaged, however, the Ground Handling Agent at the Station of Origin investigated the incident. It was established that the Ramp Supervisor did not check that the EMA was correctly secured and not loaded with baggage. A memo was issued to the relevant stations to remind them of the importance of the EMA procedures. No further CAA action possible.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 5 boxes containing a total of 280 Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. One box bore a partially obscured lithium battery handling label. The consignment was not otherwise marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by appropriate transport documentation. Following a visit to the shipper and freight forwarder by a Dangerous Goods Inspector, further preventative measures will be implemented to prevent recurrence. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During warehouse checks a warehouseman noticed there had been a pallet collapse of a consignment being stored on import racks. Whilst attempting to rectify the situation a fibreboard box ignited and fell to the floor. The fire was extinguished and the package removed from the warehouse into safe storage. Upon further inspection, the box was found to contain Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to Chinese and Hong Kong Authorities.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During warehouse checks, a consignment of 42 fibreboard boxes and 49 plastic sacks were found to contain a number of Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481 and Lithium ion batteries, UN3480. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods with the exception of one sack which bore a lithium ion battery handling label, and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The consignment originated from a shipper in China and sent via Hong Kong. Referred to Chinese and Hong Kong Authorities. No further CAA action required.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During a warehouse check, a strong pungent smell was found coming from a consignment of 2 wooden boxes. Upon closer inspection the boxes contained inlet housings inside plastic bags and coated with a strong smelling oil. The agent requested confirmation from the shipper who confirmed that the oil was non-hazardous. However, a material safety data sheet was subsequently sent which identified the oil as UN1993. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Operator referred to Indian Authority. Electric mobility aid was found after flight not electrically isolated. Ground staff found it turned on and working when activated the joystick (picture and movie was taken). Investigation concluded that the preparations were correct but the team leader whilst securing the EMA accidentally reactivated the power. Findings were that staff did not check the BHTA website to understand the correct way to deactivate the EMA, did not include any EMA information on the LIRF and check the correct inhibition of the electrical parts. Details of preventative measures requested.

Incorrectly prepared dangerous goods. An electric mobility aid was offloaded from the aircraft and presented to the customer in the baggage reclaim hall on arrival. The electric mobility aid was damaged and was no longer operating. When the passenger checked in, an agent in the Operator’s uniform asked her to sign the Mobility Aid Tag to confirm that she was happy for the mobility aid to be loaded in its state. The customer explained that she did not want to sign it as she thought it was the responsibility of the airline as to how the mobility aid should be handled. It was indicated to the customer that if she did not sign the mobility aid tag they would not be able to load it on the aircraft. The passenger also indicated that there was a lot of discussion about what kind of battery was in the mobility aid but she admitted herself that she was not sure and asked them to make their own mind up by handing them the instruction booklet for the device. The customers were told that the batteries were wet cell and due to regulations they would have to be disconnected. The covers were taken off by unscrewing bolts and the customer pulled out the batteries which were on a rolling drawer. The Captain of the aircraft got involved and apparently he disconnected the batteries by pulling apart the main leads leading the batteries and then they were isolated by covering them in something. When I examined the batteries it was clearly stated on them they were GEL filled batteries.
Undeclared dangerous goods. During handling, a pallet was noticed to include a metal drum bearing a flammable liquid hazard warning label. Further inspection found it to be marked as containing 20L of Turpentine substitute, UN1300, packing group III. The consignment was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The incident was discussed with the freight forwarder who acknowledged they should have noticed the flammable liquid label, but they had not been notified the consignment contained dangerous goods.

Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, two separate consignments were found to contain a total of 6 Section II lipo batteries - Lithium ion batteries UN3480. The consignments were not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods. Both consignments were sent from outside the UK to a UK forwarder in order for them to arrange onwards international shipment. The UK forwarder claimed not to have known the nature of the goods. Referred to State of Origin of the original consignment.

