Dear [REDACTED]

I am writing in respect of your recent request of 25 March 2018, for the release of information held by the Civil Aviation Authority (CAA).

Your request:

'Hello, please could you provide me with any publications or directives regarding the use of photos taken by drone to be used as evidence in a civil court case? Has there been any precedents set regarding privacy law and photos taken by drone since drones became popular for recreational use?'

Our response:

Having considered your request in line with the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA), we can confirm that the CAA do not hold any information relevant to your request.

As the UK's specialist aviation regulator, we are responsible for ensuring that those operating drones do so safely and legally, without endangering others.

You may wish to contact the Information Commissioner's Office, who is responsible for upholding information rights in the UK. They have provided some guidance on their website relating to the use of drones and cameras: <https://ico.org.uk/for-the-public/drones/>

Please visit their contact us page at <https://ico.org.uk/global/contact-us/>

If you are not satisfied with how we have dealt with your request in the first instance you should approach the CAA in writing at:-

CAA INTERNAL REVIEW & COMPLAINTS PROCEDURE

- The original case to which the appeal or complaint relates is identified and the case file is made available;
- The appeal or complaint is allocated to an Appeal Manager, the appeal is acknowledged and the details of the Appeal Manager are provided to the applicant;
- The Appeal Manager reviews the case to understand the nature of the appeal or complaint, reviews the actions and decisions taken in connection with the original case and takes account of any new information that may have been received. This will typically require contact with those persons involved in the original case and consultation with the CAA Legal Department;
- The Appeal Manager concludes the review and, after consultation with those involved with the case, and with the CAA Legal Department, agrees on the course of action to be taken;
- The Appeal Manager prepares the necessary response and collates any information to be provided to the applicant;
- The response and any necessary information is sent to the applicant, together with information about further rights of appeal to the Information Commissioners Office, including full contact details.