Undeclared dangerous goods. After carriage by helicopter and a subsequent fixed wing aircraft sector, a consignment bearing a flammable hazard label was found to contain 8 x 1L Diesel fuel, UN1202. The package was not marked as containing dangerous goods, did not bear the LQ label and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. The goods were though identified as dangerous goods on the Vantage manifest. The investigation established that dangerous goods were normally consigned by sea and a dangerous goods transport document (dangerous goods note) had been raised for sea transport (but not given over the goods). However, the vessel was due to leave UK waters and no further supply boat was to serve the vessel. The materials controller accepted the errors on his part, due to a lack of routine usage of the DG by air process. The HLO also recalled handing the pilot the manifests but similarly, due to the lack of practice of use, was not expecting the pilot to have to sign for anything associated. All offshore personnel were briefed on the incident and told to share with their back to backs in order for them to take their next location wherever that may be. The Duty Holder was asked to share a lessons learnt safety notice to all their personnel that handle dangerous goods offshore.

Undeclared dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment set of the Cyclamen alarm. Readings taken indicated the package should have been YELLOW-II with a Transport Index of 0.3. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Referred to State of Origin CAA. No further CAA action necessary.

During security screening, a consignment of 31 boxes was found to contain 174 portable electronic devices, Lithium ion batteries contained in equipment, UN3481, suspected to exceed the maximum quantity permitted under Section II of PI967. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. Details of shipper sought from freight forwarder. Shipper sent a letter via the freight forwarder explaining the reasons for sending the consignment and admitted the mistake of not declaring the goods. The goods were returned from an online retailer back to the country where the shipper was based. DGI visited the freight forwarder, who liaised with the shipper and their office in the country of origin to ensure that paperwork in the future describes the goods correctly and the freight forwarder opened all future packages to prevent a further incident. Undeclared dangerous goods. During handling by the freight forwarder of a consignment described by the shipper as a carpet, a strong smell of fuel was noticed. Upon further inspection the consignment was found to consist of an engine head wrapped in a carpet. The engine head; Engines, internal combustion, UN3166, was clearly leaking fuel. The shipper, which was also a freight forwarder, claimed it was not used to shipping by air, normally using sea transport, but the consignment did not comply with the sea transport requirements either. Warning letter sent to shipper. No further CAA action required.

Unsecured dangerous goods. Upon arrival, the aircraft was offloaded and the Unit Load Devices were taken into the baggage hall. When one of the ULDs was opened, the Team Leader noticed that an electric scooter was not secured in the ULD. The Station Manager at the Station of Origin investigated and confirmed that training on how Electric Mobility Aids should be secured in the hold on in a ULD. The procedure was taught to ramp staff during training and all staff were expected to be aware of the procedure. They had access to the ‘Safety Requirements Applicable to the Carriage of Electric Mobility Aids’ booklet and the CAA Safety Notice on Electric Mobility Aids. Only some staff had received the ‘One Team One Goal’ training and the Operator sent stud rings and the Station bought some rope. Additional ramp safety training was organised for ramp staff and the incident was used as a case study. No further CAA action required.

Misloaded dangerous goods. Upon arrival, it was found that a consignment of Methane, Compressed, UN1971, which is only permitted to be carried on a cargo aircraft had been carried on a passenger aircraft in error. The consignment had been correctly prepared for carriage by cargo aircraft and had passed the acceptance check, but the person carrying out the check did not realise the operator did not operate cargo aircraft on that route. The NOTOC did not indicate that the consignment was only permitted on cargo aircraft. Handling agent requested to investigate further.

Prohibited dangerous goods found in mail. During security screening, mail was found to contain prohibited dangerous goods. The company had previously been warned at least 3 times by Royal Mail Group. Warning letter sent to sender.

Unsecured dangerous goods. During security screening, a Battery-powered vehicle (EMA), UN3171 was found lashed in the doorway of the hold with a wall of bags behind it. The baggage could have moved in flight, but did not and did not damage the EMA. The Ground Handling Agent at the station of origin investigated. All ramp staff received ramp safety refresher training in July 2014. Also, EMAs were loaded in a separate hold in the event there was not a net to separate EMAs from the rest of the baggage. No further CAA action possible.
2014-1199 04/07/2014 Belfast
Spillage from undeclared dangerous goods in the post. Upon arrival, it was found that an item of mail was leaking, contaminating other mail bags and leaving a pool of liquid in the aircraft hold. Upon further investigation, the contents were found to be a 1L tin of Tars, liquid, UN1999. Warning letter sent to sender.

2014-1201 07/07/2014 Heathrow
During unloading of this flight, crew leader reported that a WCBD (battery driven wheelchair) was loaded un-securely in hold 5 and the wheelchair was still live. Reporter notified State of Origin. No further CAA action necessary.

2014-1204 10/07/2014 East Midlands
Undeclared dangerous goods. During security screening, a consignment was found to contain 1 x Aerosol, UN1950. The consignment was not marked or labelled as containing dangerous goods and was not accompanied by a dangerous goods transport document. See previous DGORs and incidents saved in Reports not Stored on the Database. Letter sent to shipper requesting a meeting to discuss the incidents.

Incorrectly carried dangerous goods. Upon arrival, a consignment of Consumer commodities, ID8000 was found loaded in a ULD. The dangerous goods were not included on a pallet tag and they had not been included on the NOTOC. Handling agent requested to advise root cause and corrective action.

2014-1206 16/07/2014 Northampton

During check-in, he had completely forgotten about a life jacket in his luggage and it was only once he saw the cabin crew preparing for the safety briefing and seeing the demo jacket that he remembered that it was in his bag. He then quickly brought it to the attention of the crew. Once the Ops Manager had identified that the cylinder was a CO2 canister within a self-inflating lifejacket, a decision was made between the Ops Manager and Ground Services Controller (using the Dangerous Goods Manual as a guide) that the lifejacket and CO2 cylinder were OK to travel. The passenger and the bag were reloaded onto the a/c and the flight departed with a small delay but no further incident. CAA Closure: Operator customer relations advised. CAA Closure: The event was highlighted in the Jun 2009 Safety News, where the importance of the PNF's main compartment cargo deck check to ensure that all required pallet locks (end and side) have been placed in the correct position by the loading team was emphasised. Additionally, a reminder was included that inadvertent shifting of cargo should be reported in the Tech Log, so that engineering can inspect the locks concerned for serviceability.

<td>On arrival, it was found that dangerous goods (Class 9/Environmentally hazardous) were not manifested. Package had shifted and was damaged. The shipment was originally not built correctly or strapped adequately. Also, straps were on the outside of the net, which caused the load shifting. The agent then loaded dangerous goods, a small RFL drum, onto a through ULD with other dangerous goods. It had been manifested as loose, which was not picked up at destination and was then carried onto next flight, on ULD, without being manifested. Appropriate action has been taken.</td>

Audits conducted of the shipper during which it was established the goods were dispatched in the same condition as received, i.e. they had not filled and closed the drum. It transpired that the shipper's supplier had damaged a drum of paint so sought a replacement empty drum from the paint manufacturer. Once received they decanted the contents of the damaged drum into the new drum which was sent by road to the shipper. The test certificate for the UN Specification drum shipped stipulated the use of specific closures tightened to a specific torque measurement. Head loader spotted cargo being loaded onto B777, which from the packaging appeared to be dangerous goods. NOTOC did not show any manifested dangerous goods. Cargo was offloaded. TRM liaised with cargo/dangerous goods section who confirmed consignment of Li-lon batteries had flown on another flight, but was not manifested as dangerous goods. It was confirmed that IATA regulations does apply to shipments of Li-lon batteries.

During cabin sweep a 200ml canister of spray glue, three quarters full, was found in seat pocket 20B. Item removed from a/c.

On opening Hold 5 of B777 on arrival, three boxes of dangerous goods (dry ice) were found loose and upside down. Boxes were not damaged.

<td>On arrival electric mobility scooter was found to be switched on and incorrectly stowed. Containing dangerous goods (UN1170 and UN3270) was not stated on the NOTOC, however, the shipments were correctly tagged and manifested. Upon arrival the baggage container was opened to reveal an electric mobility scooter (Battery-powered vehicle, UN3171). On inspection it was clear that the scooter was switched on and covered with baggage. Operator investigated and found that the loaders had folded down the wheelchair. It was very small no bigger than a checked piece of luggage. They confirmed that the power source had been disconnected and they placed baggage either side to secure it in place. ### Event 1
- Date: 30/07/2011
- Location: Zurich, Switzerland → United Kingdom
- Details: When cargo unit was opened on arrival it was found that the RFL freight inside the unit had no restraints to secure the freight in place.

Event 2
- Date: 07/08/2011
- Location: Islay, United Kingdom → United Kingdom
- Details: Electric wheelchair battery found to be connected on arrival.

Event 3
- Date: 07/08/2011
- Location: Islay, United Kingdom → United Kingdom
- Details: A company investigation revealed that all their staff were aware of the correct procedure for the carriage of electric wheelchairs. The aircrew had correctly questioned the airline ground staff as to the state of the chair and they had been assured that it was in accordance with the operator's Ground Operations Manual. The ground staff believed that the airport staff had carried out the correct procedure but it transpired that they had not done so.

CAA Closure
A meeting was held in August 2011 with Airport users, Fire Section and Security staff making them fully aware of the requirements of the operators GOM.

Cargo had been manifest and loaded into the bulk hold. Investigation established that the forwarder had been advised that the operator had a policy of not carrying radioactive material and was asked to collect the consignment. Prior to collecting it, the forwarder re-allocated the air waybill number to another consignment and it was subsequently manifested for the flight concerned. Before the forwarder collected the radioactive material consignment, the handling agent's warehouse staff picked it for carriage, rather than the new consignment, since it had the correct air waybill number. CAA Closure:

It was established that the loading supervisor did not follow the standard procedures as detailed by the Operator. It is suspected that the loading supervisor was not aware of the EMA loading procedures, because it was not a common type of load on these flights.

Ground Handling Agent issued a memo to all staff reminding them of the Operator's procedures.

<td>On arrival an electric mobility aid (EMA) was found tied down in the bulk hold with the power on and the battery still connected. Offered to leave their EMA at check-in and use a manual one to access the gate with PMR agent assistance. This way there is enough time to confirm with the passenger the correct isolation process. In this case the passenger did not agree with this procedure and drove his EMA up to the boarding gate. The PMR agents are in charge to deliver the wheelchair at the hold door, but the delivery was performed at the end of loading. In his stress to avoid a hold closure delay, as this EMA also had to be correctly isolated, the loading supervisor advised that the key was on and turned the power off. He could not find the battery connectors, but he thought EMA was completely switched off and any further confirmation with the PMR agent or the passenger would have delayed the flight.</td>

Towards ground crew during offload from Hold 4. During the loading, the loading supervisor and loading team neglected to follow the correct procedures regarding the loading of an EMA. The team involved understood the seriousness of this incident and commented that an OTP was on their agenda, although full acknowledgement that procedures must be followed was stated. After speaking with the loading supervisor & loading team involved it was apparent that negligence was the root cause. All persons involved are fully aware and understand the procedures put in place regarding the secure loading of an EMA. All persons involved have seen all notices regarding loading of EMA(s) and have received full internal briefings / training.

InVESTigations revealed the incorrect loading of an EMA and Lithium battery.

CAA Closure:

Following this and a number of similar incidents all team leaders have been issued with guidance on how to load electric wheelchairs and the correct methods for disconnecting and loading DG including lithium batteries. The loader in this event had been trained and his training was up to date, however he failed to follow his trained procedures.

On arrival, it was discovered that an EMA (Electric Mobility Aid) had been loaded in the same hold as bags without any separating nets. When the aircraft arrived and the team started to offload the AFT hold the Team Leader reported that an electric wheelchair had been loaded into H3 along with 35 bags, the wheelchair had been securely strapped down but there was no net between the wheelchair and the bags to stop any inadvertent movement of the bags activating or damaging the wheelchair. |

Aircraft arrived with NOTOC indicating no dangerous goods loaded. TRC instructed loaders to approach position 31P (RAP) with caution as he believed dry ice was loaded. Upon inspection 185kg was clearly marked as being carried in RAP positioned in 31P. Dangerous goods undeclared on NOTOC, both electronically and on Captain's hard copy. |

The weather was wet and the crew member was wearing all ppe. The investigation findings were that the EMA pax arrived at the gate late and had by-passed the PRM process, therefore gate teams &amp; PRM provider were unaware of her travelling. The Ramp operatives did not have time to de-load one of the already loaded AKH's therefore bulk loaded the EMA in Hold 5. EMA not protected from damage by baggage. I was offloading aircraft on stand 24 on 2/3/14 at 2130, on arrival there was an electric scooter in hold 1 with crew bags stacked on top, gash bags were stacked with passenger baggage in hold 2. When we started offloading passenger baggage in hold 2 we found there was the battery for the scooter stacked in with the passenger baggage in a plastic box that wasn’t sufficient for the battery it was meant to be supporting. Part of the scooter basket was also in hold 2 while the scooter was strapped down in hold 1 as training goes this is incorrect loading procedure.

Dispatcher handed the Flight Crew a completed EMD loading form (of the correct type currently in use). The form stated the EMD was loaded in Hold 3. I asked the dispatcher to clarify where and how the device was loaded and was told that it was loaded in the space behind the rear hold door opening area (technically this is Hold 4), in-between baggage, and was secured by the fact the handbrake was on. I informed the dispatcher that this did not comply with our procedures and was, in fact, dangerous. With the supervision of an Engineer (being carried onboard that day) the device was moved and correctly secured in Hold 1. I informed the dispatcher that I would recommend to the company that they reissue EMD loading information to the Ground Operations team in the airport.

<td>EMD Incorrectly Loaded. Paperwork handed to me by dispatcher without relevant sections completed or signed for a wheelchair already loaded in hold 1. Paperwork stated that battery had to be removed but it had not been removed. I went to see the wheelchair and the ground staff did not know how to remove the battery. The only way to resolve the problem was to have the passenger assist us himself in removing the battery! I am very unhappy that this was left to the flight crew to spot the problem and then have to sort it out, and also the unprofessionalism of having to use the passenger to help us.</td>

We had no prior knowledge of a mobility device and were not aware that one had been loaded, nor did we have any documentation with reference to the device. When I questioned this, the dispatcher advised that he knew nothing of any paperwork. I advised that I thought we should have paperwork. It transpired that the device had been placed in hold 3 with baggage. Guidance was provided to the dispatcher to get the necessary documentation from operator. The device was recovered from hold 3, placed in hold 1 and tied down, suitably. The paperwork was partially completed but, if I had insisted on it being</td>

Upon arrival of the aircraft, when opening the bulk hold door and after waiting for hold ventilation (due to dry ice inside as per CPM message) our staff noticed that the nets were not properly secured. There were 2 pieces of baggage and around 100 kg of cargo and mail, including piece of dry ice loaded in the compartment. There wasn't evidence of movement, but if it had, it may possibly damage the cargo or aircraft equipment.

As we were walking from the aircraft into the terminal for a night stop a member of ground staff approached the flight crew to inform us that the baggage staff had found the dangerous goods loaded upside down in the hold. The dangerous goods were magnetic in nature. We asked if there was any spillage. The ground staff said there was no spillage and the dangerous goods had already been removed from a/c.
